FOX WARNS AGAINST ‘ECONOMY GLOOM’

Publix To Go Easy on Further Building, Says Katz

Cut-outs
—on a string

By JACK ALICOATE

BELIEVE it or not, business is picking up . . . Allow our newspaper men off Hollywood lots while allowing bootleggers, gambling runners and pets (large don't count) to run at large don't count, too. Now it is ADMIRAL Sam Morris, for he is sporting a new 504-foot . . . As the result of SMART MONEY, we will now have 60 or 70 gaming pictures. And if they are all as SMART as ‘Smart Money’ we are going to like it. There’s a laugh in this one that’s a tornado . . . Everybody seems to be worrying about Walter Wanger except WEST VANGER . . . Daddy Long Legs is GRAND entertainment . . . Nobody is ever disappointed with the show at the NEWSREEL theater.

Our favorite KIBITZER says Fox Duty is a 1st class newspaper using 2nd class mail . . . EMPEY Club is all dressed up in new summer clothes . . . TWO big executives in ONE big company are engaged in a GRAND battle . . . It looks like the BUXEY 114288 will gain the decision over the buyers' strike . . . There is a ROXY theater in Paris . . . My daughter's FAVORITE actors are ‘Sooky,' Mickey Mouse and Charlie Chaplin . . . Radio City will have TWO theaters, a 6,000-seat and a little one with a capacity of only 500 . . . ROXY gross can and does fluctuate 10 grand a week.

Pool TOURNEY at MOVIPX CLUB demonstrates that some of the boys did not get their start in pictures . . . Artie LOEW is a full-fledged aviator . . . This NO HAT movement is a great thing for cutting down the daily overhead . . . THE VIKING in spots out-Byrds the Byrd opus . . . Don't sell the MOVIPX industry a SHORT . . . It is still in its swaddling clothes.

Construction Plans Not Mapped Out Beyond Present Jobs

Publix's theater building program will come to a standstill upon completion of projects now under way, it was stated by Sam Katz yesterday. No further plans for new houses are being made at present, he said.

Four theaters, each averaging 3,000 seats, are under construction in Great (Continued on Page 10)

GANG FILMS WASHED UP IN S. A., SAYS WELTNER

Latin-American audiences have soured on underworld and gangster pictures, said George Weltner, assistant to J. H. Seideman of the Paramount foreign department, yesterday, following his return to New York after a two month's tour of South America. Talkers in English, (Continued on Page 12)

Protest Substitutions

Baltimore—Substitutions in story, star, director or cast are protested in a resolution adopted by the members of the M.P.T.O. of Maryland. Exhibitors signing these contracts are doing so under protest and duress, the resolution states. A motion also was carried placing the organization on record as opposed to pictures being (Continued on Page 10)

Don't Turn Theater Into Funeral Parlor, Says Oscar Oldknow
A warning against carrying theater operation economy to the extreme that it will create an atmosphere of gloom has been issued to Fox theaters managers by Oscar S. Oldknow, executive vice-president.

"Penny wise and pound foolish methods of economizing are apt to turn a theater into a funeral parlor," said Oldknow. "If slicing is carried (Continued on Page 12)

FAVOR PART-TIME CLOSING
DURING SUMMER MONTHS

St. Louis—Operation of about 50 neighborhood houses on a basis of three nights a week during the summer, as a means of cutting expenses during this period, was discussed at a meeting yesterday. The plan is to close the houses from Monday to Thursday, inclusive, until fall. Deluxe houses would not be included.

Dick Talmadge Surveys Fans’ Likes

West Coast Bureau, THE FILM DAILY

Hollywood—For his guidance in the selection of future stories to be filmed by Talmadge Productions, Dick Talmadge has gone direct to the movie fans with a questionnaire asking their preferences in types of picture. The blanks, containing prescriptions of about 25 different kinds of stories, were distributed by several thousand theaters, and 3,865 answers have been received to date from all states in the union. As a result, Talmadge himself elected to continue his action, speed and thrill specialties on which he has built up a wide following. His next four productions will be based on newspaper, mountaineer, railroad and sea stories, respectively. First to start will be "Scareheads," to be produced at Universal City with Noah Mason directing.

U To Get Notre Dame O.K.
Before Showing Picture

"The Spirit of Notre Dame," Universal production dedicated to Knute Rockne, with Frank Carideo and the "Four Horsemen" in the cast headed by Lew Yokse, is to be approved by Father Donnell, president of the university, before public distribution. U. P. intends to make the picture a faithful portrayal of student life at Notre Dame, rather than the usual type of b. o. college story. The scenario is by Dale Van Every, who spent some time at Notre Dame gathering data, and Russell Mack will direct. Production starts July 20 at Universal City.

George Lefko Appointed Pathe Pittsburgh Mgr.

Pittsburgh—George Lefko, formerly salesman for RKO Pathe in Cleveland, has been appointed by Ned E. Depinet to succeed E. Eschman as Pittsburgh branch manager.

Sidney Kent Plans Trip Abroad in Fall

Sidney R. Kent of Paramount plans a trip to Europe in the fall, probably in September. His itinerary will include an inspection of the Joinville studio.

21st Term for Harry Brooks

Albany—Harry M. Brooks, former member of the New York State Assembly, has been elected president of the M. P. Operators’ Protective Union of Troy for the 21st term. Other officers chosen include: vice president, Charles H. McCarthy; treasurer, John Ross; financial secretary, Albert Le May; and recording secretary, Vincent Inacito. Brooks was also named business agent of the union.

III. Exhibits Save Millions
In Death of Operator Bill

Springfield, Ill.—Death of the two-operator bill in Illinois will save exhibitors in the state several million dollars yearly, based on the fact that the measure would have added 1,000 new members to the operators’ organization, with salaries running from $114 to $150.

State Senator James O. Monroe, who is head of the Herald Posler Co. of Collinsville, is given chief credit for defeat of the two-operator and the state censorship bills. Al Capone was reported behind the operator measure.

37 OLYMPIC ATHLETES
FOR M-G-M SPORT SHORTS

Arrangements have been made between M-G-M and the Amateur Athletic Union whereby 37 athletes, who will compete in the 1932 Olympic Games, will appear in issues of M-G-M's "Sport Champions" series, without in any way jeopardizing their amateur standing. M-G-M executives on the coast received the special dispensation from the A.A.U.

Ray McCarthy will direct the athletes in their film work, and Boyd Comstock, former Yale coach, will handle the technical angle. Already signed for the series are Frank Wycoff, all-round track athlete; Vic Williams, 440 yard champion; Orval Martin, mile runner; Bob Maxwell, 220 hurdle; Ted Walsh, high hurdle; Bill Carls, low hurdle; Harry Hinkle, 3 mile walk; Bud Houser, shot put; Lee Barnes, pole vault; Herman Brix, shot put and James De Mers, javelin. Scenes of the athletes in action will be incorporated in early releases of the series.

LET'S GO, SHOW BUSINESS, WITH PARAMOUNT
Pip Stunts Get a Play

THE Strand, Albany, spread it itself when it came to "putting over" "Big Business Girl!" One of the first tie-ups was with Old Gold cigarettes, the company furnishing hundreds of cards reading: "Big Business Girl, She Keeps Her Job by Keeping Kissable, Loretta Young, Keeps Kissable by Smoking Old Golds." These cards, bearing the theater name and date of showings, were placed in all the tobacco shops in city. Another stunt was the placing of a typewriter and a desk in a large open tour car, parking this car at busy sections of the city the "Big Business Girl." At the machine occasional stopped her work to give out cards, each of which bore a number. These cards bearing numbers corresponding with those in the lobby of the Strand were good for admission.

FIGURE among the inexpensive advertising stunts, the use of illustrated postcards. R. F. Cloud, of the Warner-First National exchange in Cincinnati has just tried out the card stunt in Louisville with results that are going to make it popular. Cloud tied up with one of the principal hotels in Louisville, which not only furnished the cards but did the mailing. In the space allotted for the message the card contained in a neat five-nine hand the following: "Dear Mary: Here in Louisville at . . . Nice hotel. Just saw 'Silk Tight.' Great comedy. Joe E. Brown and Winnie Lightner are so funny. I hope you see 'Silk Tight' very soon. Regards, Flo."

KICK FROM SYRACUSE

IT is a fact that there is slight box-office value in the sort of talkies that have been reaching Syracuse sound-screens during the past few months, there have been too many films with unhappy endings, too many films lacking in comedy, too many films with themes making them unfit for juvenile and junior patronage. The week just closed was an example of this situation. In the first place, there was not a picture suitable for the younger. The scenes betrayed his kid fans by appearing in "Just a Gigolo," a picture built upon the pleasant (?) premise that all women are "on the make" and proper game for philandering young rakes. In "Always Goodbye," Elissa Landi entered into a free-and-easy relationship with Paul Cavanagh, with only a bit of dialogue to save the day morally. That dialogue would hardly convince the cynical. "The Vice Squad," with its close relationship to New York's unsavory disclosure; "Big Business Girl," with its fixed dialogue, evidence situation, and "Good Bad Girl" were scarcely for the kiddies. Week after week, it has been much the same story. There was "White Shoulders," a fusion of bigamy, robbery, adultery, blackmail and murder. But why continue the check-up could be extended indefinitely.

—Chester B. Bahn, Syracuse "Herald"

STARTING date on the "Torchy" film, which will be made at Educational, has been postponed to July 13, due to the large number of screen tests that have been required of the stars and leading ladies in the series. Producer Curly Burne declares that never in his 10 years picture experience has he had such difficulty in making a selection of a leading lady.

Benny Rubin has not lost a week's work in four years. He recently spent four weeks making personal appearances in Seattle, Portland, Tacoma and nine points in the Pacific Northwest. He is now working in "Accidents Will Happen," which is being made by RKO Pathe. Incidentally, he is a baseball enthusiast and other day played to almost complete sold-out of the Tacoma Angels club at the RKO Pathe studio.

Samuel Blachoff is one of the largest pro- duction executives on the Coast. He headed "Lasso of the Rio Grande" for Universal, and has "Cavetown" out in two weeks. In two weeks, he will place "Steel" and "Letter From an Undercover Man" on the screen. Before joining Universal, he supervised the "Light" series, "Sunday Raiders" and other pictures for Columbia.

The preview committee of the International Federation of Catholn Actums, composed of 30 prominent Los Angeles women, gave "Honor to a Brooch in Honor of Mrs. William F. Burr, JR.," and on "Cord," which is under way at West Coast chairman of the committee. Miss Thomas G. Witter, past presi- dent of the General Federation of Women's Clubs, was also a guest of honor at the affair.

Edward Goodman, whose name has been de luxe with numerous Broadway stage successes for the past 13 years, has signed a contract to co-produce succeeding for Paramount.

Rita Lupetan earned his first money for holding a girl's pay while the cork reached its swivel. Mela was a nine-year-old old girl, and the members of the dog seemed annually in favor at the affair, that the dogs were rather laughably affairs.

The Hurman-ing studio, which is mak- ing the "Coney Island" and "Movie Me- dones" series, has enlarged its quarters. The previous size of the studio has been doubled and now includes 35 animators.

No Extras in U Film

West Coast Bureau, THE FILM DAILY

Hollywood—Universal's "Strictly Dishonorable," which has just gone in production with John Stahl directing, has only principal speaking roles in it, according to announcement from the studio. Not a single extra is to be used. Paul Lukas and Sidney Fox play the leading roles.

Seeks Writ to Permit "Birth"

Detroit—Samuel Carver, lessee of the Shubert Lafayette, has filed a petition in Circuit Court against James K. Watkins and others, charging he has been prevented from obtaining a license for a four weeks' showing of "Birth of a Nation" and asking that the city authorities be compelled to issue the license to him. Judge Guy A. Miller signed a show order returnable Monday.

First Bohemian Talker Here

"Fidlovcaska" ("Carnival"), the first talking picture made in Bohemia, will be shown at Joseph R. Flesler's Eighth St. Playhouse starting tomorrow. The picture, in the Czech language with songs and music, is expected to get a play from New York's 200,000 Bohemians.

When in Atlantic City

Atlantic City—Irving Browning's unusual gallery of camera studies relating to the motion picture industry is attracting keen interest at the Steel Pier, where it is on display as part of the Hollywood Motion Picture Exhibit. After its local showing the display, which is sponsored by THE FILM DAILY and already has played a holder over run at the M. P. Club in New York, will be shown in Hollywood and London.

Cleveland—Tony Schippicasse, who operated one of the first picture houses in Cleveland about 18 years ago, is dead.

Detroit—The Empire on Tireman Ave., operated by Max Krin for some time, has been closed indefinitely.

Cleveland—Unconfirmed rumor has it that J. E. Firkess, district manager for RKO theaters, will transfer his headquarters from Cleveland to Cincinnati.

Lake City, S. C.—Ritz theater has been incorporated with a capital of $500. L. L. Propost is president and treasurer; W. A. McClain, vice president and secretary.

Plymouth, O.—Negotiations between Joseph Hickman and R. N. Nimmons, executor of the estate of the late H. T. Deisher, have been completed whereby the former has secured a lease on the Deisher. Sound equipment will be installed at once and other extensive improvements made. It will be opened late in July.

Westminster, S. C.—This city is soon to have another theater. B. L. Mitchell, local wholesale merchant, is financing the project.

Cleveland—Mrs. Paul Guadanovic and her three daughters will spend the summer abroad.

Detroit—B. A. Mororth, formerly with the Woodward Theater Co., is now managing the Rosedale, operated by Mrs. W. A. Klett.

Cleveland—The Olympic theater, East 55th St. and Broadway, has reduced its playing time to three days a week for the rest of the summer.

Racine, Wis.—Mickey Gross has succeeded Robert Ungerfeld as manager of Fox's State.

Cleveland—Fred Schram and Nate Schultz have purchased a series of six Hoot Gibson pictures made by M. H. Hoffman, Jr., for Allied Pictures Corp. for distribution in Ohio through Selected Pictures Co.

First State Right Pix

Booked by N. Y. Strand

Bearing out the forecasts of better times said for the indie producers, the S. Selberg production, "Enemies of the Mw," has been booked by Warners for the New York Strand starting next Thursday night. This is the first state right picture to play the broad Strand picture house. Arv Nolan and Lou Tellegen head the cast. Charles Reed Jones wrote the story.

Zukor Decorated by Portugal

Adolph Zukor, who only a few weeks ago was decorated by the Hungarian Government, is now the recipient of a decoration from the Portuguese Government in the form of the Grand Cross of the Order of Santiago, one of the highest honors at the command of that country. The presentation was made by a contingent headed by Dr. Joas de Deus Ramos, consul of Portugal.

More Kid Films, No More Gangster Planned by Warner Bros., Says Morris

With two kiddie pictures definitely announced for 1931-32 release, Warn Bros. will probably make two more, Sam E. Morris told THE FILM DAILY yesterday. Pictures already announced are "School Days" and "The Yankee Kid."

Warner Bros. and First National will make no more gangster pictures, said Morris. Natural melodramatic stories will be produced, but none of these will come under the direct classification of gangster subjects, he stated.

Whether or not Warn Bros. will expand their circuit of approximately 20 houses in Great Britain will be decided in the fall, Morris said.

Canada Would Bar Divorce Films

Ottawa—A resolution calling on the provincial boards of censors to refuse to release any picture representing divorce as desirable or acceptable was passed at the semi-annual congress of the association of ex-pupils of Canadian Catholic convents.

Major J. C. Boylen, chairman of the Ontario censor board, stated that 28 pictures were banned in 1930 and 63 were put on the blacklist this year.

While praising the cinema as a great potential force for good and for education, Senator N. A. Belcourt deplored the abuses which had invaded it. He stated that if the situation became acute, the Federal Government could invoke the Postal Act to seize improper films coming.

Picketing by Operators’ Union Ruled Against by Supreme Court

Providence—Picketing by motion picture operators is held to be an "obstruction of the public use of the street and sidewalks" in an opinion handed down by the Supreme Court here in deciding the right of Providence Local, No. 223, M. P. Machine Operators, to picket in front of the Liberty.

The Supreme Court also upheld a recent Superior Court decision granting Samuel Bome, owner of the theater, an injunction against the picketing which has followed Bome’s hiring of non-union machine operators.

The significance of the decision is important because it is the first time the Supreme Court here has been called upon to decide the right of striking employees to picket an establishment.

CLAUSE IS ELIMINATED IN EXHIBITION FORMS FOR 1931-32

Arbitration clauses are being eliminated from the exhibition contracts covering the new season. Distributors are understood to be taking the attitude that individual arbitration systems are impractical and expensive and that a quicker decision in disputes can be obtained through the regular courts, when necessary, although it is

New W. E. Microphone Being Used by Griffith

A new super-selective type of microphone, developed by Western Electric, will be used for the first time at the Audio Studio cinema, New York, beginning Monday, when D. W. Griffith starts work on "The Struggle."
What? You’ve Got Troubles?

(Read this soul-searing confession of a broken-down theatre rope!..)

“I’ve held them in line at the Winter Garden from ‘The Singing Fool’ to ‘The Millionaire’, but was too much for me!

You’d think those guys would be satisfied to overwork me with that ace crowd-getter EDW. G. ROBINSON but when they add a card like JAMES CAGNEY and 5 Beautiful Blondes, that’s enough to break any rope’s back. What they need for that picture is a steel cable and more seats!”

New Stunt
In Lucky Numbers
A NEW wrinkle in lucky number contests has been added by Manager Lou Kusner of the Apollo, Martinsburg, W. Va. It has started off with a rush and its great virtue for the exhibitor lies in the fact that it is cumulative in results. The new plan is called "Home Beautiful Nights" and is used by Kusner each Friday night. Fifty numbers are posted in the lobby of the theater. The ladies who hold lucky numbers are given free admission to the house and presented with a piece of drapery for the home. The draperies come in sets and consist of pillow tops, window drapes, table scarfs and valences. It is considered highly probable that the lucky ones will continue patronizing the "Home Beautiful Nights" with the hope of completing the drapery sets. This is the strong point connected with the stunt.

—Apollo, Martinsburg, W. Va.

Royal Flush
for "Smart Money"
AN effective cut-out card set up for the run of "Smart Money" shows a hand holding a royal flush. It shows at once connects the Edward G. Robinson picture with gambling passing along the idea on which the story of the picture is based. The card is five inches deep and is to be used in mailing and various other ways such as insertion in theater programs, laundry bundles, etc. There are few people unfamiliar with poker and there isn't anyone with a knowledge of the game that won't have something to say about the scarcity of the royal flush in his hands when he has played the game. On the back of the card is plenty of room for theater announcements. Like most good exploitation stunts, this one is inexpensive.

ALL YOU independent exhibitors should give a serious thought to Independence Day...July 4...it is really Your Day...our forefathers fought for independence...won it...handed it down to us...and look at the helluva mess we're in today...we're up to our necks with installment payments on the family car and the bassinet for the coming event...which reminds us of a pal of ours who made a down payment on a single-seater bassinet...and drew twins...so ya never can tell...ain't life just a merry gamble, though?...all we're really sure of is our Grand and Glorious Independence...bequeathed to us by our dumb forefathers with a perverted sense of humor...who made positively sure that the Joke would click by writin' it into the Constitution...with Amendments...one of which has made the bootleggers independent...and made us saps dependent on the bootleggers.

SO WHEN you Indie Exhib Mugs celebrate Independence Day...you have a perfect setup...start the ceremonies in your theater by reading the Constitution that has had its independence kicked out of it. Leave the three day pix made by an independent producer on a shoestring...this is guaranteed to make your audience so independent that they will get right up and kick the seats apart as they were done in the show...but don't get discouraged...have your ushers drop giant firecrackers on 'em from the balcony...having thus maintained the Grand and Glorious Spirit of the Fourth at all costs, you will be all washed up in your town...absolutely independent...no more film rentals...no more installment payments on your sound equipment...just a free American citizen...coming and going as you please...and the quicker you go, the better...you can devote your life to travel and leisure...along with the rest of the tramps...who spend their time wondering in 'ell our Forefathers took the trouble to fight for.Independence.

OH YOU Rooster!...go ahead and crow your head off...you've earned the break...with RKO Pathe tied in completely and absolutely with the greatest Epic Drama of the Air...Edward G. Robinson-Gatty round-the-world flight in less than 9 days...beating the Graf Zeppelin's record by 11 days...shattering every world record for a speed-distance flight...they took the plunge and went for a Ride...but it's the kind that will go down in history.

THE BOYS who engineered it are Jack Connelly, general manager of Pathe News...Percy Howard, editor-in-chief...Claude Collins, producer...working quietly in advance, they trained Harold Gatty for an entire week in the use of the automatic camera...they painted Pathe's Rooster in vivid red on the fuselage...and the Rooster rode and crowned over the 'boom' globe, on a front page story for every rag in the world...and if anybody denies the Rooster the honor of strutting his stuff after that...he's gotta be pretty bum stuck.

LARRY DARMOuir this week begins his fifth year as the producer of the Mickey (Himself) McGuire comedies...one big answer to the exhibitor's prayer for juvenile entertainment...the remarkable thing is that since the start of the series the cast of the Mickey comics has remained intact...with Albert Herman, who directed the first, still handling 'em...and we're not happy to run into Tim Leahy the other day...all tanned up and lookin' fit to fight wildcats...or give the horse laugh to the skeptics...This Frenchie, Pierre Armstrong, read our kibitz about flying 3,000 feet over Longisde and sez he found it full of atmosphere...is that a boost or a boost...? We just love that phrase in the main title of "Strange As It Seems" series..."if it's true, it's a fact...if it's a fact, it must be true...oh well...these California fellers just have to overemphasize everythin'.

Substitutions Call for Different Selling Basis
UNAFFECTED by any other trends in the industry, the growth of substitutions continues as a Thorn in the side of amicable relationship between distributor and exhibitor. Substitutions are not pre-determined. They arise because of unusual situations, but after a careful analysis, it appears that the reason for complaint rests on the fact that something of lesser value is usually offered for what has been sold. There have been cases where both parties failing to see the substitution. Warners and Universal did that very thing in the past season. Generally, though, the substituted picture is inferior. The substitution practice will never be okay with the exhibitor. He senses that when this condition takes place another vestige of fairness is disappearing from the business. No other industry can parallel the substitution idea, and yet the exhibitor seems to have no redress. If the producer argues that substitution will always be with us, let him sell his product on a different basis. Unless he positively knows that an individual picture will definitely be made, let him sell on a basis which would prevent substitutions. Ultimately, this will mean that the exhibitor would buy on the trade mark and goodwill of the company. Such sort of bargaining would be healthy, and it would certainly bring buying to a healthier plane.

Lew Cody Appeals Tax Assessment

Washington Bureau of THE FILM DAILY

Washington—Lew Cody has filed an appeal with the Board of Tax Assessors from a deficiency income tax assessment of $22,016. The Internal Revenue Bureau assessed the amount after disallowing losses claimed by Cody in a film production venture and reducing the allowance for business expenses claimed in a vaudeville tour. The assessment was levied for the years 1927-1928.

Cody in his appeal alleged that the bureau erred in disallowing the losses and in cutting the expenses. He said that he and his wife, while having community income, had filed separate returns as permitted under the law, but that the bureau had charged the entire deficiency to him.

HARRY REICHENBACH DIES

Harry L. Reichenbach, foremost motion picture press agent and exploiteer, died Friday noon in the Doctor’s Hospital, New York. Death was due to cancer and followed an illness of three months’ duration.

Probably no picture press agent has ever obtained as much newspaper space through sensational stunts as Harry Reichenbach. His minimum salary was the highest ever paid to a picture publicity man. His career was as varied as it was colorful, and frequently dramatic.

Reichenbach was born March 17, 1882 in Froisburg, Md., the son of Charles and Matilda Reichen- bach. At the age of 15 he ran away from home to join the Great Mun- dane Shows. Later he convinced the owners of Island Park at Johnstown, Pa., that he had vast experience in operating amusement parks and they placed him in charge of their outdoor enterprise. At 15 he was managing Millie-Christian, two-headed colored girl.

Reichenbach wrote new and starting chapters in circus press-agentry through his association with the publicity departments of such famous outposts as Forepaugh-Sells and Ringing Bros. One of his most outstanding exploits involved the taking of the first vaudeville troupe to Iquitos in Peru, 3,000 miles up the Amazon River. At one time he managed the Great Rainbow, magician, remaining with him for four years.

Deserting the big tops for the legitimate stage, Reichenbach worked (Continued on Page 9)

Archie Mayo Scores Rush Work In Order To Meet Release Dates

Rushing of productions to meet release dates is one of the major evils of the industry, declared Archie Mayo, Warner Bros. director, in an interview in New York yesterday.

“Theaters should be divorced from production in one respect,” he said, “as pictures turned out under extre- me pressure cannot be as good as those made with adequate time. Picture making is creative work and can’t be run on a Henry Ford plan of mass production.”

Mayo believes that major producers ought to have 25 per cent of their programs made by independent organizations, thus saving pictures from possibilities of becoming stereotyped and rutted. Color, he thinks, will never stage a comeback to an important degree and is best suited for shorts, such as travelling, historical pictures and other subjects of similar character.

The director sees no future for wide film. Impossibility of concen- trating action within easy eye-range of an audience is a major obstacle to enlarged pictures, he said.

Edgar MacGregor to Produce "West Coast Pictures" in Hollywood — Edgar MacGregor, well known on Broadway as a stage director, and lately doing directorial work at the M-G-M, is to become an independent producer according to reports. His first picture is to be "Pa-Janas," an adaptation of Charles Bell's farce, "The Dislocated Hunnyroom," in which James Gleason appeared. MacGregor staged the local production of the New York stage play "The Vinegar Tree," in which Billie Burke is making a hit with coast legitimate fans.

Fan Magazine Staff Changes

Elizabeth Wilson, formerly of "Screen Book Magazine," is now with "Silent Film". She succeeded Ruth Waterbury, who will edit a new fan magazine now being organized by Jack Dennis, for the past few weeks New York editorial representative of "Screen Play," is no longer with this Fawcett publication.

Pathe Set in 4 Midwest Circuits

RKO Pathe's Personality Group and complete line-up of shorts has been set in four mid-western circuits. Charles Lundgren of St. Louis signed up the Batten Circuits and Bon- nem of Detroit lined up the McFar- land Circuit. Ray Nolan of Kansas City sold the area to the Blair Circuit. Lew Elms of Milwaukee closed with the Delf Circuit.

THREE FEATURES FINISHED AT RADIO PICTURES STUDIO

Three new Radio Pictures have just received finishing touches. They are "Kisses by Command," co-starring Genevieve Tobin, Betty Compton and Ivan Lebedeff under the direction of Richard Boleslavsky; "Fanny Foley Herself," starring Edna May Olive, with Hobart Bosworth, Helen Chandler, John Darrow and Rochelle Hudson, directed by Melville Brown, and "The Sphinx Has Spoken," featuring Adolphe Menjou, Lily Damita and Erich von Stroheim under the direction of Victor Schertzinger.

Title of the new Wheeler-Wooley comedy formerly known as "Full of Notions" and "Soda Poppers" is now called "Caught Plastered."

The title of Radio Pictures' "The Million Dollar Swindle," starring Richard Dix, has been permanently changed to "The Public Defender." It was directed by J. Walter Ruben, with a supporting cast composed of Shirley Grey, Purnell Pratt, Edmund Breese and others.

Judels With Educational

Charles Judels, noted comedian and director, has been signed for the heavy role in the new education series. Ideal comedy featuring Tom Patri- cola, and which William Goodrich is directing.

UNUSUAL WEATHER CREATES NEW JOB

A new job, created by California's recent unusual weather is that of 'cloud lookout.' The holder of such a berth is an expert at gauging the direction and speed of clouds and the time that the sun will shine between them. Paramount used one of these scouts in making "The Secret Call."

Film Colony Players Form Jesters' Club

Formation of the Jesters' Club was announced following a meeting at the home of Joan Marsh, M-G-M featured player. The purpose of the organization is largely social, but it will devote much attention to dramatics, welfare and sports. Officers and board of directors include: Howard Smith, founder, Hubert Voght, Lew Cody, Chick Jourdan, Beth Chandler, Janet Chandler, Roger Marchetti, George Duran, Ivan Iman, Martha Sleep, Warner Hunt, Douglas Hodges, Joan Marsh, Marcella Morin, Josephine Dunn, Hal How, Paul Van Noy and Hal Le Seur.

The membership also includes Eddie Quillan, Arthur Lake, Dave Cromwell, Phillips Holmes, Ralf Harold, John Quillin, Royal Sylvia, Lew Ayres and Harry Myer.

University Group Starts Athletic Shorts for U

Dr. Walter A. Meanwell, noted basketball coach of the University of Wisconsin, arrived the past week with his 1931 squad to make a series of short subjects for Universal. Samuel Freedman has written and will supervise the pictures.

Masquers Making Another

The Masquers' Club is making "The Grand Junction Hotel," another all-star comedy, at the RKO Pathe studios. William Beaudine is directing from Ralph Ceder's adaptation of an original story by Lew Lipton, supervisor of comedy production.

21 Writers Assigned For Radio Pictures Lot

In preparation for a big production schedule in the near future, the Radio Pictures studio is doubling its story activities. Betty Roberts, in charge of scenarists, has assigned 21 contract writers to various scripts as well as hastening the work on specials. Louis Stevens is preparing "The Bird of Paradise" and "Marchetta," Gerrit J. Lloyd is adapting and dialogueing "Secret Service" for Richard Dix, Wallace Smith is completing "The Dove," with Howard Estabrook putting the finishing touches to "Are These Our Children?" and "Frontier." Agnes Christine Johnston has been assigned to dramatize her play, "Rich Men's Wives," while John Howard Lawson is completing his original story, "Daughter of Joy." The rest of the writing staff is at work on originals or on stories purchased for 1932 release.

TAY GARNETT BUYS YACHT

Tay Garnett celebrated the completion of "Mad Marriage," the biggest production of his career, with the purchase of a new sixty-foot cruising yacht that he plans to use on extended ocean voyages.

LOIS MORAN OPPOSES GILBERT

Lois Moran will play the feminine lead opposite John Gilbert in "West of Broadway." Gene Markey adapted it.

MACK SENNETT WINNING UP CURRENT COMEDY PROGRAM

With 24 of his 26 two-reel comedies completed, Mack Sennett is winning up production on his current season's program. "The Albany Branch," a part of the studio's present two-reel series, will take the place of "ScreenCanister" in the West Coast markets.

MACK SENNETT STUDIOS will continue to operate without interruption, work having already been started on several subjects for the new season Sennett's 1931-32 schedule, including 26 two-reelers and 18 one-reelers, the heaviest comedy produce has ever had.

CAREY WILSON, scenarist, has completed his treatment of Radio Pictures’ “Home Town Laughter,” which William Seiter will direct. It features Ricardo Cortez and Pandro Berman with supporting roles.

“What’s in a name,” the Marcal theater, Hollywood, played “Backed Apartments,” “God’s Gift to Women.”

Groucho Marx garnered many laughs when he “kidded” Mayor Porter at the Fanchon and Marco studio dedication dinner. Mayor Porter declared by note, the absence of shows near Paris, and Groucho jumped to his feet and said the Mayor had not visited the right parts of Paris. Groucho threatened “to turn” for mayor.

Sidney Tolter, actor and playwright, is keeping busy, to say the least. As soon as a finished work in “Strictly Dishonorable,” at Universal, he will play in “Sky Devils,” for Caddo.

Harold Schwartz will direct the fourth Rosco Ames comedy for Radio Pictures. Schwartz is collaborating on a story, which will present the stammering comedian in double roles. The picture is titled “The Guppy Twins” and will be produced and supervised by Louis Bolk.

Earle Hampton, veteran press agent, writing for the magazine for the Knights of the Road” series, which is being broadcast over seven California stations and one station in Hawaii. James Gleason and Robert Armstrong appear in the series. Eastern stations are also showing such interest in the series.

A LITTLE FROM “LOTS”

By RALPH WILK

Famous last words — “Sorry, I never heard of him.”

The Hollywood cry of “I’m between pictures” should be changed to “I’m between settlements.”

Edward H. Griffith brought an innovation to picture premieres when he introduced his scenarist, art director and cameraman at the opening of “Rebound.” Horace Jackson wrote the scenario, while Carroll Clark did the art work on the picture. Norbert Brodin was the cameraman.

Louis Gasnier, veteran director, is completing work on “Silence,” for Paramount. He co-directed “The Lawyer’s Secret.”

Allen Rivkin believes that even the California elements are out of “sync,” because the other day he saw lightning, but heard no thunder.

All roads from Hollywood will lead to Wrigley field July 13 when Tony Canzoneri and Cecil Payne, a Hollywood favorite, clash in a World Series battle. Tom Gallery, husband of Zasu Pitts, and a former actor, represents the Hollywood American Legion, Post 43, which is promoting the fight. B. F. Schulberg, William Wellman, Mervyn LeRoy, Alan Hale, Jack Oakie, Regis Toomey, J. Walter Ruben, Melvile Brown, Dave Epstein, Eddie Montaigne, Richard Wallace and Walter Lundin, fight regulars, will be among the numerous members of the film colony at the ringside.

C. Henry Gordon, who is playing in “Streetcar,” remembers a banquet, which he attended in Sydney, Australia, while touring in “Tiger Rose.” The banquet was given by working girls who were enthusiastic theater-goers.

Walter DeLeon is about as busy as the Hollywood chap who writes the firing notices. DeLeon, who is under contract to Warner-First National, has written a Joe E. Brown, Daniels, Mackall and a kid star story in a period of four months. Last winter, were “Big Money,” “Lonely Wives,” “Night Work” and “The Big Gamble” for Pathe. He also wrote the screen version of “Meet the Wife” and a handful of small comedies.

A LITTLE FROM “LOTS”

By HARRY N. BLAIR

AN extra force of make-up men, Louis were required for the cast of “Bullmania,” a Paramount short featuring Billy House, most of which was made on the back lot during the intervals attended by the pilot rehearsal. Wednesday, House is supported by Dewey Robinson and a cast of 100, to play in a real foreign film. Scott directed with Harold Fingerlin acting as monitor man.

Famous Phils: Phil Cohon, Phil Priestley, Phil Scheib, Phil Kendell and Phil M. Daly.

The classic one-armed paperhanger with the hives has nothing on Max Manne of the Paramount New York studio. Besides synchronizing features and shorts, Manne creates cartoon ideas and synthetic effects. He is just completing the synchronizing of “Secrets of a Secretary.”

Simple Simon Comedies are now preparing the story for their third series of two-reelers starring Louis Simon. Production is expected to get under way next week.

An important gathering of musicologists and film executives, George Gershwin's "Second Rhapsody," which will be a feature of the Fox production, and "Delicious," in which Janet Gaynor will be starred. The reading was given under the auspices of National Broadcasting Co. with Bill Daly conducting. The consensus of opinion is that this composition is even better than Gershwin's famous "Rhapsody in Blue."

Unique Cosmos Films are in the midst of a short film series featuring Bud Pollard. The first is based on "Alice in Wonderland." Others will be of a similar fantastic nature. The Metropolitan Studios in Fort Lee are being used.

Margaret Adams, appearing in "My Sin" for Paramount, is a graduate of the Rochester Academy, where she studied music under Eugene Geosseens. Miss Adams appeared in several shorts made by Universal in Hollywood, following which she played the lead in the West Coast production of "Death Takes a Holiday." Returning to New York, she was signed by the Shuberts for an important role in "Three Little Girls," after which she understood the lead in "Meet My Sister." Paramount expects big things of her.

D. W. Griffith lets it be known that he is enthusiastic about the possibilities of Edna Hagan, seven-year-old child actress, than any other director who has hired her in his long career. This is a rather strong statement considering that D. W. is responsible for such names as Mary Astor, Norma Shearer, Lillian and Dorothy Gish, Richard Barthelmess, Neil Hamilton and many others.

“Lucky Thirteen,” first of the new Vitaphone "Girls Friends" series, will be the first short to go into production when activities are resumed at the Flatbush plant on July 27. Thelma White and Fanny Watson will be featured. Following this, the first of the S. V. Van Dine detective series will be made.

While Vladimir Dukelsky awaits news from abroad regarding his second symphony, to be played at the London and Oxford Festival of Contemporary Music, the last week in July, Vernon Duke is preparing the score to Tom Weverly’s "The Gay Divorcee," for which Ed. Kleese has written the lyrics. Needless to say, Dukelsky and Duke are one and the same. During the ten years, he has contributed compositions to numerous Paramount features made here.

Sam Sax definitely denies that feature production is contemplated at the Warner Vitaphone studio, setting aside all rumors to that effect.

"A Put Up Job," the first of the Karl Dane-George K. Arthur series of shorts, will get under way at the Paramount New York studio next week. Sam Sax, who was chosen to act as business manager and Charles Lessing, John Toner and Walter Percival will be delegates to the next conference.

Paramount Notes: John Green, Jean Kendall and Howard K. Duck are among the ushers at wedding of Casey Robinson and Audrey Dale, on Tuesday . . . Ben Schwall, formerly of New York studio, the father of a bouncing baby girl . . . Tallulah Bankhead at lunch, with the inevitable bowl of ripe olives.

Warner Vitaphone will release a series of 13 one-reel “World Wide Travel Talks” by Edward M. Newman, noted lecturer, on program for the coming season. Newman spent six months in foreign lands with complete equipment, gathering material for the series. His voice, describing each scene, will be heard from the screen.

Wide Pictures From 35MM. Film Successfully Shown in London

London — The "Fulve" device, which shows wider pictures without necessitating the adoption of more than standard size film, has been successfully demonstrated here.

The chief merit of the device, it is said, is that it makes the spectator to within 10 feet of a picture that ordinarily would have to be "long shots."

The standard width of the Fulve picture is 15 feet and the wider picture is made by placing a 35mm. projector in the rear of the theatre. The Fulve apparatus is readily modifiable to give exactly the extended size which the theatre can accommodate.

It is also said that the new device can be fitted to any existing standard 35mm. projector without interference with the projectors' ordinary use.

Good Results Reported With Super-Lite Lens

Rochester, N. Y.—Super-Lite projection lens, a product of the Project Optical Co., Inc., of this city, is reported to be giving good results. The construction of the lens, which is adaptable to any projector, is said to deviate radically from all types hitherto known and is guaranteed to increase the illumination and greatly reduce electricity expense on projection. The very long over-all length permits the rear lens to come as close as possible to the gate and therefore gather all the light rays, the company claims.

New Safety Device

A new all automatic projection machine fire protective apparatus has been developed by the Film Fire Cut Out Co. of New York.

Sign Value

Directional signs are a necessity to any theater. Those best for general use are signs that tell their story clearly and at the same time are neat in appearance. Three important factors are required in a successful theater sign: (1) attraction power, (2) power to make itself understood, i.e., easily read, and (3) power to get across message to those whose attention is desired, i.e., selling power.

RAPID OSCILLOGRAPH AIDS IN ACOUSTICAL ACTIVITIES

The rapid record oscillograph recently developed by Bell Telephone Laboratories, and now in use by the Acoustical Consulting Department of Electrical Research Products, has been in use for five months. Requirements in the form of a permanent photographic image of any sound picked up by the associated microphone. Pure tone or complex frequency from 30 to 6000 cycles is recorded on a graduated strip of paper, 35 mm. wide, with coordinates of which indicate directly the frequency, pressure and duration.

In the study of sound, the rapid oscillograph has proven extremely useful, the company declares. It has simplified the scientific analysis of interference phenomena and distribution of sound energy because of the ability to record simultaneously the natural sound as its source and the resultant sound energy received at widely separated locations in the auditorium. It thus becomes an instrument with which the acoustical engineer may qualitatively inspect reverberation characteristics while relying on the reverberation meter for a complete and detailed study.

Absence of distortion and extreme simplicity of operation have developed useful applications of the rapid oscillograph in many fields. For investigation of sound recording and reproducing equipment, amplifier and tube characteristics and in all research where oscillograms of audio frequency are desired, it has proven most useful.

Pyroloid Offering New Giveaway

Athol, Mass.—Gold decorated quartz dress-level has been brought out by the Pyroloid Sales Co. and is reported by exhibitors as meeting with success among lady patrons in building up the theatre. Plans for building box office sales with this new giveaway are given out by the company.

NEW THEATERS

FRANKLIN, N. H.—Work is to be started at once on the theatre to be constructed here by a company headed by Samuel Kurson of Bangor, Me.

ALAMEDA, CAL.—With final arrangements concluded for the issuing of a building permit, the Alameda Amusement Co. announces immediate construction of its half-million-dollar theater building. The new house is expected to be completed and ready for opening in four months.

FINKELSTEIN CIRCUIT ADOPTS ULTRAPHONE

Minneapolis—Ultraphone Sound equipment has been installed in house of the Finkelstein theater circuit of Iowa and Nebraska. According to an announcement made by Ted Krautz, manager of Ultraphone Sound Systems, Inc., of this city, additional installations for other theaters of the circuit will be made. The circuit is owned and operated by H. D. and Dan Finkelstein.

BEL-SUN-LITE FLOOD PROJECTOR

Chicago—A small flood light projector, adaptable to many uses around the theater, using a 200-watt Ps-30 lamp, and having corrugated aluminum reflector that is said to give even distribution of light over wider area, is being marketed by the Belson Manufacturing Co. It is furnished complete with six colored gelatin screens and frame to fit retaining ring.

NATIONAL STUDIOS OFFER NOVEL LOBBY DISPLAY

Hand colored photographic enlargements for lobby are being offered by the National Studios, Inc., of New York. The attractive displays are created to fit any size panel or frame at the theatre.

When an exhibitor plays a picture featuring any of these stars, the colorful enlargement is placed in a more prominent location in the front lobby, so that it furnishes a direct tie-up with the picture.

BOOM IN FOREIGN ORDERS REPORTED BY PHOTOPHONE

Van Ness Philip, manager of the foreign department of RCA Photophone, announces that orders have been received by the Medan Circuit in Calcutta, India, for 25 complete units of sound reproducing equipment to be installed in the company's theaters.

Photophone's foreign business generally is booming, according to Philip. One hundred and twenty-five unfilled orders for sound apparatus were outstanding in the New York office as of June 28, he says.

NAT'L ADDS WHOLESALE DEPT.

Cleveland—National Theater Supply has added a wholesale department to its local activities. This department will be under the management of R. F. Walters, Ray Cutmore, who continues as manager of the retail department.

An entirely new line of theater lighting fixtures manufactured expressly for the theater by the Yough Co. of Philadelphia has been taken over for distribution and is now in display in branches of the National Theater Supply.

PLUG CONNECTORS

LONG lasting and most serviceable—Kliegl pin-plug connectors and portable plugged boxes, the best and most economical to use for quickly and conveniently connecting stage lamps and other electrical appliances. Any size or arrangement desired, for 3 to 100 amperage circuits. Also other stage lighting specialties, spotlights, scenic effects, supplies, etc.

BRIGHT AND CHEERFUL THEATERS NOW MORE IMPORTANT THAN EVER

Pointers and Suggestions

HAVE you checked over your cleaning equipment lately to see that it is in good condition and doing the work that it should do? Your vacuum cleaner is an essential of modern picture theater equipment. More than that, it is a vast economy to the showman inasmuch as it lengthens the life of seat fabrics, draperies and furnishings by protecting them from the ravages of germ-laden dust. Your cleaner may be running but probably has lost some of its suction and is in need of servicing. Do not wait until this equipment stops working. Have it serviced often. It plays an important part in the upkeep of your theater.

* * *

A dull dark picture projected on the screen cannot always be blamed on the condition of the film. More likely than not, the screen requires attention. Unless screens are inspected regularly, dust will accumulate, and not only will the picture be hazy, but the sound will be muffled. Check up on your screens today and see that it is in good condition.

* * *

Many theaters owners during the summer months alter, requeen and reconstruct their theaters. There is no question that the reconstruction of theaters will in the majority of cases prove amply justified by the increase in box office receipts. In other cases, more vital to the survival of the enterprise, a reconstruction will usually result in the restoration of the full support of the falling patronage. In this as in other constructive work economic considerations will generally dominate the whole policy, but having regard for the fact that those responsible for theater reorganization must plan for the future—if they are to keep in the line of development—a bold and vigorous policy should be adopted. Half measures in the re-equipping, alteration, reconstruction or reorganization usually result in wasteful expenditure and will not produce the desired effect upon the box-office receipts.

ALTERATIONS

Kingston, N. Y.—Joseph Stephano, has taken a lease on the long vacant Auditorium, which is being remodeled. Installation of sound equipment also will be made.

Massena, N. Y.—Complete renovation of the entire theater, changing it into a Spanish type house is under way at the Strand here. The house is operated by the Schine circuit and managed by Abe Cohen.

Toledo, O.—Jack O'Connell is equipping the new Avalon, which he recently purchased and rebuilt, with a National blower cooling system.

Akrong, O.—General improvements and installation of new equipment are being made at the Colonial here.

Wichita, Kan.—Installation of new booth equipment and general improvements are in progress at the Fox theater of this city.

Excelsior Springs, Mo.—A new marquee is being built together with complete reconditioning at the Bayers here.

McCall, Idaho—Many improvements on both interior and exterior are planned at the Page Electric, recently acquired by C. M. Plyler.

Winston-Salem, S. C.—The Rex colored house, has been closed for the summer months. It will be repaired and remodeled.

Flora, III.—The Orpheum and Casino, recently taken over by the Spaulding Brothers of Taylorville, operators of theaters in Effingham and Litchfield, are to be closed down for extensive repairs and alterations.

MINIATURE THEATER USED AS AID IN REDECORATION

Dallas—W. B. King, president of the King Studios of this city, has constructed a miniature model of a modern theater which he takes about the country with him to demonstrate to exhibitors the importance of reworking their theaters into beautiful showhouses, and to stress the tragedy of showing pictures in dingy, unattractive houses.

The purpose of the miniature, King explains, is to set the model in any showman's theater and to demonstrate to him the most economical way of remodeling and decoration.

The Harwood Street offices of the King Studios have been moved into the Elm Street factory building, where special displays have been arranged for the advantage of the theater owner.

W. E. in East Indies

Sydney—The Western Electric Co. (Australia) has now taken over the control of W. E.'s interests in the Dutch East Indies and the Straits Settlements territories. J. H. Barker, managing director of the W. E. Australian company, is in charge of the newly acquired districts.

Matinee Club Buttons

Philadelphia—Membership buttons for kiddies' matinee clubs, under plans worked out by theaters for increasing juvenile patronage, are being offered by the Philadelphia Budge Co.
FOREIGN MARKETS

By GEORGE REDDY

CUBAN FILM SITUATION
MEETING SEVERE TEST

Havana—With the economic situation existing at present the film distribution trade in Cuba is undergoing a severe test, more than 80 moving picture theaters having been forced to close during the last few months, it is stated in a report by U. S. Consul General F. T. F. Dumont to the Department of Commerce in Washington. Although the population of Cuba is approximately 3,600,000, only 1½ per cent of the theaters can be counted as comprising the theater-going public.

Spanish dialogue pictures are more in demand than any other productions and a steady, although limited, demand exists for these when the theaters have no other source of income for their year’s supply. Several of the large theaters in Havana are under American management, and according to their agreements must use pictures produced by certain American companies.

Talking films are not produced locally, but a few silent films have been made and some news reels. A steady decline in box-office receipts has created a financial situation between the exhibitors and the film distributors, both having local organizations. The large film distributors in Havana who are branches of American moving picture companies, have attempted to make terms as favorable as possible for the later proprietors, but in spite of these efforts many large theaters are operated now at a loss.

More than 95 per cent of the imports of moving-picture films come from the United States. During the present year these have been mostly dialogue or synchronized pictures. A few foreign productions are shown.

Building New A-B Studio

Prague—Work is progressing on the new studio for A-B at Barrandow, near Prague. Tobis-Klangfilm recording equipment will be used in the studio which will be completed late this year.

New Klangfilm Chairman

Berlin—Dr. Emil Mayer, former representative member of the board of directors of the A.E.G., and delegate of Klangfilm, has entered the management of Klangfilm, and will act as chairman. Simultaneously Dr. Mayer is representing the Telefunken Co. for wireless telegraphy, so that it is understood that all elec- tric and acoustic business within the Telefunken Co. will equally affect Klangfilm.

FRENCH FOREIGN TRADE UNDERGOING CHANGES

Paris—There was a considerable change in the French foreign trade in motion picture films for the first quarter of 1931 compared with the corresponding period in 1930, according to a report compiled by the U. S. Trade Commissioner George R. Canty for the Department of Commerce in Washington. It appears that gains took place in exports of developed positives (prints), imported of negative raw stock, and imports of negative raw stock, while losses occurred in imports of developed negatives, imports of developed positives, exports of developed negatives, exports of negative raw stock, and exports of positive raw stock. CHINA IS ALL KEYED UP
OVER TALKER PRODUCTION

Shanghai—With equipment not on the way from the U. S. for launching of talker production in China, both film and government circles are considerably keyed up over the development. The move is expected to have a very stimulating effect on movie theater business in China, which is still very much covered with film houses.

Coincident with the prospects of Chinese talker production in this country, there has been an impetus in negotiations for the wiring of theaters. First talking picture installations made in the Far East was at the Embassy here. Backers of the network system are Herbert Fanshawe and enterprises of New York, with offices here, and the work was supervised by J. F. Koehler, who also directed the first sound show at the Embassy on Feb. 6, 1929. The opening picture was "Captain Swagger," with synchronizing sound and music only. This was followed by "The Pathé News issues with sound talking. "Annapolis" was shown Feb. 17, 1929, and the first talker, "Show Folks," was presented Feb. 23, 1929. At that time, according to Koehler, there were no installations of any kind in the Far East.

Photophone Recording Unit
Shipped to Gainsborough

RCA Photophone is shipping the Photophone unit to the Gainsborough Pictor studios in London and its first assignment will be with the Rex Ingram unit for the recording of exteriors in Africa which are to be included in the super-production now being made under Ingram's direction.

Bentley To Direct
London—Thomas Bentley will direct "Hobson's Choice" for Brit International.

First Ufa Films in Color
Berlin—First productions to be made in color by Ufa will be a series of so-called "kultur" short subjects which are to be filmed in the Hamburg or Berlin zoos by the Wachstuchh process.

SWEDEN CAN’T AMORTIZE
NATIVE MADE TALKERS

Stockholm—Difficulties confronting the production of talking pictures in Sweden are cited in a report issued by the Svensk Filmindustri dealing with its past and future film activities.

Among other things, the report points out that the most important and difficult problem in Sweden is the production of “talkies” in the native tongue. Although there is a real need of such films, they cannot be amortized in the country, and this is the reason why domestic “talkie” production is practically non-existent. The only solution, in the opinion of the Svensk Filmindustri, is a joint production policy with German, French, or English companies. Thus two films, produced jointly with the Establishments Jacques Haik (France) have just been completed, while a third is planned for the near future. All of these were turned out in Stockholm in both French and Swedish versions. Besides, a film opera is to be produced in German, French and Swedish.

INCREASE IN CAPITAL
PLANNED BY HAIF FIRM

Paris—Establissemnts Jacques Haik, S. A, enterprise French company, is reported to be issuing a new series of shares so as to bring its capital to 20,000,000 francs. The concern was incorporated as a joint-stock company with 3,000,000 francs capital in July, 1924, this capital being increased to 7,000,000 francs at the end of 1929, and to 15,000,000 francs at the end of 1930. Now 50,000 shares of 100 francs nominal value each are to be issued.

Accounts of the company are stated to indicate satisfactory profits 576,000 francs for 1928-29 (on a capital of 3,000,000 francs) and 2,136,000 francs for 1929-30 (on a capital of 7,000,000 francs).

With a capital of 15,000,000 francs the balance sheet mentions assets to the extent of 33,000,000 francs for theater and studio property. There is also an item of 8,000,000 francs for films.

as press agent for Henry B. Harris, handling "The Third Degree" and other shows, and, among other stage production organizations, he was at one time identified with Comstock & Gert, David Belasco, Florenz Ziegfeld, Klaw & Erlanger, A. H. Woods and John Cort. He also became associated with Jesse L. Lasky in the Lasky Play Co. Afterward he formed a publicity firm with Marc Lachman.

During the World War, Reichenbach was engaged in propaganda work for the United States Government and transferred his activities to France and Italy. His rank was major.

The Reichenbach advertising copy for "Grass," the Merian C. Cooper-Ernest Schoedsack picture which had its premiere at the Criterion, New York, several years ago, was one of the most extraordinary and dramatic pieces of writing in exhibition history.

Reichenbach was one of the mightiest of star-makers, both within and outside the film industry. He publicized President Wilson during the World War, promoted and publicized Boca Raton during the Florida realty boom, and handled such hit stars as Gloria Swanson, Pola Negri, Douglas Fairbanks, Marguerite Clark, Clara Kimball Young, Barbara La Marr, Rudolph Valentino, Wallace Reid, Thomas Meighan, Ethel Barrymore, and Charlie Chaplin.

In addition to merchandising pictures, Reichenbach handled a number of national commercial accounts. His articles appeared in various nationally-circulated magazines and he was also author of a book on the art of press agency.

Reichenbach had been active in the affairs of the Motion Picture Club since its inception. Throughout the industry and even beyond its confines he was regarded as one of the most scintillating and expert of all toastmasters. In April the Motion Picture Club gave him a testimonial banquet which was brought to his hospital bedside via the radio.

Last winter Reichenbach spent a month in Florida in an effort to regain his health. Besides his widow, Lucinda, he is survived by four brothers, Howard, Walter and Leon, and two sisters.

Funeral services will be held Monday afternoon at 2 o'clock at Temple Emanuel, Fifth Ave., at 65th St. The body will lie in state at the Universal Funeral Parlor, 597 Lexington Ave., until that time.

Adapted from the Sinclair Lewis novel, the book a good job of it.

The subject was a pretty delicate one, and he takes it as it does for some hisstonics on the part of the two juvenile leads.
In places the emotional acting of Mitzi
Green, Bruce Line and Jackie Searl goes pretty blooey. But in the natural kid stuff and the comedy bit they go over strong. Edna May Oliver steals every scene she appears in, and really makes it her picture.
She does a good deal of a role on a very Irish mother who goes ritzzy when

A DRAMA OF EVOLUTION WITH EXPLANATORY LEC- TURE BY CLARENCE DARROW FOR STUDENTS, HAS LITTLE APPEAL TO FILM AUDIENCES.

This one gets away from the usual formula, but it is a very tricky plot that keeps the audience guessing till the final shot. Suspicion for the express robbery centers on several people, and even Bob Custer as the deputy sheriff has to establish his innocence as the bandit.
There is also another mystery centering around the girl's father, who is apparently shielding the real bandit. So it takes all the hero's steps to unravel the maze and finally pick the crime on the guilty party.
The girl is found fighting against the hero most of the time, believing that he is blocking the plans of her father. So taking it by and large, this western is a good one for a little heart, but not for the hots to fans to try and outguess the author, and see if they can do the correct solution. In other words, it is a very good plot, but not intelligent suspense, and this makes for some real entertainment.

Charlie is brought face to face with a murder tangle and, like in all Biggers' novels, everyone is suspected and clues are continually cropping up which cause the finger of suspicion to move rapidly. The plot is laid out in Honolulu, Charlie's time, and revolves around a motion picture company that is on the island to make "location" shots. The leading role is murdered and in unearthing the motive and eventually discovering the murderer, Charlie holds endeavor, despite some very colorful actresses and actors that are not suited to the part. The story is a simple love theme interestingly presented and built up with good characteri-sations by a very worthy group of actors. The proprieties of a chateau factory picks up its house for plan to steal a time to a desire to visit a aristocratic blood into the family.

the girl has an early childhood swee heart, which complicates the situation and leads to each other. The substitution of a letter written by the girl for the aristos and purposely delivered to her swe heart was elaborately contrived, trang. Then all is straightened when the trick is disclosed later by the traitor. This is the stage

"Younger Years"
KO Pathé  Time, 10 mins.
Pip Comedy

A Grantland Rice Sportlight, depicting the happy days of youth and sports. They assembled a great bunch of natural kids for this one, and turn they give a demonstration of ball football, baseball, and other sports, winding up with a dive into old swimming hole. This sequence is especially good, and looks real McCoy, for it's so natural. A pip summer number.

"Wild Geese"
aramount  Time, 8 mins.
Good Scene

A Robert C. Bruce scenic, done throughout with beautiful artistic photography. Atmosphere is built up with an opening shot of wild geese flying north. Then into the tall grass, with a tour north by the Canadian Rockies to enjoy the winter sports. This scheme is followed throughout, making a tour of the high spots of vacations, moving from arctic to tropical spots as the seasons demand. In-interesting, well-made, and makes an interesting scene. Explanatory announcer helps a lot.

"Pale Face Pup"
KO Pathé  Time, 8 mins.
Fair Cartoon

The AESop Fable hero appears as Pale Face with his girl in the wild Indian country. They are captured, and he gets himself in wrong with the Indian chief. The hero escapes, and calls on his pals, the Northwest Mounted, to help him. Finally, with the help of his trusty mount, he succeeds in destroying the redskins with his own arrows.

"Charlie Chase in "One of the Smiths""
Pip Comedy

I-G-M  Time, 27 mins.

In keeping with his policy of letting comedy stories run as long as they are worth, Hal Roach has given Charlie Chase nearly three reels in this one. And it's well worth the extra footage. Story revolves around mail order house representative, played by Chase, who makes a trip to the Ozark mountains to investigate the big demand for musical instruments and the delays in meeting payments on them. There's a great laugh on it, and Chase un-naturally snoring in a tuba that has taken along. In the Ozarks he finds that the musical instruments are being made in whisky stills. Then follows a typical mountaineer barn dance. Chase is taken "one of the Smiths" from "back meter" and he proves himself in the performance. Unusually strong entertainment value all the way.

"Bobby Jones in "How I Play Golf"
(No. 5 "The Medium Irons")
Vitaphone  Time, 10 mins.
Good

Bobby Jones continues to hold keen interest in his golf lessons, which have been well-woven with other personalities and material of good entertainment value. This edition includes a bunch of juveniles headed by Jeevan Coghlan. While Jones is playing a foursome with a group of experts, one of the kiddies ditches the ball in Gallatin so he can see the plays, but he is never successful. There is a neat finish when, after Jones has invited this gentleman to take a little shot, the kid goes to sleep before the expert finishes. Whereupon Jones carried the tot into the clubhouse. Additionally enjoyable for the kids.

"New Rhythm"
Paramount  Time, 10 mins.
Rumba Specialty

Don Azpiazu and his Havana Orchestra, doing their syncopated Rumba harmonies in a Havana cafe setting. Their melodies are very entrancing, and still a novelty, with the swing-swist of the odd gourd instruments. The leader sings his familiar "Peanut" number, distributing hises of peanuts among the guests at the tables. The Rumba numbers are well executed.

"Hello, Napoleon"
Universal  Time, 17 mins.
Flat

A rather disjointed two-reeler that starts with Lloyd Hamilton as a gardener working with a gag about one rabbits disappearing in and out of holes with Hamilton trying to catch them. They keep on trading with variations till it small meters out and dies a natural death and then they switch to a nut-house where Hamilton arrives to have his case treated after an accident with rabbits. A nut who thinks he is Napoleon gets hold of Hamilton, and having to be a doctor, starts to work on him. This gag is also worked with variations, and they even bring another nut in who applies as a doctor. It is all very flat and repetitious.

("That Old Gang of Mine"
Paramount  Time, 7 mins.
Singing Cartoon

A Max Fleischer singing cartoon telling the animated story of the cat who was once a hot dog. He goes into the same number with the dancing white bear skipping over the lines of the old song, "That Old Gang of Mine." They have a very fine quartette singing this which makes it an entertaining number.

"The Milky Way" with Neely Edwards
Vitaphone  Time, 10 mins.
Amusing Musical Novelty

Novel musical concoction in which a hospital patient who is sick of milk has a fantastic nightmare about milk, cows, dairymaids, etc. Unusual and well executed.

"Adventures in Africa"
(14 "Spears of Death")
Vitaphone  Time, 14 mins.
Okay

Tragic dancing, including a specialty in which one of the brave hunters is supposed to slash his eyes with a knife, is the feature of this addition of Wynant D. Hubbard's African episodes. Maintains the standard set by its predecessors in the series.

"June First"
RKO Pathé  Time, 21 mins.
Flat

A Gay Girls Comedy, with June MacMoy, Marion Shilling and Gertrude Short. All about three girls trying to gold-dig the dough for a trip to Europe. Miss MacMoy carries the burden as the head gold-digger who ties up a lot of gents to marry her on June 1st at the identical church. Meanwhile she rocks 'em for plenty of jewelry which the girls hock for the European trip. On the day of the wedding the church steps are filled with the waiting expectant bridegrooms—but no bride. She is grabbed by a motorcycle cop for speeding to the steamer, brought to the church, and then a free-for-all ensues among the bridegrooms fighting for the bride. Pretty repetitious. And about half the number of bridegrooms would have been just as funny—or maybe more so.

"Adventures in Africa"
(No. 4 "Spears of Death")
Vitaphone  Time, 15 mins.
Engrossing

Very good picture of its kind, showing the hunting and capture of lions by Wynant D. Hubbard and his expeditionary troupe. The accompanying lecture is better than the usual talking accompaniment. An engrossing subject throughout.

"North Woods"
Universal  Time, 16 mins.
Good Cartoon

Burlesqueing the Northwest Mounted, Oswald has a tough time trying to capture the bandit, who finally escapes after he has been handcuffed. Several cartoon devices are employed to work up chases and counter-chases, with Oswald's horse playing a prominent part. This is a good and standard for this type, moves fast, and has a good sprinkling of comedy rage.

they represent more than one-fifth of the seating capacity in this country, with the combined values of their playdates being one-third to one-fourth of the entire gross on a picture, declared Rowson. The two leading circuits control more than 200 and 150 houses, respectively, since the organizations have as their declared policies the encouragement of British films it is to be expected that better exchange arrangements with U. S. firms are inevitable, said Rowson.

Commenting on rentals, Rowson stated there is no possibility of any substantial reductions in as much as it would only lead to cheaper and inferior pictures. He denounced the practice of not including shorts in advertising, declaring that many of the two-reelers and one-reelers could draw additional trade if properly exploited.

Insufficient diversity of story themes also was scored by Rowson. During the past year American films represented about 80 per cent of all the films distributed by British renters, and they monopolized more than 85 per cent of the screen time over here, he said. This was a striking change from the time less than four years ago, when the complete possession of the British screen by American product was generally deplored. About 120 full-length pictures a year are now being made in the studios here, while extensions of facilities at present under way will bring the capacity up to about 250 features a year, said Rowson. The U. S. is expected to distribute more than 400 pictures in England, against which it would be required to take only about 60 British films for quota purposes, whereas British plans for the year already are more than double the quota requirements.

Rowson also commented on the intentions of American companies to establish producing units here, and declared they would find it commercially profitable in addition to such a step being the first stage in the march of reciprocity.

12 Non-Theatrical Centers Will Handle Medical Films

A non-theatrical circuit of distribution centers is being established in 12 key cities in the United States by the National Medical Ass'n of Chicago for the handling of 16 mm. sound-on-disc pictures showing in slow-motion the most modern forms of surgical operations and techniques. Films and projectors will be available to 'country doctors' throughout the country who have not the opportunity of seeing and studying advanced methods of the medical and surgical profession. Voluntary contributions from physicians will be the main support of the project and no charge will be made to doctors using the service. Considerable material is being made of surgical operations in New York hospitals by the Novagraph Co., using the microscopically slow-motion camera capable of taking 500 frames a second, invented by Charles P. Roxy "Fiesta Del Toro" is the title of the colorful and dashing stage presentation at the Roxy this week. Allan Burt, a newcomer with a magnificent tenor voice, delivers several solos. As a toreador in the bull-ring, Burt sings to Alida Vane who is in the royal box and who is costumed in a gorgeous Spanish gown. Miss Vane possesses a delightful soprano voice and received hearty applause. An unusual dance is offered by Louis Ojeda, whose handling of the tambourine is an art. The Roxy ballet and Roxettes, dressed as Spanish ladies in several different costumes and spectacular ensemble numbers, Patricia Bowman, premier danseuse, gives a sparkling and fast Spanish fandango.

Capitol

A nice piece of entertainment, dressed in frigid atmosphere, is "Cool Off," the Arthur Knorr stage production at the Capitol. On the stage is Ted Claire and the Capitolians who provide their usual excellent brand of music. Chilton and Thomas turn a splendid bit of fast tap and other dance numbers, using small hurdles in one sequence. Rom & Dunn vocalize effectively and Milo imitates birds and other various sounds in realistic style. The Chester Hale Girls look and dance attractively.

Paramount

Playing his fourth engagement this season at the Paramount ace house, Morton Downey again wins the plaudits in the current stage show at the Times Square stand. The presentation is a Boris Petroff unit called "Rio Rosa," with Bert Gordon, Theodore Enrica and Novello, Vera Kingston, Wilfred Du Bois, the Bobb-Sanford Girls and Ted Mack. A romantic Mexican background is employed. A special Fourth of July overture, "1776," is played by the Paramount orchestra, and Jesse Crawford has another pleasing program at the organ.

The Show

. . . . MUST Go On

From the beginning of the motion picture industry, on through the many stages of rapid development, National Carbon Company research engineers have kept in mind that unwritten law of the theatre—the show must go on. That is why National Projector Carbons are dependable.

Larger theatres, longer throw, sound, color and wide film have each, in turn, made their demands. Each new development has called for greater volume of illumination, for higher current through these slender pencils of carbon, for more intense crater brilliancy.

Extensive research and constant improvement in manufacturing methods have enabled National Projector Carbons to meet each new demand. Their brilliant white light provides a quality of projection that pleases the most critical patron. Their steady burning is a source of satisfaction to the projectionist. Their uniform quality gives assurance that the show WILL go on.

National Carbon Company will gladly cooperate with the producer, exhibitor, machine manufacturer or projectionist on any problem involving light.

DUAL BILLS GIVING WAY TO STAGE SHOWS

WARNERS PICK SIX NEWCOMERS FOR STARDOM PLUGGING

The Passing —of everybody's friend

By JACK ALICOAT

Harry Reichenbach has passed.

The great little silver-haired, table fighter, who rose from circuses to the highest-priced present in the world, has "placed" a "last copy."

He probably knew and called more notables by their first names, Lith in and out of the motion picture industry, than any man alive.

His business brought him into contact with Kings and paupers, and during the war, his unusual efforts bought him recognition from all Governments.

His battle with the grim reaper will be a game effort. Ordinary difficulties he would lick handily. In life, he would never accept defeat.

He is always the same sweet, sentimental, dynamic soul. Knowing everybody. "These are the days, Harry. Living for the day. Tomorrow for him never comes."

Harry Reichenbach has gone. But his memory will forever be inscribed upon the historical tablets of a great industry, to which he contributed his exceptional talents in modest part in building.

Sextette Being Built Up With Special Exploitation

Warner Bros. pictures will concentrate its exploitation powers to build up six players during the months ahead. They are: Marian Marsh, who played opposite John Barrymore in "Swaggie!"; Donald Cook, who has appeared in "Unfaithful" with Ruth Chatterton and in "The Public Enemy"; Polly Waters, working in "Smart Money" and "Night Nurse"; Mae Madison, who has a prominent role in Conrie Bennett's "Bought," and Janet Gordon, now being trained on the Warner lot.

FANCHON-MARCO ‘IDEAS’ REPLACING PUBLIX UNITS

A deal whereby Fanchon & Marco will produce stage shows for Publix houses is near actual signing. Its operation will eliminate Publix units. Fanchon & Marco have for years been producing Fanchon & Marco "ideas" for Fox houses and some Publix houses lately have booked the F. & M. shows.

B.I.P.-GAUMONT MAY JOIN IN AMERICAN PRODUCTION

London (By Cable) — Coincident with the forthcoming U.S. visit of John Maxwell, head of British International Pictures, it is reported that a deal is under consideration whereby B.I.P. and Gaumont would combine in American production. Following his arrival in New York, Maxwell is to go to Hollywood to survey conditions with a view to making feature pictures.

Circuits Negotiating Operating Deals Singly

Anticipating the traditional summer slump in the United States, practically all major circuits of national proportions are at work on theater operating exchange deals. Conferences now being held daily in New York reflect what is termed the greatest co-operative effort in the history of exhibition.

Deals being effected are between individual companies and not through a five-circuit pool. They cover situations in which one circuit is in competition with another.

Loew Theaters Will Maintain Price Scale, Schiller Declares

No price cutting is planned by the Loew circuit during the summer or subsequent months, stated E. A. Schiller to The Film Daily yesterday. He said that his organization has long made it a policy to operate with a popular admission scale.

Loew expansion, either through building or acquisition, has ceased for the moment at least. One house is under construction on East 72nd St., New York.

O'Toole Sees Benefits From Wiring Hotels

An optimistic angle on sound installations in hotels is taken by M. J. O'Toole, secretary of the M. P. T. O. A., who believes that such shows may indirectly benefit regularly-operated theaters. Advertising and publicity on behalf of these hotel theaters will react favorably for orthodox houses, he thinks. In addition, patrons will become aware of the improved presentation and atmosphere found in a regular theater as compared with that provided in these drop-ins.

ing. The following are the honorary ball bearers:

Burial will be in Cypress Hills, Brooklyn. Ministers from many Krass will officiate at the services.

Members of the Motion Picture Club, of which Reichenbach was a prominent member, will meet at the club at 1 P. M. and attend the funeral in a body.

Dallas—H. C. (Monty) Montgomery, who sold westerns for Pathe for about seven years, is back in the game selling the same type of product for Harry and Joe Silverman of the local Monogram Pictures office.

Kansas City—Jerry Zigmond, manager of the Royal, has been transferred to the Paramount in Denver with W. A. Eschebrocher, his assistant, being named manager.

Philadelphia—Mike Shuman has succeeded Jim Byrne at the Masterpiece Exchange.

Glendale, Tex.—A. C. Bray of the Greggs Amusement Co. opened the Ritz.

Eric, Pa.—Ernest Williams has been transferred to the management of the Strand, according to a Warner Bros. announcement. He formerly managed the Arms, now closed.

Dallas—Charter denoting capital stock of $20,000 has been filed by the Melrose Amusement Co., operating the Melrose, de luxe neighborhood house. Incorporators are P. G. Cameron, J. B. Rucker and Carl W. Rucker.

Philadelphia—Is Epstein has resigned from the United Theater Circuit here.

Kansas City—One of the early movie houses here, the Alamo at 34th and Main, is being converted into a garage.

Wilson, Pa.—John Schultz is now operating the Monarch theater on Friday and Saturday only.

Pittsburgh—J. G. Rainey of Pittsburgh Cinema Society has contracted for the distribution of the Majesty State Rights picture "Today.

Minneapolis—Harry Dryer, owner of the Savoy, has booked a girl-model show into several northern Michigan houses in connection with the showing of Tiffany’s "Damaged Love.

Philadelphia—Lillian Korson, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Louis "Top" Korson, recently was married to Ben Lichtenfeld.

Moundville, Va.—A. G. Constant has sold the Strand and Park theaters of this city to George Shaw. The Grand, another Constant house here, is dark.

Finleyville, Pa.—Olympia theater is closed except for Fridays and Saturdays, J. J. Zwick announces.

Salem, N. J.—The Fenwick of this city is now being handled by Iz Rapaport.

Atlantic City—Joe Murphy, lately of the Belmont, is now attached to the Garden Pier.

Philadelphia—Harry Dsembow has been promoted to city salesman for Warners.

Audubon, N. J.—The Century has been taken over by W. C. Hunt. General improvements are being made and the house will institute a film policy which calls for two changes a week, with vaudeville.

Kuipmont, Pa.—The lease on the Imperial has been renewed by the Imperial Amusement Co.

Chicago—Harold Wise is now assisting Saul Goldman in the booking department of Educational-Tiffany. Wise replaces Charlie Lindau, now city salesman for Tiffany-Wide World.

Detroit—Leonard Suskin is now covering the eastern part of the state for United Artists, with Harry Feldstein replacing Suskin at the branch office. Feldstein was transferred from Cleveland.

Two More Detroit Houses Joining Schreiber Fold

Detroit—As the result of a court decision in his favor, Jacob Schreiber will shortly become operator of the Colonial, Benjamin and Louis Cohen have been running the house under arrangement with the owners of the property.

Schreiber also has taken over the Majestic on Woodward Ave., under lease to C. W. Porter.

A-B Studio Active

Prague—Work on "Psichlavi" has been postponed at the A-B studio and a comedy, "Men in Off-Side," has been put in work by S. Innerman. O. Kminek has completed "The Camp of Young Dreams," and E. A. Lenger is directing "Darling of the Garrison."

- THINGS WE NEVER Thought Worth Mentioning Till Now... one that of Hollerword's safest economic assets is its dumb actors. We are referring to the animals that the regular actors, dogs, cats and birds that act in films, provide the luxuries of life for many families. A good police dog, with a menacing microphone bark, has earned as high as $200 a day for its owner... a goose earns $50 a day... and a freak such as a kinkajou can name his (or her) own price... but then there aren't many pix 'em made callin' for kinkajou. Rex Bailey, casting director at the Radio studio, can tell some funny stories about the schemes employed by animal owners to get their meal-tickets on the payroll... the owner of a South American honey bear moved into temporary quarters at the studio so he could properly exhibit the possibles of his pet under all conditions... every morning for two weeks a gal in costume paraded into Bailey's outer office and put her trained bear through its tricks... this magnificent effort resulted in two days work for brutus...

- THAT during the filming of "Women Love Once," Edward Goodman was much annoyed in his directing by a minor actor pest... this bug insisted on constantly interrupting to inform Goodman how he had done similar scenes in original stage productions... in fact there was no type of scene which this nagg couldn't duplicate from his false romantic... at the conclusion of the pix, the sap approached Eddie to ask what opus he expected to direct next... "I'm hoping to do the Greek drama, 'Oedipus Rex,'" sez Eddie... "Oh, why do you want to do anything in the ancient country..." So that no hard bug can tell me he appeared in the original cast, and show me how it oughter be done," snaps Eddie...

- THAT a lot of the film boys are giving Assabet Country Club a play these booful summer weeks... it is run by the finest kind of a host... Carl E. Erbstein... one of the publishers of Broadway mag... swimming, golfin', tennis, horseback ridin' over some of the finest scenes in Massachusetts... if you're around in the morning near Stow in that State, drop in on Carl and let him show you around... you'll be surprised...

- THAT 23 years ago Carl Lammle owned the Walnut theater in Milwaukee... his partner was Adolph Gartner, the joosh actor... Uncle Carl had a fling on Walnut Ave where he booked his own pix... single reelers... and showed 'em in the Walnut... Adolph sez Carl made a mistake by stickin' to the film biz... Adolph went back to the stage and avoided a lotta headaches...

- THAT there was a lotta excitement over at Warners Friday when the Bobby Jones autographed prize clubs arrived... they were won by Hiram D. Parks of the Memphs oval for turning in the largest number of contracts for the Bobby Jones golf series... someone casually remarked that he would like to borrow the clubs and dazzle his friends of the Westchester courses over the holiday... Grad Sears, custodian of the clubs, sez that it could only be done over his dead body, swearing that Parks was going to get his clubs intact... somebody diverted Sears' attention... the clubs mysteriously disappeared... but a fl bird whispered to us that they are reposing in the ossif of Charlie Einfeld... so now we hope we've stirred up another war...

- THAT "Ziz" Column's Popularity Contest gives all you muggs a break... now when you send in your contributions to the various columnists, you've gotta publish 'em for fear of losin' your vote... tee hee... what lousy kolly they ran all summer... the winner if Mister Kittel planned the Contest as a practical joke... on the columnists... that Don Hancock just missed a booking for a big circuit for his Magician Act by inches... his ice cream trousers were two inches too short.

EDWARD DEAN SULLIVAN, writer of crime stories has been signed by M-G-M to write "The Old Man," an original, Willard Mack, playwright and author terminated his contract with M-G-M last week. Jack Swenson, director has been signed by M-G-M to a five year contract.

Judith Wood has signed a new contract with Paramount as a featured actress. She is now working in "The Road to Reno."

Nelda Walker is another addition to the cast of "An American Tragedy." the Theodore Dreiser opus being fixed up by Paramount.

Hol E. Roach has been made honorary captain of the Culver City police department. Chief Smith conferred the appointment and presented the producer with a gold badge. William W. Wetherby, L. A. French and Roach executives were present when the honor was conferred.

Joan Peers holds a record for learning lines. She was given her lines Sunday night for "Eddie Cuts In." Reporting to the RKO-Pathé studio Monday morning, she had the lines, totaling more than 500 word memorandum. "I learned them at the stop signals on the way out," she told Al Rogell, the director.

Arline Judge has been assigned the leading feminine role in Rosco Ates' fourth Radio Pictures' comedy, "Use Your Noodle," according to Louis Brod, whose short subject is in pressario. Others who will play in support of Ates are Kitty Kelly, Charles Sullivan, Ethan Ladnier, William Wagner, Eddie Wallis, Walter Brennan, Eddie Baker, Earl Paggee and James Leon.

Commissioner White Finds Famous Players Dominating Dominion

Ottawa—That a combine exists in the motion picture industry in Canada within the meaning of the Combine Investigation Act, is the finding of Peter White, K. C., who was appointed last year to investigate the activities of certain distributors and exhibitors of motion pictures in Canada.

The report, issued today by Hon. Gideon Robertson, Minister of Labor, says that found to be the principal parties to the combine are: Famous Players Canadian Corp., the dominant company in the Canadian motion picture business; Paramount Publix Corp., its United States parent company; 13 companies distributing motion picture films in Canada; and Motion Picture Distributors & Exhibitors of Canada, an association of distributors referred to as the Cooper Organization.

are subsidiaries of Famous Players who also are listed as having participated in the operations as stated to have been committed. The combine has operated against the public interest, according to the Commissioner, by various improper methods adopted for securing control of motion pictures throughout Canada and for influencing the operations of film distributors, independent theater owners and others.

The report declares that Famous Players occupy either an exclusive or dominant position in practically all towns and cities in Canada having a population of 10,000 or more. The company controlled 267 of the 299 circuit theaters in Canada; also, Famous Players and its subsidiaries and affiliations are declared to have obtained practically complete control of the vaudeville theatrical business in Canada.

After pointing out the policy of procedure as cut off as enforced by Famous Players, Commissioner White reports that he is not prepared to find, on the evidence he has heard, that a certain amount of protection may not be of some advantage to the industry provided it is not used as a weapon to delay the subsequent runs to such an extent that the subsequent run homes are no longer entered in their business. He also declares his personal experience that most of the moving pictures shown could never become classics. He advocated more British films.

EDDIE B. COLLINS, character comic who created "Jiggs," "Major Hoople," etc., on the stage and for who many years starred in his own musical comedies, has been in the Paramount release.

Ben Amsterdam Plans Return as Philly Indie

Philadelphia—The next well-known addition to the "back to the theater business" movement is expected to be Ben Amsterdam, who recently led the Warner Bros. organization here. He is understood to be planning to take back several houses he sold to Warners some time ago.

Other indie operators who sold to major circuits in this territory are understood to be contemplating a return to the theater field.

French Import Limit Definitely Removed

Paris—Revival of the French import restrictions became a fact yesterday with the signing of the new bill by Maurice Petché, Undersecretary of State for Fine Arts. The situation is not materially changed from a practical standpoint, however, since Hollywood production of pictures is far below the French demand.

Walker Turns Stage Producer

Johnnie Walker, who last worked in "Enemies of the Law," has turned stage producer. His first show, "America Women Are," will have a tryout next week at the Savoy, Asbury Park.

Dr. Klein Sees Survival of Indies Vital to Prosperity

The logic of the "back to independents" movement as it applies to the return of small-town theaters to local operation is supported by a similar decentralization in other lines of industry, according to a radio address by Dr. Julius Klein, Assistant Secretary of Commerce. Speaking of "chain store" operation in contrast to the independent, Dr. Klein declares that the "chain" unit in a small town lacks some of the characteristics that help to "make the wheels (Continued on page 2)

New Photophone Device Records Radio Broadcasts

Washington — A device developed by RCA Photophone engineers which enables the recording of radio broadcasts in a small-town independent, namely, personal relations and special service.

“One of the things that small-town business is up against today is that it must endeavor in a measure to counteract or equalize the entertainment advantages of the city. That is being done—to a degree. Take the case of talking-pictures. When the silent movie was toppled abruptly from its pedestal, some prominent mourners said: ‘Just another thing to injure the life of the small town.’ This new machine and sound equipment is expensive. The local ‘ophouse or Bijou Dream can’t afford it. You’ll see more of our people flocking to Zenith to hear the velvuloids!”

But how is it working out? I was turning the pages yesterday of a big fat volume listing every picture theater in this country, with a notation as to whether it has been wired for sound. I could hardly believe my eyes. There were hundreds—thousands—of theaters showing talking-pictures in towns with as few as 700 people, or 1,200 or 1,800! That shows enterprise, determination, a will not to be left behind.”

Dr. Klein also quotes President Hoover in stating that “the survival of the independent is the foundation of American business.”

REBOUND
A CHARLES P. ROGERS PRODUCTION
With nine pictures under way on the Coast and three at the New York studio, Paramount production activity is at its highest peak for several months.

Productions just begun in Hollywood include: "Notorius," starring Cary Grant and Ingrid Bergman; "Twenty-Four Hours," featuring Clive Brook, Kay Francis and Regis Toomey; "Rich Man's Folly," starring George Brent, Loretta Young and John Litel; "The Man Tamer," starring Marlene Dietrich under the direction of Josef von Sternberg and a special production, as yet unnamed, which is being directed by Edward G. Robinson.

On July 20 work will start in Hollywood on "Ladies of the Big House," featuring Peggie Shanham; "The Marines Have Landed," featuring William Boyd, Charles Rogers, George Meeker, Stuart Erwin, and an untitled production featuring Paul Lukas.

July 27 will see the cameras gridding on "Stadium," a football story starring Richard Arleen and featuring Frances Dee.

Klein's New York headquarters at present are with the Wimbler Film Corp.

Another House for Knobloch
Ben Knobloch is adding a new house to his circuit. Theater is located at Larchmont and will have a capacity of 1,000.

Feild Building Second House
J. Feild, who operates the Howard at Howard Beach, L. I., is building a second house in Richmond Hills. It will seat 838 which is scheduled for opening in September.

COMING & GOING

DAVE BERSHON HAROLD ROBB and ROE LOWEY, all associated with the Hughes-Franklin interests, arrived in New York yesterday with FRED N. JACK, Dallas manager for Warner-F. N.

WINNIE LIGHTNER has returned to Hollywood after two weeks in New York.

D. J. MOUNTAIN is back from the coast.

OTTO LEDERER, who has appeared in Warner productions, has sailed for Vienna, where he will take part in a foreign production.

A LITTLE from "LOTS" by RALPH WILK

HOLLYWOOD

MAXINE LEWIS, who was last seen in New York in Earl Carroll's "Vanities," is making an appearance in George O'Brien's film in Hollywood and also doubling at two motion picture studios. She will return to New York early in August to start rehearsals in the new Ed Wynn show.

Gordon Kahn and Charles A. Logue have been added to Columbia's writing staff.

Albert Costi's clever work in "Just a Gigolo" won him another important role. He will play Andre, a Parisian sophisticate, in "This Modern Age," starring Jon Cramer, Costi, a former captain in the Austrian Army, has been successful in both talking and silent pictures. Among his outstanding roles are those in "Madame Satan," "Krone," "Jazz Heaven," and "Motte Carlo."

Our Passing Show: Ruben Mamoulian and John Halliday lunching; Al Green, fight enthusiast, motoring to Reno for the Zeedan-Barf fight; Jacques Tourneur reporting to Edward Dyer and Edith Garfash motoring to Culver City.

Nat Perring, who wrote much material for "Monkey Business," starring the four Marx Brothers, and who has been with M-G-M, has joined Louis Brock's staff at Radio Pictures, and is working on a Clark and McCullough story with William A. Drew and Johnny Grey.

Julian Johnson, who has resigned from Paramount, will go into other film activities, the identity of which is not yet ready to announce. During his 10 years with the company, he has filled important executive positions at the Hollywood, New York studios and the home office. He has been so busy that only once in the 10 years has he taken a vacation.

Ben Holmes is writing "Pigs in Clover," which will star "Chic" Sale. It will be produced by Louis Brock for release through Radio. Holmes also wrote "Cock a Doodle Doo" for Sale.

Ted von Ett, Sally Bainow, Martin Cordin, Vic DeLory, Ida Schnall and John Fonder are among the members of the film colony who participated in the annual Southern California doubles tournament at the Los Angeles Club.

Wallace Fox recently completed the direction of "Partners of the Trains," starring Tom Tyler. He also directed Bob Steele in "Near the Trail's End." Both pictures were made for Tamara Fox with Pathe before joining Carr. He is now free-lancing.

Charles Sturges is losing no time between pictures. As soon as he finishes the camera work on "Heaven on Earth," he will start photographing "The Spirit of Notre Dame." Russell Mack, who is directing "Heaven on Earth," will also direct the football pictures.

Through Leo Morrison, Morgan Galloway, youthful Broadway favorite, was signed by Radio for five years. Maude Eburne has been signed by M-G-M, with a five-year option on her services.

Clark Gable, a Caddis, O. boy, who has made good in Hollywood, is playing the role of "Steve Nelson," Wallace Beery's chief rival in "He's a Diver," at M-G-M. Gable's last role was opposite Greta Garbo in "Susa Lenox, Her Fall and Rise."

Ernst Lubitsch has returned from a two weeks' vacation, during which he motored to Big Pine, Lake Tahoe and other spots. His latest assignment is "The Man I Killed."

Howard Hughes has taken over almost all of the Metropolitan Studio facilities for the making of "Scareface," which goes in work tomorrow. Sixty-twove pictures have been constructed for this picture, which Howard Hawks will direct.

Stan Laurel of Laurel and Hardy has petitioned the court for permission to change his name from Arthur Stanley Jefferson to Stan Laurel.

Mark Sandrich is directing an untitled Clark and McCullough comedy, with pictures being produced by Louis Brock for release through Radio Pictures.

Rumors to the contrary, Ann Harding is not returning to the stage in the coming autumn as a member of the Henry Duffy stock company. In Los Angeles and San Francisco. This denial emanates from the RKO Pathé studios, where Miss Harding is under three-year contract.

Claude Fleming, world traveler and announcer in the Educational-Romantic-Journeys, happened on his career when he left Australia to nurse a broken heart and forget a beautiful blonde. His first step in this direction was to join the crew of the good ship "Betty," a name of the blonde. Just one of the ironies of life!

Ruth Chatterton's next Paramount picture is currently in various stages of production at the RKO Pathé studios. "Devotion," Ann Harding's next starring vehicle, is being directed by Robert Milton. In the supporting cast are Leslie Howard, O. P. Heggie, Olive Tell, Pat Somerset and others.

Also shooting is "Eddie Cuts In," starring Eddie Quillan, with Alveri Rogell directing. Cast, Ginger Rogers, Joan Peers, Robert Armstrong and Ralph Harford.

Director Yarnett is in the cutting room editing "The Mad Marriage," which will star Helen Twelve trees, with John Carrick and Ricardo Cortez in support. Bill Boyd's next starring vehicle, "The Big Gamble," also is in the cutting room.

Preparation of Polly Negri's first starring production, "A Woman Commands," is progressing rapidly, with shooting scheduled at an early date.

Three short comedies are in work. They include: "Accidents Will Happen," starring Benny Rubin; "Easy to Get," starring June MacCoy, Marion Shifling and Gertrude Short, and "New Poison," starring James Gleason.

New Fox Spokane House Will Open Next Month

Spokane—Fox West Coast will open the new Fox here on Aug. 15. It is announced. The building will cost $500,000, plus an additional $125,000 for equipment and furnishings.

8 PICTURES UNDER WAY AT RKO PATHE STUDIOS

Short Shots from New York Studios

By HARRY N. BLAIR

RAY FOSTER, Vitaphone cameraman, has returned from a motortrip to New Orleans and other points south to resume work at the Brooklyn plant.

Nothing new about Betty Garde who is featured in Paramount’s “Girl Habit.” While vacationing at a resort in New England he was discovered over a local station and, of course, gave her picture a nice break.

The latest aspirant for casting honors at Paramount’s New York studio is Sam, popular boosblacket, who uncovered a colored woman singer for “There’s Rhythm in the River,” a short subject, when dozens previously tested proved unsatisfactory. Sam’s “find” answers to the unusual name of Doris Rhuebottom and she has been signed by Samuel Goldwyn to play in the Lafayette theater in Harlem, where Nina Mae McKinney was also discovered.

Tom McNamara, famous cartoonist, acted as referee for the wresting match in “Meet the Winner,” a Paramount short featuring Sergei Kalinokoff, the bearded, brawny grappler, and his opponent, the Lafayette theater in Harlem, where Nina Mae McKinney was also discovered.

Paramount yesterday said that it has “no thought of not renewing Nancy Carroll’s contract,” as reported. The agreement runs into the Fall, it was pointed out.

Frank Tours, director of music at the Paramount New York studio, will supervise the scoring of “Personal Maid,” Nancy Carroll’s latest picture.

Cozine Sponsors Air Meet

A crowd of 40,000, including almost the entire Paramount New York studio personnel, attended the Air Meet held under the auspices of Montgomery Post 479, American Legion, at Flushing, Queens, New York. A total of 55 planes took part in the maneuvers, ranging from a 1910 “pusher” to the “Passatric,” the largest passenger craft in the U.S., holding 38 persons and baggage. The Army, Navy and Marines were represented with three planes each.

Among the well-known pilots participating were Casey Jones, Charley Boyer, Francis “Babe” Goodridge, Tommy Collins, Hap Money, Earl ‘Hearts,’ E. Voeller, Harry Hobblitz and Johnny ‘Mac’ Thompson. The air meet was also attended by a stunt man named Bill. A program was under the supervision of Arthur Cozine, Paramount studio manager and flying enthusiast, with the cooperation of the Curtiss Wright Flying Service. It was the biggest inter-state air meet held to date.

• • • REMEMBER WHEN you were a kid and you useter devour Horatio Alger’s “Work and Win” stories under the desk in the back of your grandpappy’s old ‘ole book’? And you read about those heroes rising from nothin’ to somethin’...and determined to do the same...so you went into the film biz...and so many of us have since risen from nothin’ to somethin’ less than nothin’...so we don’t believe in Horatio Alger and Santa Claus any more....nowadaze we read Walter Winchell’s “Work ‘em and Sin” series instead....and scan the column feverishly every morn to see if he’s gone and ruined us, too...which is all by way of leading up to the True Business Romance of Arthur W. Stebbins, “Insurance King” Extraordinary, a guy with a history that’s mock the Horatio Alger hero fiction for a long-disdired film...because it Really Happened! • • •

• • • ARTIE started his insurance career at the tender age of 14...but he developed into a tough imgug physically...and when he was 17 he went out and capped the New England leather eight championship...which he holds for three years...and took up professional boxing for a while in order to find some lugs who could give him a real battle......and one day Adolph Zukor set to him: “Artur, if you stick to the insurance business you are a real prospect in the ring...so why don’t you try boxing?”...so he gave up the ring...and went to New York and launched his insurance business...and he’s built the entire nation...proving that Mister Zukor is a prophet and that Artie is there with the Work and Win Punch......if he’s writing up a couple grand on the life of your pyramid-man, he’s got a good idea...or…you took Schenck policy for $5,000,000 he wrote some time ago...and when your ma-in-law kicks off, he’s the first to congratulate you...a business man with a heart.” • • •

• • • MISTER STEBBINS recalls insuring “The Prisoner of Zenda” negatives for Famous Players Films...the first big film insurance of its kind...in those days the insurance brokers called it “celluloid”......today his firm, Stebbins, Letterman & Gates, controls about 99 per cent of the motion picture business...there are only about five big film stars for whom Artie personally has not handled their insurance......on the list of over 360 prominent persons in the Youessay who carry over $5,000,000 of insurance, Artie has written up 11 per cent of ‘em......some go-getting guy! • • •

• • • SOME YEARS ago he insured Ben Turpin on a freak policy with Lloyds of London......to cover Ben in case his eyes went Straight again......about eight years ago when Artie started on his own, he made an intensive study of claim experience on accidents in motion picture theaters....figuring that the general increase in rates at that time from 10 to 20 cents a seat was excitoriant and unwarranted......so he figured out a plan, armed with all this data...he went out to Chi and spent a day with the general manager of one of the largest liability insurance companies......he found out that the mugg NEVER attended picture shows......Balaban & Katz had just opened their magnificent Chicago theater......so Artie rushed him there without delay......the genl manager was dumbfounded at the safety provisions provided......he was so conscience stricken that he wanted to double the premium’s rate 50 cents...... Artie, big hearted, sez: “Aw, 7 cents will be okay.”......and all around the B. & K. palace in Chi were nothing but shooting gallery dunks......... • • •

NEW BOOKS

On the Art and Business of Motion Pictures

This volume appears to have been intended for the amateur film-maker. The author sets down various theories of essential design and proceeds to illustrate them with a group of elementary scenarios. Aside from its interest and undoubted value to the non-professional cinematographer, the volume has many points of interest to anyone who is concerned with the largely unrealized possibilities of the cinema. Hacker goes into some involved and airy discussions, dealing with, art, angles and rhythm and texture of the cinema. There is a brief chapter on color films, and a section in which the relitivistic tenets are applied to the cinema, suggesting some fresh use for motion pictures as well as other arts. The sum of the volume is that “composition in motion” should be an integral part of cinematic art. The author advocates the metronome to establish simplified pace. However, except for basic time control, this would be obviously disadvantageous in treating any but a single motive. Although there is a wide disparity between some of Hacker’s theories and the actual possibilities, his book has many stimulating points.

Dick Grace has recorded a long list of stunts performed by him in the course of his roller coaster career as a stunt man in the films. The narrative is full of thrills and engrossing experiences. Movie fans will enjoy reading it. Dick Grace also accounts and finds out how certain daring episodes were performed and by whom, as well as whether anyone was injured or killed in the scene. Those in the industry also should get some keen enjoyment out of the volume.

the Hays Office. By maintaining a bureau of information to whom all producers would report their completed pictures, the organization would be in a position to warn producers of dangers ahead, declares Woods. For example, when a company reports another gangster picture being planned, it would be informed that 16 gangster films had already been reported, and this might be instrumental in checking too many pictures of the same kind.

An effective system to eliminate the duplication evil would do a great deal, it is stated, to remove the growing complaints of film patrons that too many screen stories follow the same pattern.

Publix Stage Shows

For 3 Warner Houses

Agreement under which Publix provides stage entertainment for three Warner houses in Philadelphia, Jersey City and Newark will be terminated soon, following completion of negotiations for Fanchon & Marco to book its units into Publix theaters. Publix theaters are playing stage shows in the following cities:

New Haven, New York, Brooklyn, Buffalo, Toronto, Detroit, Indianapolis, Toledo, St. Louis, Chicago (three houses) and Minneapolis.

In Denver the Publix house has been using Fanchon & Marco units for some time. Publix de luxe in Dallas, San Antonio, Houston and New Orleans, which formerly played Publix units will continue to operate without stage shows during the summer.

R. O. Flemm Resigns

Cleveland — R. O. Flemm, with Warner Bros. sales division for the past nine years, has resigned.

Capitol, Miami, Celebrates

Miami — In celebration of its fifth birthday, the Capitol held a celebration lasting eight days. On the first day, with admission reduced to a dime, 7,900 were admitted to the theater, which seats 1,200.

Cleveland—All RKO and Warner theaters in Ohio have booked the Stirling-Schmeling fight picture, which is being distributed by Standard Film Service, of which Nat Loun is general manager.

Roanoke, Va.—Publix has given up its plans for a new theater here. The three principal houses here are operated by Elmoore Heins, independent.

Cleveland — D. L. Schumann has closed the Marvel three days a week.

Denver — An attempt is to be made to pass a city ordinance that will bar traveling carnivals from Denver. Compliments lodged with the mayor prompted him to ask the city attorney to prepare a law to that effect. It will be introduced soon.

Drop in S. A. Money

Hits Film Sale Receipts

Because of the 30 per cent drop in South American money exchange, gross sales of Paramount pictures in Latin-American countries will necessarily have to be increased a like percentage in order to properly average sales quotas, according to George Welzer, Paramount's foreign department. According to Welzer, theater building is normal, with little dual-features in South American countries.

Language Still A Problem

In Talkers for S. America

Distribution of American made films in Latin-American countries will not take new life until some solution of presenting American stars in Spanish dialogue talkies is brought about, according to Joseph A. Hopenheber of Jacob Glucksmann Co. Acknowledging that the cost of foreign versions of feature productions suitable for distribution as far as realizing satisfactory net profits is concerned, Hopenheber added that the present system of presenting features with cut-in Spanish titles does not provide entirely satisfactory entertainment for the natives. A fair knowledge of Spanish will help American stars considerably, said Hopenheber, who likened the possible results in South America to the favorable reaction of American audiences to the accents of Maurice Chevalier.

The Lowdown on Phil's High Hat

Phil M. Daly, an alleged columnist drawing pay from this publication for dealing in wirecasses and such, has broken into the Big Name class. Through Zito's aggressive theatrical weekly, which is running a Broadway columnists' popularity contest, he's crashed into High Society along with the Winschells, the Hellingers, the Skolskys and all the other genuine word-mangers. Phil never was a modest guy and now he's so upstage we have to call him Mister. A vote for him is only encouraging a mug-lay off!

Details of Radio City Buildings

Still in Formative Stage, Says 'Roxy'

Original plans of Radio City, the Rockefeller project, will undergo considerable changes before the final plans are decided upon, S. L. ("Roxy") Rothafel told a Film Daily representative yesterday. The present Radio City activity consists of tearing down buildings and making way for the wonder city that will spring up," said Roxy. "It may be a year before we are ready to give out any publicity that will definitely establish anything in its connection. I am sailing for Europe late this month. With me will be...

Action By Canada on Combine

Limited to Imposing of Fine

Toronto—Provided the Canadian Government decides to act against American film companies, following submission of the Combines Investigation Act report, its only procedure under the Dominion law is to bring suit against them, with a fine as the sole penalty. The Canadian statutes at present permit but little latitude in proceeding against concerns in such cases and do not allow imposition of other restrictions. It is considered extremely unlikely here that the Dominion Government will act in the situation. Instead...

Efforts to Wipe Out Dime Admissions Would Meet Federal Opposition

Concerted efforts on the part of distributors to eradicate the 10-cent show evil, which is fast developing in several territories, is impossible as the Federal Government would unquestionably view such a move as illegal, in the opinion of distributor legal department heads interviewed.

U. A. Representatives
Will Hold Meet in Paris

A convention of United Artists representatives abroad, including Australia, will be held next month in Paris to discuss U. A.'s plans for production in Germany and Australia, as first reported exclusively in The Film Daily on July 2.

Arthur W. Kelly, vice-president and treasurer of U. A., left last night for Europe to make a preliminary survey of the situation, both in the production and distribution. He will be joined there by early next month by Joseph M. Schuch, Kelly will remain abroad about three months.

LETS GO, SHOW BUSINESS, with PARAMOUNT
WALL STREET may feel outraged at the very hint, but it nevertheless appears that a large slice of the audience for the current shortage of outstanding films may be traced to the doors of the bankers who have put a big dent in studio morale and efficiency by imposing uncompromising retrenchment orders.

In ordering drastic economies and cutbacks, as they are freely credited with having done, the kings of finance have at the same time shrugged off a good portion of the spirit and enthusiasm that play such a big part in the creation of box-office product. Directors, writers, supervisors, technicians and other workers can hardly be expected to put clear, unclouded thoughts into their work while a sword of Damocles is hanging over their heads.

Nor can advertising, exploitation and other outside merchandising, workers sprout very hot ideas when fear and uncertainty are buzzing through their nervous systems.

And demoralized sales forces are not likely to bring home bacon.

STUDIOS working under a depression atmosphere will turn out "depression pictures."

The country right now is flooded with "depression" merchandise of all sorts.

Stores advertise lower prices, but the goods sold at these prices are lower in quality.

They were made at low, "depression" cost.

High quality entails and commands its price, and the public as a whole is ready to pay fairly for quality—provided folks are made "quality conscious" instead of "bargain conscious."

Prosperity has small chance of returning until studios start reaching the public think in "reduced" terms.

And production of good pictures—which is NOT a Harry Ford proposition—depends largely upon more intelligent, understanding sympathy and liability from the bankers.

JOSEPH KEYES, present head of the Warner Bros. office in San Francisco, has resigned to accept the position of supervisor of the Warners branch office in Los Angeles.

JOHN PALMER, advertising manager of the company's New York branch office, has resigned to accept the position of advertising manager at the Sunshine studio in New York.

ALONG THE RADIO with PHIL DAILY

"WE HAVE to thank George Bilson of Warners-First Nash for giving us a knockdown to one of the most interesting and colorful exhibits of the season—Mister W. A. Keyes, owner of the first-run Victory in Dayton. Only a year ago we worked through the gorgeous reception room of Warners presided over by that fete Queen at the information desk—the girl with the ready smile and flashing eyes who has a knack of making you feel that a visit there is an Event...wish we could give you her name...have to ask George next time we see him...anyway, George collared us on the way in to say howdya to Eddie Pournaghen, the Siren of the Synopses on coming pin...and introduced Mister Keyes...who opened up and proved himself a rarin' bull on the Warner-First Nash market...they should put him on the publicity staff ex-officio...he spilled enough sales arguments on the company's product to fill their press books for the coming season...and then he started talking about himself...and his theater.

"MISTER KEYES has a house manager whose first name is Elmer...all the patrons call him Elmer...and he talks to all the first names, too...Elmer is in the lobby all the time during the evening performances...with strict instructions from W. A. to give the customers the lowdown on the show...if the feature is good, Elmer sez so in no uncertain terms...if it's lousy...well, Elmer just sez: "It's lousy."...and then adds quickly: "But aw, shucks, come on anyway. We've got a swell newsreel and two pin-up girls tonight!"...that's what they do at the Victory in Dayton...and we mean "Do Biz"...for they DO...with an unrefrigerated house in opposition to several swell refrigerated houses...and when they have a pix, they take the play away from the rest of the bunch...on Personality...plus Service...ya can't beat that Personal Touch of the home town boy manager who can call all the piddle by their First Names...

"W. A. KEYES handles his preview showings Differently...he invites a selected list of the best people...and the personal written notes given him make 'em feel that a very special honor is being conferred on 'em...and they Come...and after the preview, all the guests are taken out to a place where a swell feed is provided in a private dining room...on these blowouts W. A. spends about 60 smackers...and gets about 600 berries worth of word-of-mouth advertising...but he pulls these previews only when he has his pix...that his showman's sense assures him is gonna Click Big...

"PLAYING FOR the Kiddies has been reduced to a fine art by Mister Keyes...he throws a birthday party once a month...and if some kids develop three or four birthdays a year...the theater staff overlook it...sometimes boys well over the age limit will sneak in with knickerbocker make 'emsevles look younger...they overlook that, too...all of which is striving to show that W. A. Keyes is a hero Showman...and he admits that when he first started in pix as a theater man from the legit field, he was skeptical...but now the Pix are In His Blood...and while there remain independents like the gentleman from Dayton in the field, the film biz is going in the right direction...and eternally that the plums in the film theater end go to the gent with Initiative, Ideas and Progressiveness...of which Mister Keyes has Plenty..."

"WE COME to bat with one error chalked up against us on that story of the filming of "Determination" back in 1922...and we state that the publicity man who bought the states rights to the "epic"...it was Lee & Bradford...and they played safe, and didn't sink any real dough in it...and when the promoters pulled off a crooked game...the promoter...digging into some sked in his private life...so he beat it...but from "Determination" grew "The Leather-Pushers" series...using the 980 grand props...some paper...and sets...to start Reginald Denny on his career.

A Digest of Current Opinions

About Wasting Talent In Hollywood

ONE can name innumerable depressing instances of the wastage that goes on forever in Hollywood; thousands upon thousands of manuscripts, bought and paid for and now reposing hopelessly on shelves, and millions of feet of film, produced at vast expense and (because somebody blurred) never released to the public. But the most grievous wastes of all are those that aren't so easily tabulated or reckoned in terms of dollars and cents. For instance, there is Erich von Stroheim, one of the most original of figures in motion picture history who might be labelled with that misused term, "genius." Don Herold once defined genius as "an infinite capacity for giving pains," and Von Stroheim has undoubtedly contributed to that definition. He has cost his various employees intolerable sums in anguish as well as in money; but he also has demonstrated remarkable genius. There is not a movie director living who doesn't owe a debt of in calculable magnitude to the weird artist who made "Blind Husbands," "Greed," and "The Merry Widow." Why is no one being made of this colossal talent? The last important job that Von Stroheim has had was on "Ginger, A Swindled Picture," "Queen Kelly." He wrote it, directed it and acted in it, and it is one of the most exciting stories I have ever heard. It is now entombed in red ink, and Miss Swanson is appearing before the fans in that delicious fun fest, "Indiscretion."

Showman Courage In Time of Stress

IT is so easy to take the line of least resistance when we are under pressure, like drift along with the tide. Those who make up their minds that results must be bad because conditions are bad naturally get what they expect. If we don’t put up resistance we find our shoulders on the mat. Too many managers consider a “summer slump” inevitable. Such a state of mind broadcasts itself; it virtually informs all and sundry that only bad business is expected. It follows that they might just as well close up shop. The management which lets down during hard times confesses its surrender—and will be defeated. The outstanding Showman is the one who under the stress of obligations grits his teeth, pulls his belt in another notch and makes a more determined effort than when the going is good. There is no room for pessimism in this show business. The industry never needed hard hitting more than now. Present conditions are a challenge to progressive management, a clarion call for good men. We need spirit more than anything else. It is worth more than dollars; more than knowledge. “Courage is the master trait from which all other virtues rise.” Routine methods may seem good enough during peak business periods but not in a period like this. In football, under pressure, medical system and routine are abandoned for special tactics that will fo the opposition of the moment. And that’s what has made our heroes; every one of them rose with a special solution, a bright deed, an extra ounce of grit, when it was needed most, when defeat seemed closest.

• • • WE HAVE always been under the delusion that we were working for a Clean Rag……y’know, no skedaddle……no making an excuse for other stuffs. So wot was our grief to read what Boss Alcota wrote about the Lowdown on our Hight Hat on the front page yestiddy……we were pained beyonder words……not so much for ourself……but to think that a fine upstanding gent like the Boss had gone Winchelly but let us examine the facts in the case dispassionately……he see in reference to this Columnists’ Popularity Test in Zit’s that we are an “alleged columnist”……we deny it emphatically……we’re simply runnin’ an Obituary Column……for all the fellers we mention invariably die out the film biz……it’s got so that film gents refer to our column in shuddering whispers as "Phil Daily’s Curse"……or "The Daily Curse"……clucks call us up every day and beg us not to mention ‘em……when one exec is after another exec’s job, he gets us a special exclusive Publicity Publicity about such exec……that’s about all he’s got to do……in a week he moves into the dead gink’s ossify……now y’immerstan’, gells and guls, why we wear that High Hat and the Mourners’ Suit……please note also the illustration above that it isn’t really a Face……only a Blank Skull……and the Cross Bones is the egg sitting alongside us in the gondola……Giuseppe, you Wop, isn’t all the time…….a so would you be if you had to ride around all day with an Undertaker……so that’s why we predict confidently that we’re gonna be Buried under an avalanche of votes in Zit’s Columnist’s Pop Contest…….but if you must vote for us let’s Say It With Flowers……our favorites are aw-kidds……for we don’t want you muggs to get Serious at our Funeral……

• • • A NEW studio exec sat in on his first Big Conference out in Hollerword……and toward the close suddenly slumped in his chair and gasped for air……they fanned him and threw ice on him…….was recovered, and gasped: “It ain’t the Heat—it’s the Stupidity!”

• • • THE OTHER day a columnist referred to United Artists spending 30 grand on putting ritzy decorations in execs’ offices in these days of depression……the facts are the building owners assumed ALL expenses as an inducement to the company to keep from moving to more modern quarters……outside of that the story is substantially correct……

• • • MIKE O’TOOLE wants to correct a possible misunderstanding in his quoted reactions to the wiring of hotels in the extension of non-theatrical picture presentation……Mike truly hopes that it will serve to call attention to the better presentation of the pix in regularly equipped theaters…….Bad Gray, until recently a publicity chief at the Rialto, is now a member of the Fox advertising dept……Peter Weston, while on his recent vacation in Ireland, finished supper in his hotel room one evening, when one of the serving maids came in and sez: “Will I strip now, sir?”……and was he embarrassed……till he learned later that Irish hotel girls always talk about “stripping the table” when they mean clearing away the dishes.

• • • EDWARD L. (“EDDIE”) KLEIN, pioneer distributor of films in the foreign markets, leaves shortly to establish headquarters in Paris……Eddie will make periodical visits to Lunnon, Berlin and other continental capitals……he will represent American producers and distributors, and also arrange co-op production of multi-linguals on an international scale……and there is no gent we know better qualified for the Big Assignment than Our Eddie.

• • • LOOKS AS if the shortage in films is pretty tuff when they have to bring back some of the turnips now scheduled for the Soup Kitchen on Broadway……but where are they gonna find all the farmers……While on vacatio, Gordon White climbed one of the Canadian Rockies with his daughter, Betty Smith, after it was all over, Betty wanted to go see the Rockies……but Daddy had already gone bye-bye to hit the hay……and with this Bedtime Story, we leave you……Clean, as usual……

Big National Tie-up For “First Aid”

A TIE-UP of considerable magnitude has just been affected by Sono Art-World Wide on “First Aid,” the company’s latest release, based on the story of Mike Simmons, with the Barba-soul Shaving Cream Company. The terms of the deal call for a schedule of advertising in national magazines, aggregating over 9,000,000 circulation, and in which scenes from the film, and the title of the picture receive prominent display, with credit to the producer.

A further development of this tie-up involves the window and counter display hook-up with all Barbasol dealers.

The magazines involved are Saturday Evening Post, Liberty, Time, Life, National Geographic, The New Yorker, and a number of national magazines.

MOTHER'S MILLIONS

-- ride with UNIV.
“Clarence Darrow was named in ‘Variety’ recently as being America’s greatest one-man stage draw. If that draw can be added to what this film deserves on its own merits as one of the most complete nature films, it might mean healthy b.o. With some exploitation and ballyhoo, it looks like Universal could have done well with it at a bigger and more important Broadway house than the Cameo.” —Variety

“I enjoyed every moment of ‘The Mystery of Life.’ Whether you are a student of evolution, or whether you are just one of those who simply seek entertainment, you’ll find that ‘The Mystery of Life’ is one of those pictures that are worthy of seeing. In fact, I recommend it most highly.” —Al Sherman, N. Y. Telegraph

“A mystery picture without a last-reel solution or any kind of a plot ending, an interesting celluloid presentation worth a once over.” —Julia Shawell, N. Y. Evening Graphic “Worthwhile movie... entertaining as well as highly instructive, well worth anyone’s while. Mr. Darrow’s lecture is impressive as well as amusing... spices his talk with hard-bitten wit and fascinatingly pessimistic satire. ‘The Mystery of Life’ an entertainment unique in the annals of the screen.” —Regina Grewe, N. Y. American

“It is interesting and worth a visit...” —Marguerite Toscano, N. Y. Herald-Tribune

“The picture is excellent in the way it presents its material.” —N. Y. Times

If you want to know what the folks were doing a couple of million years ago, go and see it. ‘The Mystery of Life’ heartily recommended.” —Thornton Dolan, N. Y. Evening Post

“Darrow has a dry humor that enlivens and attracts the audience to him.” —Kate Cameron, N. Y. Daily News

INDIE EXHIBS SEE PICKUP
NEXT FALL, SAYS FEIST

“We have records showing that 160 more contracts have been signed by independent so far this selling season than during the same period last year,” said Feist. “Many exhibitors realize that by booking now they not only assure themselves of choice product, but help tremendously in improving general economic conditions. Double-featuring is not responsible for any increased business. The additional contracts mean careful and sensible buying by ‘class’ exhibitors regardless of the policy of their houses.”

Two More Fan Magazines
Cut Price to Ten Cents

Two more movie fan magazines are going on a 10-cent policy, “Screen Book,” which has been acquiring by the Fawcett Publications, which issues “Screen Play,” and will mark this book at a dime a copy. “Motion Picture Classic,” one of the old standbys, will effect the new rate in the fall, it is understood.

Harry Tighe in Simon Comedy

Harry Tighe, musical comedy and vaudeville headliner, as well as a picture player, has been engaged by Simple Simon Comedies for a featured role in their third two-reel comedy, which is to go into production next week. Edward Manson has also been engaged as director.

Next for Ufa Cosmopolitan

“Dolly Macht Karriere,” (“Dolly Gets Ahead”), has been scheduled to open at Ufa’s Cosmopolitan on July 17. Arthur Litvak is credited with the direction and the featured players are Dolly Haas, Alfred Abel, Kurt Gerson and Karl Krattweil.

Gary Cooper Replaces March

Gary Cooper will appear opposite Claudette Colbert in “Sal of Singapore,” which starts in about ten days at Paramount’s New York studio. Fredric March was originally assigned to the role. Cooper, who is now in Europe, is expected back next week and will immediately resume in rehearsals.

Spanish Amateur Film Shown

“El Lobo de Amor,” the first Spanish picture made locally with amateur actors for theatrical release, has been completed by Frank Mel- ford, director. The feature has been made for Manhattan Playhouses, Inc., and is being shown at the Spanish-American theater. Sam Browning is credited with the photography and Bill Hungerford and Tom Browne handled the sound recording.

Three More Ufa Houses

Berlin—Ufa has opened two new houses in the German provinces, the Ufa Palace in Goerlitz, Silesia, seating 1,000, and the Ufa Palace in Breslau, Silesia, seating a capacity of 1,500. A third house of more than 1,000 capacity is under construction in Pfreub, Badenia.

M-G-M Lion to Tour Again

In the M-G-M trade mark lion, will soon go on another world tour which will occupy about two years. He is now in a Philadelphia zoo in the charge of his trainer, Capt. Volney Peiffer, who will accompany him. Trip is under supervision of Bill Fer- guson, M-G-M exploitation director.

HOLLYWOOD FLASHES

By RALPH WILK

RKO PATHE has bought “Lady with a Past,” by Harriet Henry, as a vehicle for one of its feminine stars next season, Charles R. Rogers will decide later who is to play the title role.

Harold Schwartz was assigned dir. on an idea which he revealed to the fourth Rosco Ate comedy for Radio Pictures. Schwartz is collaborating with Thomas Lemon on a story which will present the starring comic in double roles. Lou Brock is supervising.

Irvig Pichel, recently signed by Paramount as an actor-director, but whose talents have been devoted pri- marily to making as a full-rigged film director in collaboration with Slavko Vorkapich on “The Man Who Paints.” He is co-directing the production, Pichel will play the bizarre title role in Hugh Walpole’s mystery story as Paramount’s first step in grooming him for possible stardom. Charles Rogers will be featured with him.

The second of six Clark and McCulloch comedies is in work at the Radio Pictures studio, with Jim Fin- layson, Charles Hall, Walter Bren- nan and Phil Dunham added to the cast. Tentative title is “Hard to Get,” with Mark Sandrich directing under the supervision of Louis Brooke.

Richard Cromwell has been signed for the leading male role in Columbia’s “Then Hell Broke Looses.” The role was assigned actual filming of his newest Paramount production, “The Road to Reno.” He has also been signed by RKO Pathe for a recently signed new contract.

John Farrow, RKO Pathe scenarist, is writing an original story based on an idea which he revealed to his chief, Charles R. Rogers. It will serve as a starring vehicle for Constance Bennett.

Anderson Lawler, young New York leading man who played opposite Peggy Shannon in her new picture, has been signed by Para- mount to portray an important role opposite her again, this time on the stage, in a play to be done, which also features Lilyan Tashman and Charles Rogers.

Humphrey Pearson has been assigned the task of doing the screen adaptation and dialogue for Vincent Lawrence’s play, “Sour Grapes,” for Paramount, with the stake held by John Halliday and Lynn Shores, Mary Astor, Jill Esmond, Laurence Olivier, John Halliday, Edward Everett Horton and Noel Francis have been announced for the cast.

Evelyn Knapp, who has been in the Hollywood Hospital in a plaster cast as the result of her recent fall, will be able to leave the hospital this week. She has been signed to a new long term contract by Warner and has been definitely assigned to play the leading feminine role in “Pleasure First,” as will Janet Powell.

Hale Hamilton has been cast in the leading male role opposite Alice White in the two-reel comedy, “The Monster Kills,” now in production at Tiffany. Kenneth Thomson also has an important part in the picture.

Elda Vokel, Rosalie Roy, Douglas Corrigan and Donald Dillaway have been added to the cast of “She Wants Willy-Willy,” which is ready to go into production at Fox under the direction of John Blystone.

Linda Watkins will appear in “The Great Game,” a short film, for Union Pictures, one of the larger independent producers in this story. Dunn also will play in “Over the Hill.” Other re- cent additions to the cast include Olisa Howard and William Pawley.

Glenn Tryon believes that the best training ground for any picture com- edians lies in the two-reel comedy production field. Tryon, although he play comic roles on the stage before he entered picture, got his first training on the Hal Roach lot, mak- ing two-reelers. From Roach he went to Universal, where he was starred in “Skinner’s Dres Suit,” “The King of Jazz” and other fea- tures.

Ned Perrin, Johnny Grey and William Drew have combined their talents on the story and dialogue for the next Clark and McCulloch short to be filmed under Lou Brock’s supervision for Radio Pictures.

George Barbour, Paramount’s newest contract player, has arrived in Hollywood from New York to make his western film debut as one of the leading characters in “24 Hours.”

Balaban Predicts Good Times Starting July 25

Turn of Tide Expected to Come With Arrival of New Product

Better times, as far as the theaters are concerned, will start in about July 25, says A. J. Balaban of Balaban & Katz, in the current "Publix Opinion." Balaban says he bases his forecast on precedent, which has proven that when the theaters are offering pictures that the public wants to see, the public will turn out. He points out that starting with the latter part of this month, distributors will begin releasing new season's product, and "because of the lineup of pictures which I see before me after that date I cannot help but feel that better times are immediately ahead of us."

HARRY KATZ NOW HANDLING PUBLIX ILL.-IND. HOUSES

Harry Katz is now handling the Publix houses in Illinois and Indiana, formerly in the territory of Arthur Mayer. Utah and Idaho have been added to the remaining territory of which Mayer is division director.

Louis Schneider Heads Peerless Productions

Louis Schneider of Manhattan Playhouses and M & S Circuit, has been elected president of Peerless Productions, Inc., which has a schedule calling for 24 features. Other officers of the company are: Jack Bellman, vice-president; Adolph Pollak, secretary and general manager; Sam Friedman, treasurer.

Advance Booking Cut By Product Shortage

Indicative of the shortage of features is the fact that bookings for the Paramount New York, which generally are tentatively set for two months ahead, now only cover between two and four weeks.

Pajama Policy Clicks

Albert L. Greene, manager of the Tuxedo at Brighton Beach, crashed the metropolitan papers, including editorial columns, with his hit-waether stunt of dressing up the theater staff in pajamas and admitting patrons in similar attire. Men were admitted free. So far an average of 300 pajama-clad adults and kids have attended the theater daily. The number would be greater, Greene says, only lots of the families in Brighton sleep in their underwear.

Investment Firm Sees Television As Boost for Theater Amusements

Television will be an aid rather than a detriment to the theaters and amusement stocks, it is stated by W. F. Goulet & Co., Inc., investment house specializing in television securities, in a brochure entitled "Theaters vs. Television," put out with a view to pluging the sale of television stocks.

"Before very long, television will come into its own," the booklet states. "By coming into its own, it means that television will be released. Exactly why it has been held in check is hard to state. Perhaps it is that television could not fit into the scheme of things. Perhaps it stepped on the corns of some big industry, but the fact remains that it has been hampered rather than helped."

Conferring With Gov't On Standard Contract

Washington—In an effort to convince the Department of Justice that exhibitors want the new standard exhibition contract placed in operation, President M. A. Lightman of the M.P.T.O.A. on Saturday will confer with John Lord O'Brien. Assurance that Ohio theater men are for the contract is being conveyed by Pete Wood, business manager of the M.P.T.O. of Ohio, who is attending the conference. Other exhibitor leaders may also be called in.

Distributors from time to time have stated that they would put the contract, which they helped to draft last year, into effect providing they were assured that the Government would not throw it out as violating the spirit of the Thacker decisions.

Determination of the Government to prevent inter-control combinations among major film companies is indicated in a supplementary decree signed Friday by Federal Judge John C. Knox in the U. S. Defeat of the block booking system has been achieved automatically by prevailing economic conditions in the industry, it is indicated by William Cutts, Portland, Ore., exhibitor and member of the Allied States Ass'n. "Block booking as a national institution ceased to exist last season," says Cutts, in discussing exhibitor problems in the current issue of Allied's official publication. Admitting that in any series of pictures there is bound to be some natural "clucks," Fox Theaters executives have urged house managers to do the best they can by surrounding them with a strong supporting program, rather than spending extra money to excel poor product and thereby permitting it to compete with better grade pictures. This applies to blocks of advertising which plug three or four pictures.

Advertising of attractions too far in advance is discouraged by Fox Theater officials, who advocate selling today's show today. When two or more pictures are expected in a block, they fight each other for attention, it is stated, and work to the detriment of the theater.

Atlast Studios Producing Feature and Four Shorts

Atlast Sound Recording Studios will make a feature based on an Arabian story for Arabian Pictures Corp. The studio is also scheduled to make four one-reel comedies for C. 1. Chure and titled "Fooled Again," "Hero in Overalls," "Just in Time" and "You'll Be Surprised."

Mystery of Life" Building Up

Starting at the Cameo on Friday of last week with a gross of $666, the Universal release, "Mystery of Life," produced in conjunction with Clarence Darrow, wound up its first week with $790 on the day and a total gross of $4,927 for the week. The picture is being held for a run at the Cameo. Meanwhile, Darrow is waging a battle against the censors for deleting some of the evolution scenes.

"Seed" in Los Angeles Run

West Coast Bureaus, THE FILM DAILY Los Angeles—After a five weeks at the Carthay Circle at $1.50 a seat, Universal's "Seed" is now in its fifth week at regular prices at the Orpheum.

Dropping Sophisticated Roles

Ina Claire will not appear in "The Greeks Had a Word for It," as originally scheduled, it was announced by Sam Goldwyn on Friday. Instead, Miss Claire, following her performance in "Rebound," will be given emotional and dramatic roles, rather than those of sophisticated comedy, it was stated.

MPTO of Ohio Preparing Fight on Next Tar Drive

Columbus—Another attempt to tax admissions in this state is expected to be made at a special session of the legislature in January, when it will be found that the recently inaugurated tax on cigarettes will fall short of the required revenues. In anticipation of this move, Business Manager P. J. Wood of the M.P.T.O. of Ohio has sent out a call to exhibitors to kick in with support to enable the association to fight any attacked legislation that would burden the theaters.

Virginia Censor Rejests "Conferences of Co-Ed"

Richmond—"Conferences of a Co-Ed" has been rejected in its entirety by the state board of motion picture censors on the ground that it would have a harmful effect on state co-educational institutions.

Two More Safes Stolen

Racine, Wis.—Burglars entered the Delavan and the Plaza in Burlington and removed the safes from both theaters. They escaped with receipts totaling $1,000 at Delavan and approximately $600 at Burlington.

Fox's Wisconsin Robbed

Milwaukee—Len J. Howard, manager of Fox's Wisconsin, was held up in his office by a lone bandit who robbed of $400 of the theater's receipts. The bandit overlooked both, and $6,000 in the theater vault.

Publix House Robbed of $985

Greely, Colo.—The Sterling Publix theater was robbed of $985 when robbers forced their way into the office and opened the safe. Manager T. W. Thompson was in Denver at the time.

Play Up Your Short Comedies

THE American public want to laugh now more than ever; they are also avid for the "something new in entertainment." So says Mr. E. W. Hammons, president of Educational Film Exchanges, Inc. Right you are, Mr. Hammons. There has been too much of the drab and heavy stuff. Feature films of late and those exhibitors going in for double featuring have just doubled the dose instead of balancing the bill with something in the lighter vein. There's a thought in this, not new by any means—simply forgotten—that will provide theaters with all the attractiveness that double feature programs seem to offer and, more than likely, twice as magnetic at the box-office.

The main value of the double feature first flush was that it enabled the exhibitor to advertise two attractions instead of one. If two well-known stars were featured separately in the same show, the audience had a double advertising value there. But the difficulty of balancing two features on one program as a regular thing soon kills the value such a program may have at the beginning. Exhibitors have long been guilty of negligence in exploiting to the full and thus deriving the full benefit afforded by the short subjects. In the featured roles of the majority of the two-reel comedies are names that have drawing value. Giving more play to the "added attractions" in newspaper advertising, in the lobby, on the screen and on the marquee will undoubtedly have an attraction value that will exceed most any double feature bill. What's more it has a permanent value at the box-office. Don't hide the comedies on your programs under the guise of "added attractions." Sell them for what they're worth; sell their entertainment merits and you'll fill a lot of empty seats and please a lot of customers.

Took a Gamble And Put It Over

WHEN Lee Goldberg became so impressed with "Father's Son" that he determined to play it up heavily, sent out letters by the hundred in Henderson in which he asked that the readers attend the showing and added that if the picture was not liked the money spent would be refunded on presentation of the letter at the box-office. The wiseacres said that every deadbeat in Henderson would see "Father's Son" for nothing as a dollar after each showing there would be a line of people a block long at the box-office holding letters in their hands, and asking for their money. Goldberg had faith in the picture and also in the people. The faith was justified. Large audiences saw the picture without one person asking for the return of his money.

Goldwyn Finishes Two; Four Others Under Way

Samuel Goldwyn last week completed two of his eight features on the 1931-32 schedule. Ronald Colman wound up in "The Unholy Garden," which is now in the cutting room, and Eddie Cantor finished his "Palmy Days." Both are listed for late August or early September showing in New York.

Goldwyn now has one picture in work, King Vidor's picturization of the Elmer Rice play, "Street Scene." Estelle Taylor continues her association with Goldwyn from the Colman picture. "The Unholy Garden," to "Street Scene," in which Sylvia Sidney and William Collier, Jr., have the leading roles.

"The Greeks Had a Word for It," with Ina Claire, Carole Lombard and Joan Blondell, will start soon, while "Tonight or Never," awaits the return of Gloria Swanson from Paris. Plans are already under way for Ronald Colman in "Arrowsmith," based on the Sinclair Lewis novel. Sidney Howard is adapting it and John Ford will direct.

Two Monogram Pictures Going Into Production

Trem Carr, production chief for Monogram Pictures, is starting work on "Mother and Son," with Clara Kimball Young in the leading role. Supporting cast includes Bruce Warren, Thomas A. Carter, Milfred Golden, John Elliott, Gordon Wood, Ernest Hilliard and Georgia French. J. P. McCarthy directing Charles "Buddy" Post, who has been with the Carr organization a long time as production manager, will handle production work on "Mother and Son." The story and dialogue are by Welden Totman.

Another Monogram western will go into production about the first of the week. It is "The Montana Kid" and stars Bill Cody and Andy Shuford. This is the fifth release on the Monogram program.

W. Ray Johnston, president of Monogram, is at present on the coast.

"Twenty-Four Hours" in Work

"Twenty-Four Hours," screen version of Louis Bromfield's novel, has gone into production at the Paramount studios under the direction of Marion Gering. Those already assigned to principal roles include Clive Brook, Ray Francis, Miriam Hopkins, Regis Toomey, George Barbier, Minor Watson, Wade Boteler, Charles Crenna, Walter Abel and Adrienne Ames.

"Twenty-Four Hours" has been adapted to the screen by Louis Weitzenkorn.

Lipton Starts Trio of Comedies

Three two-reel comedies have been placed in work by Lew Lipton, supervisor of comedy production at RKO Pathé. They include "Easy to Get," in the Gay Girls series; Bennett Rubin in "Accidents Will Happen," and James Gleason in "Slow Poison," with Mae Busch, Harry Cooper and others.

Ann Harding Titles Her Next

Ann Harding, RKO Pathé star, herself is responsible for the naming of "Alias Mrs. Halifax," her next film play which was adapted from a Patricia Wentworth novel. Playing opposite Miss Harding is Leslie Howard.

Anita Louise in Radio Film

Finding the search for an ingenue to support Phillips Lord, the "Set Parker" of broadcast fame, Radio Pictures has signed Anita Louise for the role. The juvenile star was borrowed from RKO Pathé studios, to whom she is under contract.

Joan Crawford's Next
By Henri Bernstein

Joan Crawford's next vehicle under the M-G-M banner will be the original story which Henri Bernstein, the French playwright, has been commissioned to write. Bernstein is now working on the script in Paris.

"Larceny Lane" Almost Finished

"Larceny Lane," now in production at the Warner Bros. studios, will be completed in another week or ten days. Roy Del Ruth is directing this production, in which James Cagney and Joan Blondell have the two featured roles, with Louis Calhern, Edward Nugent, Noel Francis, Guy Kibbee, Ray Milland, Polly Walters, Vera Lewis and others in support.

John Darrow with Dix

John Darrow, Radio Pictures contract player, has been assigned the juvenile lead in "Secret Service," which will star Richard Dix. "Secret Service" will go into production July 15. The story is based on the famous Civil War play by William Gillette.

Kitty Kelly for "Girl Crazy"

Kitty Kelly has been assigned by Radio Pictures to the George Gershwin musical, "Girl Crazy," in which Bert Wheeler and Robert Woolsey will be co-starred upon their return from abroad.

HOLLYWOOD

SPEAKING of endurance tests, another record is brought to light that of the long distance friction character of the world. Some years ago the New York "Tribune" wrote an a editorial on the great American office boy. One day a story was created by Seward Ford, commenting on his ability to hold attention for a period extending over 10 years. Following that "Torchy" won screen fame in the silent comedies of that name, procused by C. C. Burr.

Our Passing Show: Harry Cohn, very natty in new yachting togs, hurying away to board the "Jobells," his new yacht: Jack Holt referreeing army polo games at San Francisco;
Constance Cummings, who has joined Laurel Canyon residents, cavoring on the beach at Malibu; J. J. Robbins of New York and Abe Meyer at "Oh, Boy."

Marion Shilling has been selected to play the feminine lead opposite Tom Keene in "Sandown Trail," the first of RKO Pathe's westerns.

Dorothy Peterson will play two important roles in forthcoming Fox pictures. One is in "Skyline" with Thomas Meighan, Myrna Loy, Hardie Albright and Maureen O'Sullivan. The other is in "She Wanted a Millionaire" with Joan Bennett, Spencer Tracy, Janes Kirkwood, Una
Merkel and Humphrey Bogart.

Harry Sweet is directing "Camping Out," an RKO Pathe comedy short, which will star Edgar Kennedy. In the cast are Walter Collett, Billy Eugene and Dot Farley.

Caryl Lincoln has been cast by Paramount in "The Road to Reno."

Douglas Walton has been added to the cast of Fox's "Sob Sister," in which Linda Watkins will play the title role.

EASTERN STUDIO ACTIVITIES

By HARRY N. BLAIR

ARTHUR HURLEY, who has turned out so many first rate shorts for Warner Vitaphone, will direct the entire series of 12 two-reel
S. S. Van Dine Detective Mystery pictures, the first of which is enti-titled "The Clyde Mystery." Hurley has been working on the Floyd Gibbons series for the Van Beuren Corp.

Maurice Chevalier will pass up
The New York studio upon his return from Europe in the fall. His next picture, by Vicki Baum, will be made in Hollywood.

Tallulah Bankhead's next picture has been definitely set for the New York studio. It will probably be entitled "The Woman in the Case," made by Paramount as a silent film many years ago. It was also produced on the London stage under the title, "Find The Woman!"

Eddie Foy, Jr., is the latest performer signed to star in one of the series of 12 two-reel "Big Star" comedies which Vitaphone is planing to produce. Others signed by Sam Saz for these series are Harry Richman, Phil Baker and Joe and William Mandel.

Joe Ruttenberg is chief cameraman on D. W. Griffith's feature, "The Struggle" now in production at the Audio Cinema studio. Complete crew comprises Nick Rogalli, Richard Her-ter, William Paul Rogalli and Frank Kirby, the latter in charge of still photography.

"A Put Up Job," the first of the four two-reel comedies which Rex Dale and George K. Arthur are making for Paramount, has been completed. Their next will be "The Lease Breakers." Howard Deitz will direct the entire series.

The little cottage set used in "My Sis" is so like the English country home of Mrs. Elizabeth Lockee, Tallulah Bankhead's companion-secretary, that she immediately became homesick and is going back to London next week for a visit while Tallulah vacations in the South.

An excellent sound job may be expected when D. W. Griffith's current feature production is finally shown.
All recording is under the supervision of Joe W. Coffman, one of the leading authorities on sound reproduction.

Casey Robinson and his bride, Aud-ray Dale, are honeymooning in a 5th St. penthouse instead of Bermuda, as planned, Paramount's crowded shorts department was the reason he was back on the job the very next day after the ceremony.

Charles Levine is head camera-m an on the Bud Pollard series of features now in production at the Metropolitan studio, Fort Lee. The first, based on "Alice in Wonderland," has already been completed.

"Lucky Thirteenth" will be the title of the first two-reeler to be made at the Brooklyn Vitaphone studio by Thelma White and Fanny Watson, comprising the "Girl Friends" team.
Production will be resumed July 24 with "The Clyde Mystery," first of the S. S. Van Dine mystery pictures, set to follow.

Phillip Scheib is in charge of all musical effects on D. W. Griffith's
"The Struggle"; Ed. Scanlon is su-ervising makeup; Alice Hunter is head lighting script, and of course,
Richard Blaydon is assistant to Griffith.

Elizabeth North of Paramount's short subject department has joined the summer colony at New Hope, Pa., rival of Cape Cod as an artist's haven... Chick Kirk, art director, is another Paramounter who weekdends there.

Among the many former Paramounters on the Griffith picture is Johnny Murphy, electrician.

J. T. Hargrave Pawson, who reccently came here from London to become acquainted with the American theater, found himself engaged as technical director by one of the inde-dependent companies when it was learned that he is a noted authority on the steeplechase. Pawson will also play a part in the picture, having appeared on the English stage in "The First Mrs. Frazer," and other plays.

Berton Churchill, well known stage character actor, who recently completed a prominent part in "Secrets of a Secretary," has been engaged by Paramount for a prominent role in "My Sin," the second Tallulah Bankhead film, now being directed by George Abbott.

Automatic Mechanism Handles Curtains, Doors, Fire Screens

Cambridge, Mass.—Earle F. Allen of this city is the inventor of an improved mechanism for raising and lowering theater curtains, fire screens, drops, door covers, etc., the object of which is to provide means of simultaneously raising or lowering a number of theater curtains or other articles as enumerated.

The apparatus includes a shaft rotatable at all times in one direction and a curtain moving unit carried by the shaft whereby the curtains are raised or lowered without any change in the direction of rotation of the shaft, and means whereby one curtain can be raised at the same time that another curtain can be lowered. The control unit comprises a pair of upward权利 provided with anti-friction bearings upon which the shaft rests, so that the shaft is made up of a plurality of sections united by couplings.

The inventor, who has devised other patented apparatus of the same type, has assigned his rights in the improved device to Allen-Drew Co., a Massachusetts corporation.

Loew's Astor Adopts New Metal Mesh Screen

A new flat aluminum metal mesh screen, produced by the Whiting & Davis Company of Plainville, Mass., and adopted for screen use exclusively by the Raven Screen Corp. of New York, has been installed at the Astor, New York, operated by Loew's, Inc.

Due to its durability, this new screen, when once installed, is said to become a permanent fixture, eliminating the necessity of taking it down periodically for cleaning, repairs or replacement.

Other important features of this new screen, it is said, are that it is made in one single sheet without seams, can be rolled for shipment and is extremely easy to handle due to its strength and light weight. It will hang absolutely smooth, and the texture of its surface is so arranged that the picture appears to have the same depth and tone from every part of the house without any “fade-out” even from the severest viewing angle. In addition to this, it has a high light reflection value and is almost perfect in its distribution characteristics, the company declares.

Move to New Quarters

The Frank Adam Electric Co., manufacturers of a complete line of panel boards, cabinets, fan hangars, floor boxes and other items, is now located in its new quarters at 419 West 54th St., New York. Fred G. Kraut, manager, remains in charge.

ELECTRO-DYNAMIC UNIT MARKETED BY FOX ENG. CO.

Toledo—An electro-dynamic unit consisting of a minimum number of parts, making for simplicity and foolproof operation, yet said to faithfully reproduce both the oral and musical range in equally exact values, has been developed and is being marketed by the Fox Engineering Co. of this city.

The new device, it is declared, can be quickly taken apart or assembled, by means of one large master screw, and an interchangeable “voice coil cartridge” may be easily substituted if ever necessary without exchanging an entire unit.

The outer bowl of the unit is stamped from one piece of heavy special alloy. In this bowl rests the “voice coil” for supplying the magnetic energy required. This existing energy of six volts can be supplied either with an ordinary six volt storage battery or a specially designed dry rectifier.

The new unit is designed to function in all kinds of weather and climatic conditions, the company claims.

State Buys Sound Equipment

San Francisco.—James G. Riley, National Theater Supply branch manager, on returning from Sacramento announced having sold to the State of California complete Simplex projectors with Cinophor lenses and Peerless Mirror reflecting arc lamps for 13 state institutions. The state also purchased Western Electric Sound System to go with these Simplex projectors in all 13 points, Riley states.

NEW THEATERS

Points and Suggestions

THE use of posters is most essential in attracting the attention of the passersby, but in the case of large posters the first and most vital consideration to be satisfied is clarity. In these days of fast road and rail traffic, the traveler cannot stop to read—his brain must receive a message like a photographic plate. The theme of the theater—the title of the film, any outstanding star—these items all most literally leap from the poster into the mind of the swiftly moving public. Keep your posters clear and distinct, having as little reading matter as possible. You will find they are more effective.

Now is a good time to have your furnace inspected, cleaned and necessary repairs made. There may be a lot more wrong with it than you think. Check it over now and you will give you plenty of time for having it put in the best of working condition.

If your sound reproduction is not what you think it should be and you are inclined to believe that your equipment is at fault, before going to the heavy expense of changing over your talking picture apparatus it would be a wise move on your part to secure an acoustic report upon the theater so as to see whether it is the theater or the apparatus that is at fault.

New Sound Head Device

A new AC operated sound-on-film for two projectors has been placed on the market by the Service On Sound Corp., of New York. The equipment is said to consist of two sound heads of standard make complete with photo electric cells, optical systems, exciter lamps, lamp mounts, motor brackets and AC power supply containing rader and photocell balancers. No motor generators or batteries of any kind are used, the company claims.

Kinotophone Ruby Markets Portable Sound Equipment

Kinotophone sound-on-film portable projector, operating on either AC or DC current built on and including all the features of the Holmes projector, for portable or permanent installations in auditoriums seating up to 800, with use of an auxiliary speaker adaptable for an additional 500 of audience, and said to be the only straight feed, shaft driven projection machine to be made portable, has been placed on demonstration and is now being marketed by the Kinotophone-Ruby Co. of 727 Seventh Ave., New York.

Kinotophone is equipped with a dual control amplifier of a new design which readily fades the start of one reel into the end of the reel finished, gives a picture 9 by 12 feet from any distance up to 84 feet from the screen and the unit as a whole is factory-perfected, the company claims.

Ashcraft Sales on Increase

Los Angeles — Sales of Ashcraft lamps are on the increase, according to an announcement made by the Ashcraft Automatic Arc Co. of this city. Among recent sales reported by the company were two of its Super High intensity lamps, two C-70 High intensity reflector lamps and two Air Blast High Lows.

One of the Super Highs was installed in the Arcades in their new installations, the other to Continental Accessories. Both of the C-70’s were taken by the Western Theatrical Equipment, while the National Theater Supply was the purchaser of the Air Blast High Lows.

Reel End Alarm

Chicago — A reel end alarm, that is said to be absolutely positive in operation and can be adjusted to ring at any point desired, preventing “white creens” and mishandling reels, is being offered by E. W. Hulet Co., Inc., Company of this city.

Alterations

Concord, Cal. — New equipment, including reflector lamps, is being installed and general improvements being made at the Majestic.

Fresno, Cal. — Gerald Hardy will open the Liberty here under the name of the Fresno after improvements and the installation of new equipment.

Hazleton, Pa. — Alterations and improvements are being made at the White Eagle Hall.

Hopewell, Va. — A new corporation just chartered and headed by Walter J. Coots, has taken over the Broadway, and the house, under the name of the Beacon, is to be redecorated and new equipment installed.

Youngstown, O. — Alterations and general improvements are to be made at the Park.

Cleveland — Alterations and improvements, including a new marquee, are being made at the Knickerbocker.

Dublin, Mo. — John Peck, Jr., manager of the Rose, has announced that his company has purchased a building for remodeling into a modern motion picture house.

Erpi Adopts Inspection Machines

The new film inspection and cleaning machine recently announced by the Film Inspection Machine Co. of New York has been adopted by Electrical Research Products, according to an announcement made by H. B. Coles, general manager of the former company. The new device, which automatically inspects and cleans films at the rate of 300 feet a minute, is also being adopted by major circuit and film companies for protection and upkeep of their film, Coles states.

Carbon Products, Inc.

Develops Saving Device

A new carbon saver to be marketed under the trade name of “Casco,” and which can burn Hi-low and High intensity carbons down to two inches and less, has been developed by Carbon Products, Inc., of New York.

The device, consisting of a rod the same size as the carbon, has a tapered extension which is inserted into an opening provided for in the carbon, manufactured by the company. When the extension of the carbon is inserted into the carbon, the company declares, there remains a free space of one-half inch between the extension and the core of the carbon. As the extension is one inch long and the free space one-half inch, it enables one without risk to burn the carbon down to one and one-quarter inch if desired, leaving still one-quarter inch of usable carbon. The device, it is also said, assumes the function of the carbon itself, both in the turning gears and in the electrodes.

The carbon will burn with the same brilliance and steadiness even after it has left the electrode, as the current is transmitted to the carbon by the carbon saver, the company claims.

Salt Lake City — The local branch of the National Theater Supply has recently installed Auditec acoustic jobs in 16 houses throughout the territory, the latest installations of this equipment having been at the Grand, Alamo, the Ideal in Emmett, Idaho, and the Avalon in Fillmore, Wash.
FOREIGN MARKETS

By GEORGE REDDY

PATHE-GAUMONT PACT MAKES GERMANY ANXIOUS

Paris—Details of the Pathe-Gaumont motion picture agreement having become known throughout Germany, producers in that country are apprehensive that, with most French first runs under one control, it will be increasingly difficult for the German producers to place their French versions of films on their own terms. The company, involved, while maintaining their financial independence and remaining separate entities, will act in close co-operation. In practice the two companies will participate in their domination of the market.

Though the administration and development of both circuits is to remain independent, one booking office will arrange for all programs to be exhibited. The joint circuit will be composed of 58 cinemas, in greater Paris, 44 in the Provinces, three in Brussels, Belgium, and 60 other houses drawing their programs from Pathe-Natan, or a total of 165 cinemas.

Production, though remaining independent, will be coordinated so as to ensure the best results for both companies.

Distribution is to be carried on by one central office, which will also accept the distribution of films produced by other French companies. A similar central office will be in charge of publicity matters. It is understood that Pathe is to receive a monopoly for the exploitation of narrow-page projectors and film stock, while Gaumont will have the exclusive production of color films and film reproduction sets and equipment connected with them. Thus it would seem that, in all practical matters, the concerns will act as one.

BUENOS AIRES OPENS NEW 3,000-SEAT THEATER

Buenos Aires—Di Flore y Call, owners of the Hinsu and Renacimiento film houses in this city, have opened a large new theater, the Cine Monumental, seating 3,000.

GERMANY TO DOUBLE TALKING FILM OUTPUT

Berlin—German talking pictures already scheduled for the season of 1931-32 number 227—nearly twice the number released from June 30, 1930, to June 16, 1931, during which period 118 productions were passed by the censor.

The 227 talks for next season will be divided up as follows among German film distributing organizations: Afa 8, Atlas 3, Bayerische 8, Bild und Ton 6, Deutsche Fox 12, Deutsche Tonfilm 2, Deutsche Universal 12, D.L.S. 15, Filmkunst 2, F.P.S. 5, Gau-mont 6, Meastro 6, Mundial 3, Nation al 10, Panzer 2, Parafilm 24, Prasens 2, Prometheus 3, Jacob 5, Sudfilm 18, Super 3, Richard Ton 3, Terra 8, Ufa 25, Star 6, Bezirksverleih 24.

PITALUGA PREPARING FOUR NEW PICTURES

Rome—Pitaluga announces four new pictures soon to be ready for release: "The Devil's Lantern," "Sails Taken In," "The Solitary of the Mountain" and "Wally." The first three are nearly completed, while the fourth, done by Brignone is making good progress on "Wally" in the mountainous regions of Cortina d'Ampezzo.

CONRAD VEIDT BACK WITH UFA

Berlin—Conrad Veidt will return to Ufa to play a leading role in "Der Kongress Tänzer" ("Congress Dances"), an Erich Pommer production under the direction of Eric Charell. His role will be that of Prince Metternich. His last previous picture for Ufa was "The Last Company." Norbert Falk and Robert Lewkew wrote the scenario for "Congress Dances." The setting is by Robert Herlth and Walter Roehrig.

FINNISH SOUND FILMS IN WORK

Helsingfors—Suomi Film is recording in its studios here for the coming winter season three distinctly Finnish sound films. "Har jag kommit till etluren," "Timmerflottars Fruld," "Le Mene." While there will be no dialogue in these three pictures, they will contain numerous songs.

NEW YORK THEATER IN HARBIN

Harbin—A new motion picture theater will be built here this summer. According to reports, it will probably be called "The Modern.," which will compete with the Moderne which, while not the largest, is at present considered the city's finest picture house.

PORTUGAL WOES MORE

Lisbon—Two new theaters in Portugal have been wired for the reproduction of sound pictures, the Olympia at Porto and the Central in Lisbon, according to news from Lisbon. Commissioner Fred E. Hulke's equipment was installed in both houses.

HAPPENINGS IN OTHER LANDS OF INTEREST TO PRODUCERS, DISTRIBUTORS AND OTHERS IN THE U. S.

COMEDIES AND OPERETTA BIGGEST HITS IN GERMANY

Berlin—The biggest financial successes among German talking pictures during the past year were comedies (with dialogue and musical sequences) and operettas, it is shown in the Film-Kurier's inquiry among exhibitors as to the best box-office successes of the year. Every exhibitor in the nation was requested to indicate the films that had obtained the best gross receipts at his theater during the 1930-31 season. Replies were received from 1,230 exhibitors—four times the number that replied to the Film-Kurier's first inquiry in 1929.

The most successful sound films in Germany during the season of 1930-31, tabulated from the replies from German exhibitors, are the following:

SOUND STUDIO IN PRAGUE

Prague—Work was recently begun here on a talking picture studio. It will be 28 by 22 meters in size and will be equipped with Radio Cinema (French) sound recording apparatus. Production is expected to get under way within the year.

Gov't Orders Full Divorce Between Fox and Loew's, Inc.

Inc. by the Fox Film interests. Decree also directs that Chase Securities Corp., as successor in interest to the Fox Film and Fox Theater, divest itself of all shares of voting stock in Film Securities Corp., which controls Loew's, Inc., by transferring these shares to three disinterested trustees. Judge Knox for this purpose appointed Thomas W. Gregory, former Attorney General of the United States; John H. Hazel, former Federal judge in Buffalo and T. Nelson Perkins, Boston attorney, as trustees. These trustees are to act as officers of the court and neither directly nor indirectly as representatives of the Fox or affiliated banking interest.

Decree further provides that Chase Securities and Film Securities shall be subject to all injunctions and restraint previously imposed upon Fox Theaters and Fox Film under the terms of the final decree entered last April.

United States Attorney George Z. Meddle and Special Assistant Attorney William H. Atten, filed the decree for the Government; Rushmore, Bisbee & Stern for the Chase, Film Securities and Raphael S. Harris for the Fox interests.

Film Securities was formed in April this year, at the time of the former being undertaken by the Fox Film under its new banking system, headed by Chase Securities. Film Securities acquired the Fox holdings of 600,900 shares of Loew's, Inc., for approximately $29,000,000 in cash and 402,000 shares of class A stock of Film Securities. The latter sold $20,000,000 of two-year notes to the banking group and also issued 100,000 shares of $7 dividend cumulative preferred stock. The class A stock delivered to Fox carried no voting rights in respect of election of directors, but voted equally with the common stock on other matters. The common was acquired by a banking syndicate.

RCA Photophone in Managua

Managua—The Margot, which was destroyed in the recent earthquake, is being rebuilt and will soon open with RCA Photophone sound apparatus. A complete Photophone unit which was found unjured after the Managua earthquake was sent to Leon where it is now in operation. Similar apparatus will soon be installed in theaters in Masaya and Chinandega.

London & Southern Profits

London—Net profit of $1,250,000 for the year ending April 30 is shown by Londoun and Southern Super Cinemas. This is about the same as for the previous 12½ months. A final dividend of 5 per cent, less tax, is recommended, making 6 per cent for the year, being the same payment made the preceding year.

WEAK STORY GETS FINE PRODUCTION AND TECHNICAL MODELLING, MAKING IT AN ENTERTAINMENT, WITH PEGGY SHANNON A FIND.

The most interesting thing about this one is the appearance of Peggy Shannon, whose ability to look the part and look it. The dialogue is above par, but story is pretty ragged. It's about a gangster with a hang-up about the suicide of one of his henchmen when they frame him to take the rap for certain irregularities that break into print. The daughter of the henchmen, played by Peggy Shannon, resolves to get even with the big political power. She has already fallen in love with the politician's son, who of course is a fine, upstanding lad. She gets a job in a hotel where he should come to that hotel and disclose all his plans over the telephone. This gives her an opportunity to get the goods on the crook, except the big politician. Miss Shannon endeavors to conceal from the police the fact that his own daughter is helping them to catch him. When they have him, they force her to tell, and then the punch scene, remorse, etc.

VERY MILD COMEDY DRAMA ENHANCED BY FINE PERFORMANCES. STORY PRIME WEAKNESS.

If the title of this one makes you picture Marion Davies selling five- and ten-article, you're wrong. Instead its background is New York, led by Miss Davies, as the daughter of the store magnate who sets out to get her man, even though he's engaged to a society gal. He goes through with the marriage, however, Marion's campaign, but as the story ends his wife has gone to Reno. Meanwhile Marion's father, wagon trip over the Rockies to stake of his interests, reforms in this respect and his son, distressed by his family's disintegration, commit suicide, and the story ends there. The dialogue is generally dull and the dialogue, inclined toward playfulness has a sequence in which Miss Davies is splendid as the magnate and Leslie Howard, opposite the star.

Cast: Marion Davies, Leslie Howard, Irene Rich, Richard Bennett, Kent Douglass, Mary Dane, Berton Churchill, George Ichard, Halliwell Hobbes, Charles Halton, Hugh Bennett, Anabel Shaw, Frank Cady, Stuart Erwin, William Tabbert, Ferdinand Bell, Claire Dodd, Patricia Farr.

AN ADVENTURE STORY WITH NEWSPAPER GANGSTER ATMOSPHERE IS FAIR PROGRAMMER THAT SHOULD PLEASE THE THRILL-FACTOR FAN.

This one is made for thrills and action purposes, and as such will pass muster with the pop crowds. There are several loopholes in the plot that can be found by the more alert and astute, but the action and thrills that pile up is a snappy climax. Charles Delaney is the reporter here whose rich pal is murdered by gangsters in the heart, and sets out to uncover the mystery. Later the surgeon is bumped off, and he goes on the track of the real criminal. His editor is holding the presses for the "pinch" so he can make good on the story that is ready to run. He does the next best thing, which is hang finish, with the hero chasing the fleeing bandits to Frisco, and handing them with the cops just as they are about to escape. This is the hero's kidnapped sweetheart.

Cast: William Tabbert, John Darrow, Carol Nye, Wesley Barry, William Des-Myers, Carroll Nye, William Des-Myers.
Director: Stuart Paton; *Author, Arthur Horst; Adaptor, not credited; Dialoguer, not credited; Editor, Carl Munn; Camera, Jules Cronjager; Recording Engineer, Earl M. Crane.

Time: 71 mins.

SILENT FILM DUBBED WITH SOUND AND DIALOGUE IS A KNACKY WESTERN, COVERED WAGON DAYS THAT THE FANS SHOULD LIKE.

They took a silent picture with the old fashioned titles, and dubbed in an improved sound track in a natural manner, and then go into the story of what happened in the old pioneering days. The silent version is synchromized with the dub track, and some dialogue.

The effect of the old silent technique is a relief, and shows how interesting the westerns can be without a lot of talking stopping the action stuff. The pioneering scenes are well handled, telling of the covered wagons, the mountain men and the pioneers really look like such, for their makeup has been well handled. Of course there is the usual romance, which is handled with skill, and the lass is used in a new plot. Good love angle, keeping the fans guessing as to which of the two men the lass will get.

Cast: Ben Lyon, Marie Prevost, Anders Randolf, Russell Sampson.
Director: Stuart Paton; *Author, not credited; Dialoguer, not credited; Editor, Edward Lorey; Camera, Jules Cronjager; Recording Engineer, Earl M. Crane.

HUSH MONEY
Fox
Time: 68 mins.

FAIR DRAMA WITH FAMILIAR THEME HELPED GREATLY BY ACTING OF ALBRIGHT AND OVEN MOORE.

Racketeers and gangsters carry the action in the early scenes of the picture directed by John Bennett, who breaks away from the underworld and tries to live straight. Owen Moore as his pal of bygone days, threatens to break up her new life with her husband, Harriet Albright. Throughout the plot, Douglas Cosgrove, as a detective, be- clocked, and they fall for each other in bringing about a happy ending. Cosgrove handles his part well and is most convincing. Joan Bennett, as attractive as ever, finds some difficulty in reading her lines, but is helped greatly by the excellent performances of Moore and Albright. Too talkative at times and drags in many.

GRIPPING MELODRAMA PACKED WITH THRILLS AND SUSPENSE, SURE AUDIENCE APPEAL WITH DIX IN FINE PART.

As his first directorial effort, J. Walter Ruben has turned out a fresh and snappy piece of work. The theme is not particularly new, but the way it moves, quickly, provides excellent entertainment. At times the action and situations become fantastic and extremely illogical, but it is melo- drama in the raw and privies have been taken. A wealthy idler, played by Richard Dix, decides to bring to justice several bank directors who have forced him an innocent colleague to "take the rap" while they themselves are guilty. Dix styles himself "The Racketeer, as the name implies, who takes his own hands to his own and understands what it is all about. Dix will make new friends, and.

CARRIES FAST ACTION PUNCH WITH THRILLS AND UNIQUE PLOT SITUATION THAT MAKES POPULAR FARE. GOOD STORY TREATMENT.

A Sono Art Three-O-Drama series, featuring Grant Withers as a young hospital doctor, and Marjorie Beebe as a dance hall girl, with Richard Dix joining them as the menace as the gangster leader. Michael Simmons wrote a very original script, which shows Grant Withers a camera-sense in building up the story elements into picturized form. The film has action all the way for the males, and an intriguing love angle for the females. The story hinges on the girl's brother getting involved with a gang of crooks. He double crosses them on a sale-plotting job by stealing the loot ahead of schedule. Later he is wounded by a policeman, and the gang kidnap him from the hospital to his hideout to force him to divulge where he has hidden the loot. They also kidnap the girl's widowed brother in the youth's sister. Here a very unique situation develops. Next twists and surprises keep the suspense

Good Variety Program Offered at Paramount

At the Paramount the stage show is entitled "The Regimental Ball" for no good reason. The only ball is a bunch of white uniforms and a bunch of girls standing against the wall, waiting for the vaude acts. These were entertaining. Also the girl routines were okay. A duet did a couple of warbles, which is something to be directed at was featured, along with Ross Wise, Jr., Stan Cavanaugh, Marie Law- rents, etc... "Face of the Nineties," Wayburn Girls, good lookers. We can't match up these nannies with the acts, but the juggler had a small ball in front of him which was spasmodic and the four balls and later the three Indian clubs. There was a father and son act, with ma as atmosphere. The former was a big acrobatic stepper. He did it with great variation on the Russian steps, by far the best thing in the show.

All-French Spectacle Holds Forth at Roxy

An all-French spectacle, "La Marionnette," is the latest import to attract the Roxy this week. It is divided into two parts, the first being a series of tableaux which appear on the stage displaying the history of France, and the second half of the show being the actual performance of the play. "La Marionnette" is a play about the life of Marie Antoinette, queen of France, and the plays are presented in the atmosphere of the French air. The tableaux are "Vision of Joan of Arc," "Fall of the Bastille," and "Coronation of Napoleon." The entire ensemble of 250 participate in the poses. The second part takes place in the amphitheater of the Paris Opera house and is titled "Le Grand Bal de L'Opera." Numbers include "The Golden Call" from Faust, sung by Harold Kravitz; "an aria from Mignon" sung by Beatrice Belkin, formerly of the Metropolitan; a beauty, and the famous ballet corps and the Dance of the Devil by the Roxys. All the presentation is colorful and dignified, without any attempt at comic relief.

Fred Keating's Magic Peculiar of Capitol Show

A pleasant and merrily-movin stage presentation on opening Capitol this week under the title of "Hi Ho! Presto!" Fred Keating, one of the world's foremost masters of illusion and magic, is headlined and succeeds in mystifying the audience. His accompanying patter is bright, sometimes too bright, and frequently too fast for the customers to absorb. California Collegians, clowing band, give their version of a circus and it's swell. Another highlight of the bill is the adagio team which works smoothly. As usual the Chester Hall girls do their routines expertly and artistically.

New York Paramount To Produce Own Shows

ENEMIES OF THE LAW

with Mary Nolan, Johnny Walker

Regul Time, 70 mins.

AMATEURISH PRODUCTION POORLY DIRECTED. GANG-STER PIX THAT WILL ONLY CLICK IN CHEAP HOUSES.

Johnny Walker and Mary Nolan in a comedy vehicle where only two actors who show the slightest bit of histrionic ability in this picture. The picture is so absurd that you have the feeling that they do not appear to be in the same production. Townley has a bit part, but he stands out. Johnny Walker plays the part of a man who is trying to keep the weak offering from sagging worse than it does. Mary Nolan looks good, as usual, but her acting simply isn't. The fault seems to lie in the direction and the poor cast, for the story had lots of good spots in it and seemed to deserve a better fate. But they killed it with the lack of directorial brains. All about two rival gangs, one headed by Johnny Walker, the leader of one, and Tellefson of the other. One of Johnny's boys is bumped off, and the chief rolls back and forth, with Mary Nolan out to get Johnny but falling in love with him.

Cast: Mary Nolan, Johnny Walker, Leo Tellegen, Barry Townley, Harold Healy, Alan Dinehy, loaf, Dough, Dana Harold, Danny Hardin, Bert West, Gordon Westcott, Dave Green.

Director: Laurence C. Windom; Author: Charles Reed Jones; Adapter, same; Dialogue: L. H. Gardner; Designers: Frank Zuckier, Record Engineering.

EXCELLENT VIENNESE OPERETTA PROVIDING GRADE ONE COMEDY. ALL GERMAN DIALOGUE.

Audiences who understand German will like this one, which is one of the best seen at the first of the finest talents to rank these American shoes. Its music is pleasant if not strikingly original. Willy Forst, in the chief role, was one of the principals of "Two Hearts in Waltz Time" and his work is clear and always amusing. Unlike many other foreign importation, this picture boasts plenty of attractive ladies. It is more concerned with dialogue than with visual action. The story, which is frivolous and unimportant, concerns a male dancing teacher whose patron, a commissionaire, invites him to marry a stage star. His ten daughters resent this and move in on the dancing master, thus interrupting his love affair with another attractive therein. Out of this situation decidedly humorous comicalities arise.

Cast: Willy Forst, Paul Hoeniger, Erna Gerhard, Engelbert Höffler, Cordy Millowitsch, Irene Estinger, Eva Vira, Hildy Heuer, Alexander Malloy, Hannes Fleibag, Jose, Sari, Pavarotti, Lina von Buhl; Author, Walter Reich; Adapter, Walter Reich; Music, good, all the way and helps them.

Direction, fine. Photography, fair.
Joe Penner in
"Sax Appeal"

Vitaphone
Time, 11 mins.
Swell Comedy
One of the best comedy shorts in which Joe Penner has appeared to date. It is on the slapstick order, with Penner playing the role of a saxophone hound doing his stuff while traveling around the streets on his father's junk wagon. The noise he creates causes folks to respond so generously that pop doesn't have to work any more. Should be over nicely anywhere.

"Our Wife"
M-G-M
Time, 22 mins.
Hilarious Comedy
The Stan Laurel-Olive Hardy combination put on some hilarious pranks for the benefit of this Hal Roach subject, which is a pip. Olive undergoes a lot of grief in eloping with her fat sweetie principally through the stupidities of his pal. Finally they reach the home of the justice of the peace, played by Ben Turpin, and that cross-eyed individual marries the femme to the wrong man. Entertainnent de luxe for any audience.

Chic Sale in "Cowslips"

Radio Pictures
Time, 18 mins.
Okay Slapstick
Slapstick comedy and custard-pie gags predominate in this one. Dialogue takes second place. Sale is the lazy man around a farm, advising everyone what to do and invariably getting into trouble. Some of the gags, reminiscent of other comedies show a cow waving its tail, brushing the flies from a wedding cake, slow-motion pictures of the cow after she has drunk from the punch bowl, a chase through the barn with Sale holding the tail of the cow as she demolishes everything in her path, and other low comedy situations. Good for the kids but not for those who like clever comedy.

"Hats Off"
Fox
Time, 10 mins.
Good Educational
This subject belongs to the Movie-tone school series, intended primarily for educational purposes. It presents a concise summary of United States history, particularly the various wars, and the part that the nation played in other distinct highlights. It has a certain measure of entertainment value besides being instructive.

Rosco Ates in
"Lone Starved Ranger"

Radio Pictures
Time, 18 mins.
Good Laugh Number
Rosco Ates, as a down and out ranger, is enlisted by a barber to clean up and watch his shop during the latter's absence. A big bad man who kills sheriffs for a pastime, rides into town and into the barber shop for a shave. Meanwhile the townsfolk swell around in appointing a new sheriff, to replace the one bumped off, and with no volunteers in sight it becomes necessary to draw straws. Leaving the bad man asleep in the torsorial chair, Rosco wanders out into the crowd, is handed a straw, which he keeps biting off, and eventually finds himself elected sheriff. The latter man, unaware of Rosco's appointment, forces him to come along on a bank holdup, which winds up with the sheriff trapping the bank's usual ringleader in the bank. Action is plentiful and Rosco's well-known stuttering comes in for generous play and laughs.

Louise Fazenda in "Blondes Prefer Bonds"

Radio Pictures
Time, 20 mins.
Fair Comedy
With a title that has nothing whatever to do with the story, this Larry Darmour comedy is a curious hodgepodge with a plot that is not quite clear and action that mostly misses. It starts by showing Louise Fazenda, having herself rejuvenated in order to stir up her husband's interest and create some romance. It appears that the rejuvenating process puts her back 20 years to the days of the big hats, hustles and such. Hubby also gets dressed up in the rig of the former days and follows his wife back to her father's home and the scenes of their courting days, where the wife goes giddy over her memories, while hubby is unable to work up much enthusiasm. A fair number of laughs are scattered through the latter part of the story, but on the whole it is a rather curious mixture.

Mickey McGuire in
"Mickey's Rebellion"

Radio Pictures
Time, 20 mins.
Fair Comedy
This Mickey McGuire number from the Larry Darmour lot is not quite up to the average of the series. It has Mickey and his gang of youngsters impersonating a bunch of caddies who are supposed to be staging a benefit for an old guy. They offer a program of numbers, with each of the kids doing a turn of some kind, but the routine as a whole lacks any distinguishing marks either in the way of comedy or other outstanding entertainments. May get by all right with the juveniles.

"Making 'em Move"
(Aesop Fable)

RKO Pathe
Time, 7 mins.
Neat Cartoon Novelty
The system and tricks employed in producing animated cartoons are more less developed this year. It has the animals themselves in the roles of cartoonists, models, musicians, cameramen, etc., and the action is well sprinkled with gags to maintain the comedy vein. It is not necessarily an expose of the secrets of the cartoon comedy art, but enough to interest as well as amuse the fans. A neat little number for any program.
AN IMPROVED METHOD OF BLOCKING OUT SPLICES IN SOUND FILM

NOW the sound track need no longer be painted out at the joints to silence splice noise. The Eastman Sound Film Patch enables the laboratory worker to block out joints with greater ease, speed, and uniformity.

The patch is made of light-weight, opaque film. For convenience in handling, it is provided with a quickly detachable finger tab. With the aid of this tab, a simple but accurate registration block, and cement, the patch is quickly applied to the film.

Because of its design, the patch is practically inaudible in projection. At the same time it obscures a minimum of the sound record, and assures fast, accurate treatment of all splices. These factors make the patches and the block a valuable feature of Eastman Service.

How Minneapolis Is Beating Slump

IT IS encouraging to find at Minneapolis film exchanges and theaters that there’s still business to be had if you have what the public wants and you go after it properly. Probably the going-after process is about as important as anything else just now, if experience in Minneapolis film circles the past several weeks is any criterion. Going after the business in this instance simply meant hard work intelligently directed. Everybody about Minneapolis film exchanges and theaters literally have been working their heads off the past fortnight. And the results have been surprising. These results have proved that business is not entirely dead by a long shot, but can be had for the vigorous trying in many cases. What has been accomplished in Minneapolis probably can be accomplished in many other places. The lesson to be learned in this case is not to give up without an effort, as so many are doing, but to defy the depression by working harder than ever before. Isn’t it worth at least a try?

Extensive Campaign on “Gold Dust Gertie”

Large net banner was suspended across main thoroughfare in down town section one week in advance and currently, 10,000 Novelty Envelopes carrying a small amount of Gold Dust were distributed prior to the opening of the attraction. These were handed out on prominent corners in the downtown district and created quite a bit of interest. 600 Counter cards in the shape of bags of gold were made of gold cardboard and imprinted with black ink and placed in small blocks of wood specially cut out so that cards would have a stand to prevent them from turning over. These were distributed in drug stores, grocery stores, etc. in place of window cards. A tie-up was made with Keed’s shoes and six of the leading department stores in the city for a special children’s matinee. In return received mention in each store’s newspaper adds calling attention to the matinee at the theater and also mentioning the name of the current picture. Each store handed out special tickets attached to a book of games to all children visiting the respective stores and also mailed tickets to a select mailing list. The tickets carried copy of the theater and announced the picture to be shown.

RONALD COLMAN is likely to go to New York for a short visit about the middle of August, at a time to promote the recently showing of "The Unholy Garden."

* * *

Ned Maran, who has been an associ- ate of the Westwood and Tobis-New York studios, is busy at the local Paramount plant. He was formerly with First National and Fox in the sales and production departments and was associated with the late F. W. Murnau's venture into the South Seas to mkm Tabu.

* * *

Golf enthusiasts between the ages of eight and 16 participated in the tournament over the Westwood maskie course, under the auspices of the Mock Sennett studio. Prizes were donated by Mr. Sennett, Andy Clyde, Jackie Coogan and Bing Crosby.

* * *

Garrett Fort is one of the busiest writers on the Coast. He is in daily conference with James Whale on "Frankenstein," the melo-thriller, which Fort adapted and dialogue and which Whale will direct for Universal. Next week, Fort will return to KKO-Pathe to complete the adap- tation of "Second Shot," which will star Helen Twelvetrees.

* * *

Virginia Barry has been cast for an important role in the stage version of "The Greeks Had a Word for It," which will be presented at the Belasco, Los Angeles. Miss Barry, who is a graduate of the University of Minnesota, appeared in "Red Rust" and several other Broadway productions.

* * *

Believe it or not, a $35-a-week story department reader is living in a $500 suite in a Beverly Hills hotel. The answer is that his father, who is a wealthy Eastern business man, sends checks Coastward regu- larly.

* * *

Ernst Lubitsch and Samson Raphaelson are utilizing Lubitsch's new Santa Monica beach house for con- ferencces on "The Man I Killed," which Raphaelson wrote in collabora- tion with Ernst Vajda. The picture will have Miriam Hopkins among its featured players. She appeared in Lubitsch's last offering, "Smiling Lieutenant," starring Maurice Cheval- lier, and also written by Raphaelson, in collaboration with another writer.

* * *

Having purchased one polo pony, Austin Parker, Pathe contract writ- er, has spent his vacation with the horse and another from John Cromwell, who is becoming one of the best polo players on the Coast. Parker recently completed the adaptation and dialogue for Constance Bennett's next picture, "Dangerous to Love."

* * *

Some of the gags now being told in Hollywood are older than their tellers.

* * *

Robert Flory, who is now writ- ing the screen treatment for "Mur- ders in the Rue Morgue," will also direct the picture, for Universal, that he recently returned from France, where he directed three pictures.

* * *

Ernst Lubitsch, Paramount direc- tor, back from a two weeks' vacation trip to Big Pine, Lake Tahoe and Palm Springs, has started preparations for "The Man I Killed." George Hic- hand, assistant director at Paramount since 1919, has returned to Holly- wood from New York to serve with Lubitsch on this film.

* * *

James Murray is making a strong bid to portray an important role in "Kick In." He is now residing with Howard Seiter, his representative.

Our Passing Show: Dorothy Fields, Jimmy McHugh, Ben Frank, J. Louis, Moda and Mauri Grashin working at Long Beach; Lina Bas- quette and Arthur Reed in New York; Tiffany: Lloyd A. French, Nat Per- mane and Mauri Grashin in the Roosevelt race.

Mollie Merrick, the syndicate writer, has coined a new phrase, "emotional continuity." Writing of new players, she said: "There may be a few of them, but you can't tell no matter how promising the material may appear to be—until the rushes are seen or the picture completed. Then you get an impression of not only the player's photographic quality and emotional ability for certain roles, but their emotional continuity, and this last is a very important matter."

*Miss Merrick wrote the foregoing in connection with "Are These Our Children!" which Wesley Ruggles will direct, and which will have several new screen newcomers. By the way, Ruggles discovered Jack Oakie and others who became well known."

* * *

"The Spider" will be the final title of the Fox mystery melodrama adapted from the play of that name by Fulton Oursler and Lowell Brentan. It was temporarily titled "The Mid- night Cruise." Edmund Lowe and Mia Farrow play the leading roles, El Brendel also is in it.

* * *

Albert DeMond, associate producer and scenarist, who recently completed a five-year contract with Universal, has written a play, tentatively titled "Say It Again," which is to be pre- pared for the play, and has placed it with Universal. It is reported that Carl Laemmle, Jr., will be financial backer of the ven- ture. The story is set during the East-WesternPacific war, and is expected to form a new studio con- nection, negotiations for which are now pending.

NORTHWEST THEATERS DROP PRICE CUTTING

by "Movie Age." The Publix Minnes- ota and RKO Orpheum did not join the scale-slaughtering league and do not intend to do so. The Minne- sota is charging 75 cents at night, while the Orpheum is charging more than one and a half times the house first opened. The State, Lyric, Aster and Grand, local houses adopting lower fares, have decided to have increased their patronage somewhat, but not their grosses or operating profit.

following the signing of contracts with Movograph, Inc., Movograph of Maryland, Europa Cinema, Inc., Associated Cinemas of America, Inc., and Max A. Goldberg linking these organizations with Tobis Theaters.

The houses, to be known as Europa theaters and embracing the theaters of the German chain, opening in New York, Philadelphia and Baltimore, will be located in the following additional cities: Boston, Washington, Cleveland, Detroit, Chicago, Milwau- kkee, St. Louis, San Francisco, Los Angeles, Minneapolis, Newark, Pitts- burgh, St. Paul, Cleveland, Buffalo and New Orleans.

Tobis Theaters, together with Tobis-Foreinfilms, Inc, Tobis, Inc., and Tobis of America, is a sister organiza- tion to Tobis Tonbild Syndikat A.G. of Germany. Films Sonores Tobis of Paris and Associated Sound Film Indus- tries, London, all under the patronage of Kuenckelmeister's Interna- tionale Maatschapij voor Sprekende Filma, Amsterdam.

Foreign talkers in different languages will be played in the Tobis houses.

American motion picture companies also have been invited by Tobis Ton- bild to make their German version in Germany at Tobis Tonbild. It is re- ported that Fox Films and Warner Bros. already have contracted for Tobis cooperation.

Max Goldberg is now visiting the cities where Tobis houses are being established, arranging for opening dates. Carroll Carroll has been ap- pointed "publicist" director for the Tobis offices here.

SOUTH PRACTICALLY FREE FROM DOUBLE FEATURES

The twins were pulled in favor of vaudeville and film.

In Atlanta and Knoxville, Publix was not satisfied with double feature results. Today Publix is not running doubles anywhere in the Southern States.

Rialto, Birmingham second run, Warner’s in Memphis and maybe one or two houses in Florida are about the only theaters south of the Mason-Dixon line with twin features.

Profit of $255,783
Reported by Universal

Theaters 506.67 the were covered yesterday as the results of the trip across the South.

LILY was reported in the South as follows:

Knoxville, Tennesse—Mr. and Mrs. W. H. Lewis bought $2,412.82 in stock on May 2..setChecked at $2,479.954.71, which included $1,354,000 surplus arising through revaluation of land.

The company has effected substantial reductions in operating cost. The expenses for the six months May 2 were $538,977.26 less than those of the preceding six months, and $485.05—6.67 less than the expenses of the corresponding six months ending May 3, 1930.

II-F Circuit May Acquire
Some Dickenson Houses

Kansas City—Hughes Franklin Theatres is considering acquisition of Glen W. Dickenson Circuit houses in some towns where the two groups are in competition, according to Rickertson, division manager of II-F. Chillicothe and Independence are named as among these towns.

Eastman Gets 4-Foot Birthday Card

Rochester, N. Y.—A greeting card measuring about four feet by three feet was presented to George Eastman on his 77th birthday, May 29, by the man

Man kodak executives and close personal friends. It was in the form of a world map, with a slot at every place on the six continents where an Eastman Kodak establishment exists. A paper kodak protruded from each slot, and upon pulling out the paper it revealed the name of the branch manager.

has issued a statement in which he takes exception to the findings of Commissioner Peter White. Nathan-son also says he is “assured by a number of sources that eventually there will be in Canada a circuit of the theaters devoted largely to productions made in the British Empire.

I am also quite positive that there will be an increased development by the film producers in the Empire, to the end that the actual output by them will equal those of other producers of the world in quality.”

A Digest of Current Opinions

Few "Don'ts" in the Contract

The new contract is not a standard one. Indications are that every distributor will use a different form. There appears only one way in which trouble can be avoided, and that is by reading carefully every clause in every contract before affixing the "John Hancock" to the dotted line. Ignorance of the law has failed to be accepted as an excuse. Therefore, a few hints are listed here in the hope that they may be of service. Don't buy more picture schedules than you need—pay more than you can afford just for the sake of obtaining your competitor's contract. Don't promise to have every clause you want written in the contract—fail to stipulate the protection you want for other theaters—forget when buying newsreels to have the age stipulated—take the salesman's word for it. If he can promise it, he can put it in writing—fail to have the contract show what towns have protection over you. This is very important. If you wish to read the copyright clause—try to get around it. It can't be done, not until this law is changed or repealed. Fail to have a specific playing arrangement—overlook a clause setting forth availability of pictures, the period within which product shall become available to you—overlook any single clause in any contract you sign. Bear in mind that the contract you sign is only as good as the sincerity of the firm behind it, for after all, a contract is nothing more or less than a written agreement in which both parties promise to live up to specific words and assurances mutually agreed upon.

SHORT SHOTS from EASTERN STUDIOS

By HARRY N. BLAIR

THE Bad Boy" is the title of Phil Baker's third Vitaphone short, about to go into production at the Brooklyn plant. It's a two-reeler, yes, Phil plays his accordion.

Frank Kingsley, casting director at the Warner Vitaphone studio, has issued an appeal to all candidates for parts that they 'phone him and make an appointment before taking the long trek to where the Brooklyn studio is located. Production will be resumed July 27 and Kingsley will start casting one week previous.

Al Ray and not Howard Deitz will direct Karl Dane and George K. Arthur in "A Put Up Job." It was erroneously reported in this column yesterday that Mr. Deitz would be the director whereas he is actually the co-author, with Corey Ford.

Warner Bros. has just released "Speaking Out of Turn," a one-reel comedy in which Johnny Walker, well known to screen fans during the silent era, makes his debut in a Vitaphone picture. "Speaking Out of Turn," which will have an early showing at one of the Broadway theaters, is a comedy satire on gangster pictures and his producers. Dudley Clements, well known Broadway actor, who has already appeared in several Vitaphone short subjects, is co-starred with Walker.

John W. Green, staff composer at Paramount's New York studio and Ethel Merman, who recently closed in "Girl Crazy," will appear at the Palace for one week, beginning July 18. The Palace engagement will mark their first public appearance together since the days when "Johnny" used to accompany Miss Merman at the Central Park Casino. That was long before the young composer's sensational hits, "Body and Soul," and "Out of Nowhere" placed him in the front ranks of today's popular songwriters.

KARL DANE'S enthusiasm for his work has lured him up for a few days at the result of some strained ligaments in his side, received while working a rough-house scene with Geo. K. Arthur in "A Put Up Job," first of the Dane and Arthur series for Paramount.

Aurora Film Corp., which plans to produce a series of Italian talkers starring and directed by Cavalier Ufficiale Rosario Romeo, is holding daily auditions at 33 Second Ave. with a view to lining up an all-Italian cast for the company's first production, "Love and Death" which is to go into work early next month at the Metropolitan studios, Fort Lee.

William R. Neill's option has been exercised by Columbia, which has renewed the director's contract for another long term.

Richard Wallace, who directed Ruth Chatterton in "The Right to Love," will also handle next Paramount picture, "Tomorrow and Tomorrow."* * *

Sally O'Neill has been given a contract by Fox.* * *

Robert Williams, established stage player, has been signed to a term contract by RKO Pathé. He already has appeared in "The Common Law" and "Rebound," and is now with Ann Harding in "Alias Mrs. Halifax," after which Radio Pictures will borrow him for "Consolation Marriage."* * *

Universal has bought the talking rights to the "McCall" magazine serial, "Heart and Hand," by Olive Eden, as a vehicle for Walter Huston. William Wyler will direct, and John Huston is adapting it.

Charles Francis Coe's magazine story, "Pennies," has been bought by Fox.

Two Additional Houses Planned in New Britain

New Britain, Conn.—Plans are under way which will add two theaters to the local group. R. E. Erwin is seeking a permit to alter a Main St. business building into a 700-seat theater at a cost of $35,000, while the Odd Fellows' Building Ass'n plans to adapt the auditorium of its present structure for a theater.

EXHIBITORS DEMANDING MORE ACTION, LESS TALK

NEW contracts have been signed at the Paramount studios by Judith Wood, actress, and Sam Mintz, Sidney Buchanan and S. Lauren, writers, it is announced.

Comedies of the Air

West Coast Bureau, THE FILM DAILY

Hollywood—In addition to resuming production on "Sky Devils" which was suspended last week, Howard Hughes will place a second air comedy in work within the month. It is called "Cock of the Air," written by Lewis Milestone, Dashiell Hammett, Robert Sherwood and Thomas Buckenham, with the latter slated to direct. Billie Dove is tentatively cast for the feminine lead.

Chicago and Cleveland, where he gathered opinions on exhibitor reactions and demands with regard to product. As a result of his findings, the forthcoming program of Monogram Pictures will be revised somewhat to meet the wishes of the exhibitors.

On the coast Johnston saw the completion of "Mother and Son," Monogram picture with Clara Kimball Young in the leading role, and the starting of "The Montana Kid," starring Bill Cody and Andy Shuford, directed by Harry Fraser. He also saw the start of work on "The Law of the Riddle," while "In Line of Duty," another Monogram production, will begin next week.

In Cleveland, Johnston looked over the newly opened Monogram exchange, which in its first week sold 52 per cent of the year's quota. All indications point to the 1931-32 season as the best in a long time for the independent producer, says Johnston.

Gilbert Film Re-titled

"The Phantom of Paris" is the new title given John Gillett's next M-G-M feature which was formerly known as "Cheri Bibi." The picture will be released September 5. The revised schedule of M-G-M releases for August is: Aug. 1, "Son of India;" Aug. 15, "Susan Lenox;" Aug. 22, "This Modern Age;" Sept. 5, "The Phantom of Paris;" Sept. 12, "The Squaw Man."

Fight Film Controversy

Pictures of the Stirling-Schmelting fight may be banned from local theaters if the Federal law forbidding air transportation of films is invoked. The film was stopped Saturday at the Central although it is continuing at Wallack's. Dr. S. S. Weinberger, manager of the Central, has been asked to explain matters to the N. Y. County Sheriff's office. Max Cohen, manager of Wallack's, claims that he is not violating the law.

ater Circuit, in commenting on the efforts being made to discourage the spread of the dime admission policy.

"The set-up in Cleveland, like various other centers, makes pictures available to all theaters at the same time for ten cents. In the latter case the downtown shows, Horwitz points out, "Under existing conditions houses charging 30 and 40 cents must play the pictures day and date with the 10-cent and 15-cent houses. The better neighborhood stands charging from 30 to 40 cents usually make two and three changes a week, whereas the 10-15 houses make anywhere from four to seven changes weekly, and therefore absorb the pictures more quickly."

"This is a serious problem that seems to have been slighted by sales managers, and it is important that they do something about it."

FACING BETTER SEASON

terday in connection with the opening session of the first of three regional sales meetings being held by Educational and its affiliated organizations.

Short features occupied the entire attention of the initial session at the Hotel Sheridan. Jack Skirboll, who acts as the director of production for the downtown studio, said he did not have the material at his disposal for the larger houses and was forced to present a show which, he said, he thought would give the audiences a definite interest in shorts. The feature was "Swinging Lavin," the new caper which is getting favorable notices in the east.

H. F. BRINK, Buffalo branch manager, is still all excited over the swanky world première put over on "Salvation Nell" at the Lafayette. He claims that Hollywood better look to its laurels.

Budd Rogers, one of the chief speakers, is slightly handicapped. He has a sore hand, but his smile is just as brightening as ever.

B. J. Kearney, purchasing agent, became the father of a fourth son coincidentally with the opening of the eastern morting. The boys are coming out the congrats with much enthusiasm and sincerity.

Gordon White drew rounds of applause for his luminous displays. A large map of the country, with newspaper clippings pasted all over it, indicating the far-reaching effects of the Educational Co-operative Department, showed the boys that they are getting real cooperation.

E. W. Hammons was first to remove his coat and immediately the boys followed-after all.

Bert Kelly sat at the head of the table displaying a pair of brilliant red suspenders.

Peggy Goldberg was the only girl in attendance. When the call for lunch was sounded, every table bid for her company, but Daddy Brink proved the victor.

G. Clifton Reid, producer of the William J. Burns Detective Mysteries, reminisced over the first Fox convention which he and Harvey Day attended together. Reid remarked that at the time he was wearing short pants and Harvey Day had a beard.

L. A. Young, in New York for a few days, attended the Educational luncheon.

Joe Kaliski's chest has expanded a few inches, and he confesses the expansion is due to the fact that he has written up about four times as many 100 per cent contracts on the new product as he did last year during the same period.

Paul Terry, producer of Terry-Tooners, admitted he likes to come to New York once in a while. He is working up at the Audio Cinema Studios in the Bronx, and he likes a change of scene every so often.

Between his keen witicism and profound philosophies, Jack Skirboll is keeping the boys pretty much up on their toes.

J. H. Butner of Atlanta and J. E. Hobbs of Charlotte, N. C., are proving how congenial southern gentlemen really are.

F. G. Slater, Boston manager, who is summering in Swannscott, misses his daily dip, but he insists he finds he is in better shape now, which is another example of how shorts can keep us young.

L. J. Klar of Cincinnati is a perfect symphony in blue, with gray shirt and tie and greyish blue suit.

H. R. Skirboll of Cleveland is trying to out-Clyde Andy Clyde, with his humorous comments and swell repertoire of stories.

Johnny beamson of the Quaker City is very proud of the first rains he has been securing in Atlantic City. One of the major reasons Johnny enjoys convention time is that it gives him a chance to see his pal, J. H. Beaver of Washington.

C. B. Flarity is attending his first Educational convention, after having been with the company seven years. He has been a salesman in Philadelphia and Pittsburgh, having been promoted to managership of the Albany office last March.

James Travis, Canadian manager, is a breezy figure at the convention "You have the Statue of Liberty but we have the liberty," he said.

Howard C. Brown and Claude Fleming, producers of the Romantic Journeys, are at the convention, but ready to hop off on new romantic journeys at short notice.

Publix-Kinecy Changes
Greensboro, N. C. - Managerial shifts and promotions in the Publix-Kinecy ranks have been made as follows:

Emil Bernstecker, manager of the National in the past two years, becomes city manager at Durham and is succeeded at the National by John Kirkham. Kirkham succeeds manager at Rocky Mount, Arnold is succeeded by Frank Burns, former Salisbury city manager. Paul V. Phillips, former Durham manager, has gone to take charge of the Salisbury house.

KINOGRAMS AD NEWSREEL MAKES DEBUT ON AUG. 28

4,000,000, is all we propose to do for the reel, according to Captain King. There is no house owner who adds that as some of the larger houses, which have been holding off until they see how the work out, are signed up, the average per house will be increased from the present figure of $38 to about 650.

Not more than 10 advertisers are to figure in the newsreel for the entire year, due to the fact that so many of the companies desire to contract in excess of the minimum of six issues required. Cost to the advertiser is $35,000 an issue, with the ad footage running from 200 to 300 feet.

Wherever possible, the advertising matter is to be hooked up with a news story, although in any case the plan will be to make the reel 100 per cent entertaining, says Capt. Baynes.

Before Allied definitely signed the agreement with the newsreel, Allied leaders, asking their attitude toward the advertising newsreel, in view of the recent agitation against screen advertising, and it is understood that the leaders replied unanimously in favor of the plan.

son in the district court at Shawnee and the case has been set for hearing July 20.

The injunction was filed by the attorney for the county attorney several weeks ago, charging L. C. Griffith and Griffith Amusement Co. with violation of the county ordinance. The suit asks that an injunction be granted against the operation of the theaters and for a receiver to be appointed, the property sold and the proceeds forwarded to the state because of trust law violations.

MOVIES TO LEAD REVIVAL, SAYS PETTIJOHN

30 Features, 38 Shorts on Tiffany's 1931-32 Program

That's Wrong!—but what's right?

JACK ALICOATE

For most of the critics of the screen, about the two easiest words are "That's Wrong." Ask them why and you are apt to get the frapped stare and a load of silence. Those who run this industry, stranger, have been at it for the most part, for some well nigh over 20 years. Taken all and all, we'd stack 'em up against most any set of business executives. Either under Marquis of Queensbury rules or catch-as-catch-can. To start with the premise that producers deliberately set out to make dull pictures, to endeavor to sell them in direct contradiction to accepted and successful economic rules or to purposely provide patrons with boresome programs is to offer oneself, brains and all, as a senior candidate for the spool-spanning championship at the nearest insane asylum. This merry, whirling business of amusing the peoples of the world makes many a mistake. So does any other industry or individual that is not stagnant. Those who constantly shout "That's Wrong" seldom know many other words.

A somewhat casual check up the cinema screen curriculum for the coming semester reveals the significant information that some 30 screen musicals, more or less, are already on the griddle or definitely promised for the coming season. While not enthusiastic to the point of shouting from the housetops, this forecast still makes us mildly bullish. It is one of our pet contentions that the future of the screen, or, for that matter, any other branch of historic art, depends for its permanent success upon diversification. When screen musicals finally click, we'll have a chorus of "I told you so!"—And it's for guess they'll start clicking soon—or sooner.

Gangster Film Writer Promises To Drop Theme

Chicago—While here visiting his family, Kubec Glasmon of the Warner First National writing staff and author of "The Public Enemy" and "Smart Money," promised Mayor Cermak that "Larceny Lane" will be the last gangster story to come from his pen.

There are now 125 houses in the Hughes-Franklin Theaters circuit, over 15 under construction. H. B. Franklin told "The Film Daily" yesterday. Latest addition to the list is the new Studio theater in Los Angeles opening July 30 with "The Viking."

Present arrangements which cover the playing of all Paramount, M-G-M and Fox product will be continued (Continued on Page 6)

DETOIT INDIE HOUSES
DROPPING DUAL FEATURES

Detroit—Several independent theaters here have followed the move of Publix in banning double features. From the favorable sentiment expressed by most of the independents, it seems likely that there will be less double billing in Detroit than in several seasons past.

Joseph I. Brenn Joins Will Hays Organization

Appointment of Joseph I. Brenn as an assistant to Will Hays was announced yesterday by the M.P.P.D.A. Brenn has been a newspaper man in New York, Chicago and Washington, and formerly was connected with the People's interests in Chicago. He was with the Associated Press for seven years and also with the Chicago office of Quigley Publications.

Sees Unfavorable News Thoroughly Discounted

Bad news regarding the film industry is mostly out of the way and has been pretty thoroughly discounted by motion picture securities, says the "Wall Street Journal," adding that "amusement stocks have been under accumulation during recent periods of market weakness."
“Secrets of a Secretary”

Squeezed into the Brooklyn Paramount night program for a tryout, this program of the New York Paramount studio was caught by a FILM DAILY scout, who freely recorded in the paper that it is a swell piece of popcorn entertainment with special appeal to the feminine contingent. In addition to its engaging story and enjoyable performances by Glacette Gilbert, Herbert Marshall, Mary Astor and others, exhibitors will find in it more of that much-desired “silent technique” than most recent pictures have had. Although dialogue is ample, the story moves in action as well as the George Abbott directed.

Series of Sport Shorts Added to Educational List

Bill Cunningham’s Sports Review, a new series of six one-reel subjects produced by Howard C. Brown and Curtis F. Nagel, has been definitely added to Educational’s line-up for the coming season. The first release, delivered, is “No Holds Barred” — a wrestling subject which shows in action the leading wrestlers of the United States as well as representatives of foreign countries. The next features Gus Sonnenberg, former world’s wrestling champion. For the second release, a story centered around star-winning dogs has been provided.

Ulman on Coast for Fan Mag

Wm. A. Ulman, Jr., has been appointed West Coast correspondent of “The Movements of a New 10-cent fan magazine which Future Publishing Co. will shortly distribute through seven of its largest chain theaters, and which Ruth Warner will edit. Ulman was recently with Paramount, attached to the New York studio publicity staff prior to which he was with Film Daily.

Joe Blank Buried

Atlanta.—Funeral services for Joe Blank, 24, formerly assistant manager of Keith’s Georgia, who died Friday in Columbia, S. C., following an automobile accident, were held here Sunday.

New House for St. Louis

St. Louis.—Plans for a 1,600-seat theater, office and store building to be erected at 911 North Vandeventer Ave. are being prepared by George Hardy, Inc. Samuel R. Wilson and associates are behind the proposed structure.

Paramount Signs Marjorie Gateson

Marjorie Gateson, who created the role of the Broadway production “Street Scene,” has been signed to a long term contract by Paramount in New York and will arrive in Hollywood next week to make her film debut.

3 New Tiffany Features Being Released in Aug.

Three of the special features on Tiffany’s 1931-32 program will be released not later than Sept. 1. The trio includes: “Women Go On Forever,” James Cruze production with Clara Kimball Young and Marian Nixon; “Morals for Women,” with Bessie Love and Conway Tearle, directed by Gene Lewis, and “The Monster” with Alice White, Aileen Pringle and Hale Hamilton, directed by Frank Strayer.

May Reopen Minneapolis Pantages

Minneapolis—Plans are under way for the reopening of Pantages which has been closed for practically an entire season. Believed to be acting for a group of Los Angeles attorneys who expect to take over the theater holdings of Alexander Pantages and reorganize his vaudeville circuit, E. C. Bostick, who managed the house before its closing, has been interviewing officials of the stage hands’ union to learn the most favorable terms obtainable.

William Ana Dies

Weirton, W. Va.—William Ana, local theater man who left in March for a tour of Europe, died July 3 in a hospital in Greece, according to word received by his brother, Nick Ana.

Musical Program at Photophone

A program of choruses and organ selections recently recorded by RCA Photophone in the Mormon Tabernacle will be given in the private theater at Photophone headquarters tomorrow afternoon, with a group of leading figures in the musical world attending.

Reports published in Hollywood papers concerning an alleged decision of the Soviet Government to start production of sound films in Hol-democracy have been retumcd. According to Leonidoff, producer in-ly recent months in the industry, the decision was made to produce sound films because of the demand for them in the \nmarket. Leonidoff said that the sound films would be produced in Hollywood, and that the first film to be completed would be a musical.

Leonidoff also stated that the decision to produce sound films was made after careful consideration, and that the films would be of high quality. He said that the company would use the latest equipment and techniques in the production of the films, and that they would be distributed throughout the world.

Texas Exhibitor Ass'n Committee Working With Copyright Bureau

Dallas—Following a special meeting held here by the board of directors of the Theater Owners Protective Ass'n of Texas for the purpose of discussing the pending investigations by the Copyright Bureau into unauthorized exhibitions in the Dallas territory, the exhibitor organization has appointed a committee to work with the representatives of the Bureau in arriving at the facts in each case. H. H. Groves, the representative in charge of the investigation, addressed the meeting here and explained the distributors' position in the investigations. After pointing out that honest exhibitors were equally affected by unfair competition from dishonest exhibitors, Miss Groves emphasized that because of the printing improperly withheld, and violation of their protection by bicycled exhibitions, the exhibitors adopted resolutions condemning these practices.

Groves also cautioned exhibitors against verbal agreements which conflict with the written contract.

Peggy Shannon A Star In The Make

Paramount has in "The Secret Call" not only an excellent program picture, but a great big BET. That bet is Peggy Shannon, glimpsed herein for the first time, capable of providing with "one fell swoop" that she has WHAT IT TAKES. Her actress stature is not only in the star-ring, but over the counter with good lines, what "Secret Call" should prove a good funny film, with plc. of plot, excitement and love interest. Exhibs will do well to build and bill the name of Peggy Shannon. It is her picture and she won't disappoint. You will get lots more of Peggy—so start the ball rolling now.

TIMELY TOPICS
A Digest of Current Opinions

You've Got to Sell the Pix

THERE have been too few box office pictures this season. Name a picture that had a real campaign downtown and I'll show you where this same production was a clean up when it played in neighborhood houses. What applies to Milwaukee must undoubtedly be true in this and every other state. If the key town exploits a big picture, subsequent runs in surrounding towns benefit thereby without question. You can't advertise Big Outstanding pictures with a silent trail, to me, too few one sheets and expect to "clean up." The show business today is no different than the merchandising game. Product has to be sold. A demand must be created in order to stimulate interest. I was very much interested in a statement published in trade papers some time ago, that the head of one of the larger chains issued, saying that its individual managers thereunder had to "stand on their own." The long distance method of operation was to be eliminated. Why? They may give you a dozen reasons for such a move, but I personally believe that it was the result of two things. Lack of proper exploitation, first of all, because pictures didn't earn what they rightfully should have at the box office, and the second reason, I believe, is one so shrewdly covered by Al Picker, our fellow exhibitor, namely, lack of community mindedness. You can't go hand in hand, if we expect to prosper and stay in business.

••• SOME TIME ago that insouciant and debonair film critic on the N. Y. "Sun," Jawn S. Cohen, Joonior, let out a yapw that we have NEVER had a femme film star from France.......never, sez Jawn, has Hollerword touted a Big Name from France like Garbo the Swede, or "Legs" D'Orsay the Hegs........and Mister Cohen weeps bitter tears because we have never been given a mademoiselle upon whom we may shower charmanates, ravissantes and merveilleuses........he discounts Renee Adoree of the silents, and Fifi D'Orsay of the talkies as two Frenche who never set the sparks flying on the High Tension Dynamo division........what, ho, gents of the studios.......is Jawn right?.......have ya overlooked a Big Bet?.......oddzooks, my masters, mebbe this scrivener on the Town's Dignified Rag is right.......let's see. ........

••• MISTER COHEN sees in this another Hollerword Mystery.......is it just another case of Studio Dumness.......(gawd forbid, for that Market has reached the saturation point since).......is it just a case of lack of Material?.....and the "Sun" scribe discounts the latter by touting a French seductress for the American screen........Marcelle Favrel-Chantall Fanci appeared in "French Fanci" talking "Le Collier d la Reine".......he gives her a marvelous build-up.......and if she has got half you vouch for, Jawn.......then Hollerword is asleep.......but is THAT unusual, we arsk ya?.....

••• BUT THIS local newspaper boy is a good sport......he sez if it is not to be Marcelle, then it should be another Frenchwoman.......as a femme French star would indeed be a welcome and box-office novelty.......indeed, it would.......so we enter the contest with no less than TWO candidates.......how about Suzanne Caulay, godchild of Mme. Sara Bernhardt.......who played with the Divine Sara in "L'Aiglon," "Camille" and "Field of Honor.......a good lookin' Parisian baby if there ever was one.......and can she troup!.......she's been in 11 New York stage productions, and in stock all over these Touegsay, and then there is Ili Suzanne Aubes, ingenue with Ernesto Vikey, the Spaino Barrymore, for two seasons.......who plays comedy or drama with equal facility.......and can imitate all the film stars.......or caricature em.....and now that we've started somethin' together, Mister Cohen.......let's sit back and wait the Hollerword reaction.......or can Hollerword really react.......to an Idea that didn't "originate" in that all-sufficent and self-sufficient cinematic center? If they don't come back at us, Jawn.......then the world will know we've got 'em stopped. ........

••• OVER AT the Atlas Sound Recording Stude on 46th Street, they sold Dr. Paul L. Hoeffer one of those nifty compact sound outfits that the Navy Dep't has officially adopted. Doc, as you will recall, was the gent who let the universe know that "Africa Speaks".......to the tune of slightly over a million kesh money at the ole B.O........he is planning another trip to Asia, to be gone a year.......and with the new outfit he expects to get his sound effects without any trouble this time.......packed in heavy metal cases.......guaranteed to resist heat or cold.......or the best efforts of the Asiatic Jungle Bangzare Smashers' Union.......which is some problem to overcome, to hear Doc Hoeffer tell it. ........

Ice Cake Stunt for Guessing Contest

TO advertise the engagement of "Seed" at the Paramount, Waterloo, Iowa, Harry Herman reached into the grab bag and pulled out "the title in a cake of ice" stunt. The short title made it possible to freeze four cut-out letters in a cake of ice. A local drug store window was used to display the ice, because Herman felt his lobby would take care of the theater part, and he wanted a display away from the theater. The only cost was the theater was 15 passes, distributed to the 15 people whose estimates of the number of hours it would take the ice to melt were the nearest correct.

Service Station Ties In On Pix

WHEN "The Millionaire" played the Le Claire, Moline, Illinois, manager Frank Kennebeck sold the Moline Firestone Service Station the idea of giving one free theater ticket with each gassing job or oil change. What is more, Kennebeck convinced the service stations that they should pay box office prices for these tickets given away. To advertise the distribution of guest tickets for press jobs and oil changes, the service stations published a 15 in. ad in the local daily and, paid for the production of 2,000 heralds carrying the same copy as published in the paper.

By A. P. YOUNGER

With

BESSIE LOVE, CONWAY TEARLE, Emma Dunn, Natalie Moorehead, David Rollins, Edmund Breese, June Clyde, Otis Harlan, Lina Basquette, Crawford Kent, Virginia Lee Corbin, Directed by Gene Lewis.

A startling insight to the code of a kept woman! A provocative theme to excite the curiosity of the whole movie-going public.

"LEFT OVER LADIES"

By URSULA PARROTT

One of America's best selling authors—who gave us "Ex-Wife" and "Strangers May Kiss"—has again scored with the story of a type of woman for whom the world sells its soul. An ideal subject for exploitation in the press; a topic which naturally gets itself talked about.

"RACE TRACK"

LEO CARRILLO

The new screen idol can be expected to duplicate his phenomenal success of "Hell Bound" in this smashing story of the intrigues of big gamblers and millionaire racing patrons. A new, fresh angle, behind the scenes of the sports of Kings. A Cruze Special.

"STRANGERS OF THE EVENING"

By FLORENCE WAGNER

Adapted by Robert Lee. Who are these strange, ominous figures that move silently through the night? And what are the relations of this mysterious group to the lone woman who swayed their destinies? An underworld story with a fresh flavor of human interest for jaded film fans.

"X MARKS THE SPOT"

By FLORENCE RYERSON

A great newspaper finds itself embroiled in the solution of a crime. The snap of editors' commands, the feverish tempo of scoops, the glib chatter of reporters and the hectic pace of the Big Town furnishes the tempo of this exciting melodrama.

"HOTEL CONTINENTAL"

All the basic passions of human nature—loves, conflicts and dreams, seething around like bees in a hive—motivate this moving story of a group of strangers who suddenly find their lives entwined in a magnificent European hotel. Scheduled for a lavish production.

"THE LAST MILE"
A CRUZE SPECIAL

No play in recent years inspired such superlative press reviews, such wide-spread comment and public interest as this tremendous drama by John Wexley which had a sensational run on Broadway.
Produced by Herman Shumlin, producer of "Grand Hotel", and directed by Chester Erskine, genius of the Theatre Guild.

"GOSSIP"

A fresh, original story showing how the bottom drops out of a famous surgeon's world, through the wagging of poisoned tongues. A tale of human failities, soul searing drama, and final regeneration through the new found love of a woman who challenged the whole world for her lover.

BACKING PLAYS FOR FILMS TOO RISKY, SAYS SHUMLIN

The newspapers' greatest need is stories, good stories, declared Shumlin. "Producing plays with the screen rights and grosses in view has not proved popular." United Artists has abandoned the idea of producing "Rivets" as a stage play, 2,700 city runs, and has stricken it from the U. A. production schedule.

MEXICAN IMPORT TAX BOOSTED 1,000 PER CENT

bio, not only puts a prohibitive tax on all films, but first upon which is a language. English language will hereafter be taxed 50 pesos per kilo (less than 2 pounds), against the former tax of 1 peso, or 20 cents per kilo.

The former cost to import films of any kind was eight pesos per kilo. Mexican imports will not suffer increased taxation. Films with titles will be taxed 18 pesos per kilo and books upon which there is a sound track will be taxed 75 pesos per kilo.

Passing of the new law followed closely on the heels behind let down in the importation of motion picture production equipment, which is said to have been done to encourage Mexican picture production. Two companies now operate in Mexico City: Empire Productions and Compania Mexicana Peliculas. According to Lezama upon his return to Mexico City, August 1, all exchange managers representing films will be given back their deposits and distributors will visit President Rubio, in a body to protest the increased taxation on imports.

Unique-Cosmos Preparing Second

Having completed its first all-talking production, “Alice in Wonderland,” directed by “Bud” Pollard, Unique-Cosmos Pictures Co., is preparing an adaptation and making arrangements to cast “Rip Van Winkle,” from the story by Washington Irving. Ashley Miller, who adapted “Alice” and is now vacationing in Europe, is also working on “Rip,” which will be in six reels, and will be produced at the Metropolitan Studios, Fort Lee. Pollard will direct, with Charles Levine again in charge of the camera department. Unique-Cosmos plan four pictures of this nature.

By HARRY N. BLAIR

NICK BASIL and Tony Martin, who made a series of comedies here last year under the direction of Mark Sandrich for the RKO-Louis Brook unit, have been re-united in a vaudeville act in which they are again appearing around New York. Hal and Hazel Willis, who have appeared in Vitaphone shorts, have prominent supporting roles.

The tenth of the “Niggers” series of Vitaphone comedies starring Mr. and Mrs. Martins (“The Niggers at the Races,” has been edited and will shortly be released for a Broadway showing.

Jackson Halliday, stage actor, has been signed by D. W. Griffith as juvenile lead in “The Struggle,” now in production. Barney Logan is chief film editor.

Remember? When Peggie Shannon played in Vitaphone shorts here... Pat O’Brien likewise... When Evelyn Knapp and Lilian Bond were picked from the chorus of a Broadway musical. Barbara Logan is chief film editor.

Rupert Hughes’ humorous short on the Hillbilly Partner, recently completed at the Warner Vitaphone studio, is now ready for release. This two-reeler stars William Gaxton, Broadway musical comedy actor, now headlining at the Palace theater.

Chalk up another good picture for the Paramount New York studio—“Secrets of a Secretary.” Since that preview the other night, it’s no secret that this picture is going to elicit. And just wait and see how the girls will go for Herbert Marshall and Georges Metaxa, who play opposite the glamorous Claudette Colbert!

Arthur Ellis, in the midst of cutting a picture at Paramount’s New York studio, is wondering what they are doing at that dear Joinville studio where he was shaving, this time last year?

Vitaphone has girded its loins and is all set to launch into a record production schedule on the 21th. An ace directorial staff includes Arthur Hurley, Alf Goulding, Glen Langan and Roy Mack, with Murray Roth, director-in-chief, set to step into the breach, if the occasion requires.

Paramount Notes: Jack Winick, jovial chief projectionist, has become grandfather again... this time it’s twins, both girls... G. A. Putkall, sound supervisor, has gone to Quincy, Mass., to look over locations for George Bancroft’s “Rich Man’s Folly,” exteriors for which will be made here... Edwin Anthony Brown, original Whitey of “Queer People,” visiting his old pal, Al. Wilkin, publicity head.

FEWER, BETTER PICTURES BEING CONSIDERED BY FOX

The first of the Fox revivals is “Saginaw, Side Up,” opening at the Roxy on July 24. Should this make any sort of showing, others, such as “Cock-Eyed World,” will be brought back. Lewis figures that even though these revivals gross somewhat less than a new picture, Fox is still ahead.

In the event that this plan proves successful, fewer pictures will be made each season. Lewis admits that even with the greatest staff of production experts in the world, it is still impossible for any one organization to turn out 48 good pictures a year.

Lewis also believes that good acting is really coming into its own at last and that appearance never meant less in pictures than at present. Personality is the most important requisite of the new order of screen players, with talent and voice control playing a big part. This applies just as much to the bit players as to the principals.

Broadway, says Lewis, must continue to be Hollywood’s chief source of acting talent. There is no other place to get trained actors and actresses. He admitted that this is tough on the stage producers, but there is no other way around it.

“Women Men Marry” Territory Sold

Headline Pictures has sold “Women Men Marry” for Eastern Missouri and the Premier Pictures Corp. of St. Louis. Negotiations are now pending with other exchanges for the few remaining territories in the United States. “Women Men Marry” will be shown in RKO houses in Greater New York starting today.

Connie Bennett and Lew Cody are painting Paris pink. Lew keeps the joy joints working overtime.

Connie gets tired waiting for Lew to keep a date with the preacher and leaves him flat.

Joel McCrea is an artist. He's painting old Mother Eve and needs a good model bad.

Connie, down to her last dime, asks for the job. Covered with blushes she poses. P. S.—She gets the job.

Joel works fast on the painting. And faster on Connie. Two weeks later she's fixing his breakfasts for him.

They throw a little party. A Spaniard makes a play for Connie. When she gives him thatta, he spills the beans about Lew Cody. Joel steams, Connie walks.

He catches up with her a month later at the Art Students' Ball. It's the big night in Paree, where everybody comes and everything goes.

Connie is with the Spaniard. Joel declares war on Spain and busts up the ball.

Joel wants to marry her. Connie proposes trial marriage. "I don't care what people say, just so you keep on saying you love me."

His aristocratic sister has been hearing things. She gets him back to America on a phony excuse. And Connie after him.

Sister throws a big yachting party. And "innocently" invites Lew Cody as one of the guests.

Sister is out to make a sucker of Connie. Lew makes a play for her all over again. Joel gets jealous. Connie gets sore. Sister pats herself on the back.

Joel socks Lew, grabs Connie, and they hop off for that dear Paree, stopping only long enough to get a squad of preachers to tie the knot good and tight.

Robert W. Chambers knows that the ladies love love stories. He gave them more than their money's worth in THE COMMON LAW.

So did Connie. By the time she walks into that studio and proves that the French models have nothing on her, she owes the customers nothing. They really ought to pay another admission to see the rest of the picture.

Charlie Rogers has handed exhibitors one of those box-office naturals. It opens today RKO Mayfair, New York.

RKO Pathe's Old Fightin' Cock has something to crow about in this one.

FOR THOSE KIND WORDS ABOUT

JAMES DUNN

SALLY EILERS

Vina Delmar's sensational story

MOTION PICTURE DAILY

"Bad Girl"

(Hollywood—Fox) has a flashing winner in "Bad Girl" and a great find in James Dunn, Winfield Sheehan's discovery. This pulsing, best-seller story of rough, young love groping its unconscious way to maternity has been handled with hearty realism, yet with such clean-mindedness that it should serve forever as a lesson to all producers that pictures within the code are matters of treatment, not of theme.

Honors go to Frank Borzage for a finely sustained balance of laughter and tears that makes a record, and to Edwin Burke for a running fire of smart-cracking that never falters. Sally Eilers does her best work, teaming right along with Dunn. Minna Gombell registers to the mark.

With pictures like this—and Fox has others—the fall box-office looks rosy.

W. A. JOHNSTON

MARJORIE GATESON, who graduated from musical comedy to dramatic roles, is arriving from New York to join Paramount. She created the mother role in the Broadway production of "Street Scene."

George R. Cooper, veteran sound man at Columbia, has just completed the recording on "Fifty Fathoms Deep."

Now that Charles Starrett, former Dartmouth football player, will appear in Paramount's "Touchdown," we would suggest a team consisting of Allan Dwan, who played at Notre Dame; George Bromley, an exhibitor, who was a star lineman at Minnesota; Sam Wood, who played in Philadelphia; Richard Dix, who was in the Minnesota lineup; and, of course, several of the Notre Dame boys, who are wearing the gridiron togs for good old Universal.

Dwight Caldwell is now in complete charge of the film editing department at the Larry Darmour studios. He has been with Darmour for the past three years.

Clarence Kolster has completed the editing of "Waterloo Bridge" for Universal.

Hollywood seems to be housing all the Broadway comedians. Jimmy Durante is the latest arrival. Others here include "Groucho" Marx, Al Jolson and Eddie Cantor. Cantor seems lonesome, as there are not enough benefits to play each night.

Radio Pictures will re-install its co-director system when "Sour Grapes" goes into production soon. John Halliday and Lynn Shores will share the megaphone, with Myles Connolly as associate producer.

Isabel Withers, Hank Mann and Bud Jamieson have been added to the cast of "Easy to Get," one of the "Gay Girl" series of RKO Pathé comedies directed by Howard Bretherton. June MacCloy, Marion Shilling and Gertrude Short are featured.

Louis Searcy, associate producer for Radio Pictures, has been combing Hollywood for drawing Southern accents—no synthetic ones will be considered for important bits and parts in "Secret Service," which is to star Richard Dix in the famous William Gillette play of the Civil War.

The unit producing Columbia's "Pagan Lady," returned several days ago from its location trips in San Pedro harbor and is now shooting final sequences at the studio. The picture is an adaptation of the stage play by William Du Bois, which served as a starring vehicle for Lenore Ulric on Broadway. Evelyn Brent portrays the Ulric role, supported by Conrad Nagel, Charles Bickford, Roland Young, William Farnum, Lucille Gleason, Leslie Fenton and Gwen Lee. John Francis Dillon is directing.

Harold Schwartz will direct the fourth Rosco Ates comedy for Radio Pictures. Schwartz is collaborating with Thomas Lennon on a story which will present the stammering comic in double roles. The picture is titled "The Guppy Twins." It will be produced and supervised by Louis Broek.

With the completion of his script of "Are These Our Children?" for Radio Pictures, Howard Estabrook, the studio's ace scenarist, has dropped all other work to finish "Frontier," an original story.

Production on "Local Boy Makes Good" at the First National studios will continue for at least another week, according to latest advice. It had been expected that shooting would be finished by July 15, but various matters have caused the right delay. Joe E. Brown, who is starred in the film, suffered an injury to his leg which postponed certain of the track sequences in this college picture, and later a location trip as far east as Lincoln, Neb., was necessary. Mervyn LeRoy is directing the film. Following its completion some time next week, he will leave at once for a vacation in the Sierras.

Preparations for filming the newspaper story "Sob Sister," by Mildred Gilman, former New York Daily News reporter, are going forward speedily at the Fox studios. Joyce Compton, George E. Stone and Minna Gombell have been selected to support Linda Watkins and James Dunn, leading players. Alfred Santell will direct "Sob Sister."

Bathing Beauties

Still Good 'Em

MANAGER J. J. Scholer of the Orpheum, Phoenix, Ariz., staged a bathing beauty contest in conjunction with the showing of "Lover Come Back." The bathing beauty dance revue was put on one night during the four-day run of picture. Scholer tied in with a local haberdasher who sponsored the revue with a dancing instructor and proprietor of dancing school staging it. The haberdasher furnished fifteen bathing suits and presented each one in cast with one of these suits gratis.

Guessing Contest

Based on Scene Mat

MANAGER Milton Schosberg grabbed his share of free space through a newspaper tie-up in putting over "Up Pops the Devil!" at the Public-Hollywood, Pottsville, Pa. One of the scene mats suggested the idea to Schosberg. He then contacted the newspaper on the idea of a guessing contest and they in turn liked the idea so well that they gave 38 inches of free space to the contest. Schosberg says that this idea might be passed along to the boys who are in towns similar to Pottsville where there is no engraving plant.

TIMELY TOPICS

A Digest of Current Opinions

Film Fan Not A Sophisticate

The charge that the film fan today is over-sophisticated cannot stand up against the fact that children and animals play a more important part in modern screen stories than ever before. This is so patent that an episode introducing a child or a dog is coming to be regarded almost "sure-fire" from the standpoint of audience-interest. There has never been a time in the history of pictures when children were so generally employed in them as today, and it is due to the fresh and wholesome flavor which their presence imparts to a story. The ingenious role played by a child actor will provide laughter or tears wherever the most skilful actor will fail. This is very good evidence that the hard-boiled sophistication attributed to audiences is greatly over-stated. It is not unusual to see a scene in which a pet dog or a baby lift a complete production out of the rut of mediocrity, so unfailing is the interest of audiences in the innocent and unstudied manner which characterizes their appearance on the screen.

Foreign Solution's Hope Seen in Silent Technique

the general sentiment in stating that Europe and America need most today, in addition to the well-known good five-cent cigar, is more silent and silent technique in pictures.

"Let's get back to the pantomime which made the motion picture industry. Let's develop a system to supplement the pantomime with the gifts of speech with which the electrical gods have endowed mankind. Let's talk ourselves to death. American pictures, American technique, and above all American made stars are crying demand throughout the world. The demand is no less now than it was five years ago.

Dubbing and the use of native stars speaking the language of the respective countries have proved unsatisfactory, the foreign managers report. Importing of foreign players for the production of the multi-linguals in Hollywood also has failed to pan out profitably, since the Hollywood stars are preferred by the foreign audiences.

A study of the imports among major companies is gradually crystallizing on the fact that the best course lies in the silent technique, eliminating the addition of a little music and other touches whereby the regular Hollywood productions can be adapted at low cost for exhibition abroad.

UNIQUE IN-A-FLOOR SAFE ADAPTABLE TO THEATER

Los Angeles—A new safe of small dimension that is embedded in concrete in the floor is entirely drill-proof, pick-proof and punch-proof, adaptable to all theaters where surplus funds during business hours are removed from the register and receipts for the day have to be taken care of, has been developed by the In-A-Floor Safe Co., Ltd., of this city.

The features of this new safe, it is declared, prevent burglars from removing it from the premises. The top rests flush with the floor, does not take up valuable floor space, is inconspicuous, and is equipped with patented fool-proof locks. The walls of the In-A-Floor, it is further said, though case-hardened to withstand the outsights of either drills or blow-torches, are inaccessible because of being surrounded by concrete.

Distribution of the In-A-Floor safe has been taken over by the National Theater Supply Co.

Sound picture production activities are always beginning to take shape in the Far East, according to a recent statement made by Harry G. Musgrove, newly appointed by Ambrose Dowling, L.C.O. foreign manager, as Far East representative.

Japanese and Chinese picture companies, he states, have sent agents to Hollywood to buy sound equipment and make a survey of production methods. A little sound picture production he also says is going on in the former country. Lack of proper laboratory facilities and equipment has been an obstacle in the way of sound film production. A few theater construction projects are being discussed in Shanghai and Peking, Musgrove states the hourly proposed seating capacities are between 2,000 and 3,000.

Adds Screen Resurfacing Dept

Pittsburgh—Screen resurfacing is now being done by the Tri-State Theater Equipment Exchange, under the direction of S. & H. Wenzlick.

Manchester's New Film Palace

Manchester — Local Manchester men are arranging to build a 2,000-seat super film theater in this city to be known as the Broadway theater. It will be in the Broad St. Pendleton, section, and many innovations will be introduced, including a movable orchestra platform and new lighting effects.

WEBER CORP. SUPPLYING SYNCHROFILM A.C. UNITS

Rochester, N. Y.—Completely new A.C.-operated power supply units, designed for the elimination of all batteries from the new Synchromatic sound equipment and for replacements for batteries in use with equipment installed, have been developed and are now being offered by the Weber Machine Corp. of this city.

The equipment is made in two units, one of which consists of an "A." unit for the supply of current to exciters and also for the operation of the amplifier tubes, and a "B." unit for supplying plate voltage to the head amp- lifier tubes and plate grids, or plate cells.

All units are ruggedly built, on pressed steel chassis, and are supplied with ventilated steel cabinets for wall mounting. The entire assembly and wiring of the component parts make a compact and efficient unit, the method of wall mounting having proven very desirable in projection rooms where the floor space is limited, it is declared.

Three Lens Turret Makes Exact Position Possible

A three-turret lens that will accommodate three lenses of any size necessary for the presentation of sound-on-film, disc, silent or Mag- nasep, is being offered by Basson & Stern, sound accessory device manufacturers of Brooklyn. With the use of this turret, the register is shown, it will be possible to change any original projection lenses that may be in use, at very little cost, minimum possibility of error by the projectionists as only one lens has to be used with any register.

ALTERNATIVES

Tacoma, Wash.—The Fox-Broadway has been closed for the summer months, during which time the house will undergo a complete rejuvenation. It is expected to reopen early in the fall. Clem Pope is the manager.

Petersburg, Alaska—Remodeling and the installation of new equipment is being made in the Columbia, owned by W. D. Gross.

Sac City, Iowa—Layo Miller, new owner of the Canton, is remodeling and installing new furnishings.

Beavertale, Pa.—S. Maurer's Globe theater, destroyed by fire some weeks ago, will be completely rebuilt and new equipment installed.

Bellwood, Pa.—Acoustical treatment and general improvements are being made at the State.

Lewiston, Pa.—The Pastime is soon to be remodeled and the installation of new equipment made. The house, which was recently damaged by fire, was operated by Ike Berney, who plans to reopen early in the fall.

Wilmerding, Pa.—Having been dark for many months, the Grand has been leased and is expected to undergo general improvements.

Joins National Sales Force

Pittsburgh—Alexander Park, veteran film man in this territory, is now connected with the local National Theater Supply Co. branch in a special sales capacity.
The following is by R. H. McCullough, Fox Theaters sound expert, whose discussions of equipment problems appear regularly in Fox's "The Last Word."

With every sound installation there is a monitor horn installed in the projection room, so that the projectionist may hear the sound as well as the audience. The volume of sound from the monitor horn must be kept at a certain level, so that the sound cannot be heard in the theater auditorium.

A loud monitor horn will produce an echo in the rear of the auditorium if the projection room is not sound proof. I have found that excessive circumferences play-in in the intermittent movement will result in a slight lack of synchronism with movie tone reproduction. There is a very exact relation between the projector aperture and the sound gate registration. Unless it is very loud this probable will not amount to very much, insofar as I have to do with the screen effect. The projector mechanism intermittent movement must be 100 per cent perfect, as every little fault eliminated helps toward perfection.

The loud-speaker unit is a delicate piece of mechanism which should not be subjected to avoided shocks. When speaker units are moved from one place to another, those who handle them should be duly impressed with the importance of being careful. It is quite evident that if hum is encountered with both Movietone and talkyphone subjects, the trouble is in the power amplifiers. Hum can often be traced to defective shorted vacuum tubes, either in the stages preceding the last stage or in the last stage itself.

Unbalanced rectifier tubes will cause a very bad hum. Worn out tubes (low emission) frequently cause hissing and howling. If popping or ackling noises are perceptible at high volume levels, this trouble can often be located in the base of one of the 21Vacuum tubes in the 43-A amplifier or one of the 205-D vacuum tubes in a 42-A amplifier.

The first point to remember is to check the tubes and take nothing for granted. Excessive hum can be caused by shorted by-pass condensers, open by-pass condensers, and input transformers. As resistors, shorted filter chokes and filter condensers are the main condition which will manifest itself in the howling of the rectifier tubes and power transformer. Great care must be exercised that the input wiring to the amplifiers is well shielded from all A.C. wiring.

Occasional hum can sometimes be traced to the fields from adjacent electrical equipment, such as mercury arc rectifiers, rotary converters, motor generators and small motors. I have circumstantial evidence that the A.C. circuit, which feeds the power amplifiers and rectifiers, should always be run independently of any other electrical appliance. The best method to find out definitely if the hum is caused by some other electrical appliance is to turn on the amplifiers with all the other electrical equipment turned off and if you find that the hum is not in the amplifier, turn on each electrical appliance individually until you find the one which is causing the frequency hum during the time the amplifiers are in operation.

NAT'L BUSY INSTALLING CHAIRS AND CARPETs

Many theater owners throughout the country are currently improving their houses with new chairs and carpet installations, according to an announcement made by the National Theater Supply Co. Among these equipped with new chairs include the Loma, Burbank, Calif.; Delft, Marquette, Mich.; State, Salem, O.; and the Majestic, Reno, Nev. Recent chair installations announced by the company include the Zenith, Davenport, Iowa; Grand, Perry, Iowa; Sun, Grand Lodge, Mich.; Taft, Chiliheith, Mo.; New, Mullins, S. C.; Home, Blytheville, Ark., and the Ritz, Daytona Beach, Fla.

Low-Priced Recording System

Los Angeles—A new low-priced studio sound system known as the "Kico," employing the double system of recording and in which has been incorporated the new method of noiseless recording, besides having been especially designed for use in all climates, has been marketed by the Radio Installation Co. of this city.

The new equipment, engineered by the company claim, is an effort to meet the needs of independent and foreign production companies which cannot afford the higher priced sound equipment.
FRANCE IN DRIVE TO MEET TALKING FILM SHORTAGE

Paré—France is making her biggest effort yet to overcome the shortage of talking motion pictures. Despite the summer weather, production activities are being pushed at fever heat. Native talking pictures are scarce—so scarce that the new Gaumont Palace Theater was recently opened with the American "Tabu."

Among French talking films announced for production or now in actual work are "Autel-Longchamps," with the Parisian race course as a background; "Heart of the Lake," a French talkie being made for United Artists by Maurice de Canonge, the French director, from a story by Tristan Bernard; "How Small is the World," to be directed from another Tristan Bernard story by Felix Meric; "Prisoner of My Heart," started last week by Director Jean Tarride, with Mary Glory in the leading role; "Nothing But the Truth," which Rene Guttart will direct for Paramount; "The Tragedy of the Mine," which G. Pabst has been directing in Westphalia; "Monstre le Marechal," which Charles Lamarc is directing for Pathé-Nathan; "Fripouille and Company," the latest Halk production; "The Post Office," which Films Osso will produce with Bucoot as lead; "Marius," Marcel Pagnol's famous play, which Paramount will produce and Alexander Felix will direct; "The Foreign Legion," a Gloria Film production which Wladimir Strijewsky will direct.

London—F. Alfred, one of the best known members of the film export trade in London, is dead at the age of 54 from double pneumonia. He had recently arranged to enter British production with ambitious plans.

Spain Asks Tax Repeal

Madrid—The rise to the power of the Republican government in Spain has emboldened Spanish exhibitors to ask the Minister of Finance for complete suppression of the film taxes. The government, under the Monarchy, for a reduction of these taxes. To the new demand the Finance Minister replied that it will give careful consideration to the requested repeal if a detailed report is submitted.

Studio Workers' Endowment

London—Julius Hagen has announced an endowment scheme for the benefit of the employees of the Twickenham Studios. A certain percentage of every salary will be deducted weekly to which sum the company will add half as much again. The accumulated sums will be turned over to the employees upon leaving employment at the studio or in case of invalid disability. In case of death the sums form part of the deceased’s estate.

Para. Glasgow Theater

To Be 3,000 Seat Palace

Glasgow—It is reliably reported here that Paramount will begin in January the erection of its palatial $2,000,000 motion picture theater on the large island property facing Renfield Street, and extending to West North Street and the West Regent Street, which it bought some time ago at a cost of $500,000. Information here is that it will seat 3,000, with most luxurious accommodations. All of the tenants, save one, in the vast building on the site have already vacated the premises.

Hungarian Film Unions

Ask for a State Loan

Budapest—Local industrial film unions have started negotiations looking towards the raising of a State loan for the purpose of reorganizing the Hungarian film industry. The amount of the contemplated loan is stated to be 1,000,000 pengo—about $175,000—the sum to be used to cover the existing debts. The new pictures will be redeemable within a period of three years, the amortization to be effected in weekly payments, including interest. Debtors who do not make their payments to the State on time will not be supplied with pictures.

British Lion Corp.

Reaches Profit Stage

London—Although the third accounts of the British Lion Corporation, recently sent to share holders, show a loss of $30,920, the directors state that they feel confident that the company has now reached the stage where substantial profits can be expected. It was in view of this that the re-organizing of the authorized share of the capital was thought advisable. The gross profit on productions made during the period and studio rentals was $87,320 during the sixteen-month period covered by the accounts. Three of the taking pictures made during the period have been favorably received by the public, it is stated in the report.

Opens Teddington Film Studios

London—Henry Edwards and E. G. Norman announce that their Teddington Film Studios are now ready for occupancy. The studios occupy a five-acre plot within a few minutes of both Teddington and Hampton Wick stations.

British Censors Passed Fewer Films During May

London—There was a sharp decline in the number of films passed in May by the British Board of Film Censors. A certain percentage of every salary will be deducted weekly to which sum the company will add half as much again. The accumulated sums will be turned over to the employees upon leaving employment at the studio or in case of invalid disability. In case of death the sums form part of the deceased’s estate.

Australian Film Rentals Reported at Lowest Ebb

Sydney—Australian exhibitors have taken issue with the recent statement by the Minister for Customs that Australia sends abroad approximately $10,000,000 a year for motion pictures. The statement was challenged by the M.P.I.A., "Every Australian operator, has also taken issue with the statement, declaring that such a sum has not only never been sent abroad but has never been guessed by any one year by Australian exhibitors.

"Today," declares that journal talking pictures earn less in film rentals than foreign pictures in 1922, 1927 and 1928. An investigation of distributors’ accounts by the Royal Commission established the fact the in 1926 remittances from Australia to America totalled $3,850,000, while in 1927 the sum was $3,700,000. These were the silent days. In March, 1928, opponents of the industry declare that Australia was remitting $12,500, 100 to the United States for talking pictures.

Sir Victor Wilson refutes this with a statement that the actual sum was $5,583,705. Figuring 40 per cent of the rentals to be spent here and 60 per cent to be remitted overseas that sum represents a gross rental revenue of $9,306,165—and that was the very peak of talkie prosperity.

"Everyone’s estimates that todate the gross revenue is $6,000,000, or which $3,000,000, less Federal tax, represents the amount that would be remitted were remittances possible. So that, despite the enormously increased cost, the Australian trade is today paying less in rental than for silent films four years ago."

New Japanese Film Company

Tokyo—Japan's new motion picture producing company, the N. Makiyo Kinenba Eiga-sha, recently formed as a joint stock company with a capitalization of 500,000 yen, announced plans for producing pictures in June at Kyoto. It is reported that the company may open a studio near Tokyo, M. Makino, managing director of the concern, states that famous novels, both classic and modern, will be filmed by his company.

Ufa’s New Screen

Berlin—The Ufa Handelsgeellschaft, technical department of the Ufa organization, is marketing a new "Ufa Super彩色" screen after long experiment, by means of which, it is stated, the loss of lighting power is reduced to such an extent that as high as 60 per cent to 65 per cent. The screen can be washed without damage, it is said.

“SECRETS OF A SECRETARY” with Claudette Colbert, Herbert Marshall, George Barbier. Paramount
Time, 71 mins.

DANDY BOX-OFFICE ATTRACTION IN STORY AS WELL AS CAST. ESPECIALLY GROUSE WOMAN’S PICTURE.

Paramount’s New York studio turned out a good h.o. bet in this nicely-paced story in which Betty Garde, in her first film, is a delightful flirt, and action is all. Besides the alluring Claudette Colbert, the cast includes two new male principals—Barbara Stanwyck, as a public relations man, and George Metaxa, who ought to click with the girls. Marshall plays a distinguished fiance of a rich society girl, Betty Garde, infatuated with Metaxa, a cabaret singer and gigolo. The gig has handed a rotten deal to his wife, Miss Colbert, Purcell, which ought to be one’s social secretary. Love crops up between the fiance and the secret- ary, and Garde’s nerve is played out, and she is bumped off for cheating her racketeer pals in connection with jewels lifted from parsley. His wife takes the blame for the society girl, who is accidentally involved in the killing, but the facts are unrav- elled and Garde is cleared. A first-rate story, with the see the getting the fiance and the bad girl being spanked.

Cast: Claudette Colbert, George Purcell, Barbara Stanwyck, George Metaxa, Betty Lawford, Mary Bo- land, Bertone Chambers, Averell Harrington, Betty Garde, Hugh O’Connell.

“THE MAN IN POSSESSION” with Montgomery Clift, Irene Purcell
M-G-M
Time, 79 mins.

DELIGHTFUL LIGHT ENGLISH COMEDY WITH CLEVER DIALOGUE AND LOVE SITUATIONS.pp. THE TIMES WILL GO FOR STRONG.

Adapted from the stage play by H. C. Young, screenplay is natural for laughs, which come steadily throughout the footage. It is a comedy of the drawing room in the manner of “My Man Godfrey,” but the action takes place mostly in a drawing room setting. Robert Montgomery proves himself to be a light comic, a savior of the first water, and he is bound to come over big with the females, especially in his love scenes with Miss Purcell. His humor is charming and delicately handled. A picture for the best audiences, too, for the gents, as the entire production will be a great treat to them. Montgomery is placed squarely in the comedic role. He takes charge of the home of Irene Purcell, until a certain bill she owes is satisfied. He offers to act as butler to help her out. The complications are very clever and funny. One of the best comedies of several seasons.

Cast: Robert Montgomery, Irene Purcell, Barry Fitzgerald, Ann Blyth, Elisha Cook, Jr., Ann Doran, Regional Owen, Alan Mowbray, Mandie Ehrine, Forrest Harvey, York Shower.

Director, Sam Wood; Author, H. M. Har- rison; Directors, Adrian Scott, Sarah Mamson, G. W. Doweheide; Editor, Ben Lewis; Camerman, Oliver T. Marsh; Recording Engineer, Karl Zint.

Direction, smart. Photography, excellent.

“TOO MANY COOKS” with Bert Wheeler, Dorothy Lee Radio
Time, 77 mins.

GOOD LAUGH NUMBER. A NATURAL FOR FAMILY TRADE. IT IS A STAYING BUILD AROUND FUNNY IN-LAWS SITUATION. SHOULD BE NATURALLY A BOX-OFFICE SUCCESS.

Adapted from the stage play by Frank Craven. It puts Bert Wheeler in a somewhat different role, playing in a comic of the type of a sick-Sunday waiter who is trying to build a home in the country for his intended, the part giving him a chance for some real serious work. So he may get hold of a wordy theme. As he progresses with the building of his house, the girls, the Cook family, come out to look it over. They all try to tell him what to do and how to do it. To make matters worse, his rich uncle takes a smart interest in the lot. The result is a bust up between the hero and his girl. The house is finished, and with no wife to occupy the family turns the ad, having got married himself in the meanwhile. Works up to a climactic ending with the uncles turn- ing the house back to the boy. The couple, now happily reconciled, the story carries a whole lot of wholesome and shrewd truth that should go big.

Cast: Bert Wheeler, Dorothy Lee, Sharon Lynn, Renee Axen, Robert McWade, Hallam Thomas, Frank Craven, Alice McManus, George Chandler.

“MURDER BY THE CLOCK” with George O’Brien, Sally Ellyer Fox
Paramount
Time, 75 mins.

GOOD MURDER MELODRAMA OF SEMI-MYSTERY TYPE WITH A LOAD OF KILLING, KNOCK-OUTS, AND WELL-DISTRIBUTED COMEDY.

Mystery mystery amid spooky surroundings and sinister characters is given another whirl in this one. It is around a million pounds, which is played by Lilyan Tashman, who causes a bunch of killings, including her husband and her secret sweetheart, so that she may get hold of a wordy sheet of dough left by an eccentric aunt whose death she also inspired. The wife is clever enough to cover up her tracks for a long time, but really a smart detective, who refuses to respond to her wiles, takes her into custody for her own good. It is the familiar old house servant who makes ominous utterances and predictions, also the late rich woman’s illegitimate son, a leering maniac with great strength, strikingly portrayed by Irving Pichel. Frequent outbreaks of comedy help to relieve the funeral theme. The plot is full of suspense, as well as comedy touches are supplied by Sally O’Neil and Regis Toomey.

Director, Edward Sloman; Author, Rufus Béatrix; Charles Balsam; Adaptation, Henry Myres; Dialogue, same; Editor, not credited; Cameraman, Karl Struss; Recording Engineer, not credited.

Direction, appropriate. Photography, good.

Barbara Stanwyck in “NIGHT NURSE” with Ben Lyon, Joan Blondell, Clark Gable Warner Bros.
Time, 72 mins.

HANDSOME BUT MEAN MIXTURE OF HOSPITAL DRAMA, CROSSWICKS AND COMEDY, WITH GOOD WORK BY GALE.

Starting out with a hospital background, this story develops into a crock drama wherein Barbara Stan- wyck, playing as a nurse, makes a last effort to save the life of a couple of little girls who are literally being starved to death in a scheme to get possession of a trust fund left to them. A breezy booteegler, played by Ben Lyon, whom Miss Stanwyck attended at a time when he was shot down in Europe, chance to look after since she has been pretty badly manhandled by a tough chauffeur, Clark Gable, and of the characters as a result of her wirecapping and comedic antics, all of which register solidly. Lyon’s booteegler role also is in a com- edy vein, and there are plenty of laughs throughout.

Director, William Wellman; Author, Marc Constance Bennett’s popularity among movie fans is evidenced by the fact that she makes this a drawing card of fair proportions, although the story itself doesn’t produce much of a dramatized punch due to lack of solid action. Miss Bennett now looked better and McCrea also makes his best impression to date. Adapted from the Ray Converse story, the plot concerns a girl with a past who decides to go straight and bcomes a nurse. There is much interference and other complication follow, ending in regulation happy ending. The atmosphere in the story is in the way of the studio slick, and a Parisian artist’s ball. Lew Core plays the model’s former sweetheart. Cast: Constance Bennett, Joel McCrea, Walter Pidgeon, Robert Lecky, Charles Judels, Frank Lago. Direction, careful. Photography, good.

“MEN OF THE SKY” First National
Time, 71 mins.

FAIR SPY STORY, POOR DEVELOPMENT, HITS WA Y BIS TOOP NOTE FOR THE FINISH.

This one was written by Jero Kern and Otto Harbach, gents of the lightweight thriller set, and it looks like they started to build up a strong musical theme and then switched to a regulation talkie. Talkie is very, very poor, it is only an incident in the plot. It hints on a girl spy working for the Free government with her father during the war, but signal to the aviator, who has just landed on the estate to come into the house and get the secret plans, as to then fly back across the French border with them. He happens to her former sweetheart whom she has tried to discord to play up a German officer for the secret works planes which she can get from his music sheet, as there is no harmony created for any of the characters. The continuity is ragged with innumerable fadeouts to other parts of the story and it ends with the sweetheart and girl killed and led out to the firing squad, flashes the picture on a dismal note. Cast: George O’Brien, Sally Ellyer, Jack LaRoy, Rallah Raghart, James Kirkwood, Richard Golden, Mediterranean, Miles Tucker, Earl Tingrey.

Director, W. S. Van Dyne; Author, Max Baer; Adaptation, Ralph Block; Dialogue, Alfred A. Cohn, Myron Fagan; Editor, Ralph Finck; Cameraman, George Schniederling; Recording Engineer, Donald Flick.

Adventures in Africa

(No. 5—Trails of the Hunted)

Vitaphone 510S

Time: 15 mins.

Good, But Lengthy

One of the best in the series of Jungle shorts produced under the supervision of W. C. Fields. It is both clever and amusing, and the work of the cameraman, while it lacks the distinctive touch of the original series, still remains one of the best. The film is well-acted, and the story is carried along at a rapid pace, making it enjoyable for all ages.

Surefire

Here the comedian, Benny Rubin, does a bit of true work in films. He has been a comic for many years, but this is the first time he has been given a real opportunity to show his talent. He is a natural comedian, and his performance is sure to please all who see it.

“Children of Dreams”

arner Bros.

Time: 16 mins.

MUSICAL ROMANCE, SLOW AND DRAGGY, FAILS TO BUILD ANY REAL INTEREST

The combination from Oscar Hammerstein and Sigmund Romberg succeeds in developing some rather tuneful melodies, and that is its biggest trump. The story is told, directed and acted. It hangs heavily, and fails to build up to the high expectations of the audiences. No sympathy is created for the main characters. The net result is that of something very artificial, with the characters of a country girl with a voice, ne to leave her sweetheart to go to New York and the big city.

Helen Broderick in “Cold Turkey”

Vitaphone 923B

Time: 8 mins.

Passable

Helen Broderick has not much work in this skit, but she manages to win her way through it in a manner that should prove acceptable in the not too particular stand. It starts out as something about a round-the-world tour, although the journey heals in Turkey, where Helen squeezes her way into a sultan’s harem in the guise of one of the wives. There she finds that her aged sweetheart has brought out the true face of the sultan, and there is a lively action finale.

“Say a Little Prayer for Me”

Vitaphone 4888

Time: 6 mins.

Nice Organ Novelty

A neat little musical specialty produced by Leon Schlasinger. It is on the order of the famous song “Say a Little Prayer for Me,” played on the organ by Carmen Crobie and also delivered by the same voice. One of the best of its kind.

“The Busy Beaver”

(Silly Symphony)

Columbia

Time: 8 mins.

Great Cartoon

Walt Disney made a “knock-out” when he produced this Silly Symphony cartoon that is really new and different. It is an idea that is smooth and clever and synchonous that never misses a beat. Disney has taken a theme which shows beavers building a dam and cartooned beavers can do it. It finishes with a long one beaver attempting to save the dam from destruction. The reel is fast, funny and fine.

“21 Paumagitt Pictorial No. 9”

Paramount

Time: 11 mins.

Interesting

Three widely separated subjects of fall interest make up this Pictorial. The trio includes a hilarious honeymoon in Abyssinia conducted by Lowell Thomas, a harp demonstration, and a hodgepodge of the world. Particularly interesting are the hippo scenes, showing how the natives conduct their life and finally land the big animals in the harp. The following few words about the instrument, a selection is played by a feminine ensemble. The stuff is not bad.

“Babykins”

Vitaphone

Time: 17 mins.

Good and of

A big husky forces his pal, a midget, to pose as an infant and take part in a baby show. The midget wins the $300 prize, while the big guy pockets. Then along comes a gushing dame who wants to adopt the “baby,” whereupon the supposed “father” makes a deal with her, getting another $2,000. But the midget runs away from her would-be guardians and comes up with his double-crossing pal, who had figured to beat it in a cab, which winds up in front of a police station instead of the railroad station. A rather cute comedy affair, with plenty of entertainment values for both young and old.

Fair

Not as good as most of the previous numbers in the Magic Carpet series. Nearly all of the shots are pretty familiar and contain no special angles to differentiate them from similar scenes employed time and again in newspapers and pictures. The main thing, of course, is the sight of the messenger for which Coney is famous. Anyone who has seen any of the other stunts, such as the walk and beach front swarms, personally or in pictures, will get a fair kick out of this.

“Unfair Sex”

with Dan Healy, Dolly Gilbert

Vitaphone 1111

Time: 7 mins.

Great Musical Novelty

Opens in a courtroom setting, where a couple is up before the judge on charges of creating a disturbance in a dance hall. The man explains how it happened, his story being enacted by a flashlight showing him as a dancing schelk giving the love-sick girl a load of rough treatment. Makes for satisfactory entertainment for general audiences.

“Cold Turkey”

Vitaphone

Time: 10 mins.

Okay

In the sixth of his golf series, Bobby Jones goes into the ins and outs of long iron play. His hitting is as entertaining as it is informative, while he does a good job of explaining the movements past the camera, one of the balls actually hit the machine, and this supplies a touch of something unusual. The whizzing of the balls past the camera is another highlight of the number. Outside of this, the latest Bobby Jones film is quite good, as usual, and is recommended to all golfers, though it maintains interest and should have no trouble satisfying.
GOVERNMENT REFUSES TO ADVISE ON CONTRACT
John Lord O’Brien to ascertain the attitude of the Department of Justice on the general subject of the right of exhibitors and producers on the use of the new uniform agreement, the Department merely called attention to the section of the Thacker decree reading in part as follows:

“Nothing contained in this decree shall be construed as prohibiting any defendant, or any member of any defendant Film Board of Trade from performing and/or continuing to perform, or enjoining or/and continuing to enforce, by any lawful means any contractual obligation the performance or enforcement of which is consistent with the provisions of this decree. Nor shall anything contained in this decree be construed as prohibiting any defendant or any member of any defendant Film Board of Trade from selecting his or its own trade, from disposing of his or its own products, or from making any contracts with or without provisions relating to arbitration—all upon such terms as he or it may choose—provided such acts are done individually and without combining, conspiring or agreeing with any other defendant or any member of any Film Board of Trade.

“Nothing contained in this decree shall be construed as pertaining to the right of the defendants, or any of them, individually or jointly, to negotiate and to agree with any exhibitors of motion pictures on a standard form of contract to be used in licensing the exhibition of motion pictures or on any standard provision or provision included in such license contracts, including reasonable provisions for the arbitration of disputes arising thereunder, if done voluntarily and without coercion, and if applied only to the parties to the negotiations and agreement.”

Stage Show at Paramount Features Blues Rhythms
In keeping with its title, “Three Shades of Blue,” the current stage show at the New York Paramount is built on the “blues” theme. Borrah Minevitch and His Harmonica Rascals, long popular as a vaudeville headline attraction, top the contingent of featured artists with their melodious and novelty renditions on the mouth instrument. The Forsythe Randolph Colored Choir also contributes some of its popular Negro style singing. Others on the program include the Six Blue Devils, another standard act, and Rita White, with the Binne Girls doing good ensemble work and Rubinoff directing the Paramount Orchestra. The production was devised by Boris Petroff. Vincente Minnelli did the attractive setting and costumes.

Lively Specialty Acts
For Capitol Stage Show
The stage show at the Capitol is “Happy Feet,” staged by Chester Hale. Opening with the Chester Hale Girls doing a routine featuring a song, “Happy Feet.” Then a team of tap dancers, Sanna and Lonon, are on for a snappy routine with some clever solo work by each. Of the lads does a slick bit dressed as the monkey that brought the laughter with his comic acrobatics. Paul Seidel and his trained fox terrier was a novelty act, balancing the dog on his hands in all sorts of unusual poses. The Chester Hale Girls were back for a neat number employing chairs, which gave them a chance for some clever cornations. Wilton and Weber finished with their comedy patter, and the girls on in very handsome costumes for a snappy finale.

Pipeless Organ Demonstrated
First demonstration of the recently perfected Richard Piano Pipeless organ took place recently at Ranger’s home in Jersey, with Warren Yates, organist of the Warner Fabian Pater- nity, playing the selections. Walter A. Rivers, formerly with First National, is now production manager for Eugene Castle, and Charles Charlton, formerly of the Pathe Review, has also joined the staff. Bert S. Dawley, formerly with Paramount and First- patrix, has been appointed chief technician.

Romantic Diversity Marks Roxy Stage Bill
The Roxy presentation this week offers a diversity of entertainment. Maurice Baron leads the symphony orchestra in a stirring rendition of the familiar “Second Hungarian Rhapsody,” during which Arbad Babos is featured playing the cæ- denza on the Russian cymbalon. The overture is followed by an impressive tableau, with music, entitled “White Lilies.” Harold Van Duze, as The Monk, delivers a tenor solo and the Roxy ensemble beautifully renders “In a Monastery Garden.” The Kikutas, Japanese tumblers, received thunderous applause following their thrilling acrobatic. The Roxettes are given somewhat of a well-earned rest this week. Their number, “A Boy Scout’s Camp” although short, is well done and clever. “Zigeuner Weißen,” a tale of Gypsy love, is the final offering. Fredric Frankin, violinist and Nina Polske are featured. Miss Polske has been promoted from the ballet corps and is adequately filling the place left vacanct by the absence of Patricia Bow- man, who is on vacation. Dolores, Douglas and Edly, in a startling “dan- o. dance, are among the best seen at this house this year.

FEWER AND BETTER FILMS

strongly urges producers to adopt a 'fewer and better pictures' policy.

Whereas in good times a little exhibitor could occasionally shelve a mediocre picture that he accepted under his block contract, under present conditions he cannot afford to do this, especially since even with the cancellation clause it eliminates the right to very few pictures, says Giles.

Sex stories and those with an immoral tinge, including some gangster pictures, have been altogether undone, and they are doing nothing more than inviting censorship, declares the exhibitor leader. He also says the sophisticated pictures do not go well in the smaller towns and even the best of these productions have not been box-office, but he believes that a limited number should still be made.

Giles is dead set against double-features, stating that two good pictures should not be on the same bill, while a weak production on a double program does more harm than good.

He is opposed to admission price-cutting on the ground that theaters cannot stand it under present operating conditions.

Theaters are the last to feel depression, says Giles, but the theater has now caught up with other businesses in this regard.

BROADWAY NR. JEFFERSON

BUFFALO, N.Y.

JUNE Seventeenth 1931

My dear Mr. Miller:-

While it is extremely unusual, I cannot refrain from commenting on the results we have obtained with UNIVERSAL PICTURES as compared with all the other product we played last season. You will remember the difficulty we had in getting together, due to the difference in price and the reluctance with which we signed your deal. In fact it was only because we wanted ALL QUIET and KING OF JAZZ that we purchased the balance of the contract at all. Imagine our surprise when a final analysis proves that we made more money, picture for picture, on the UNIVERSAL LINE UP than that of any other distributor.

FREE LOVE, CAT CREEPS, LITTLE ACCIDENT, DRACULA, COHENS AND KELLYS IN AFRICA and LADY SURRENDERS all did exceptionally fine business for us.

If UNIVERSAL can keep up this pace, turning out productions that will do what these pictures have done for us, your local representative will find a ready listener on his next visit to us.

I want to thank you for insisting that I sign up last year even though I thought that we had over paid you right straight down the line.

Kindest regards.

Very truly yours,

BAA Wallerstein

MANHEIM REPEATS ADVICE ON "SILENT TECHNIQUE"

has since been born out by the experience of companies who tried such versions. The Manheim statement, now being echoed with increasing loudness throughout the industry, goes:

"During the past year, American producers have realized the tremendous value of Spanish, French, Polish, Swedish, Italian and other foreign language pictures. Due to the present market, they will start looking for their profits. Let's hope they find it, but judging from the number of foreign talkers that have already shipped, there is every indication that the experiment is a failure and that the American producers will have to turn to the old silent technique. The time is at hand for us to maintain business in the non-English speaking terriities."

"It is also apparent that the numerous hybrid versions of American pictures that have been tried out are not a permanent solution. The reason is plain. Except in a few cases, the present type of American picture cannot be successfully adapted. Most of our pictures today are one-hundred percent dialogue. The story is told with spoken words which a foreign audience cannot understand.

"It, however, we revert to the old silent technique, and tell the story with panom inwith action scenes, with sub-titles and add to this music and whatever sound effects are possible, and only use dialogue when absolutely necessary, we will then have a type of picture that can be as obtainable and as expensively adapted for foreign countries, and, in every probability, such a picture could be highly acceptable right here in America."

"It seems to make you think of the many millions of dollars which will be spent before the industry realizes that foreign talkers cannot handle a profit."

Koplar-Skouras Break Promises Bitter Fight in St. Louis Suits

St. Louis—Following the split between Harry Koplar and the Skouras brothers, resulting in Koplar openly becoming a party to the receivership suit against the Skouras Bros. Enterprises and Skouras Super-Theaters Corp., Koplar's sister, Mrs. Elise Probst, also has permitted her name to be endorsed to the amended petition, while another minor stockholder, I. Meyer Probst, has joined the fight. The petitioners say they now own 2,250 shares of Skouras Class A stock. The Koplar-Skouras breach caused quite a sensation in local film circles, and a hard legal fight is anticipated. Among the charges is that Spyrros and Charley Skouras made a profit of $4,000,000 in selling the Skouras Class B stock at $150 against the houses and $150,000 bonus at the time they sold their stock. Hearing on this suit, as well as the similar action against St. Louis Amusement Co., is on the calendar for today, with Warner Bros. attorneys declaring the suits unfounded.

Viola Irene Cooper's London office, managed by Walter Maxwe11, has closed final arrangements for use of the talker rights to "Dr. Jekyll and Mr. Hyde" by Parrish. Fredric March may play the leading role.

"Transatlantic"

Caught in preview, this Fox production shaping up as a smart, sophisticated film done with class in the luxurious settings of an ocean liner. Edmund Lowe is featured as a gambler matching wits with an international gang of thieves. Plenty of femme fatale with a contrasting threesome of Lois Moran, Greer Garson and Marga Loewe is treated with unusual directorial touches, and unusual camera treatment. A first one would distinguish it.

The film has action all the way for the males, and an intriguing love angle for the femmes. The story hinges on the girl's brother getting double crosses them on a safe-cracking job by stealing the loot ahead of schedule. Later he is wounded by a cop's bullet, and the gang kidnaps him from the hospital to their hideout to force him to divulge where he has the recent developments in the production line.

Empire Daily is on the way to becoming the Hollywood of Latin-American pictures, Chase told The Film Daily. The climate there is even more favorable than California, he said, and the proximity of Mexico to Hollywood makes it possible to keep in constant touch with the advances being made by the U. S. studios.

Chase praised the Mexican government and the citizens of that country for their friendly attitude and cooperation in the new studio project. He displayed photographs of the grounds and various buildings, a modern and unusually attractive plant.

Empire Productions will not attempt to monopolize the Latin market. Chase states, but will allow the use of its studio facilities in encouraging other producers to undertake work there. He says the Latin picture pool is still star-crazy, but wants the right kind of stories and music in their product.

The frequently cited Spanish language difficulties, due to differences in dialects by groups of Indians, Chase avers, are being handled by the company's language department, and the foreign problem as a whole can be solved by grouping the various countries according to common language and establishing production centers in each group.

Where the big mistake is made in foreign versions, Chase points out, is in casting a player of one country to portray the role and speak the dialect of another country in which his appearance and speech do not fit. Chase also advocates specially written stories for the foreign countries, declaring that when U. S. productions are converted for other countries, only about ten per cent of the values are lost in the "translation."

whole question centered on "equitable distribution", and necessitated readjustment of wages, working hours and living conditions to meet the increasing possibilities of the "machine age" and that there was nothing fundamentally wrong with the country's or the American people.

"I communicated with every member of the United States Senate and most members of Congress on this question. With but few exceptions the replies were that it was not a Statesman's problem, but one for Congress to solve," said O'Toole.

"Let the Motion Picture Industry make this contribution to the people of the United States through the M. P. T. O. A. and your state organizations. We live in an age of unprecedented production. We have more food than we need, more clothing than we could wear. We have more homes and building material available than our people require and yet, men, women and children in this Nation are severely limited in the enjoyment of these life essentials. When we have as much or more than we need of everything and millions of worthy American lives are being wasted then surely the problem before us is one of distribution and readjustment of working and other conditions.

"Therefore, I make the following proposals to meet this most menacing situation.

1.-Provide (by law) school, home and living facilities for every child in the nation, up to the attainment of his or her fifteenth year, and in all such cases where we require a child to work industrially and make more jobs for adults. It would also provide for the proper care of sickly, weak, old people, and others not capable of earning a living.

2.-Then provide a minimum wage for all workers. This must not only be a living wage but one which will give a reasonable saving surplus from the fifteen to the thirty to the fifty year period. This will allow for these workers a five day week and eight hours per day. It will absorb most of the other unemployed and give necessary opportunity to attain the proper standard of living.

3.-A voluntary retirement from active labor at the age of sixty years and an adequate Old Age Pension for all workers from that period to the end of the lives. This will relieve all people of the necessity of remaining in productive employment and absorb all of the remaining unemployed.

O'Toole said the major political parties should be committed to these definite proposals through their accredited leaders as soon as possible.

SHORT SHOTS from EASTERN STUDIOS

By HARRY N. BLAIR

D. W. GRIFFITH has been presented with a gold card entitling him to honorary membership in Local No. 52, New York City. The presentation was made Saturday by Jack Flaherty, business manager of Audio Cinema studio, where Griffis is now in the midst of directing “The Struggle.”

With the completion of “My Sin,” the Paramount studio this week with the exception of retakes on “Personal Maid,” which Mary Meredith has been assigned to make.

“Success,” Fred Allen’s sketch, which forms the basis of a two-reel Vitaphone short, will shortly be released with Jack Haley in the leading role. Haley has been usuarioing for a year as a baseball player on a department store store, who has to make good in order to win the girl of his heart.

Clive Brook writes from the Coast that he is very busy, despite the hot season. He has recently completed his role in “Silence,” in the morning, and the same afternoon started work on “24 Hours.”

An amusing angle on the “Once in a Lifetime” legend is that Lawrence Baker, of Sound-View Films who recently rented the same office that he had used as an official of Photoclor Corp. Having once watched his name being scraped off the door. Baker had the exquisite pleasure of seeing his name while the very same workman carefully retouched his name.

Margaret Adams, who plays a prominent role opposite Scott Kolb in “My Sin,” traces her ancestry directly back to the Declaration of Independence. Asked if any of her ancestors had come across the Mayflower, Miss Adams was quick to reply that none of her relatives had ever “come across” on any boat. Incidentally, Paramount expects Adams to be the key of this little lady who not only combines beauty with acting ability, but also has a lovely soprano voice.

DRASTIC FLA. TAX LAID TO "$ PUBLICITY"

RKO Drops Its Plans for Making Sponsored Shorts

High-Spots

- in the offing

By JACk ALICOATE

Now that the midsummer season has been irritatingly but safely passed, we will polish up the binoculars and scan the projection horizon to see that the nema show-case holds in the way of box-office attraction for the early fall. Possibilities are now being readied for early autumnal diversion. From where we sit those hot looks are: from Paramount, "Amelie's Tragedy," and from RKO, "Susan Lenox, Her Fall and Rise," from Fox, "Trans-Atlantic," and from Warner Bros., "Five Star Final!"

From Pathé, "Devotion," and from U. A., "Street Angel." From Universal, "Strictly Dishonorable," and from Continental, "Consolation Marriage." From Columbia, "Hell Broke Loose," and from Vitaphone, "John McGahern." With Hollywood production still on its collective toes, this promising list should be plenty hot enough to temporarily keep the industry from the poor house as well as keep the box-office churning merrily well into the fall.

There's a special cause for anxiety on the way that no exhibitor should have any fear about running it if it is being produced by the Red Cross in conjunction with its 50th anniversary appeal to be released to theaters, without charge, some time in the fall. We understand this single cler will make no appeal for funds and assistance and that it carries a full fare of entertainment and historical value. The Red Cross is a nonsectional, non-political organization that is the complete backing of the government as well as the better class citizens everywhere. A plug for the Red Cross is a helping hand to humanity. As in the past it is unlikely that exhibitors everywhere will co-operate one hundred percent.

Jersey Exhib Leader Deplores Lack of Pictures for Family

Georgia Court Upholds Sunday Charity Movies

Principal criticism of current picture releases is that there are practically no pictures that appeal to the family trade, says Sidney E. Samuelson, president of Allied Theater Owners of New Jersey, in a statement for THE FILM DAILY. Samuelson joins the long list of exhibitors who declare that gangsters, sex, themes, dialogue and sophistication have been overdone. He believes they are more an act of charity than the sale of gasoline to travelers is an act of necessity.

CINCINNATI EXHIBITORS FIGHT 2-OPERATOR POLICY

Cincinnati—Local theater owners have continued their renewed contract with the operators' union, already lasting for a year, to oppose the present system of maintaining two operators in a booth at full pay. With picture and sound track on one film, it is argued that one projectionist can do all the work.

UNIVERSAL IS PLANNING PRODUCTION IN ENGLAND

Universal will produce a series of features in England in 1932, provided satisfactory arrangements can be made by Carl Laemmle, who sails on the Europa tonight, for THE FILM DAILY learns. The plans include the engaging of casts entirely made up of English players. Julius Bernheim, production supervisor, and Alfred Stern, assistant producer, will accompany Laemmle on the trip. The tour will start in a Hollywood studio within the next few weeks.

Bachman-Schlank-Corson Plan Six Indie Features

Jack Bachman, formerly with Paramount, Morris Schlank, independent producer, and Louis "Pop" Corson, Philadelphia exchange man, will produce six independent pictures. The production will be made up of English players. The company plans to break ground in the next few days for two more sound stages, giving the company 34,500 feet of additional space and increasing the number of stages to 15. Paramount plans to start 22 productions in the next 70 days.
9 Birmingham Houses Face Closing
In Controversy Over New Scale

Birmingham—Whether the five downtown theaters and four neighborhood houses close this week depends on action taken by projectionists regarding scale reduction. So far the operators have refused a cut and present indications point to a definite closing of houses. However, Charlie Haug, manager of the Birmingham Theatrelco theaters, declared there was a possibility that the operators might accede at the last minute.

If the nine theaters close, it will leave only three downtown theaters and two neighborhoods in a city with a drawing population of nearly 250,000 people.

Warner Bros. is holding over "Night Nurse," starring Barbara Stanwyck, at the Strand. "Sherlock Holmes: Fatal Hour" is being held a third week at the Warner, also opening Friday at the Beacon.

Pathé for Blank Circuit

Blank Circuit of Iowa is the latest to sign for the full RKO Pathé program, it is announced by Ned F. Depinet.

Carl Goet to Take Vacation

Carl J. Goet, who has resigned from Tiffany's, leaves next week on a vacation.

Educational Pre-releasing
2 Mack Sennett Pictures

Denver—As one of the last numbers on the program of Educational’s regional sales convention here, two Mack Sennett pictures on the 1931-32 schedule were screened and they aroused such enthusiasm that they are to be pre-released almost immediately. The subjects are "The Cannon-Ball Express," with Andy Clyde, and "I Surrender, Dear," a Sennett Featurette, featuring Bing Crosby, radio and nightclub favorite.

T.P.E. Completes Sales Setup

Complete setup of executive representatives of Talking Picture Epics for the coming season is announced by Frank R. Wilson, president, as follows: Ira H. Simmons, director of sales; John Newbery, Chicago district manager; Tom North, midwest west manager; William G. Minder, southern manager; R. A. Mitchell, western manager; Harry G. Price, Canadian manager. William Raynor is manager of the New York exchange.

Multicolor in Next "Journey"

Multicolor experts will accompany Claude Fleming and Curtis F. Nagel to Australia when the producers leave to make more subjects for the Educational-Romantic Journeys series. Recording of dialogue on two subjects is now being made at the Atlas Studios, Chicago. These are "Harem Street," and "Outpost of the Foreign Legion," made by Hazel and Howard C. Brown, with Fleming as narrator. "A Prairie Home" goes to Broadway in "The Band Wagon." This will mark their screen debut.
THE ROSE

by any other NAME

SMELLS JUST AS SWEET!

and that goes for LIMBURGER TOO!

BUT—
THE NAME BEHIND THE PRODUCT IN PICTURE BUSINESS is the deciding factor in ticket-buying today!
LET'S FOLLOW THE PUBLIC —and see what makes them favor one theatre in preference to another—(turn here please)

OH, SEE THE MONEY!

Why is it going mostly to one box-office?

BECAUSE THAT EXHIBITOR HAS WON THE CONFIDENCE OF THE PUBLIC—

But how did he win their confidence?

HE SHOWS THE OUTSTANDING HITS AT HIS THEATRE!

That’s the best reason in the world for the public to show preference for his theatre, isn’t it?
HERE'S WHAT HAPPENED IN THE PAST YEAR!

For the first time in the history of motion pictures ONE COMPANY completely dominated the screen—and your public knows it!

"Great picture that 'Secret Six'—who made it?"
"Metro - Goldwyn - Mayer."

"Joan Crawford in 'Paid' was a peach—who produced it?"
"Metro - Goldwyn - Mayer."

"I certainly enjoyed 'Min and Bill'—whose was it?"
"Metro - Goldwyn - Mayer."

"That Garbo woman slayed me in 'Inspiration'—who made it?"
"Metro - Goldwyn - Mayer."

"I screamed at 'Reducing'—what company did it?"
"Metro - Goldwyn - Mayer."

"‘Trader Horn’ is the best film I ever saw—who is it?"
"Metro - Goldwyn - Mayer."

(This could go on forever—and it does, on the next page thank you!)

ALL IN ONE SEASON, TOO

"'Dance Fools Dance' was a swell Joan Crawford hit—who made it?"
"Metro-Goldwyn-Mayer."

"Joan Crawford in 'Laughing Sinners'—some show—whose is it?"
"Metro-Goldwyn-Mayer."

"Whoever made 'Strangers May Kiss,' Norma Shearer's picture, deserves plenty of credit."
"It was Metro-Goldwyn-Mayer."

"Norma Shearer in 'A Free Soul' is her best yet! Whose is it?"
"Of course!"

"I'm keen for Bob Montgomery!—‘Shipmates' was swell! Who made it?"
"Metro-Goldwyn-Mayer."

"And Dressler-Moran in 'Politics'—Adolphe Menjou—Irene Dunne in 'The Great Lover' and more coming! They're all M-G-M hits!"

METRO-GOLDWYN-MAYER
HAS WON THE CONFIDENCE OF ALL PICTURE PATRONS—

Every week in the year a Star for your Marquee. That has been M-G-M’s policy since its inception. A policy of success! And in the coming year M-G-M again brings you the Stars that Shine in Productions that Top!

(2) MARION DAVIES—Strong dramatic vehicles, nationally promoted!
(2) NORMA SHEARER—Even Strangers May Kiss Their Records Goodbye!
(2) GRETA GARBO—The One and Only!
(2) JOAN CRAWFORD—Cheerful eyeful! Joan draws a houseful!
(3) JOHN GILBERT—“Phantom of Paris” is handsome Jack of the good old days!
(3) WILLIAM HAINES—Watch Bill Haines in his new roles. A revelation!
(2) BUSTER KEATON—He is making the best comedies in the industry!
(3) ROBERT MONTGOMERY—Popularity that’s deserved! A great future ahead!
(2) RAMON NOVARRO—A devoted personal makes him a consistent draw!
(2) WALLACE BEERY—“Big House”, “Secret Six”—And now clean up!
(1) LAWRENCE TIBBETT—His voice alone is worth the price of admission!
(1) LUNT-FONTANNE—New York’s Theatre Guild stars pick M-G-M for their debut.
(1) LAUREL-HARDY—By popular demand! Their first feature length comedy “Pardon Us.”
(4) COSMOPOLITAN—Big productions, nationally advertised!

Special information forthcoming about MARIE DRESSLER Productions!

13 EXCEPTIONAL PICTURES

FLYING HIGH
The nationally famed Geo. White stage hit! With BERT LAHR, world’s greatest stage comedian!

WIFE TO HUGO
The sensational novelty of today. By Joy Bains. It packs a thrill in every minute of it.

THE AWAKENING (Temporary Title)
John Van Druten writer of stage successes has written a powerful drama for M-G-M’s showmen!

5 MARQUEE PICTURES

M-G-M SHORT SUBJECTS

LAUREL-HARDY (8)
No other comedy name draws like this pair! Advertising like features and watch the grosses grow!

CHARLEY CHASE (8)
Consistently great releases have built him into a top-notch draw on any program anywhere!

OUR GANG (8)
They’re better than ever! New ideas, new faces, new heart-throbs! They bring the young folks in as well as the adults.

THE BOY FRIENDS (8)
Never a new series to draw such exhibition response. Audiences demand more of these merry comedies.

BOARDING SCHOOL
Flaming youth learns about life and love in a de luxe society school. Helen Meinardi has written a knockout yarn!

ARSENE LUPIN
The classic crook story of all time. You know Arsene Lupin’s wonder tale. It’s right up M-G-M’s showman alley!

BRIDGE VS. BRIDGE
Divorce told with thrill. The Liberty Magazine story by Ed. L. McKenna will be real talkie excitement!

AFTER ALL
The Van Druten play that holds London spellbound is coming to Broadway. And M-G-M grabbed it for the talkies!

GUILTY HANDS
Bayard Veiller, author of “Mary Dugan,” “Paid,” etc., is a success writer. He knows box-office. Here’s his latest Big One!

HONOLULU
A brand new showman idea by Mildred Crum. The most exotic locale in the world dramatized in a glorious thrill show!

NIGHT COURT
Drama while the city sleeps! Charles Beahan—Mark Helinger have ripped into a gold mine of humanity in a great metropolis!

RED HEADED WOMAN
Save-up postcard serial by Katharine Brush that’s even more exciting than its title. It moves like a lightning bolt. Catch on!

THE SQUAW MAN
Cecil B. DeMille’s grandest show. Months in production. Fifteen Big Names in All Star Cast. Thrills! Beauty! A money entertainment!

THREE WISE FOOLS
Austin Strong’s roaring comedy! It’s a pleasure. A Broadway stage success that’s going to be a topnotch talkie hit!

M-G-M capitalizes on dramatic ideas of the moment! We did it with “Caught Short”, “The Big House”, “The Secret Six” and others. We’ll do it again when the time is right. Among “The Marquee Five” will be important vehicles that the psychology of the entertainment hour suggests. Important pictures! Depend on that!

HAL ROACH’S DE LUXE COMEDIES plus the Biggest and Most Varied Short Subject Program in M-G-M History! Every name belongs in electric lights. Shorts—but sweet! They draw like Features!

ZASU PITTS, THELMA TODD (8)
What Marie Dressler and Polly Moran are in features this pair will be in short subjects. They’re great!

FITZPATRICK TRAVEL TALKS (13)
The travel films that have won leadership by popular vote! M-G-M brings you the best!

M-G-M DOGVILLE COMEDIES (6)
We’ve got bigger and better plans for this laugh series. M-G-M’s hot dogs are a draw on any marquee.

SIR HARRY LAUDER (4)
Imagine bringing this great drawing personality to your public with his favorite songs and stories!

M-G-M SPORT CHAMPIONS (12)
Headlines only! Names that belong in lights! The sports world in grand action talkies!

FISHERMAN’S PARADISE (6)
The first one was brought back to Broadway three times! That’s a record for a short. A smart series!

FLIP THE FROG (12)
“Ugly” Jurtys is the pioneer of all cartoon shorts and his “Flip the Frog” has more fun than anything he’s ever done!

HEARST METROTONE NEWS (104)
The super-newsreel of the newspaper, the radio and screen, with which is incorporated THE GLOBE TROTTER.

(And now there’s just one more thing to do—Look!)
USE YOUR HEAD!

Carolina Exhibits to Aid in State Development

Wednesday, July 22, 1931

Carolina which closed yesterday after one of the best sessions in its history, President Charles W. Donlan, named Senator G. Sams of Winston-Salem and W. G. Culpe of Raleigh to call on Governor Max Gardner and formally enlist the theater owners in this big service to the state.

The convention lasted two days and various addresses were delivered by various prominent speakers, among whom were M. A. Lightman, M. J. O'Toole, Senator John Umstead of Chapel Hill, Senator-red Long of Ronceverte, Rapidus, Mayor Garry Buchanan of Sylva, N. C., B. Sherrill of Charleston, Jack Barry of Charlotte, Horace Davis, David Palfrey, Secretary of New York, A. J. Brylawski of Washington, Mayor Walter Blair of Wilmington, and A. C. Larue of Philadelphia.

Resolutions were adopted asking the M.P.T.O.A. to hold its next convention in Pinehurst, pledging support to President Lightman and the national body, and thanking the legislative committee for its good work at the last session in Raleigh.

M.P.T.O. Plays Exhibitors Favoring Legislation

Wrightsville Beach, N. C.—Exhibitors who have given their support to the Brookhart Bill, which is expected to be revived in the next Congress, along with the Hudson Bill, have called for the appointment of a national commission to regulate the motion picture industry, were strongly favored by Lightman and the national body, and thanked the legislative committee for its good work at the last session in Raleigh.

will be confined to England and France with the primary object being the opening of Gordon's, author of "The Life and Adventures of Carl Laemmle." It is likely that Universal will finance the stage production of Drinkwater's next vehicle with the object in view of adapting the piece for the screen.

A "this is all," Laemmle will attend Universal production and sales conferences in London and Paris. Also accompanying Laemmle are Maurice Piekels of Agfa Film Corp.; Jack Ross, Laemmle's secretary, and Dave Bader, personal representative.

Tiffany Cleveland Branch Closes

Cleveland—The local Tiffany exchange closed yesterday, according to R. H. Skirball, manager of the Cleveland Educational exchange. Educational will handle the physical distribution of all Tiffany product. Educational will have nothing to do with the sale of Tiffany product, however. William Shapiro is retaining his interest in the Boston, New Haven, Cleveland, Pittsburgh, Cincinnati and Detroit Tiffany offices, and will continue in charge of sales. Frank Belles, local Tiffany booker, will continue in that capacity. A new staff of eight will be announced at a later date.

Bill Heenan Back in Films

Philadelphia—Bill Heenan, formerly manager for First National and Warner Bros., is back in the film business as an exhibitor. He is booker and booker for Lou Berman's United Chain Theaters, Inc., which consists of 12 houses and is expanding. A new theater is being built in Coatesville and Aug. 1 will be added to the chain.

of $1. After a heated debate, the vote in favor of the measure was swung when one of the legislators favoring the bill suggested that the movies were taking in so much money that they could afford to pay higher salaries for their films. The reason was no reason why the state shouldn't get a little of that dough. Final vote was 44 to 42.

The Florida measure is the last of a long series of measures encountered in the current season's legislative sessions, the industry having come through with a full record of victories so far. Reports from Tallahassee, however, indicate a likelihood that this bill will go through. Asked for a statement on the Florida situation, yesterday, C. C. Partington of the Ways, Outlymerly stated, "The bill hasn't passed the Senate yet."

Satz Completes First In Yiddish

Ludwig Satz, noted Jewish stage comedian, has completed work on "Love Crazy," the first feature of a series of Yiddish and English pictures in which he is being starred by Maurice Kleinerman and Nathan Harsh. The film will be distributed by Film Corp. It was directed by Sidney M. Goldin, while Frank Zucker did the camera work.

COMING & GOING

CARL LAEMMLE sails tonight on the Europa. He is accompanied by MAURICE FLEKLES, JACK ROSS, DALE BADER, HULIS BERTHAU and ALFRED STERN.

JEANETTE MACDONALD is booked to sail Aug. 1 on the Ile de France to make the Paris opening of "Monte Cristo." She will be accompanied by the full cast of the New York production.

HERBERT ELDON, manager of Warners' First National exchange in New Haven, was a visitor at the office yesterday. MURRAY SCHAEFFER, formerly of the New York office, is now in town to make bookings at First National for the next season.

LESLIE WILKS, for some time manager of the First, New York exchange in Dallas, reached the city yesterday and was in conference with Charles C. Hall.

EUGENE CASTLE sails Aug. 1 on the ocean liner "City of Paris." He will be accompanied by the cast of "High Society."

MARY NOLAN has left for Hollywood. She is said to have signed by Radio Pictures.

HOLLYWOOD

MAXWELL SHANE was observed for Fanchon and Marco, and Jerry Hoffman are taking bows for their current "Go, Go Go," in which Aurold Lambert is singing in "The Nine O'Clock Revue" at the Hollywood Music Box.

Simile—Another enthusiastic as a new writer over his first "brain child."

Robert DeGrasse, cameraman, has sailed for London, where he will spend six months filming a picture to be made by Associated Talking Pictures, an RKo Radio subsidiary.

Guy Kibbee, who skyrocketed to Broadway fame last season after spending years in the "sticks" with stock companies, enters another hilarious role in "The New Wallingford," in which William Haines will be starred by M-G-M. Sam Wood is directing the picture.

Al Jackson and Barney Sarecy have completed the script and dialogue for RKo Radio's "The Thirteenth Guest," an original story by Ed. M. Logue. The story is a mystery thriller, which will star Ricardo Cortez.

Billy Leyser, Chuck West and Carlisle Jones are among the press agents who hold high hopes for the screen originals they have written.

Nat Dyches, a la Sam Warshawsky of the New York RKo office, prefers to write for the Dean, more so than to be made by Associated Talking Pictures, an RKo Radio subsidiary.

Krasna of First National has also written a play, while Sammy Fuller has written a new one. Max Marlow has had the playwrighting bug for several years.

Frank Lloyd, director, is planning a three-month tour of Europe after he completes "The Age for Love," in which Louise Fazenda has signed to make the film for pictures.

Hughes has had booked passage for himself, his wife and his daughter on the Europa, leaving New York Aug. 26.

Anita Louise and Dorothy Peterson have been signed by "The Other People's Business," the Radio Picture which is to star Phillips Ford as "Seth Parker," famous entertainer of the air. Stanley Field was announced recently.

"The Montana Kid," Monogram western, starring Bill Cody and Andy Shuford, has been completed.

Slavko Vorkapich, who made his film-directing debut as associate on "I Take The Woman," has signed a new contract at the Paramount studios. Vorkapich's next assignment will be in directing with Irving Pichel on "The Man with Red Hair."

Harry J. Vejar and Inez Palaner have been added by Howard Hughes to the cast of "Scarface," last of the gang films, which is now in production under direction of Howard Hawks. The roster includes Paul Muni, Osgood Perkins, Karen Morley, Ann Dvorak, C. Henry Gordon, Vincent Barrett and George Raft.

Orders have gone out to all screen dialogue directors to recreate a contract to Warner-Fraser National to report at the studios on Aug. 1. Among the writers now under contract to Warner Bros. and First National are J. Grubb Alexander, Joseph Jackson, Harvey Thew, Charles Kenyon, Kubec Glasmon, John Bright, Waldemar Young, Maxie Fulton, Arthur Caesar and Walter De Leon.

George Barbier, veteran Broadway actor who began his Hollywood career in "24 Hours" two days after arriving from New York as a Paramount contract player, has received second film assignment in "Through the Window."

Following the completion of his present assignment for Paramount, "The Road to Reno," Richard Wallace will direct Ruth Chatterton in "Tomorrow and Tomorrow."

Jimmy Wang, Chinese character actor, has been added to the cast of "Mr. Lee and the Little Chinese Children" being directed by Wesley Ruggles.

Vivienne Osborne, New York actress who recently came to Hollywood under contract to Paramount, has been made film debut as ingenue in the production of "Through the Window," mystery story by Martin Flavia and Arie Sherman, which is to be directed by Marion Gering.

"Then Hell Broke Loose," Columbia's dramatic saga of the clipper ship days, has gone into production aboard a windjammer in the San Pedro harbor. Richard Cromwell and Sally Blane play the young lovers, with George B. Seitz directing.

Robert Ames has been borrowed by Paramount from RKo-Pathe for a role in C. B. Rancroft's new picture, "Rich Man's Folly."

Emil Chautard, French actor-director, has been signed for a prominent role in Paramount's "The Road to Reno."

Joe E. Brown's proposed stage tour in "Elmer the Great" has been called off. Brown will, however, embark from New York for the Midwest, opening at the Warner in Milwaukee.

Charles R. Rogers has bought the Beth Brown story, "Riverside Drive," as Constance Bennett's next role for RKo. Production is planned for serially in "Cosmopolitan," followed by the Hearst papers, and will be done in book form later.

more ad in pictures would bring more patrons.

The exhibitor leader also is of the opinion that the time is ripe for action, particularly with a mass behind background and with dialogue used in intimate scenes only. A good musical show, without the inevitable backstage or cabaret settings, would do business, Samuelson declares.

Biggest problem facing exhibitors today is obtaining quality box-office product at fair prices, says the Allied official. He urges producer-distributors to show some real leadership and realize once and for all that the prosperity of the retailer—meaning the independent exhibitor—is the only sure way for the entire business to be prosperous, and that a live-and-let-live attitude is needed in these critical times.

Regarding double features, Samuelson says he is personally opposed to them. "The cutting of time of most features and the prices of short shows give exhibitors little choice. He also is opposed to price cutting."

Cleveland House Reopening

Cleveland — The Gordon Square closed for the past year, and recently purchased by Jim Scoville, at auction, will reopen about Sept. 1, entirely redecorated and with sound equipment.

Homer Brant Joins Oliver Supply Cleveland—Homer Brant, formerly with National Theater Supply Co., and the E. E. Fulton Company, is now associated with Oliver Moving Picture Supply as chief executive. With the closing of the Tone-o-Graph office here, E. E. Oliver announced that he would service all Tone-o-Graph equipment in northern Ohio.

Lon Young To Produce For Independent Market

West Coast Bureau, THE FILM DAILY

Hollywood—Lon Young has resigned as publicity head at Columbia to enter production for the independent market.

Next Para. Dividend May Be Paid in Stock

Payment of the next Paramount quarterly dividend may be in stock instead of cash, in order to conserve assets due to repurchase of common stock under existing guarantees, as well as for production needs, says Wall Street Journal.
Theaters Offer Service In Lieu of Taxes

Making the screen meet the exhibitor's service requirements to the nation, state and community, to counteract attempts at imposition of taxes on the film industry, was advocated at this week's meeting of the M.P.T.O. of North and South Carolina held in Wilmington Beach, N. C. Everybody owes an obligation to the government, which must find ways to meet its increasing budget, declared National Secretary M. J. O'Toole, and if theaters do not pay in service they must pay in direct taxes. But as they do pay in service, there should be no disposition to tax the business twice, he said.

Warner's Sell Lease On Broadway House

Warner Bros. yesterday sold their lease on the Warner theater at 48th and Broadway, to the New Jersey Amusement Co., Inc., of which Rudolph Speth of Rochester is president. The lease, which was originated by Frank G. Shattuck Co. is for a term expiring April 1, 1941, with renewal privileges.

Sees Foreign Productions Drawing Bigger Audiences

Notwithstanding language differences, audiences for foreign pictures are growing steadily bigger, said Leo Brecher yesterday prior to his departure for Europe to negotiate for product for showing in this country, principally at his Little Carnegie Playhouse.

Ace Beery in Baltimore

Baltimore—Ace Beery has been appointed manager of the Hippodrome here by Lezy Rapaport of Phila- delphia, who will operate it as a combination vaudeville and talker house beginning Aug. 7. Beery formerly managed the Keith's, Washington, and was district manager for Warners in Pittsburgh.

Oscar Neu's Mother Dies

Oscar F. Neu, president of Neu-Made Products Corp., was called to Buffalo this week by the death of his mother, Magdalena Neu, who passed away after a lingering illness at the home of her son-in-law and daughter, Mr. and Mrs. Alfred J. Richey in Elmira, suburb of Buffalo. Also surviving is George H. Neu, vice-president of Neu-Made Products, in charge of the Buffalo factory.

William E. Stumpf Dies

Baltimore—William E. Stumpf, president of the Secretary-Treasurer of Rothacker Film Corp. M.P.T.O. here since it was organized, died recently at his home after a lingering illness.

Artclass Completes First of Its Series

"High Life in Reno," first of 12 features scheduled by Artclass Pictures, has been completed and will be released Aug. 1. The cast includes Virginia Vale, James Thomas, Dorothy Christy, Dixie Lee, Pat O'Malley, Clarence Wilson, Arthur Houseman and Cornelita Geraghty. "Pleasure," the second of the series, goes into production July 27, to be followed by "Convicted" and "Where are Your Children?" The three films, representing Standard Films, is in New York and has arrangements for distribution of the entire series in Pittsburgh, Cleveland, and Cincinnati. According to Harry Ascher, representing New England territories, $40,000 in continuity shots has been signed for the series in Boston.

Publicity Acquisition

Riles Theodore Dreiser

White Plains, N. Y.—Supreme Court Justice Witschef yesterday threatened to order Theodore Dreiser from the court room following a verbal attack on his attorney Humphrey J. Lynch, attorney for Paramount, in which Dreiser shouted, "That's a lie," when Lynch accused the author of being a "publicity seeker." After hearing extensive arguments regarding Dreiser's application for an injunction against the publishing of "An American Tragedy," Justice Witschef gave attorneys until Monday to present additional affidavits.

Tom Douglas Bankrupt

West Coast Bureau, THE FILM DAILY

Los Angeles—Tom Douglas, motion picture and stage actor, has filed a voluntary petition in bankruptcy, asserting he owes $1,170 to American creditors and $1,000 to English creditors. He lists assets as $800 in household goods and $2,800 in salary due. Douglas appeared in "Journey's End."

Warner Story Contest Closes

With 5,000 manuscripts submitted, the contest conducted by Warner Bros. and "Photoplay" magazine for a story to fit the title, "Beauty and the Boss," has closed. Marian Marsh and David Manners will appear in the picture.

Fight Pictures in RKO Houses

Official pictures of the Jack Sha- key-Mickey Walker boxing contest at Ebbets Field last night will open today at the New York Hippodrome and other houses on the RKO circuit.

Rothacker Finishes Library Index

Hollywood’s Errors In the Musical Line

If there is one thing that amazes me more than any other of the many things that amaze me about movies, it is the way in which Hollywood has fallen down on the musical job... To be sure, at the advent of talkies we had a flood of musical pictures. The public was almost unanimous in its disapproval. I, too, leaned heavily on the unfavorable adjectives at the time. The trouble was that we weren’t tired of music at all; but most certainly we were made deathly sick by the music that Hollywood made. In general the films were spoiled by a noble young actor backstage and the girl who rushed on to save the show at the last minute. Inter-twined were badly handled close-ups of rusty-voiced stars singing tin-pan-alley banalities in straight shots of sixteen bars. We didn’t like them. So Hollywood assumes that, not liking the music they have given us, we don’t like music at all. It is not so. I believe the movie world will seize with joy upon any movie that gives us good music. I do not demand the three Bs for public consumption. There are many lighter affairs that will please the best ears, however, and still interest a great public.

The truth of the matter is that the general public is tired of jazz. Within the last two years I have noticed a change. There has been a swing towards the production of South American tangos, queerly accented dance tunes of Spanish-America and the sweet tunes of the bygone Viennese waltz era.

ALONG THE RADIO RITH PHILM DAILY

ALL THE way from Singapore and the Malay States, Frank Buck postcards us about his expedition shootin’ the “Bring ‘Em Back Alive” film. Van Beuren, for instance, Clyde Elliott directing the shorts.... he says he is on the trail of a Stadang—the most dangerous big game to hunt—not excepting tigers, lions or the African buffalo....the stadang has never been photographed, for the reason that it charges as soon as it sights the hunters...travelling at unbelievably speed.... and bellowing so as to scare the stump’s outa the cameraman, and make him run for his life.... it’s a cross between a rhinoceros, buffalo and tiger.... now please do not assume it’s biologically true but you insist, all we can suggest is that the jungle animals have heard of these big film mergers...... well, here’s hopin’ you get the pix. Frank’s, it’s a great thing if you can do it... but if the stadang beats you to it...... we’re certainly gonna miss those nice postcards.

JEAN ARTHUR apparently intends to linger in the big town.... she’s leased a penthouse on 55th St. formerly belonging to Fortune Gallo.... and speaking of residences reminds us.... Dave Epstein, the Hollywood artists’ manager, informs that the impoverished owners of castles, chateaux and palaces in Europe are trying to unload their habits on prominent movie folk, and the producers are rising to the bait. One proposition is being Richard Wallace, who was offered an estate along the Danube, with a 32-room chateau, vineyards, orchards and parks.... at about the price of a small residence here... so Wallace, who goes to Europe soon, will look over the place... and may return with a coat-of-arms.

WALTER EBERHARDT is back on the job after his hospital tour.... it seems the surgeons heard he was a Western Electric sound specialist, and started to do a wrin’ job on him.... now he’s practically Sound Again.... yezeez... it’s the Humoriddly.... to execute it, please... Mike Simmons pulled an exploitation stunt up at the Fitch Sanitarium with the help of the misus.... and a brigade of surgeons and nurses.... it’s a hoot, but ma insist over.... Peter.... Mike is set on Sixsyabister... but to us it’s just a stunt to ballyhoo Mike’s ambulance pix, “First Aid”.... the thing is so terrific, obvious... but the Arpaux press credit for thinkin’ so far Ahead... and perfect timing, too... just as the Sono Art special is released.... it has given Mike an idea for his next.... “November Nights.”

GEORGE BANCROFT arrived in beany Boston other day to start work in the Fore River Plant at Quincy, Mass., on “Rich Man’s Folly.”... the newspapers had announced his arrival at the Huntington Avenoo station in Back Bay.... but George got balled up, and thought he was to be greeted by the cameramen at the studio station. So he was sound asleep when the chug-chug pulled into Huntington station...... but the stationmaster obligingly held the train 12 minutes till George dressed and greased his hair.... this really doesn’t amount to much as a publicity stunt all the space it fills.... thanx, Mister Wallace West....

LEIGH JASON, RKO shorts producer.... y’ know.... “Humanettes” has been laid up in our hamlet after a bout with a dentist who chipped his jaw bone.... photo Leigh at the Muni for the effect of the molar mawler if ya know some egg ya want to fix the same way always helpful... that’s our motto.... Jake Hoos, proximity of Sockem Pictures, wired Mike Gluta of the Oompah theater.... “I unders have gone gone gone your theater with a crash.”... and Mike wired back.... “They crashed, but they didn’t go Over.”

Giant Postcard for Ballyhoo

FOR the engagement of “Donovan’s Kid” at the Capitol Grand Island, Manager E. Forester prepared a giant postcard 3½ x 5 ft. The card was addressed to Richard Dix and Jackie Cooper and read: “Due Richard Dix and ‘Skillly’ Cooper: We the undersigned as special fans of yours. We have heard that your new picture ‘Donovan’s Kid’ is a knockout and we are going to see it.” The postal card was displayed in the lobby five days in advance of the opening. On the day of the day one of the house staff carried it through the business section of Grand Island, seeking signatures. That night the card was completely covered with signatures of Grand Island residents who at least knew that “Donovan’s Kid” was being shown at the Capitol.

Novel Lobby Stunt for “Dude Ranch”

MANAGER P. D. Griffith of the Ritz, Macon, Ga, built two hobby horses from bits of beaverboard to advertise Jack Oakie in “Dude Ranch.” The hobby horses were built from bits of beaverboard and horse hair. These were not cut out in the sense. A head of Jack Oakie was cut out from a poster as mounted on movable, collapsible legs. This was placed on the lobby floor from which hung loose reins attached to the bridle worn by the horses.

2d BIG WEEK
Constance Bennett is the biggest name in pictures by box-office test.

Robert W. Chambers' novel literally known to millions. One of the most widely read books of the twentieth century.

Constance Bennett as an artist's model in Gay Paree.

Biggest picture Bennett has made yet. Has everything. Role fits her like a glove.

Plus the fame of the novel, the title itself has strong drawing power.

The Parisian art colony is an irresistible story background.

Her philosophy of life and love, crystallized in the phrase: "I don't care what people say, as long as you say you love me!"

Romantic intrigue suggested by the line "The secret woman in a great man's life."

Glorification of love: "Love painted this picture. Love wrote this story."

"Men called her the perfect woman" is a sales angle to interest both men and women.

Magnificent production. Exemplified by the gorgeous sequence of the 4-Arts Ball in which over 500 players take part.

Star values all the way through. Cast includes Joel McCrea, Lew Cody, Marion Shilling, Hedda Hopper, Robert Williams, Paul Ellis and others.

Title automatically will start discussion and word-of-mouth advertising.

Constance Bennett's reputation as the best-dressed woman on the screen, plus the gorgeous clothes designed for her in this production by Gwen Wakeling, are naturals for merchandising tie-ups, fashion-shows, etc.

Unusually beautiful line of posters make outdoor advertising particularly feasible.

Press-sheet ads cover all salient box-office angles. Ads prepared after conference with production and sales force. Okayed and used by all major theatre circuits.

HOLLYWOOD

EDDIE BUZZELLI, having completed his latest Columbia short titled "Chris Crossed," is busily at work on two forthcoming subjects tentatively called "Blonde Pressure" and "The Big Fright."

Roy Del Ruth sails in about a week aboard his yacht for Alaska and other parts. He is now winding up his directorial duties on "Lavender Lane" for Warner Brothers, completing the picture ahead of schedule.

Joseph W. Girard has been added to the cast of Universal's "Strictly Dishonorable."

Charles D. Brown and Ben Taggart are the latest additions to the cast of Paramount's "The Hours" in support of Clive Brook, Kay Francis, Miriam Hopkins and Regis Toomey.

Fox has corrected its previous report that Edward G. Robinson will play opposite Janet Gaynor in "Deceitful." The company says Charles Farrell will be co-starred with Miss Gaynor.

Greta Granstedt, besides being in a role in Samuel Goldwyn's "Street Scene" for United Artists, has been given a five-year contract by the producer.

John Twist, Radio Pictures' story sleuth, has returned to the studios in Hollywood from an extended trip to Germany and France, where he read scores of plays and novels in manuscript form. He will make the trip annually, contacting foreign writers and playwrights.

Ginger Rogers upon the completion of a featured role in Eddie Quinlan's new RKO Pathé picture "Fiddle Cuts In," left for Fort Worth, Tex., for a short visit to her home. She will return in about two weeks.

Yukina Camutt, world's champion cowboy, has been added to the cast of Universal's serial, "Batting with Buffalo Bill," now completing its third week on location. Others in the cast include: Tom Tyler, Rex Bell, Lucille Browne, Joe Bonomo, Francis Ford and William Desmond. Day's log is greeting.

Hooper Atchley is one of the leading supporting players in RKO Pathé's western feature, "Sandown Trail," which stars Tom Keene.

Gertrude Wright, Radio Pictures staff scenarist, will work on the adaptation and continuity of "Law of the Night," an original screen story by Samuel Ornitz and Lester Cohn.

Al Jackson and Barney Sarecky have completed the script and dialogue for Radio Pictures' "The Thirteenth Guest," an original story which the company is planning for Gilbert Roland scheduled for Ricardo Cortez.

M-G-M has given new long-term contracts to two directors, W. S. Van Dyke and Jacques Feyder. The company also has signed Busby Berkeley to handle the dance sequences in "Flying High," and J. C. Nugent has been assigned a featured role in "New Adventures of Get-Rich-Quick Wallingford," new William Haines vehicle.

John P. Marbury has completed "The Head Hunters of Borneo," the fourth of a series of "New Adventures of Travellers" being produced by Walter Putter. Marbury writes and speaks the dialogue for the subject. "Reno," one of the subjects in the series.

Our Passing Show: Jack Ievone playing miniature golf on the Mary Pickford course; Duncan Sanderson motoring on Franklin Ave.; Al Mann and Irving Milkening confer at Tec-Art.

SIMILE—As helpless as a press agent's adjectives in an editor's hands.

Creighton Hale has filed notice of intention to marry Kathleen E. Bering of Beverly Hills.

Donald Cook, First National player, has left for Honolulu to visit his parents, who live there.

Adrienne Ames, New York society girl who recently went to Hollywood as a Paramount contract player, will make her first appearance on the screen in "Come On Marines."

Joan Bennett has been assigned the feminine lead in "Heartbreak," a Fox film based on a romance with an air service background written by Llewelyn Hughes. Charles Farrell, Hardie Albright, John Arledge and Paul Cavanau will also be in the picture, which Alfred Werker will direct.

First National has completed production on "Local Boy Makes Good," starring Joe E. Brown.

Sally O'Neil will play an important part in Fox's "Sob Sister."

Kenneth MacKenna will direct his first picture alone when he tackles "Cheating" for Fox. Linda Watkins is to be featured.

Dorothy Tree, one of the ten youthful players recently imported from Broadway to Hollywood by Paramount, will follow the footsteps of Sylvia Sidney and Peggy Shannon by playing the feminine lead in her first picture, "Stadium," from the novel by Francis Wallace. Dick Van Arlen will play opposite Miss Tree.

"The Miracle Woman" is an extraordinary picture—one of the few unusual films that have come to the screen in the recent months. It's the subject-matter, chiefly, which makes it so interesting, but the acting and direction are above average as well. The State-Lake has had to content itself with some rather mediocre pictures lately—but they've got hold of a humdinger this time, and they deserve congratulations for presenting it to Chicago. Barbara Stanwyck has never been lovelier nor more sympathetically cast than she is in this role. She blossoms out into one of the most gifted of our screen players. You'll be enthralled and interested.

CHICAGO DAILY TRIBUNE

By Mae Tinee

The picture is a thrilling melodrama that sports several staggering sensational situations with d'amicable effort. "The Miracle Woman" ought to do big business for it is different and electrically exciting. It is excellently produced and played to the nines. Barbara Stanwyck gives a pulse-quickening performance.

"Miracle Woman" Real Smash; Don't Miss It, Urges Rob

By ROB REEL

"The Miracle Woman" is a real smash—an unusual story dramatically developed and with a cast that means something at the box office. It should be well patronized by those who seek good pictures. Frank Capra, who has delivered so many other big Columbia hits, officiated at the megaphone, and summing it all up "The Miracle Woman" is one of THE films of 1931.

Put "The Miracle Woman" down on your list of summer photo plays that MUST NOT BE MISSED. Barbara Stanwyck's performance in it is among the year's best. Columbia deserves a pat on the back for having made it into such a stirring talkie.

BOSTON RECORD

By GORDON HILL

One of the most ably directed screen plays of the entire season is "The Miracle Woman" film for Barbara Stanwyck at Keith's. Frank Capra, the director, has waved a magic wand over each and every o of the scenes. "The Miracle Woman" is a triumphant tour de force—a something very worth seeing. It is Capra's dynamic power of direction that makes "The Miracle Woman" what it is; a truly remarkable film.

BOSTON POST

Barbara Stanwyck in "The Miracle Woman" is one of those few pictures that justify a dozen disappointing quests for compelling movie entertainment. The story itself is richly engrossing and the film is of dramatic intensity.

THE BOSTON GLOBE

"The Miracle Woman" at the RKO Keith Theatre is a well to vivid story—the leading character is excellently portrayed by Barbara Stanwyck. The picture is particularly timely.

LOS ANGELES ILLUSTRATED DAILY NEWS

Proves Entertaining

From the standpoint of dramatic value "The Miracle Woman" is full of pathos and human appeal. Barbara Stanwyck has the title role and she contributes another of her memorable performances. The picture has been made with careful and high grade craftsmanship by Frank Capra who previously had several big film successes to his credit, namely, "Flight," "Ladies of Leisure," "Rain or Shine," or "Dirigible."

THE POST-STANDARD, SYRACUSE

By HELEN M. TAIT

Barbara Stanwyck in "The Miracle Woman" gives a performance that surpasses any of her previous ones. It would be difficult to decide which scenes are the best. There are plenty of exceedingly dramatic and emotional ones, with a few lighter ones to relieve the tension. And all of them are well done. Don't be afraid to see "The Miracle Woman"—it's worth the time of anyone.

ALBANY EVENING NEWS

"The Miracle Woman" is as widely emotional as its subject. Barbara Stanwyck has a fine gift of acting sincerity, simple earnestness and suppressed emotion. "The Miracle Woman" will have a wide audience appeal.

CLEVELAND PRESS

CLEVELAND PLAIN DEALER

By GLENN C. PULLEN

"The Miracle Woman" is steadily interesting, vivid romantic drama in which Miss Stanwyck does some of her best work. She blazes out in a scintillating fashion that settles all doubt about her ability. Novel type of plot, a good cast and a heavy heart punch.

DALLAS NEWS

A highly entertaining drama of slightly different flavor from the general run of film fare. Barbara Stanwyck's interpretation of the role is the finest bit of histrionism she has yet exhibited on the screen. Credit must also be given Director Capra for the cleverness of his guidance and his unique methods incorporated in filming the play.

NEWARK CALL

Suggest Plan for Solving Non-Theatrical Problem

Participation by theater managers in the activities of local organizations sponsoring non-theatrical exhibits, with a view to making the greatest use of the films, was urged at this week's convention of the Motion Picture Nitwinkle held in Wrigleyville Beach, N. C. Instances were cited where exhibitors, by going directly to Y. M. C. A. directors, lodge heads, pastors and others involved in non-theatrical shows, were able to have the performances booked in places including only definable educational or other non-commercial films.

Incidentally, the M.P.T.O. of Eastern Pennsylvania, South Jersey, New Jersey, and Delaware, has adopted a resolution advising members not to use "secrecy" clause in their contracts specifying one year's protection against non-theatrical. As first reported in The Film Daily on April 13, National distributors have been asked to cooperate in this.

Colt of New York. The action was heard in this court and was determined by a decree entered Dec. 20, 1929, from which the petitioner, First National Pictures, et al., appealed to the Supreme Court, which, reversed the decree of the District Court.

The decree was entered Jan. 20, 1931, remanding the cause.

Upon motion of the Government, represented by George Z. Medale, U. S.. Attorney for the Southern District of New York, and John Lord O'Brien, attorney for the Attorney General, of counsel, for relief in accordance with the prayer of the petition, and the defendants having appeared by their attorneys, Cadwainer, Wickersham & Tait, and Cornelius W. Wickersham, Arthur L. Fisk, Jr., and Gabriel L. Hess, of counsel, submitting a different form of decree, it has been entered, adjudge and decreed as follows:

First: That by reason of the mandate of the Supreme Court issued Nov. 24, 1930, and filed in this Court on Jan. 20, 1930, and entered herein on Dec. 23, 1929, whereby the petition herein was dismissed without merits, be and it hereby is vacated and set aside.

Second: That (1) the agreement of the defendant distributors to the effect that each defendant Film Board of Trade to adopt Rules and Regulations for the Establishment and Operations of a Credit Committee, a copy of which Rules and Regulations is attached to the petition herein as Exhibit A, and (2) the failure to adopt such Rules and Regulations by each defendant Film Board of Trade, and (3) the carriage of motion picture films by the defendant distributors in conformity with the provisions of the aforesaid Rules and Regulations constitute a conspiracy in restraint of interstate trade and commerce in violation of the Act of Congress of July 2, 1914, entitled "An Act to Protect Trade and Commerce against Unlawful Restraints and Monopolies," commonly known as the Sherman Anti-Trust Act.

Minimum of Six Pictures A Year Planned by New Indie Unit

West Coast Bureau, THE FILM DAILY

Hollywood—David O. Selznick and Lewis Milestone have formed Milestone-Selznick Pictures, Ltd., and plan a minimum of six pictures a year. Selznick has left New York to close a deal with a major company for distribution. Milestone and Selznick will super- (Continued on Page 2)

BEN AMSTERDAM IN DEAL WITH WARNER THEATERS

Philadelphia—Ben Amsterdam, former circuit operator in this territory and until recently with the Warner Bros. theater department, is understood to have concluded a 50-50 deal for the operation of the Jake Fox Theater. (Continued on Page 2)

Chicago 'Reform' Meet Fails to Materialize

Chicago—A reported "reform" meeting of the operators' union faded out when only 12 men appeared in the Capitoil Building, the dozen including five who said they were "stewards" of the union sent by Tom Malby "to find out what it's all about."

Survey Shows Big List of Product Ready for Fall Showing

Ten major producing companies at present have an aggregate of 74 new pictures completed and awaiting release, with the majority of productions being held back for the opening of the fall season, according (Continued on Page 4)

UNION'S REFUSAL TO CUT closes 9 B'ham Houses

Birmingham—Refusal of operators to accept a cut of more than the 7 1/4 per cent authorized by the national headquarters of the union has resulted in nine downtown houses here being closed, leaving the business section with only three open theaters, of which two are first-runs. The theaters also sought to eliminate the second man in the booth. As a result of the controversy, there is a likelihood that the houses will reopen with non-union operators when the present contract expires Sept. 1.

Rialto Resuming Runs With "Monkey Business"

The Rialto, which recently went into a revivial policy, will return to its former run status shortly, with Paramount’s production of “Monkey Business,” starring the Four Marx Brothers, as the possible opening attraction.

Patrons Want More Diversity, Says James, Ohio Exhib Head

Columbus—Too little diversity, and too much crime and sex, are the chief complaints of movie patrons at present, says William M. (Bil) James, president of the M. P. T. O. of Ohio, in answer to queries put to him by THE FILM DAILY. Altogether too many pictures are made for New York and Hollywood, with not enough thought given to the patrons in the hinterlands, James declares, (Continued on Page 4)

Lichtman Can't Stop Exhibs from Buying

Al Lichtman complains that his recent statement, advising exhibitors not to buy product before seeing it, apparently has fallen on deaf ears. Notwithstanding this admonition, says Lichtman, more than 1,400 contracts in addition to the Publicity and Fox deals, have been signed by United Artists for Ronald Colman’s “The Unholy Garden” and Eddie Cantor’s “Palmy Days.”

W. W. Smith Dies

Springfield, Mo.—W. W. Smith, 72, former theater owner, is dead here. He retired some time ago.

The Miracle Woman

We sat in a projection room yesterday, with the thermometer playing dodos and trying to break records, and thoroughly enjoyed every minute of an unusual and splendid picture which is "The Miracle Woman," a Columbia, that can safely be labeled as an answer to the call of the exhibitor and public alike for not only boxoffice but also other requisites of a hit. It has an unusual story that holds from start to fade-out. It has suspense, punch, sex and thrilling-pretty, all of which contribute to the compressor of the Barbara Stanwyck. It has the understanding and capable direction of Frank Capra, and it is as clean as a hound's foot. When you get a combination like that together, have something worth while, and "The Miracle Woman" is that, if nothing else.

SUGGEST LETTING EXHIBITS
PICK BETWEEN CONTRACTS

Although the Department of Justice has declared itself in no position to pass upon the new standard exhibition contract, John Lord O'Brien of the Department has expressed the belief that the best plan would be to place the 5-5 contract and the distributors' forms before the exhibitors of the one they prefer. Next move on the part of the M.P.T.O.A. has not been determined, says Secretary M. J. O'Toole.

More Diversity Needed
Says Wm. James of Ohio
who also states that there is too much and too sophisticated dialogue in present-day productions.

Getting rid of onerous fair rentals is the biggest problem of the exhibitor today, says James, and fair dealing by the part of the distributors is needed to solve the situation.

James is against double features for all time, branding the policy "one of the greatest evils of our business." With regard to price-cutting and exchanges, this means the exhibitor has to figure what admission costs can be brought down and the saving passed on to the exhibitors, it might be advisable to make some adjustments in admission prices.

M-G-M Buys Stories
Additions to M-G-M's story supply for next season have been made with the purchase of Emil Gauvreaux's "Hot News," and Jennie Harris Oliver's Mokey Delano stories. The latter stories, centering about a juvenile character, are being published in "Good Housekeeping." "Hot News," dealing with adventures in tabloid journalism, ran serially in "Saturday Evening Post," and has just been published in book form.

74 NEW FILMS FINISHED
BY 10 MAJOR COMPANIES

to a survey made yesterday by The Film Daily. The finished productions, grouped by companies, are as follows:

MISTER HOFFMAN got tired of being fired from theater publicity jobs about a dozen years ago...so he started on his own...on the display end he played ball with Jack Morgan, a find, had a trunk that got tired of keepin' two sets of books...so they merged...that's how the Art Guild started...today their staff includes signing writers, illustrators, postcard artis-...colorists...carpenters...drapers...with union helpers for all of these specialists...among recent Broadway fronts they can refer to with modest pride are "All Quiet on the Western Front"..."Millie" (remember that gal Twelvetrees—a giant poster gal smokin' a cig and flirting her eyes? Some Sign!). "Public Enemy," "Sweeney," "Trader Horn," "Abraham Lincoln," "City Lights." "Big House." "A Free Soul." Great oats from the Acorns grow...and these two partners, George and Jack, know all he has learned and have ordered a lot of latches and corns hustling to build their organization...but today they're Oke...and how!

NAT COHN, of Columbia, has bought himself a yacht to compete with his brother Harry on the Coast...he is having a helluva time doping out the correct formal attire to wear at a forthcoming wedding...and he has not found out yet whether you receive visiting guests at the gangplank, on the bridge, or in the cook's galley...Nat sure is worried...Harry Thomas, since his first Division Pix outfit took over that Sherlock Holmes mystery film, has been spotted all over town gazing into cigar store windows, trying to buy himself the correct Sherlock Holmes pipe...

U Stock Jump Follows Laemmle's Optimism

An optimistic message from Carl Laemmle to his employees just before he sailed for Europe is credited with causing the 9½ point jump of Universal preferred stock on Thursday. Calling department heads together, Laemmle said that for the first time in three years he was going abroad with a light heart in the knowledge that the company's affairs and outlook were distinctly favorable.

600,000 Committees Expected to Spend Billion in 38-Week George Washington Celebration—Want Special Shorts

Participation by about 600,000 committees in 38 weeks of celebration in honor of the 200th birthday of George Washington offers a potential $1,000,000,000 in extra turnover for theaters during 1932, according to Henry Woodhouse, of 280 Madison Ave., chairman of the International Science Forum, Air Committee for the Celebration of Washington's 200th anniversary. Woodhouse, who has had extensive connection with the film industry in supplying historical and technical assistance, also is president of the Aerial League of America, the Historic Celebrations Ass'n and the Washington Records Foundation. The committees include 257,000. (Continued on Page 12)

Too Much Show by Big Circuits Forced Dual Bills, Says Summer

Consolidated Earnings Down Nearly 50 Per Cent

Net income of Consolidated Film Industries for the six months to June 30, after taxes and charges, amounted to $233,841, equal to 81 cents a share, against $1,239,992 or $1.55 a share in the corresponding period of 1930. Net in the June quarter was $285,901 against $572,764 in the previous quarter.

Cambridge, Mass.—Policy of the big circuits in giving elaborate shows, thereby educating the public to expect the limit for their money, is a chief factor in the spread of double features, says Stanley Summer, secretary-treasurer of Allied Theaters of Massachusetts. Hundreds of exhibitors who are opposed to dual bills must nevertheless adopt them to meet the competition of circuit houses showing the best in pictures.
What Is "Obscenity?"

The law contains no definition, and the censors themselves cannot agree. Books sold openly on every newsstand may not be dramatized as plays. Plays that run for months on Broadway, and circulate for centuries, may not be dramatized for the movies. Many things commonly heard in daily dialogue may not be broadcast on radio. Books, papers, or magazines, lodged by custom or by law as in literary American editions. Books barred from the mails as obscene get a clean bill of health from the Custom House. Ridiculous? Yes, but that's why censorship works in the United States today. Censorship still keeps the state career; the last five years.

Maryland bars a kiss on the neck but winks at a drinking scene. Kansas censors can't stand the sight of a whiskey bottle, but kisses on the neck are entertaining. In Virginia all passion must be blessed by a marriage ceremony. Ohio doesn't like pictures dealing with social problems and considers its own as "indicent"—though luridic advertisements in the newspapers are not. New York, of all places, but shows a picture by an official accepting graft. Pennsylvania, the strictest state board of all, is likely to bar anything. Since the talkies have entered the field, not only entertainment features, but news reels as well, have come in for their share of censorship.

The federal law prohibits interstate shipments of prize-fight films.

A Digest of Current Opinions

Newspapers Best for Theater Advertising
A SKED by a trade paper for his views on what is the most valuable form of theater advertising, the Editor offered the following: A theater can advertise in newspapers, over the radio, via billboards, on its learning what picture it's showing. All of these have their particular purpose and unquestioned circulation. Each requires its own treatment, and in turn, entails a different cost. The resulting variety of this expense prospect makes the question difficult, both to distinguish and determine. Personally, I would try to use them all in any operation, as I have. However, by some freak of circumstances, I was forced to select one of them to use in the same time sacrifice for others. In the end, I appreciate books, but I have no will peruse the drama page of his daily newspaper. In the advertising budget, almost all advertisers in this country, newspapers come first. Radio is pressing them hard in some instances, but they have us occasionally done things on their screens or in show windows of covering art, which is elsewhere, which created temporary sensations, but the one far-distant opportunity of having it seen by a maximum number of people, remains the columns of local newspapers.

- - - - - IT SEEMS that this controversy we launched over the population of Pine Bluff, Arkansas, has stirred up a lotta excitement in that burg, and our intentions were the kindliest. We were just trying to give a boost to that l'il gal Peggy Shannon, the young lady who made the "Secret Call" to Paramount......and the home town folks of Pine Bluff made the world premiere there a legal holiday for Peggy......unfortunately we clocked the town's population at 30,000 instead of 30,000......and "Boy" Solmsen of Zit's, originally a Pinbluffer, corrected us....so the town council of Pine Bluff got in touch with our correspondent at Little Rock......who tried to clear the matter up (fail again it still got us) inducing their proud city......so Tommy Westmoreland hoists it to Pine Bluff, and before the assembled populace, makes the following speech on the steps of the Town Hall......

- - - - - "LADEES AND CORNHUSKERS.......also you dinge stumpters.......likewise you Ministerial Alliance and Married Schoolchildren.......also any grown-up boys and gulls that ain't married, but ought to be, listen to the words of wisdom from the Standard Rate and Data Service......the authority which gives the populace of every burg in these Yosses wot publishes a noisepaper.......for the S. R. and D. S. boardly, Pine Bluff has exactly 20,000 humans including members of the Ministerial Alliance but why please don't ask us........so that makes both Phil M. Daly and Mister Solmsen of Zit's a couple eggers......we don't get this data straight in print......thanks for your generous applause."......

- - - - - AUSTRALIAN HOGGERS.......Albert Rogell is one of these muggs who is always kidding other directors and his players about their superstitions.......Ali has been braggin' for yars that he adores black cats walkin' in front of him.......he crosses streets in traffic to walk under a ladder on the outside.......he lights cigs "three on a match"......and sniffers at shoeless.......and THEN they assigned him to start Eddie Quillan in "Eddie Cuts In" on a Friday.......and Ali started yellin', front of the bath and tea and stuff to no avail.......Not him.......he'd cancel his contract before he'd start a pix on a Friday.......finally they calmed him down by making one shot on a Sunday night........Mr. Rogell is still shaking and quaking over his Narrow Escape from a Friday-launched pix.......now, he ain't superstitious.......not Much!

- - - - - TRANSALTANTIC!.......William K. Howard's directorial achievement for Fox.......it isn't often we feel disposed to comment on a pix outside of our regular review.......in this kolym.......but just sit down on the other side.......and can the baby do it?.......just watch some ginks squirm when the caricatures start to fall in our leadin' national rags.......where Hoey's stuff will appear.......On April 9, 1929, we offered in this kolym the following Free Idea to the film biz......."One of these days somebody will come along and make a good silent pix and clean up with the NOVELTY of the thing.......and two years later the idea is STILL good!"

Novel Co-Op Ad Plugs "Smart Money"
A NOVEL idea was utilized in a cooperative page ad run in the Brockton 'Times' as a tie-up with the showings of "Smart Money" at the Colonial in the Massachusetts city. Fourteen local merchants took part in the page display, each being apportioned 160 lines in the artistic layout. In each of the individual ads was part of a photograph of one of the principal players in the cast of "smart Money." It was up to the fans to identify the fragmentary photos. For the first 20 readers correctly naming the players the Colonial offered prizes.

Morning Matinee
In Cleveland
THE "Morning Glory Matinee" is the latest. The management of the Lake Theater, in Cleveland, has just introduced and it has turned out so well it is sure to be extensively copied throughout the country. In laying out the advertising campaign for "Big Business Girl" in Cleveland, the Lake gave a morning matinee for business women opening of the First National picture on Thursday with a matinee at 7:00 A.M. In the newspaper ads, announcing the matinee, was the information that each young woman attending the matinee would get a card entitling her to a breakfast at a restaurant adjacent to the theater, see the picture and be at their desks at 9:00 A.M.

Donavin Miller, president of Falcon Productions, has decided on the titles of the first seven in his series of 13 two-reel Boy Scout Productions.

The Ghost Horse of Lost Valley," a story of the Canadian mountains, is now in production, directed by Emilie Chautard, and will be followed by "The Plumed Serpent," a story of adventure in Central America; "Ahoy," a sea story; "Silverlight," a western story; "Drums of Hate," adventures in Africa; "The Great God Buddha," adventures in India; "Thunder Birds," an air story, with further titles to be announced later.

The "International Boy Scouts" will feature Edward Royal, Rita Darwin and "Silverlight," Boy Scout pony, a beautiful pure white Welsh stallion. The series, approved by James E. West, Chief Scout Executive of the Boy Scouts of America, and having the endorsement of Boy Scout organizations everywhere, will depict the younger generation at an age which lends great possibilities for story material and will appeal to all children and their parents.

The purpose of this series is to furnish exhibitors with interesting screen entertainment of out-door and adventure stories, with clean, clever, amusing comedies, thrilling dramatic situations and properly mounted plots with strong themes.

Radio Pictures Studio
Schedules Its Next Two

Of 10 features scheduled by Radio Pictures for production by October, two are already in production. These are "Consolation Marriage," with Irene Dunne and Pat O'Brien, and "Are Those Our Children?" directed by Wesley Ruggles, with an all-Juvenile cast headed by Eric Linden.

The schedule to October includes two Richard Dix specials, "Secret Service," which starts in a few days, and "Frontier," the Howard Estabrook original.

Lew Ayres in "Gallows"

Lew Ayres will be starred by Universal in "Gallows," by Roland Brown, who also will direct. Bob Tasker and Richard Schayer are doing the scenario.

Three Peerless Films In Work at Tec-Art

Three productions of the newly organized Peerless Productions have been started at the Tec-Art studio. William Nigh has just begun shooting on Burns Young's story, "The Sea Ghost," which is scheduled for September release. Laura La Plante heads the cast.

A second Peerless unit is completing the final shots of "Love Bound," an adaptation of the novel by James Gilbert. Myrna Loy and Jean Harlow head the cast, which also includes Betty Bronson, Nance O'Neil, Andre Beranger, Halliwell Hobbes, and Maurice. Paul Schofield wrote the continuity of the story.

Mickey McGuire has been signed for the title role in "Mickey's Surprise," an original story written especially for him. Albert Herman, who directed RKO's Mickey McGuire comedies, will personally direct the picture.

A third will be started shortly for "Sporting Chance," an original story by King Baggot.

Finish Third Masquers

"The Great Junction Hotel," third of the series of two-reel comedies being produced by the Masquers Club, has been completed at RKO Pathe. Cast includes: Edward Everett Horton, Patsy Ruth Miller, Frank McHugh, Chester Conklin, Harry Gribbon, Richard Carle, Bobby Vernon, Lionel Belmore, Jimmy Finlayson, Lucien Littlefield, Tom Wilson, George Chandler, Hank Mann, Tommy Dugan, Maurice Black, Eddie Nugent, Glenn Tryon, Bryant Washburn, Emmett Corrigan, Stuart Holmes, George Irving, Richard Tacker and others. The story, a burlesque on the modern mystery thriller, is by Lew Lipton, head of the RKO Pathe comedy department.

Sam Goldwyn Completes Half of New Schedule

Completion of "Street Scene" this week makes the fourth finished picture on Samuel Goldwyn's schedule of eight for United Artists. King Vidor is the director of "Street Scene," with Sylvia Sidney, William Collier Jr., and Estelle Taylor in the leading roles.

Boy Friends' Next

The Boy Friends' latest comedy, "Mama Loves Papa," is in production at the Hal Roach studios. David Kohlins, former Fox contract player, and Betty Bolen are new recruits in the cast. George Stevens is directing the picture, the cast of which also includes Gertie Messinger, Mary Kornman, Mickey Daniels and Grady "Abraham" Sutton. May Walace and Harry Bernard appear as "mama and papa."

Ruth Hiatt With Sennett

Ruth Hiatt, one of the Sennett favorites of a few years ago, is back in the Sennett fold, having been signed by the comedy producer for leading lady roles.

PARKETT ON LAST COMEDY FOR 1930-31 PROGRAM

Mack Sennett has started work on the last comedy for his current season's program. Four others have been completed lately, with "The Abalone Ranch" and "Fainting Lover" set for release by Educational on Aug. 2 and 16, respectively, while "Speedy" and "Too Many Husbands" are awaiting release dates.

In "The Abalone Ranch" are Tom Dugan and Pert Kelton, while "Fainting Lover" has Andy Clyde, Addie McPhail, Vernon Dent and Wade Boteler.

All of the 1931-32 subjects are now in various stages of production at the Sennett Studios. These include an Andy Clyde comedy, a Sennett featurette, a Sennett comedy and a "Cannibals of the Deep."

Now is the time for all wise theatre managers

HOLLYWOOD

DOROTHY JORDAN has been assigned the feminine lead in "Hell Divers," M-G-M's naval aviation drama. Players assembled for this picture, which George Hill is directing, include Wallace Beery, Marjorie Rambeau, Clark Gable, John Miljan, Cliff Edwards and Conrad Nagel.

June Collyer and Stuart Erwin were married Wednesday in Yuma, Ariz.

* * *

Laurence E. Johnson, author of "It's a Wise Child," has been signed to a new contract as scenarist by M-G-M. His work will include contribution of original stories as well as screen adaptations.

George Landry is the latest important name to be added to Columbia's scenario staff.

Kent Douglas has been given the high supporting role to Walter Huston in "Heart and Hand" by Olive Eden, which universal purchased last week. John Huston, the actor's son, is adapting the "McCall" magazine story, and William Wyler.

Signing of Harry Todd and Frank Block completes the cast of Columbia's first Tim McCoy starring vehicle, "Shot Gun Man."

* * *

Peggy Shannon will replace Sylvia Sidney as the lead in Paramount's "Working Girl." The change was made so that Miss Sidney could go work at once in the leading role of "Ladies of the Big House." Paramount also has assigned Frances Dee to the feminine lead in "Rich Man's Folly," and Lucille Laverne to "Twenty-Four Hours."

Bela Lugosi will play the leading role in Universal's "Murders in the Rue Morgue" by Edgar Allan Poe. The story has been adapted to the screen by Leo Birinson and Tom Sante's. The play's premiere will be August 8.

Her talker debut in a major role in "Susan Lenox, Her Fall and Rise," won instant favor with M-G-M officials for Marjorie King. He has always been given the assignment to a good part in "Boarding School." The company is currently in New York, where she was forced by experience after playing leads in silent westerns.

Slim Summerville was added at the last minute to the cast of "Heaven on Earth," starring Lew Ayres. Director Russell Mack needed a comedy kick and Slim is a triple threat comedian.

Lloyd A. French has completed his contract with Louis Brock, who directed him in "Tiger Rose." French directed Jimmy Savo in "The House Dick" and "Use Your Noodle." He also directed Rosso Ate in "Clean Up on the Carb." He also wrote eight comedies for Brock.

Ricardo Cortez, instead of Pat O'Brien as erroneously announced, will play the role of Curley in "Twenty Grand," for Universal. Other casters for the production of Cyril Gardner, include Mae Clarke, Normas Foster, Slim Summerville and Hugh Harrill.

Ernest Vajda will adapt "Tonight or Never" as Gloria Swanson's next for United Artists.

Lupita Tovar, having finished her role in "East of Borneo," has been loaned by Universal to the land of her nativity. In fact, Miss Tovar is virtually loaned to the Mexican Government. The company for which she will appear, Nacional Compania de Mexico City, is receiving government permission in this picture, "Santa," and the next one in which Miss Tovar will appear, "The Virgin of Tepeyac." After that, Miss Tovar will return to Universal City.

Our Passing Show: Zeppo Marx, Jobyna Howland, Monroe Owsley, Ben Holmes, Marcel Silver at "A Free Soul"; Arthur Jones and Har-die Albritton appearing for 20th Rock Creek, in the High Sierras.

EASTERN STUDIO ACTIVITIES
By HARRY N. BLAIR

VITAPHONE officials are all agog over their latest "find." His name is Billy Hayes and he is just two years old. Billy has been selected from among hundreds of contestants for one of the principal roles in the Booth-Tarkington "Penrod and Sam" series which Vitaphone is planning. Jackie Kelk is another juvenile thespian picked for a part in the series.

Gary Cooper having returned from his European vacation looking fine and fit, rehearsals are about to start on "Sal of Singapore," for which he has been selected to play opposite Claudette Colbert. Tentative starting date has been set as August 3.

Supporting cast is now being chosen.

Edward Savin, a Vitaphone studio executive, received a severe scalp wound when a taxicab, in which he was riding home, collided with another car. Latest reports are that he is rapidly recovering and will soon be back at his office.

Paramount Notes: Ted Sioian, preparing to direct "Sal of Singapore" begged the creepy "Murder by the Clock" before leaving Hollywood—Montauck Point, L. I., where "Three Ages" is being made—stays of登陆 are retiring. Another casualty: Ann Rosethall of the legal department, injured her head in an auto accident. Viola Gable, restaurant cashier, received broken nose same way.

Sam Sax announces that he has signed Marjorie Littell for a principal role in the "Penrod and Sam" series. Miss Littell was recently seen on Broadway in "As Husbands Go."

Members of the "Romantic Journeys" series, released by Educational, are using a local studio to add photographic spots to the Vitaphone series. Every narrator, is also author of the dialogue.

* * *

Theresa Klee, German character actress, has been chosen by Vitaphone to play the role of the landlady in the S. S. Van Dine detective series which Arthur Hurley is preparing to direct.

Simple Simon Comedies are attempting to corner the market on beautiful girls for their third comedy which goes into production Aug. 26. Although only two reels in length, it promises to be a most elaborate piece, with ten sets and a cast of 50 people.

Freddie Verdi, famous years ago as a child actor and more recently with Paramount, has become a television broadcaster. He will present

FREDDIE VERDI'S "TINY TOTS" over the Jenkins Television station, W2XCR, on Aug. 4 at 4 P.M. This will mark the first broadcast over television of children in full figure. Heretofore it has been possible to show a portion of the figure over the limited television screen.

Lucille Sears, recently signed by Vitaphone for the role of the mother in its "Penrod and Sam" series, is a niece of Zelda Sears, motion picture stage and stage author-actress. Ray Collins, Broadway leading man, will play the father.

Aurora Films, which propose making an Italian talkie at its studio, 33 Second Ave., announce that it has selected three Italian-American girls for leading parts. The name of the picture is given as "Love and Death," and Cavalier Ufficiale Rosario Romeo is slated to both direct and act the star role.

Another Italian-American is entitled to his share of the spotlight. Hugo Granafei, one of the reception judges at the Studio's Vitaphone studio, although only 20 years old, spent three years in the Navy, during which time he visited such remote places as Hawaii, Colon, Porto Rico and China.

Edgar Bergen, the only ventriloquist appearing in motion pictures, has been signed by Warner Vitaphone for another novelty reel. Bergen made several pictures for Vitaphone last season, and added to his dummy, "Charlie McCarthy," and all were successful.

Tallulah Bankhead is vacationing on a "dude ranch" in Wyoming. Whether or not it is the one owned by Gary Cooper is not stated. Miss Bankhead is due back early in August to begin work on her third starring vehicle, tentatively titled "Woman Against Woman."

Comedy producers must apply logic to slapstick as well as farce, in the opinion of Louis Simon, starring in the Simple Simon comedies. A series of gaps, usually properly motivated and played by characters rather than caricatures, is bound to fill flat, he says.

Points and Suggestions

In the case of a break in the film or when something goes wrong in the projection booth, many managers will call the projectionist on the telephone to find out the trouble. If the projectionist is competent, he will make every effort to correct the fault as soon as he can. No competent projectionist gets anything but grief when something goes wrong with the picture. Calling him up at such a time only adds to his trouble and delays him. If a defect continues, it is of course proper to call up at a reasonable period, but the manager may help overcome the difficulties by making a trip to the booth.

Carpets are being installed in many theaters throughout the country as a decorative medium, as well as to cope with the acoustic conditions of the house. No matter where carpets are placed they should have felt surface underneath. Material is obtainable with rubber back, which not only acts as a form of protection against atmospheric changes, but assists in deadening the sound of patrons footsteps.

It is not easy to detect faults in the speakers other than by the tonal qualities. Blasting or rattling in a cone speaker is probably due to the smaller end of the cone fouling the pole-piece. Dust between the moving cone and the pole-piece, or in the base of the moving iron type, between the armature and the pole-piece, is apt to deaden the speaker. Paper cones are used occasionally, especially in damp weather will be needed, but this should be a job for the service man.

Power Filter Bulletin Issued

Detroit—The power filter division of the Square “D” Co. of this city has issued a new bulletin with prices on its new power filter unit, which converts alternating current into non-pulsating direct current for use on sound-on-film, public address, inter-communicating and other systems. The unit is said to have many applications where direct current is required.

Remodeling Theaters on Easy Payment Plan

Chicago—A plan for remodeling of theaters on an easy financial basis is now being offered exhibitions by R. Levine & Co., general theater and building contractors of this city.

According to R. Levine, head of the firm, they can finance the remodeling of a theater and do the job from the “street to the rear door” with very little immediate cash payment being required.

Some of the new jobs the company has recently done or has under construction at the present time include the New Berwyn, Colfax, South Bend, Ind.; New Paramount (Publicx), Kankakee, Ill.; New Morris, Morris, Ill.; Midwest, Archer Ave., Chicago; Monticello, Grand Ave., Chicago; and the Calumet, Hammond, Ind. These houses vary from 900 to 2,000 seats.

Improved Vacuum Contact Introduced by Burgess Co.

A new and improved vacuum contact for use wherever a positive, rapid and durable electrical contact is required in circuits handling up to six amperes continuous load or eight amperes intermitently, and up to 200 volts, has been introduced by the Burgess Battery Co. of New York.

The device may be operated by hand, by mechanical means, or by an electromagnetic agency such as the usual telephone relay. It is declared to be especially adapted for use in telephone systems, controllers, sign displays and numerous other applications where a considerable wabbage must be controlled by minimum energy. The contact may be operated in any position and is claimed to be extremely durable.

NEW THEATERS

Angelo, Ind.—A theater building is to be erected here by the Wesley Corp. of Chicago at an estimated cost of $150,000.

San Francisco — The foundation job on the new 700-seat, $1,250,000 Orpheum theater to be erected here has been completed and work on the steel structure has begun.

St. Louis— Plans for a 1,000-seat theater, office and store building to be erected here by George R. Bartling, Inc., of this city. Samuel R. Wilson and associates are behind the proposed structure.

Des Moines—Construction on the $50,000 uptown theater to be erected here by Dr. H. H. Chamberlain is to start this summer, according to present plans.

Tacoma, Wash.—Construction work is expected to be started immediately on the $450,000 theater to be erected here by the Hughes Franklin Circuit. The house will be known as the Kimberley.

Indianapolis — Phototone Equipment Corp. of this city announces that on and after August 1, a substantial increase in price in its complete AC-operated sound-on-film equipment is being offered complete with sound heads, main power amplifier, speakers for stage and booth, meters, volume control, and all necessary connections for attachment to two projectors, Powers or Simplex, and is said to be suitable for theaters seating as many as 2,000 persons.

BOOK DESCRIBING MOTORS

PUT OUT BY IDEAL ELEC.

Mansfield, O.—The Ideal Electric Co. of this city has issued a 16-page bulletin, No. 520, on synchronous motors now available by the company. Descriptive matter, application data and dimension charts are given covering the Ideal flywheel type synchronous (patented) motor and the other standard types of synchronous motors put out by the company. A rather unusual method of giving dimensions is used whereby the reader can obtain approximate dimensions of any of the various types of motors or any horsepower and speed rating. Two tables are given for each type of machine. The first gives framesizes and dimension key according to horsepower and R.P.M. rating. The second table gives the dimensions corresponding to the frame size and dimension key just determined. Other publications containing information on the 27 types of motors, the types of control apparatus manufactured by the company are also available.

Appointed Universal Distributor
Philadelphia—C. Schwarz & Son, theater sound equipment dealers in this city, have been appointed distributors of the Universal Sound-on-film equipment for the Pennsylvania and New Jersey territory.

ALTERNATIONS

Charlottesville, Va. — Twinsman Brothers are closing their Lafayette here during the month of August, at which time the house will be completely renovated.

Baltimore—Interior and exterior of the Hippodrome are being redecorated and remodelled at an estimated cost of $40,000.

Washington — Jacob Goldenberg, who recently purchased the entire holdings in the Warren Park theater here, plans to make considerable improvement on the house.

Salisbury, Va.—A new and larger marquee, large electric sign and general improvements are under way at the Arcade. Lee Insley is the operator.

Richmond, Calif.—The Fox Calif., in this city is now undergoing extensive remodeling. A new Walker fireproof sound screen will also be installed.

Denver—The Granada of this city, operated by the Colorado Fox Theaters Co., is being completely remodelled and will reopen under the name of the Tivoli.

Oakdale, Calif.—F. A. Lahm, new owner of the Strand here, will make general improvements on the house, including the installation of new chairs and a cooling and ventilating system.

NEW ACOUSTICAL WOOL PLASTER

Cleveland—A new acoustic wool plaster for sound theaters, said to produce balanced sound conditions in acoustically imperfect houses, has been introduced by M. Lehenburger Co. of this city. The new plaster is said to be 100 per cent fireproof and to reproduce low frequency tones with the same facility as tones of a high frequency.

HANDSET TYPE ‘PHONE FOR INTER-THEATER USE

Chicago — A handset type telephone, particularly adaptable for theater inter-communicating ‘phone systems, has been marketed by the Kellogg Switchboard & Supply Co.

The instrument, known as the Masterphone,” is said to be the product of long research and rigid laboratory and field tests. Its simple, rigid and sturdy construction strikes a new note in low maintenance cost, the company claims. Theater electrical equipment is also manufactured by the concern.

AC-OPERATED AMPLIFIER PLACED ON THE MARKET

Quincy, Ill.—A completely AC-operated amplifier for theater use which permits the manager to make personal announcements in his theaters has been perfected and is being marketed by the Gates Radio & Supply Co. of this city.

The amplifier is said to consist of a four stage impedance capacity and transformer coupled amplifier incorporating a pair of UX-250 tubes in a push-pull circuit in the last stage, and is claimed to assure 15 watts undistorted output. The equipment, it is declared, will operate at the highest efficiency without hum or other noises.

OFFERS COIN MACHINES ON PROFIT-SHARING PLAN

Chicago—A series of coin vending machines, including a weight machine for added theater profits, is being offered on a profit sharing basis by the Mills Novelty Co.
M-G-M May Operate Theaters in Japan

Tokyo—Paramount may face opposition from other American film producing companies in the operation of theaters in Japan, from the present outlook, particularly if the Paramount policy proves a financial success. It is reliably reported that Manager Johnson of M-G-M in Kansai has proposed the formation of a third circuit in Kansai and that the proposal seems to be in a fair way of realization. A member of the M-G-M office in Tokyo has started a movement to get a theater permit in Tokyo, to compete with the first and second circuits of the S-P Kogyo-sha, by obtaining the Nipponkan at Asakusa and the Nikkeikan, Kanda.

Foreign film companies are reportedly anxious to enter the Japanese market since Paramount formed what is called in Tokyo the “trust” of three Paramount houses and two large Shochiku houses in Tokyo as the Shochiku houses in Kansai, for the reported purpose of tying up the first runs of foreign pictures in Japan. Not only M-G-M, but Warner, First National and Fox, according to local report, may undertake the operating of theaters in Japan to give their product first run outlet.

Sliding Scale Scheme
For Rentals in England

London—It is reported that an “agreement” of the rival producers has been reached between the officials of the C. E. A. and the K.R.S. in England for a sliding scale of rentals for motion pictures, based on a minimum rental that would be within the economic reach of all exhibitors. The scheme is only in its embryonic stage, said R. V. Crow of the C.E.A., “but I am perfectly happy about it. The trouble will be for Mr. Eckman to get the K.R.S. members to agree to it.” Details looking to such a sliding scale are to be worked out at the next joint meeting of the exhibitor and distributor organizations.

New Newsreel House for Paris
Paris—Reginald Ford has taken over the Electric Palace and he will transform it into a newsreel theater.

British Film Imports Declined in 6 Months

London—Statistics just published by the Board of Trade show a big drop in the British film imports from Great Britain during the past six months. The importation of blank film was 20,618,768 feet, as against 22,338,963 for the first six months of 1930; of positive film, 11,969,996 feet, as against 18,859,305 feet last year; of negative film 2,832,451 feet, as against 3,112,855 feet in 1930.

Total film importation for the first six months of 1931 was over 55 million feet, as against 44,311,123 feet for the same period in 1930. The drop in the value of film imports was £277,755, or from £2,106,846 to £1,829,085. During the first six months of 1931 the value of film exports was £327,981 as against £485,910 for the same period during 1930.

Foreign News

Madrid—Censorship of motion pictures in Spain has been tightened by a recent order which provides that any kind of film may be censored indiscriminately by the civil government of the Province of Barcelona or by the Board of General of Civil Safety in Madrid. The approval of either one of these centers is valid in all territory under Spanish jurisdiction. Films to be censored in Barcelona are added to the list of films on which the Film Information Exchange, to be located in one of Berlin’s motion picture theaters and will be a centre of professional intercourse for all branches of the German and the International film industry. It will house a permanent exhibition of motion picture apparatus, photographic equipment, theaters, and halls for business conferences. Exhibitors will also be able to see there the films which are for rent and form their own opinions as to their merit. The development of the film and cinema trades has made such an exchange necessary, it is claimed, and the plan has met with enthusiastic approval, especially among distributors.

Japanese Increases Picture Production

Tokyo—The total number of motion picture films made in Japan and submitted to the Censor Office during 1930 was 2,910, an increase of 200 over the number submitted in 1929. The number of films ordered cut also increased from 255 in 1929 to 315 in 1930.

The number of American made motion pictures submitted to the Censor Office was less than that of the Japanese made films. The total of the American films submitted was 1,117 a decrease of 82 over the previous year. The number of European pictures showed an increase of 44, the number submitted being 273.

New Japanese Talkie Studio

Tokyo—Reports from Osaka state that several business men of that city are building a talking motion picture studio at Maiko. Work is now under way and completion of the building is expected by the end of November. Sound-on-film recording will be used.

The Nippon Hassei Eiga-sha also will erect a new talking picture studio at a location selected on the coast of Aizu province in the town of Shingo. The reason for the purchase of the land is now under way.

"TRANSLANTIC" with Edmund Lowe, Lois Moran, Greta Nissen, Myrna Loy.

"SILENT PRODUCTION RECORDING ITALIAN AIR FIGHTING FLIGHT FROM ITALY TO SOUTH AMERICA MAKES FAIR ENTERTAINMENT." This is the official photographic record of the flight of General Balbo's air squadron from Italy to South America. It is a silent, done with Italian titles. But the action makes everything clear even to those who do not speak the Italian language. The air shots are very well photographed, and there are various shots of the dozen planes flying in squadron formation are interesting. It holds the interest, following each step of the journey land and taking off at the various stopping points for refueling. All the points labeled are clearly marked on the map. Gibraltar, the African coast, Natal, Brazil, and the finish at Rio Janeiro. It is a practicable record of all the phases of flight.

"REGENERACION" J. H. Hoffman. Time, 47 mins.

SPANISH DIALOGUER WITH ALL-Spanish CAST TOLD IN ITALIAN. ATION OF TYPICAL CASTILIAN LOVE ROMANCE.

This is a five-reeler with a cast of Spanish actors who appear to be real troopers but somewhat new to screen technique. But on the whole they give very creditable performances. The story is a love story and the story is of the type that will appeal to Latin-American and Spanish audiences.

GERMAN MUSICAL COMEDY TELLS A SIMPLE STORY WITHOUT DISTINCTION. HAS VIVACIT." After a run of some very presentable German light comedies with a musical setting this one is somewhat of a letdown. It falls below the Berlin standard and is not a hit in metropolitar theaters. The story is fringe, and amateurishly told and directed, and the acting is ordinary except perhaps for the work of Dolly Haak and Abraham. It concerns a young girl who is a sales clerk in a hat store, but has a musical comedy ambitions. Her sweetheart is a clarinet player with a yen to write songs. A character playing a villain betrays the game and its leading lady, giving her a better that will be better as a rich old Count (Abel) who is supposed to be in Africa on a hunting trip. The Duke happens to be in town visiting the show, and falls for the girl's act. Then the Count trying to get familiar with the girl, and then the happy ending as he realizes he has no chance, and they all fall in love with each other. Comedy fails to develop.

"SHIPS OF HATE" with Lloyd Hughes, Dorothy Sebastian, Time, 63 mins.

MELODRAMA MADE FOR THE CITY. HAVING A GOOD TIME.

The line was done with broad strokes, and the meller was piled on thick. It is a swashbuckling tale of a prowler of the sea, and for the juvenile titles a good time. Young thrill fans should like it, too. The hero is shanghaied on board an evil sailing schooner with a crippled captain who sits in wheel chair dominating his crew. There is a battle, of course, and the hero trying to get the gal. There are some talky scenes with rough and tumble fights, and the big climax with the girl and the hero escaping in the boat to an island.

"A JEW AT WAR" with Amikko, Time, 87 mins.

RUSSIAN SILENT FLIM HA VERY GOOD CHARACTERIZATION AND CAMERA STUDIES IN INTERESTING STORY OF JEWISH LIFE AND STRUGGLES IN THE TIMES OF REVOLUTION.

This is a very interesting film from the standpoint of a very huna story of Jewish life and the later portrayals. The camera studies and photographic angles are exceptionally good throughout. The plot is well organized and covers along the lines of propaganda, if it is done rather cleverly and fine human touches in the story make you forget it. A young Jewish boy at the outset of the war sees a sweetheart killed by a bomb line over a village. Later in the trench he has a hand-to-hand struggle with a German soldier, at the discovery they are kin. From here the story develops its idea of universal brotherhood, as we see the German and the Russian along with many other enemies soldering working together for the revolutionary cause of the Russian workers. Then as the war comes to an end, a young Jewish hero seen doing his part to build up country industrially. The direction is fine and the story is interesting. The story holds interest throughout.

"THE MARGINAL LADY." Paramount, Time, 77 mins.

AIMLESS STORY WITH RUTH CHATTERTON MISCAST HERE BUT SYMPATHY FOR CHARACTERS.

Ruth Chatterton seems swamped in a part that gives her little chance, as a story in the main is totally out of character. Miss Chatterton's natural ability occasions breaks through the shackles of the inglorious character, and the picture perks up considerably. The story opens with a scene in a French restaurant, in which a great French actress takes interest on a visit. Then the scene jumps to New York, and it loses her sight during the performance. Then a frame up as a sort of a lark by two French members of the company with the madame meeting the dancing girl and thinking it is his lady of dreams. And it is his lady of dreams, and his miraculous recovery of sight in an auto accident.

"DIALOGUER" in "SON OF INDIA." M.G.M.

FAIR ROMANCE OF THE OPPOSITE HA Ledger to Appeal to WOMAN PATRONAGE. NOVARO SATISFACTORY IN DULL ROLE.

This story is packed with romance and love talk, sheeplike looks and heart throbs, but several attempts at drama and melodrama fail to convince. Novaro, as the son of an Indian gem merchant, falls in love with Madge Evans, beautiful white society girl, who is visiting in India. She visits Novaro in his palace, alone, and accompanies him on a tiger hunt, also alone. The most that happens is the tremendous love that increases between them, and the fact that Novaro gives her up to a rich man. A fair story who pictures to Novaro how the girl will be ostracized by her white friends and acabtuly her. The clinch comes long before the end and at the finale they tearfully part.

"Daring Island"
(Serial)
Universal
10 Chapters
Pipe Thrill Serial

This is the best action-serial crammed with the good old meller thrills since the early days of "The Exploits of Elaine." It's a bear, with sentiment and suspense right from the opening shot. Kenneth Harlan and Lucile Browne are featured. It all is the romance and lure of "Treasure Island." It is a natural for the kids, and the grownups will go for it in a big way. This one gets back to the old silent action technique with a whim. And that's what they need in the serials. Harlan is cast in the lead which goes to the rescue of a scientist stranded on an island off the African coast. The scientist's daughter is aboard, along with the owner, a supposed friend of the family. But this gent has designs on the girl, also to get the gold contained in deposits of radium which the scientist is seeking. The scheme is to do away with the captain as soon as they sight the island. In the first three chapters the action is crammed to the limit, with some very fine atmospheric stuff. In a fight, the captain is knocked overboard, and swims around in a school of sharks before being rescued. Then the crew takes sides, and a pitched battle with fists and marlin spikes ensues. A tropical storm is encountered, with seaman washed overboard, done very realistically. Making the port of call, Twamba, the crooked yacht owner tries to frame the captain in a native dive, to have him thrown in a pool of crocodiles in the dungeon of the place. You can't go wrong on this one, for it was everything the thrill fans want. Director MacRae has given it everything, with a strong supporting cast.

"Fainting Lover"
Educational
Time, 19 mins.
Laugh Number

A Mack Sennett喜剧, featuring Andy Clyde, Wade Boteler and Verne Dent. This is one of the best of the recent shorts from this studio. Andy Clyde puts it over principally, doing the head-of-the-family stuff and having a tough job trying to keep everybody satisfied and happy. His niece falls in love with a foreign musical gent because he sings and plays so romantically. The town home hero runs a bad second. Finally, the landing day is all set, and believe it or not, they pull a whole flock of new and laughable gags at this ancient function that the takers above were worked to death. It's smartly done, with fast tempo and the laughs clocking merly throughout the footage. Can't miss.

"Paramount Pictorial"
Paramount
Time, 8 mins.
Very Good

Three excellent specialties comprise this release. The first is another of the Lowell Thomas travel bits, showing glimpses of Venice, principally the pigeons in St. Mark's. Visitors feeding the birds and a native photographer taking snapshots of "Uncle Hiram" with pigeons perched on his straw hat to send to the folks back home. This is followed by a marionette show, comprising musical and dancing specialties, with some interesting camera shots revealing the tortured fingers that manipulate. The closing number has Rudy Vallee explaining the makeup of an eight-piece orchestra—specifically, the Connecticut Yankees—and explaining the particular function of each instrument in creating the musical effect as a whole. The formula is illustrated by the playing of several numbers, winding up with some closeups of Rudy singing in his typical style. Both interesting and entertaining, as well as affording some good close shots of the crooner.

"The Stone Age"
Universal
Time, 7 mins.
Action Cartoon

This is a strange mixture of the Stone Age with modern Austins and 'reel side shows. Oswald, the hero, is talking to a girl in his car, but the villain, Pegleg, comes along and in true Stone Age fashion, wins the lady with a swirl of the head. But the mountain villagers start out with their dogs in pursuit of the killer. The bear is brought to bay, and a shot from a rifle kills it. Then the festival back at the village, celebrating the event. The scenery and costumes are picturesque, but the production values are pretty poorly put together. It will no doubt prove entertaining to German audiences.

"Childhood Daze"
Capitol Film Exch.
Time, 20 mins.
Swell Kid Number

A good two-reeler for the children, with plenty of entertainment for the grownups as well. Entire action concerns juveniles, including a wait and his dog who butt in on a lawn party at a swell estate. The little rich girl runs off with the cunning brat and dog to a boxing match in which the participants are a couple of comical chimpanzees. Finally, the butler comes after the rich girl and ends the fun. The story is done mostly in action, will fit nicely into any bill.

"First Egg"
Educational
Time, 7 mins.
Lively Cartoon

A Paul Terry-Toon cartoon, being a barnyard fable of the hen who hatched her first egg, and then all the barnyard folks held a festival in her honor. But a flock of hawks swoop down and steal the chicken, and then the hero gets into action with his air-shots and arrows, the marauders single-handed. Lively cartoon gags with good incidental music.

"Secrets of Plant Life"
Ufa
Time, 9 mins.
German Novelty

A German dialogue film from the Berlin studio. A man and girl seated in a garden, with the gent explaining the different characteristics of plants and flowers to his companion. It is slow motion camera, over time periods, showing on the screen the instantaneous budding and growth of the shrubs and flowers from the time the plant bursts through the soil. Nothing new, but interesting to plant lovers. The German dialogue limits it to that type of audience.

"Bear Hunting in the Carpathians"
Ufa
Time, 16 mins.
German Hunting Film

A German dialogue film, produced in the Carpathian mountains. It shows a camera man perched in a tree taking close-up shots of a bear foraging on a herd of sheep. The bear pounces on a sheep, and kills it. Then the shepherd sounds the alarm, and the mountain villagers start out with their dogs in pursuit of the killer. The bear is brought to bay, and a shot from a rifle kills it. Then the festival back at the village, celebrating the event. The scenery and costumes are picturesque, but the production values are pretty poorly put together. It will no doubt prove entertaining to German audiences.

"Laughing With John P. Medbury in Africa"
Columbia
Time, 9 mins.
Amusing Travesty

John P. Medbury's wisecracking is the feature of this Walter Futter novelty, which consists of a bunch of silent African scenes pieced together so as to form something in the way of a travel picture. Aside from the shots being more or less interesting on a travelogue basis, the humor is pretty mechanically few highlights and nothing in the way of a "mystery" to justify the name.

"The Kingdom of Sheba"
(Magic Carpet of Movietone)
Fox
Time, 10 mins.
Good

Another engrossing subject in the Magic Carpet series. This one depicts the Abyssinian realm, showing the natives, including both royalty and those of lower importance, participating in various activities, such as making bread, playing hot music, hair-cutting, selling mules, soldiers parading in review before the monarch, etc., with plenty of sound all along the line.

"Crimes Square"
with Pat O'Brien, Mary Doran
Vitaphone
Time, 9 mins.
Fair Underwater Skit

Just a simply constructed sketch about a crook who marries a good girl and decides to go straight. But a former crowd goes up and the burst of jealousy gives him away to the cops. The man is given a stretch, with the wife standing by him. Good entertainment by Pat O'Brien, who scored in "Front Page."
SEES VAST NEW BUSINESS FOR THEATERS NEXT YEAR

school groups and 200,000 representing religious denominations, with the remainder distributed among women's organizations, fraternal bodies and other associations. A large number of these committees, says Woodhouse, are expected to follow the example of one which has already appropriated $5,000 for films of Washington's life, to be preserved for historic purposes, and stands ready to call on its members to be patrons every week, during the 38 weeks of celebration, at any theater that shows a production of Washington's life made from the newly discovered records.

In addition to the 600,000 committees being formed in the U.S., there are to be about 400,000 abroad. If only 10 per cent of these groups follow the weekly attendance policy and spend $250 per committee, including friends and followers, it will mean $25,000,000 a week revenue, says Woodhouse.

In point of the event, a series of 44 shorts are needed. Six preliminary subjects of Washington's life are required before Feb. 22, 1932, as the committees get ready to become familiar with the subject. The other 38 shorts would be weekly releases during the 38 weeks of the celebration.

Following the lead of the committee that already has indicated its willingness to put up $5,000 with any producer turning out the first shorts of Washington's life, other committees undoubtedly will make substantial appropriations for films besides patronizing theaters, Woodhouse declare.

In situations where theaters do not care to cooperate with committees in exhibiting the Washington films, arrangements will be made to show the pictures elsewhere.

Woodhouse says that more than 100 new chapters of Washington's life have been discovered, all of which could be easily screened. He also believes that from 5,000 to 10,000 persons from the film industry could be given employment as directors, executive secretaries, etc., in connection with additional shorts desired by many committees, also in helping to stage local talent pageants, tableaux, etc.

PRESENTATIONS

By JACK HARKOWER

All-Girl Production Pleases at Capitol

Girls have it all their own way at the Capitol this week in "All Girl Revue," headed by Jane and Katherine Lee. The Lee girls have not been seen on local stages since they were youngsters. Jane has developed into a beautiful with a wonderful sense of humor and the makings of a fine comedienne. Their part in the show consists of two duets and dance numbers, a heel-and-toe number by Jane, some patter and a lot of very funny tomfoolery by Jane. Gwendolyn's Ensemble, a group of 14 pretty girls who know how to sing and who have been seen for years at big time vaudeville, also present their many in great style. Queen, Queen and Queen, nifty steppers, present a whirlwind clog number with some difficult specialty steps. The Chester Hales Girls present a striking acrobatic dance, and the whole show is backed up by the music and sparkling personality of Miss Grice and her Bricktops, a jazz band that play classics as well as the popular stuff.

Costumes are new and bright and the entire show is inviting entertainment.

Prehistoric Spectacle Unusual Note at Roxy

Something out of the ordinary run in stage presentations is being offered at the Roxy this week in the first show devised by Clark Robinson, new production director of the theater. It is a fantastic prehistoric legend titled "Fifty Million Years Ago," depicting in a free and colorful way some supposed antics of jungle days of long ago. A high light of the proceedings is a mechanical dinosaur, the size of the whole Roxy stage, and which moves, breathes, carries people and does other remarkable things. Maurice Baron has written a special score for the production, and there are weird dances by the Roxyettes and Ballet, as well as choral selections by the chorus. Among principals in the various scenes are Margaret Sande, Deroc Trio, Merriam Field, Helen Sada, Harry White, Alice Manning, Alex Apostoloff, Alo Yousoff, Nina Polksey and others.

The screen attraction is a revival of "Sunny Side Up."

Exchanges Shots With Bandits

St. Louis and Clarence Groetke, manager of the Roxy, exchanged shots Wednesday night with two bandits who took $50 in receipts from Nellie Stapleton, cashier. The robbers got away.

features backed with presentations of from six to eight acts, not to mention the various other side attractions offered by many houses, declares Sumner.

"A mystery gangster, sex and sophisticated pictures, Sumner states that what the exhibitor and public want is variety and plenty of good, consistent, well-produced pictures, with no clipping of program. He does not believe in fewer pictures, pointing out that in competitive situations, where overcrowating is frequently the rule, theaters are obliged to use weak productions to take care of numerical requirements.

COLORFUL HAVANA THEME IN PARAMOUNT STAGE SHOW

The Paramount stage revue is a very colorful presentation entitled "Habanera." Opens with a scene view of Havana and a rumba dance. Serin rises, and the Bines ballet are seen in a colorful number. A tambourine dancer is followed by Don Aparicio and his Havana Casino Orchestra. They are on the stage throughout the revue. They do several rumba numbers. One of which is sung: "The Peanut Vendor." Different interpretations are given of the Rumba dance by solo dancers and mixed teams. They do the dance in the tough cabaret style and in the ballroom version. The interpolated act is that of Fowler and Tamara, who put on a clever comedy act. The man at the piano kicks the tall blonde doing the high operatic notes, after which they go into some rough and tumble stuff that has the house in a constant guffaw. They are good. Finishes with a spectacular routine with the girls in very nifty and colorful costumes. Good summer show produced by Frank Cambria with a lot of class.

AN IMPROVED METHOD OF BLOCKING OUT SPLICES IN SOUND FILM

Now the sound track need no longer be painted out at the joints to silence splice noise. The Eastman Sound Film Patch enables the laboratory worker to block out joints with greater ease, speed, and uniformity.

The patch is made of light-weight, opaque film. For convenience in handling, it is provided with a quickly detachable finger tab. With the aid of this tab, a simple but accurate registration block, and cement, the patch is quickly applied to the film.

Because of its design, the patch is practically inaudible in projection. At the same time it obscures a minimum of the sound record, and assures fast, accurate treatment of all splices. These factors make the patches and the block a valuable feature of Eastman Service.

"Transatlantic"

Caught in preview, this Fox production shapes up as a smart, sophisticated film done with class in the luxurious settings of an ocean liner. Edmund Lowe is featured as a gambler matching wits with an international gang of rifty crooks. Plenty of femme lure with a contrasting threesome of Lois Moran, Greta Nissen and Myrna Loy. Story is clever with suspense building to a strong dramatic finish. Director William K. Howard put all his cunning into this one, delivering a feature that is Grade A for summer entertainment in any theater. It's a triumph for Howard, with clever directorial touches, and unusual camera treatment that alone would distinguish it.

—HARROWER.

"Transatlantic" is one of the best examples we have seen of an effective combination of silent and talker technique. The revolver battle up and down the spider-like structure of the engine room provides a different and walloping kick. We recommend it.

Gang and Sex Pictures Washed Up, Exhibs Say

Washed-up pictures contain substantially the same comments as those already printed. Significantly, however, is the fact that in reply to the questions, "What criticism have you to make regarding types of current pictures?" and "What complaints are voiced by your patrons?" the exhibitors unanimously specified,
"too much gang, crime and sex."
The questionnaires contained no mention of gang or sex pictures, consequently replies were volunteered without suggestion.

Another reaction brought out by the commentary is the attitude on discussion. Here, again, exhibtors are unanimous in declaring that these pictures contain too much and too sophisticated talk.

Asked which pictures had showed original scripts, however, there is some ease for remaking successful silents in talkies, said Vogel.

Paramount asks mystery and sus-npense is lost to a great degree when theatregoers are presented with a sound re-issue of a picture they have seen in silent form. Mystery and susnance are two important requisites of good motion picture writing and presentation. The same applies to talkie versions of plays and books, but to a lesser degree. There was never a better time for opportunity for enterprising and clever authors to show their sparks of genius in the writing of novels or scenarios with original twists and themes. This industry is wide open for good story material, declared Vogel.

A VITAPHONE SHORT SUBJECT
HOLLYWOOD FLASHES
By RALPH WILK

HENRY McRAE, who supervises serials for Universal, is scheduled to leave for England about the middle of next month to make "Heroes of the Law," Scotland Yard serial.

Doris Malloy, who recently underwent an operation for cancer, has recovered and resumed her work as a newsclipter at Fox. She and Gertrude Orr wrote "The Mad Parade," which will be released by Paramount. "Women Like Men," a play based on "The Mad Parade," will be presented in San Francisco by Charles King.

Walter Futter, who is an enthusiastic golfer, is showing more interest in fishing. He is spending his week-ends at Catalina, fishing for "yellow tails."

Nat Perrin will write an original for Shie Sale in collaboration with Ben Homes. The Sale comedies are produced by Louis Brock.

Sam Katzman will direct a series of fairy stories. Ruth Grace is starred in "Little Red Riding Hood," the initial subject of the series.

LONG THE RADIO WITH PHIL DALY

THINGS WE NEVER THOUGHT WORTH MENTIONING TILL NOW.

...that the publicity story of the week is the one Tom T. Tomlinson has revived about James Gordon Bennett, publisher of the old "Herald," and P. T. Barnum...the big showman sold the publisher a piece of property at Broadway and Ann, but tied up an adjoining parcel, thus made the purchase practically worthless to Mister Bennett...who was naturally sore...and got even this way...he gave instructions to his entire newspaper staff that Barnum and his show were to be completely IGNORED...not a line, good or bad...and as the Big Circus had its spring opening every year in New York...and depended on metropolitan newspaper notices for starting the season with a bang...and as the "Herald" at that time was THE newspaper...Mister Barnum took a shellackin' for two seasons...and then came crawling on his knees to Mister Bennett, saying..."I'm licked. Slam me in your paper if you must, but if you don't, my sakes, don't IGNORE me!"...so if we take a slam at you or You... or You... it should make you happy...just as long as we don't ignore you BIEARELY for isn't the 11' old paper the "Bennett" of the film biz?

THAT

...the foreign influence on Broadway is indicated by the recent marquee sign on the Globe, which reads: "NW AD THE MAYFAIR...TSR A GRSSION...KAL. A. NGL-RC TZZ. Has you have..."...that Edward B. Hushing is announcer at WABC...noiseless broadcasting, no doubt...that Raspin Productions has been incorporated in Delaware...and Eddie Klein wonders if we can anticipate raspin' sounds and effects...that the dumb Wop in the gondola, Giuseppe, sez he is gonna try and sew up the film rights for the Quigley vs. Silverman bout...but we pointed out to him in our quiet way that 90 per cent of it would be CENSORED.

THAT

Jesse Lasky has one of the most retentive memories for names in the film biz, according to Jack Fuld...Mister Lasky had only met Jack once...back in 1919...and on seeing him a few weeks ago, greeted him instantly..."How are ya, Mister Fuld?..."...and was Jack flabbergasted!...that Mark Luescher's charitable efforts in feeding those pigeons outside his ossif window have been rewarded...the other day he paid out $1 to St. John's...that Director Garnet never says "Camera!"...he sez "Give!"...he ain't Scotch.

THAT

Albert N. Gates of the insurance firm of Stebbins, Leterman & Gates, began his career 28 years ago at a time when they were writing policies by hand...the three members of this firm carry over one million insurance each...showing what these experts think of their own racket...that one of the quickest big insurance transactions on record was that of Artie Stebbins' insurance of Joe Schenk for $5,000,000...the policies were received by Joe within 48 hours.

THAT

Bill Cunningham, doing the Sports shorts series for Brown & Nagel, once interviewed the North Pole explorer Steffansson for a Dallas rag...and the famous explorer bawled his assistant out for not telling him that no REAL reporter would do such an amateurish thing...and Bill was sore, because his gal was there to hear the razz...but after they left, she sez..."Don't worry, Bill. I got the ENTIRE interview; she'll hand it in.

THAT

after Billy Fergusons' roadhouse campaign on "Trader Horn" was all over, one of his exploiters in the field was still sending "heavy" little sheet Joe Schenk for and Bill wired him collect..."Don'tcha know ya chuck that the War is over and we're back to pre-war prices?"...oops.

SHORT SHOTS FROM NEW YORK STUDIOS
By HARRY N. BLAIR

ROBERT SHERIDAN assisted Sidney M. Goldin in the direction of "His Wife's Lover," first all Jewish talkie made by High-A pictures, of which Nathan Hirsh is president.

Lionel Herbert of the Paramount film laboratories reveals the fact that during his travels in such places as England, Africa, South America, and Australia, he has served in various capacities such as actor, writer, detective and assistant casting director.

A glance around the remodeler Vitaphone studios in Brooklyn where production is again in full swing, reveals little or no resemblance to the old Vitaphone studio which formerly stood on the same site. The latter served as a training school for such stars as Norma Talmadge, Wallace Reid, and the Colombo sisters, to name but a few. Likewise, the present Vitaphone plant has acted as a training school for many talkie luminaries of Broadway vintage.

Rehearsals are in progress on the first all-Italian picture to be produced by Thalia Amusement Corp. at 245 West 55th St. It is a Neapolitan story adapted from a song, "Voce Bella," with continuity prepared by Eugene Roder.

An industrial short featuring Dutch Boy white lead and paint products has been completed at the Caraval studios on Long Island. This is the second of a series of films.

RKO Will Distribute 15 Chinese Color Pictures

3 Features, 12 Shorts To Be Made in China With Mixed Casts

West Coast Bureau, THE FILM DAILY

Hollywood—Contracts have been closed whereby three features and 12 two-reel productions in Multicolor will be made in Shanghai by the Orient-Pacific Pictures Corp., for distribution in the American market by RKO. Two of these cases of Chinese and Europeans will be used.

Another group of 20 Multicolor productions, each 15 reels long, will be handled by Allied for the same market. The producers of these pictures are well known in China. An increase of production is expected to meet the growing demand for Chinese pictures in the United States.

KINOGRAM REEL CONTRACTS TO BE HANDLED BY ALLIED

Securing of exhibition contracts from Allied members for the Kino- grams' advertising reel will be handled by the Allied States organization itself, as the result of the withdrawal of Oscar R. Hanson. Work is now in progress on the reel for Allied States, and it is expected to be completed in the near future.

Oscar R. Hanson Joins Gaumont-British Firm

Toronto—Oscar R. Hanson, former Tiffany general manager, has become general sales manager for Gaumont-British, with headquarters here. Hanson recently severed his connections with the Kinogrand Allied States Ass'n advertising newspaper project.

Morrison Takes Up Duties As Publix Southeast Mgr.

Birmingham—Ernest Morrison, who succeeds Bob O'Donnell as southeast manager for Publix, has taken up his new duties. O'Donnell is now at the home office in New York.

Survey Shows Talking is Definitely Wanted, But in Lesser Quantity

Approximately 25 per cent dialogue is the right amount, according to a consensus embracing more than a hundred exhibitors queried in a FILM DAILY survey. In reply to the question, "What do you consider the proper amount of dialogue for the general run of pictures," exhibitors indicated varying figures from zero per cent and "no more than the footage previously used for titles," to 75 per cent "in certain cases, depending on the picture." The survey showed that the exhibitors prefer a mix of dialogue and silent pictures, with 25 per cent dialogue being the average amount desired.

155 NEW INSTALLATIONS ARE CONTRACTED BY ERPI

Contracts for Western Electric sound system took a jump in recent weeks, with a total of 155 jobs signed in the U. S. territory alone, it is reported by C. W. Bunn, general sales manager.

Far East Film Magnate

M. A. Namazie, 67, chairman of the board of directors of Capitol Theaters, Ltd., leading movie firm in the Far East, died Sunday night, according to a cable received yesterday by Joe Fisher, general manager.

China's Mary Pickford Slated for U. S. Screens

West Coast Bureau, THE FILM DAILY

Hollywood—Butterfly Wu, called the Mary Pickford of China, will be seen in America next season as a result of contracts just signed whereby she is to appear in a series of features made by Star Motion Picture Co., Shanghai, for world-wide release. She is executive of the Shanghai company, has arrived here to complete arrangements for making the pictures in Multicolor.

Action Against Film Combine Planned by British Columbia

Victoria, B. C.—Likelihood that the government of this province would be the first to take action against the alleged film combine in Canada was indicated by the legislative buildings as officials completed their reading of the report of Peter White, K. C., who conducted the investigation. "Early and strong action" was hinted.

Taxes— and other irritations

---by Jack Allicoate---

A confiscatory tax on admissions has just been signed to take effect in Florida. It passed one gislicial branch after apparently lying dormant, when one militant member, in a burst of oratorical enthusiasm, noted from the press of box-office dimensons and fabulous industry salaries. This question of State taxa-on is one of the major problems of the industry. A tax at the box-office affects every man and woman in this ready harassed business. Salaries and box-office receipts may be legitimate press matter, but in times like the present can also be TNT in their power as gislicial back-fires.

Mag' Em Dream

Silly Sensors

And while this column is reserving itself into one of irritations, let us give a thought to this open season for silly censors. Without question a serious production problem of the day is the needless harassing of free expression for fear of 57 varieties of censorship. If the laws are good and up to date, as most censorship regulations, we blush to contemplate what a dull, drab and easily place these great United States would be in which to live.

COMING & GOING

MRS. NATALIE KALMUS of Technicolor is in New York from the coast this week on a vacation. She will be accompanied by MARGARET FITTING, publicity director.

THOMAS MEIGHAN arrived yesterday from Hollywood.

JAMES CAGNEY leaves the coast this week for a vacation in New York. Mrs. Cagney will accompany him.

DMITRI ONTROV, author, signed by Fox, has left for the coast.

THE OTHER evening we were talking to a cosmopolitan of the world... a gent who spends most of his life in travel, and who has a hobby for studying folks and their reactions to certain conditions... and being interested in motion pix... which he thinks are due to return the silent technique to a certain degree... with sound effects, music... but very little dialogue... for he has watched audience reaction in all corners of the world... especially the psychology of the Continental peoples... and he gives it as his honest opinion that the average European, such as the German, Frenchman, Spaniard, Italian... is still unsold on the talkers... claiming they like their pix silent.

THIS OBSERVER believes the crusade of the problem is simply the traditions and viewpoint of centuries of old-world civilization as opposed to the standardized mode of life and thought of the new. In America everything is served to the public for consumption... pre-digested... even our amusements... especially the talkies... whereas the average European is more individualistic. He likes his Pix to be his own imagination a little... he gets a kick from imagining what conversation would transpire under a given situation... and a word, he creates his Own Picture... and a load of dialogue destroys this enjoyment... so this world-observer wonders why Hollywood persists in trying to make foreign talkies for foreigners... even "foreign" to the foreigners when they view 'em... because our dialogue style is alien to the average foreigner's mental processes... his traditions... whereas silent-technique pix, reflecting the true atmosphere of the country for which they were made... native casts... and done with the Hollywood finish and class... would Clean Up.

REMEMBER WHEN? Jesse Lasky had a hole in the wall in the Hudson theater building... booking acts... when he moved to the old Broadway theater building... crane... and McCarty was as close with him... and then Jesse made his great big jump from handling girls to the launching of the Folies Bergeres in the Fulton theater... which led to Call for High-ways, where he tied up with Cecil De Mille... and crashed the film biz big time... and just look at what Jesse has done since... gosh, how some folks do Grow!

OUR INQUIRING Photographer... Question: Have you any prejudice against women smoking while strolling along a public street?... Answers: Dopey Gits—Not so long as they stick away the butts before they get too short... Broadway Flash—These flappers look so nice and hot, so why throw a smoke screen around 'em?... Country Side—I think it's a swell thing... I can ask strange gents for a light without being thought immoral, and the strange gents can ask me almost anything. It's all very lovely... Aunt Mary Ann—I just adore blowing the smoke from my pipe in the traffic cop's eye... Chorus Charlie—Oh, dear, with all these girls smoking pipes on the street, I can't tell which is which any more...

WE KNOW a Broadway theater taken over by a distributor who pays no rent, just so long as they make the repairs and keep the check from falling into decay... and they're giving dough... McCarty... who is running several vaude months in Hollerword trying to make the pix... and when she was back in New York three weeks she had four offers... can ya beat it?... Gregory Linder, vice-president of Columbia Corporation, is in town... that bill framed in his ossip... it disappeared for three days... and then Gregory found it on his desk, with an anonymous note, saying... "If you need me, just send it, then it was the real McCoy... and the sap didn't know that any art connoisseur would have given him several hundred dollars for it..."

NEWS of the DAY

statement made by other exhibitor leaders, in the series of expressions obtained by The Film Daily, to the effect that producers have been over-looking the masses and the family trade in their efforts to reach "great heights in film production. He likewise concurs in the opinion that dialogue has been excessive and too sophisticated.

Lam is opposed to double features, adding that good product is too scarce and he would not inflict two poor pictures on patrons. The extra entertainment, in the way of stage show, etc., offered by the big circuit houses has caused the small-town public to complain that prices in their local houses are high in comparison, says Lam. He believes in price-cutting, to make theater admissions conform to reductions in other lines. Increased overhead and rentals against lower receipts constitute the exhibitor's chief problem at present, declares Lam and eventually production and operating costs will have to be brought down to make lower admissions profitable.

COUNTY CAMPAIGN in “FREE SOUL”

GUS MITCHELL, live-wire manager of the Imperial, Newton, N. C., cooperated in placing an extensive advertising campaign both in his county and in the neighboring one of Hickory, N. C., in an effort to put over “A Free Soul.” Mitchell literally plastered every available space in an area of 30 miles with announcements, photographs and window cards. He also arranged to have special announcements mailed out to theater-goers over the county, and the heralds distributed in house to house canvas. In building his newspaper campaign, Mitchell started with a teaser campaign which broke ten days in advance of the opening. He then continued inserting copy every other day, concluding same on the opening day. Ads were also placed in a Hickory paper.

—Imperial, Newton, N. C.

Teap With Press in “Trader Horn”

ERNST AUSTGEN, manager of Loew’s Akron, O., included a novel Identification Contest on “Trader Horn.” Austgen arranged for a tieup with the Akron “Times Press,” whereby they ran a “Trader Horn”Whisperer Contest, using photographs of prominent people such as the Mayor, city officials, and prominent business men, with a full growth of whiskers sketched on by the newspaper artist. Cash prizes and guest tickets were offered as prizes to those who could correctly identify the photographs. This contest ran for six days prior to opening.

ALONG THE RIALTO with PHIL DAILY

- *•••• AFTER PRACTICALLY all the big producers have angling for Walter Winchell’s services on the screen...up steps Mr. Robert E. Gilliam, general manager of the Lyman H. Howe Films of Wilkes-Barre, Pa., and sews Walter up on a series...and the reason he was able to do it was because he gave the Broadway nightliner just the sort of material that Walt loves better than anything....and your guess is Wrong mozzir, it ain’t night life atmosphere...it’s human interest stuff about Manhattan in general...far removed from the blah and ballyhoo of Broadway....

- *•••• ONLY THE maestro of Walter knows of his yen for that New York which is far removed from the masses and the fizzle...at heart this gink is a Romanticist....he loves nothing better than to delve in odd corners...snoop quietly around town with a heroine as dawn is breaking and sentimentalize over all human touches that would be laughed at the wrong way in his sophisticated column...a guy with a big, tender heart for any of New York’s 7,000,000 who have taken a wallopf from Fate and are in their luck and how he dotes on atmosphere!....lights and shadows...he will stand for minutes in rapture watching streaks of orange and crimson breaking through the eastern haze at five o’clock in the year when most of his column readers think he is pulling his legs from under a nite club table...which is the boloney he pulls on an unsuspecting public...putting on an act...for the geops who fall for that kind of stuff...for this egg is just a Big Sentimentalist...and his sophisticated line is only a mask...that he’s forced to wear to collect the dough that some day will enable him to live the life he yearns, and it ain’t Broadway...Walt will pardon this Exposure....it’s comin’ to him...after all the stuff he’s pilled on you...and You and YOU.

- *•••• THIS BUILD-UP we’ve given Mister Winchell is by way of a Generous Gesture....the mugg is trailin’ us in the Zit’s Columnists’ Popularity Contest...if he was in the film biz like we might have had a chance...so give the boy a big band, as his friend Tix Guinan might say...he’s strugglin’ along on 100 grand a year...tryin’ to get somewhere and we remember the daze when we were strugglin’, too...of course and that of Bib Gillem of Wilkes-Barre...stickin’ him in the talkie shorts...mark our word...some day this feller Winchell is gonna be heard from...

- *•••• JOE POLAND, who pilots that witty column, “This Is Hollywood,” in the “Film Mercury,” has sorely tempted us many times to lift some of his stuff...it’s that good...for a long time we were convinced that nothing savoring of Originality could possibly emanate from Hollerwood...then one day we picked up Joe’s column...and changed our opinion...but now the Truth is out...Joe was raised in Brooklyn, across the river...that explains Everything...and we are happy again...and can still say...Nothing Original emanates from Hollerwood...and Joe challenges us, through our column, to debate: “Which is better—Broadway or Hollerwood?”...or, if we want to be false to our columnist craft and tell the Truth...“Which is WORSE—Broadway or Hollerwood?”...disbells, Joe, with so many Hollerporters on Broadway these days of depression...we’re frank to admit that Broadway is just as Worse as The Land of Forgotten Men in which you’re stranded...and how can we argue around THAT?

- *•••• DON’T know what we’d do without Tom Namack supplying us nifties...he tells us the banquet at which a conceived society matron exclaimed...“I can get printed notices nowhere in the world”...One Piff the publisher of the New York World, parried...“I wish to God I could say the same”...a Truth that any publisher with the errors in makeup can fully appreciate.

TIMELY TOPICS

A Digest of Current Opinions

Trained Reviewer’s Criticism Invaluable

WHEN professional critics of motion pictures realize more fully that their calling carries with it a responsibility to the industry and to the public, their discussions of current pictures will be of tremendous value to producers as well as a guide to theater patrons. Too many reviewers fail to accept the more constructive duty involved in their work, he declares. It is to the trained reviewer of drama that the producer and his staff must look for impartial and constructive criticism, in order to understand the faults and to discover the virtues of their output. When reviews are written flippantly, with bias and prejudice, lacking a proper critical study, they lose their value to the reader. People in the industry soon learn to appreciate the opinions of a sincere critic and to profit by it, even though it may often be adverse. It is unfortunate that one rarely gets impartial criticism from one friend, or from people directly connected with motion picture production. From friends one hears only praise, while the personnel of the studios haven’t the perspective necessary to sound criticism. All work, regardless of its nature, presupposes intelligent and sincere criticism, and none more so than motion pictures. The fellow who is too self-satisfied or too sensitive to read that type of criticism cannot go far, no matter what he is undertaking.

Produced by Carl Laemmle

In a happy, spicy comedy of youth and its slap at old-fashioned ideals!

VIRTUOUS HUSBAND

What Would You Do If Your Husband Loved You Platonically?

—a screamingly funny comedy of a husband who said NO and a wife who said YES!

EX-BAD BOY

He knew nothing about women. But he learned —AND HOW!—in this rollicking laugh picture of the youth who had to paint a lurid past to win a wife. With ROBERT ARMSTRONG, Jean Arthur, Lola Lane, George Brent. Directed by Vin Moore.

Is a Damned Good Laugh!

MAY ROBSON

She may look mean in the first scene but the next time you see her, she'll be laughing. The character and the laughs are excellent. Mac Hall, Edward Cook, and others are fine in the cast. The story is a good one and the laughs are a real joy. See it!

By RALPH WILK

Hollywood

RICHARD BOLESLAWSKY, whose initial production for Radio Pictures, "Woman Pursued," was warmly received by a local preview audience, is reading several stories from which he is to select his next assignment.

Wallace Smith, in addition to his manifold duties as a writer for Radio Pictures, is writing a series of stories for "Cosmopolitan," besides a novel which is to be published by George Putnam & Sons.

Howard Sutbrook has completed the script version and dialogue for "Frontier," which is to serve as a starting vehicle for Richard Dix.

Edward Goodman, Paramount director, is working on an original story which will in all probability be his next assignment under B. F. Schulberg's supervision.

Richard Wallace as director and Ruth Chatterton as star will again combine forces in making "Tomorrow and Tomorrow." This was responsible for "The Right to Love."

A two months' tour that will include a trip to Europe is being planned by Melville Brown, Radio director, who recently completed the direction of "Fanny Foley Herself," starring Edna May Oliver.

Leo McCarey, since completing his contract with Howard Hughes, has received three flattering offers, but the director's physician has ordered him work on the golf course for the present.

With the addition of Claire Dodd, Adrienne Ames, Oscar Apfel, John Oscar, Tina Marshall and Fred Sandle to the roster of players, the cast of Paramount's "The Road to Reno" was completed.

Alma Chester, Louise Beavers and William Wellman have been added to the cast of Paramount's "Sun Down Trail," western, starring Tom Keene.

Charles Troisbridge and Robert E. Homans are late additions to the cast of Paramount's "24 Hours."

James Dunn will play the leading role with Linda Watkins in Fox's "Bob Sister," under the direction of Alfred Santell. At the same time he will play an important role in "Over the Hill," with Mae Marsh, under the direction of Henry King.

Clarence Wilson is the latest addition to stage. "Traveling Production feature. Story is by Burnett Hershey.

"Laughing With Medbury in Turkey" will be the title of Columbia's next "Traveler." Walter Futter's short feature, which will take the audience on a trip to the land of Kala Pasha, John P. Medbury, who writes the dialogue and furnishes the off-stage voice for the series is preparing material for the new edition.

"Once a Lady," is the definite title of Ruth Chatterton's next Paramount starring picture, tentatively known as "Noirity," based on the play, "The Second Life."

Benny Rubin is at work at the RKO Pathé studio making "Guests Wanted," with Ralph Ceder directing.

Eleanor Boardman has joined Clive Brook at the head of the cast of "The Dover Road," Paramount's filming of the A. A. Milne play which William C. de Mille will direct.

Skeets Gallagher has been assigned to a principal role in Paramount's "Come On In," starring Bette Davis and Paul McCullough.

Edward Crandall will be in "The Yellow Ticket," Fox film starring Elissa Landi. The picture has been adapted by Jules Furthman from the stage play by Philip Morton.

Frankie Darro, who used to "ride em, cowboy" for the old FBO studios, has been signed for a role in "Other People's Business," the "Seth Parker" picture in which Radio Pictures is to do with the air star, Phillips L. Lord.

Madge Evans has been signed for the feminine lead opposite Charles Farrell in "Heartbreak," Fox picture adapted from an air service romance by Llewellyn Hughes.

Charles C. (Buddy) Post, production manager for Trem Carr and Monogram Pictures, returns tomorrow from a fishing trip in Mexican waters, his first vacation in five years.

Loretta Young instead of Dorothy Mackall will co-star with James Cagney in First National's "Blind Spot."

Walter Catlett is co-featured with Al St. John in "Honeymoon Trio," new Educational-Comedy, directed by William Goodrich. Dorothy Granger has the feminine lead.

Charlie Ruggles has been assigned by Paramount to "The Dover Road."

The TECHNICOLOR work in "THE RUNAROUND" is the finest example of color photography I have ever seen...

The picture constituted a rigid test of TECHNICOLOR'S new printing process. TECHNICOLOR successfully met every production challenge in the studio and has obtained beautiful results upon the screen.

The colors are brilliant and strikingly contrasted. In addition, TECHNICOLOR has achieved in "THE RUNAROUND" a perfection of registration and a sharpness of definition which represents a truly amazing advance over all previous color pictures.

“Star Witness” Exploited

In Anti-Crime Movement

Opening “The Star Witness” at the Winter Garden Monday night, ahead of schedule, Warner Bros., will give proceeds of the first performances to the families of the New York children murdered by the Tuesday St. in a chapter which attracted national attention. Story of the picture, as in the usual case, concerns the terrorizing witnesses through fear of reprisals.

A half-page advertisement appears in all New York newspapers today, in the form of an open letter addressed to District Attorney Crain and Police Commissioner Mulrooney in which Warner Bros. offer to give their aid in solving the witness intimidation problem.

Further steps are expected to follow “Sunny Money” at the Winter Garden, is now tentatively scheduled to open at the Hollywood Aug. 15.

programs will be used to publically condemn the action. The charge will be attacked as "unreasonable," espe-cularly when pictures are played on portion of deals. Part of the assessment will be centered on PRC-Pathé which, since its change in management, is now asking score charges.

Previously, the item was figured in its film rental.

In retaliation against score charges

the M.P.T.O. has instructed a committee to draft a bill seeking to impose a tax on distributors in the form of a levy against cinemas in conjunction with chain enterprises. Influential political support will be lined up for the measure.

U. A. Has Biggest Number Of "Ten Best Directors"

With the directors of four of its pictures figuring in the "Ten Best Directors of 1930-31," United Artists not only leads the list in number of outstanding megaphone wielders, but its percentage of pictures—four out of 16 produced—figuring in the poll also is higher than that of any other company.

Of the U. A. group in the "Ten Best" list included D. W. Griffith's "Abra-

"NO HOLDS BARRED"
featuring
GUS SONNENBERG
CHAMPION WRESTLER

Bristling with exciting thrills, America's greatest sports are brought to the screen and vividly described by a nationally popular sports writer.

The first release features an outstanding favorite—the man who brought wrestling into universal popularity—"Dynamite" Gus Sonnenberg. Leading wrestlers of the United States and foreign countries—modern Goliaths hurling hundredweights of beef and muscle to the canvas—crowd this extraordinary subject with thrills and drama.

A different sport in each release, these pictures will feature exciting incidents of pronounced popular interest, described by Bill Cunningham in his own inimitable way.

Suspect racketeering in New Camera Union
Cameras' circles were aroused on Saturday following announcement that a new organization for cameramen and sound men had been launched at a meeting several days ago in the Hotel Pennsylvania. Inquiries at the Pennsylvania brought the reply that nothing was known of the group and that the name was not on file at the hotel. Inasmuch as the spokesman of the new group announced that an initiation fee of $50 had been set, it is intimated that someone probably is attempting to put over a racket.

Crandall Incorporates
For Return as Exhibit
Washington Bureau of The Film Daily

M.P.T.O.A. Pushes Fight Against Copyright Bill
Passage of the Copyright Bill embracing the Berne convention arrangement would cause exhibitors to pay six or more sets of music license taxes instead of one, the M.P.T.O.A. pointed out Friday in urging its members to take a deeper interest in the measure, which will come before Congress next fall. The association states that all theater men should send suggestions for revision of the law which may be given consideration when the bill is rewritten. A. Julian Brylawski and Sidney Lust have been leaders in the fight against the measure.

Granet Writing Shorts Dialogue
Bert Granet, formerly of the Paramount New York Studios, has been engaged by the Film Exchange, Inc., to write the dialogue scripts for the series of the "Living Book of Knowledge" novels and travelogues. He has just completed his first subject, "Flying Fleet." Arthur Hale is doing the off-screen narration.

Para. Eastern Studio Changes
Andrew Bennison, formerly with Warners on the coast, has joined the Paramount New York studios as gag man in the short subject department, succeeding Clarence Hennecke. Elizabeth North, reader of the studio, and her assistant, Florence Zunzer, have left. Another recent departure was Max T. Hayes, dialogue supervisor on shorts, who is now producing vaudeville acts for the William Morris office.

Columbia has the Hits!
Four New Productions Starting Soon at Fox

New Fox pictures scheduled to go into production shortly include the following quartette:

- "The Cisco Kid," directed by Irving Cummings, with Warner Baxter, Edmund Lowe, Conchita Montenegro and Nora Lane.

Peering Productions Well Ahead of Schedule

Peering Productions, newly organized producing and distributing company of Jack Bellman and Adolph Pollak, is well ahead of schedule on its two initial productions. The first Peering release is scheduled for Sept. 1, and "The Sea Ghost" and "Lovebound" are almost ready for the cutting rooms short.

- William Nigh, directing "Saved," starring Laura La Plante, with Alan Hale in the leading male role, has returned to the Tec-Art Studios from the high seas, where exterior shots were filmed. Others in the cast are Clarence Wilson, Claude Allister and Peter Erkens. James Tiling and Arthur Grenville Collins, co-directors of "Lovebound," Paul Schofield's adaptation of James Gilbert's novel, are also completing the final scenes of this picture. Myrna Loy, Ralph Forbes, Betty Bronson, Nance O'Neil, Andre Beranger, and Halliwell Hobbes head the cast.

- Two of Peering's productions are now being cast and will be started shortly, also at the Tec-Art Studios.

RKO Pathe Enlarges Property Department

Extensive production activities at the RKO Pathe studio in Culver City have made necessary the enlargement of the studio property department under George Sawley. Eighteen truckloads of new furniture have been delivered to the new department within the last week. With these new properties RKO Pathe will be able to produce nearly any type of setting desired.

Radio Writers Assigned

Bernard Schubert has been assigned the adaptation-dialogue job on L. A. R. Wyble's story, "The Last Virtue," following completion of his work on "Secret Service." Dix's current production, this is the story mentioned for Dolores Del Rio some weeks ago. Wallace Smith also has been assigned to adapt Damon Runyon's "All Scarlet." By

RKO Pathe Completes First Western

RKO Pathe has completed "Sundown Trail," first of six western features on the 1931-32 schedule. Tom Keene, the star, is supported by a cast which includes: Marion Shilling, Nick Stuart, Hooper Aitchely, Stanley Blystone, Louise Beavers and others. "Sundown Trail" is an original story by Robert F. Hill, who also directed the picture.

New Educational Lineup Now Fully Under Way

Production on Educational's 1931-32 product is now in full swing at the Educational, Mack Sennett and Metropolitan studios. "The Tamale Vendor," an Ideal comedy, featuring Tom Patricola, has just been finished, while "Torchy," the first in the Torchy comedy series, is being edited. Ray Cooke is cast in the title role, with Dorothy Dix playing opposite him. Joan Peace, originally was to have appeared with Cooke.

Under the direction of William Goodrich, production on the first in the new Mermaid series is nearing completion. At the Metropolitan studios, William Watson has placed in production the first Vanity, with Vernon Dent, Jack Duffy, Ronnie Bondell and Helen Mann the cast.

With "Cannonball Express," featuring Andy Clyde, and "I Surrined, Dear," with Bing Crosby finished, Mack Sennett has started on a new comedy, while the second in the "Cannibals of the Desert" series is being prepared for production.

Radio Buys Air Story

Radio Pictures has purchased "The Lost Squadron," the Dick Grace biography of a film stunt aviator.

MARKETS SOUND SCREEN

Ambler, Pa.—A new sound screen marketed under the trade name of “Visibestone,” consisting of a series of rod-like filaments, the shape and angles being based upon complicated mathematical formulae, has been introduced by the Keasby & Mt relay, the company manufacturers of this city.

While complete stereoscopic vision is not claimed for this new screen, the rod-like texture in the Visibestone screen is said to lend unusual depth to the projected picture, whereas the scientifically compounded mesh permits greater and more even sound filtration. It is also pointed out by the manufacturer that the new screen very definitely corrects distortion of both sight and sound. This correction is attributed to the special weaving and rod-like texture of the screen. Light is even reflected from the round surfaces of the asbestos threads into the remote angles of the auditorium.

Being basically fireproof, the liability of fire and consequent panic in the theater is greatly reduced, since there is nothing in the Visibestone screen to ignite or smoulder and give off poisonous fumes or noxious gases to alarm the audience, the company declares.

The new screen is being distributed by the National Theater Supply Co.

Westinghouse Develops Lighting Control Relay

East Pittsburgh, Pa.—To enable the intensity of natural light control artificial lighting automatically, a new photo-electric lighting control relay has been developed by the Westinghouse Electric and Manufacturing Co.

The operation of the lighting control relay, which the company declares, is affected by variations in the intensity of light falling on the photovoltaic tube. These variations produce proportional changes in the amount of current passing through the tube, and this changing current, amplified in a specially designed amplifier tube, energizes a primary relay controlling an auxiliary contactor, which, in turn, operates the main contactor controlling the lighting installation.

Automatic control applied to illuminated signs and show windows effects a marked increase of advertising value, since it turns on their lights whenever artificial lighting can increase their visibility, and turns them off when artificial illumination fails to enhance their attention-getting power, the company claims.

INSTALLATIONS IN SOUTH KEEP NAT’L SUPPLY BUSY

Atlanta—Equipment sales in this section are on the up-grade, according to the National Theater Supply Co. local offices, which report the following recent sales of equipment in this territory:

State, Statesboro, Ga.: chairs, electric sign, Simplex projectors, reflector arc lamp, Hertner generator, National Sirocco blower, metallic sound screen, picture setting and stage draperies, lobby frames, seat covers and carpets; Playhouse, Statesville, N. C., National Sirocco blowers; Ritz, Anniston, Ala., air washer; DeKalb, Decatur, Ga., air washer; Burke, Valdese, N. C., Sirocco blower; Gay, Knoxville, two Simplex projectors and Peerless reflector arc lamps, Hertner generator, Silversheet sound screen, carpet and Sirocco blower; Pastime Amusement Co., Charleston, S. C., air washer.

KEASBEY & MATTISON CO.
MARKETS SOUND SCREEN

IN the smaller theaters lighting effects do not seem to be considered important, and the result is that domestic lighting units, plain units and often factory lighting units are installed. The average theater manager does not know how critical his patrons may be. He forgets that in his patrons homes electric light is installed, and that in these homes the units are equipped with decorated shades, in various colors and designs, in an effort to produce effects which will harmonize with certain decorative color schemes. Illumination in the small theaters can be made attractive, with very little expense and the theater manager who makes and keeps his theater homey and attractive will be rewarded by added box-office receipts.

The use of fresh flowers to give an attractive appearance to the theater front during the summer months is to be wholly commended, for not only does it improve the appearance, but it gives an added suggestion of coolness in the theater which is in itself a help in days of summer slackness.

The projection mechanism is a piece of fine precision engineering that can quickly be brought to utter ruin by dint of inexpert tinkering. The astute showman will take the greatest care that nobody attempts adjustments or replacements to his equipment other than the manufacturers or recognized specialists. The day of cheapness by calling in the mechanical bodge to repair the projector has passed, and if there is one thing in which it will more readily repay the showman to exercise extreme caution than another, it is the care and upkeep of the mechanical and electrical elements of his equipment, by the manufacturer or the specialist.

Issues Directory

San Francisco—The Western Theater Supply Co., of this city has put out a novel advertising piece in the form of a film exchange telephone directory which is being mailed to all exhibitors on the western slope.

Joins Masterphone Sound Corp.

Seattle—R. L. Trimble, former secretary of the Sound Industrial Loa Co. of this city, has joined the Masterphone Sound Corp. here. Trimble will be in charge of the finance and contract department of the company.

New Cooling Principle

Omaha—The Blizzadairé, featuring a new cooling principle that is said to be noiseless, free from humidity and giving even distribution, is being put out by the Blizzad Sales Co., of this city.

New Masterphone Sets Require No Service Man

Seattle—The expense of having a factory service man continuous call on the theater for inspection and servicing is being eliminated at the Masterphone Sound Corp., this city, which has recently placed on the market a new alternating current operated sound apparatus requiring no batteries, battery charger or motor generator. E. Jensen, manager of the Masterphone Corp., states that with all the new AC-operated sets in operation it has been proven that the service required has been less than 4 percent of the previous service required on battery-operated equipment.

No More Pockets

Here’s the Screen you’ve always wanted

The presence of sound pockets in your theatre, a result of imperfect sound filtration through your present sound screen, can be definitely corrected by installing a Visibestone. It will free your theatre from the curse of sound and sight distortion. Acoustically perfect, and a permanent safeguard against the possibility of fire and panic. Its non-glaring surface is restful to the eye, yet it affords a projected picture of unusual quality and clear visibility from every point in the theatre.

NEW THEATERS

Watertown, Mass. — Officials of the Chamber of Commerce are adding in the negotiations that are now pending for the erection of a theater here. Springfield, Mass.—The Arcade, being erected here by Samuel and Nathan E. Goldstein, is expected to be completed and ready for opening Sept. 1. The house will have a seating capacity of 1,200.

Knoxville, Ga.—Plants have been announced for the theater to be erected by George Denton and E. L. Bigler on Burlington Ave. this city.

Starkville, Miss.—R. J. and A. L. Goodman are erecting a theater here to be known as the New Ma- sonic. The house, which will have a seating capacity of 750, is being erected to replace the one that was destroyed by fire several months ago.

U. A. CHICAGO HOUSE
ADOPTS "ELECTRIC EYE"

Chicago—An electric meter, known as the "Electric Eye" has been installed at the United Artists theater here. This is said to be the first installation of its kind in the world.

The instrument, perfected by J. H. Hyke, of the Midwest Ticket Co. of this city, and announced in THE FILM DAILY some months ago, rec- ords the entrance of a patron through the gate by the breaking of a beam of light shining invisibly across the doorway. The gate has been arranged so that the patrons enter single file. When the light beam is interrupted, it registers on a meter in the manager's office, thus making it possible for the manager to tell immediately how many people have entered the theater in any given period.

By means of a wire connection the office can be hooked up with all theaters on the circuit so that the division manager can tell minute by minute what each theater in his district is doing in the way of busi- ness. The system also eliminates any false reports by managers, cashiers or doormen.

If the device is successful, it may be placed in all Publix houses.

Takes Over Film Processing Co.
Albert Beck and William Burch, formerly connected with the Na- tional Film Renovating Co. and the Fox printing room department, re- spectively, have taken over the management of Dennison Film Processinng Co., Inc., with headquarters in the Film Center building, New York. Under the new man- agement a reduction in prices for cleaning and renovating films has been announced.

Nat'l Supply Opens Iowa Branch
Des Moines — National Theater Supply Company has re-established its branch office here. B. F. Sills was transferred from Detroit to manage the branch.

Joins Nat'l Sales Force
Seattle—Williams Evans, formerly advertising manager of the Fox Gray's Harbor theaters, has joined the local branch of the National Theater Supply Co.

ALTERTIONS

Twin Falls, Ida.—The Orpheum, recently acquired by Publix, has been closed for remodeling and im- provements.

Seattle—Modernization work on the old Empire theater building here, rechristened the Yakima by the Hughes-Franklin organization, will be completed shortly. Approximately $25,000 is being spent on the work.

Sprinfield, Mass. — The Publix Broadway has closed for the sum- mer to permit extensive repairs, alter-ations and improvements.

Youngstown, O.—The Park, owned by Shea Theaters and managed by J. E. Shagrin, is being completely remodeled under plans pre- pared by Morris V. Sheibe, archi- tect. The house will be entirely redecorated and a new ventilating and cooling system installed.

Yonkers, N. Y.—Work of re- building the Broadway is proceed- ing according to schedule and the house is expected to be reopened the latter part of September. Inter- ior was destroyed by fire re- cently.

Bronx, N. Y.—Tremont theater, owned and operated by David Weint- stock, is being altered and repaired.

Roswell, N. M.—E. C. Treib is remodeling and redecorating the Princess.

Bublin, Ga. — Remodeling and general improvements will be made at the Rose, according to John Peak, manager.

GERMAN FILM WORKERS IN CO-OPEPATIVE VENTURE

Berlin—The Organization of German Film Workers, known as the Daecho, will soon start the production of pictures, the necessary capital now being available. Production will be on a co-operative basis, every member taking part in the making of a picture being entitled to the reimbursement of his daily expenses and to a share in 50 per cent of the profit.

LIVERPOOL BAN ALARMS BRITISH EXHIBITORS

Liverpool — As a result of the closing of Liverpool theaters to children, under an order of the City Licensing Justices, in accord with the order of the British Board of Film Censors that children be not admitted to theaters showing films with the "A" certificate (films ruled as suitable for adults only) British exhibitors are alarmed lest other justices throughout Great Britain take similar action. The expected C.E.A. appeal from the ruling has not materialized, but the exhibitors' organization is sending representatives to Liverpool to discuss the order prior to the next licensing session.

Half of German Imports Supplied by the U. S.

Berlin—Fifty per cent of the films imported by Germany during the fiscal year ending June 30, 1931, were made in the United States. Twenty-five per cent were of French make; the other 25 per cent coming from England, Italy, Czechoslovakia, Sweden, Russia and Poland. Joint productions were made by German firms during the year with British, French, Czechoslovakian, Italian and Swedish film interests.

Japanese Ask Reduction of Tax

Tokyo—Film exhibitors in Japan have presented to the Departments of Finance and Home Affairs a request to have the theatrical tax reduced by transferring it from the local to the national business tax. They also seek unified theatrical regulations as to hours of exhibition, etc.

German Firms Reach Agreement

Berlin—The Deutsche Lichtspiel Syndikat and Sudfilm have made a close working agreement. Each company maintains its integrity, without a fusion or capital merger. Joint action will be taken, however, in the purchase of raw stock, exploitation of the market, regulation of production, salaries, etc., according to the announcement.

THEMATIC ADAPTATION OF THIS PLAY IS FAR-FETCHED.

DERELIUS THEMES TOO IMPROPER FOR INTELLIGENT AUDIENCES.

As far as the popular crowds are concerned this show should be in the money, it has a little girl from the show business bringing it to the screen and giving it a bright, brassy treatment, a turn to a brown turn. But the entire theme is so improbable and fetched, that even the gorgeous set and costumes, the very charm which made John Ford's first venture a success, cannot make young John Ford overcome handicap.

Allan Dinehart gives fine performance as the congenial novelist, but Sally O'Neill keeps a continuous pattern of "dese, de, and dose," till it becomes monotonous. Director, M. A. Smith, a splendid Fulgurist, is, with the novelist's malice, two society girls making fine, tender music. Sally O'Neill, for the third time, is Mrs. Marchbanks, with the novelist's maids. Cast: Sally O'Neill, Allan Dinehart, Fabian Albert, Virginia Werrell, June Colley, J. J. MacDowall, Marc Ford, Granville, William Collier, Sr., Louise Mack, Margaret Mann.

Director, John Ford; Author, Maudie Judd; Producer, Joseph August; Director, Eugene Grossman. Direction, honored by material. Photography, very good.

REFRESHING AND WHOLE-SOMENESS COMEDY, BASED ON STAGE SUCCESS. GOOD GENUINITY IN AUDIENCE ENTERTAINMENT.

This is the type of production that builds family trade—that furnishes entertainment for the general household. The comedy takes root in the mouth. Always diverting, the picture moves along with the support of a slight story and praiseworthy work from its cast, particularly Ray Dooley, whose comedy antics are a knock-out. With the proper handling we shall all be a big-bell attraction. Only one song is included in the picture, this coming from Dowling, whose work is top-notch from every angle. Dowling does an ambitious young chap who takes over the management of a flop country hotel, and it makes it out of the "red" and eventually wins the girl. Comedy, broad, fast and furious, is provided by Ray Dooley and his associate young. Particularly good stuff for small houses. The film is presented by M. C. Grossman. Cast: Eddie Dowling, June Colley, Ray Dooley, Raymond Hatton, Noah Beery, Armand Kalb, Adolph Miller, Lloyd Whitlock, Mary Carr, Cora O'Leary, Gene Lewis, George E. Stone, Menasha, Marie Doro, Maude Allen, Delmar McComb, Bobbie Clark, Dickie Moore.

THE JOURNEY WOMAN

Barbara Stanwyck in "THE MIRACLE WOMAN"

Columbia. Time, 90 mins.

BIG IN ENTERTAINMENT AND BOX OFFICE VALUES. STRONG ACTING, UNAFFECTED, HIGH APPEAL FOR ALL CLASSES.

This is an all-around achievement that will be received by exhibitors of this film as a worldwide dramatic effect, deep human appeal and suspense developments that are off the beaten track; great performance, well-played, fine supporting cast; pitch direction by Frank Capra, and excellent camera work and recording. Plot concerns a preacher's daughter who turns vengeful when her father dies of a broken heart because of unfair treatment accorded him by the church. She gets mixed up with a smart promoter who exploits her as an evangelist, and only stays rolling to the dough. Then the heroine strikes up a romance with a blind war veteran, whom she saves from suicide, and her manager lessons the lady and ends up by knocking him down in the tabernacle. A fine follows, with the hero rescued by a split and a happy conclusion.

Harry Carey in
"The Vanishing Legion"

Nat Levine 10 Chapter Serial
Ace Serial
This is probably the best serial ever turned out by an independent. It has everything that a thrilling serial can pack in the format. Harry Carey and Edwina Booth, with the reps they made in "Trader Horn," are a strong combination to exploit. Directed by B. Rea Eason, who has utilized every de vice to crowd the reels with action, thrills, surprises and some beautiful camera work that is often seen in a serial. The story is a hummer, with Harry Carey as the contractor engaged to drill an oil well on a property that seems to have a jinx. Mysterious forces are at work to thwart every attempt to work on the oil fields. Carey is joined by a fleet of trucks loaded with machinery and equipment. Then you see the gang at work, with several al devouring to stop the hero, also to get their hands on a certain mysterious person who knows some damaging evidence against them. This person is the father of Frankie Darrow. Frankie and his dad secrete themselves in one of the trucks to escape a sheriff. The trucks are wrecked by the gang, which destroys the brakes, and they come to a precipice. This is a big thrill scene, with the run away trucks careening down the side of the mountain, and the drivers jumping for their lives. This bit has been realisticly handled, and packs a terrific wallop.
In fact the first two chapters can be replete with fine bits of this caliber that will have the fans hanging on their seats. Frankie and dad are a grand comedy duo, a strong part. His acting on the day of his father is perfect as a good bit as any juvenile has ever done on the screen. Can’t miss on this one.
It should pack ’em in—kids and grown-ups, who like their thrills fast and plenty.

“Honeymoon Trail”

ogue stories that more or less tinctive or different about this short, but it will do as a filler.

William Gaxton in
"The Silent Partner"

Vitaphone 1250-51 Time, 19 mins.
Mild Skit
There are a few comedy highlights in this sketch, authored by Rupert Hughes, but for the most part it is too talky and based on too slim an idea. William Gaxton has just been married and is broke, jobless and about to be dispossessed.
He tries to bluff his way along, however, and is given encouragement by the arrival of an aunt who is about to be married to a rich old duck who wants a piece of property on which Gaxton bought an option. By having a friend pretend he is some big shot with a rival offer for the site, Gaxton makes the rich suitor buy. Okay for the not too particular. Gaxton’s name is worth billing where he is known.

SICK HOUSES

WHEN a four-star picture fails to bring them in the manager knows something is wrong.
He can then blame it all on the business depression, or he can do something about it.
Many thoughtful managers have reasoned that in troublesome times men and women stand most in need of gay entertainment—bright lights, soft carpets, living music—cheery and glamorous atmosphere, a place to forget cares for the moment.
The all-sound house does not fill the bill. However worthy its screen show may be such a theatre remains dark and cheerless spot—likely to become a sick house.
The salutary effect of living music is urgently indicated. Not a quack remedy, but the tried and true specific, indispensable in first class theatres since the movies emerged from the nickelodeon era.

LONGER FEATURES URGED BY HARWOOD EXHIB HEAD

in a statement for The Film Daily. Though he is unalterably opposed to dual bills, Harwood declares the producers are forcing the policy on many exhibitors by making features 57 to 62 minutes in length. To fill out a two-hour show around a 57-minute feature would require so many shorts that the bill would be like “chop suey,” says Harwood.

The biggest problem of theater owners at present is the apathy of the public except when real good pictures are shown, states Harwood. There is no trouble getting them in with strong attractions, he declares, but in the past months when box-office tonics were needed most the producers failed the exhibitors. Harwood favors less dialogue and more action in pictures. He is against price-cutting, declaring that high cost of labor, equipment and leases entered into during “better days” make price reductions akin to suicide.

Eddie Dowling, Ray Dooley Headline at Paramount

Eddie Dowling and Ray Dooley, stars of the New York Paramount’s current screen offering, “Honey Moon Lane,” also head this week’s stage show at the Times Square house. The presentation is a Boris Petroff affair entitled “Grand Street to Broadway,” designed to show the well-known talents of Eddie Dowling from on East Side boy to musical comedy fame on Broadway. It is a neat little offering, with good comedy by Miss Dooley and other enjoyable entertainment contributed by Gomez among the dancers who were featured in “Crasy Quiet”; Dorothy Dare of “America’s Sweetheart”; Fred Coots, the popular composer and pianist; Sylvia Froos, Little Larry and the Bines ballet troupe. Jesse Crawford features the “Huckleberry Finn” song in his organ concert, and a batch of Frim melodies are dispensed by the orchestra with Rubinooff conducting.

Irvin Talbot at Paramount

Irvin Talbot, formerly of the Paramount studios on the coast and now in New York, is now musical director at the Paramount theater in connection with the new policy of specially produced stage shows.

Variety Bill Featured

In Capitol Stage Revue

The stage offering at the Capitol is “Variety Revue,” opening with a modernistic setting as the Chester Halc Girls go to a routine up and down stages garbed in one of those double black and white costumes. A slow motion stepper works under a blue spot, finishing with some rapid fire stuff. Very effective. Then follows a blackout number, with the singer showing up at top of the curtain, then flashing in and out on a dark stage to various dimly lighted scenes illustrating his “blues” song, with a girl role, later (Continued from Page 1)

Talkies Beat Silent 100 Per Cent In Gov’t-Fox Film Educational Test

Washington Bureau of THE FILM DAILY

Washington—Official report by U. S. Commissioner of Education on the nation-wide visual education test held here July 6-10 with talks prepared by Fox Film, shows that the boys and girls from 47 states and the District of Columbia answered correctly, on an average, 19 more questions out of 50 on each test after seeing the sound educational pictures than they did before. This is an average gain of 38 per cent. The only other test comparable to this one, but using silent films, was conducted in 1928 and showed an average gain of 19 per cent, thereby indicating that sound films are twice as effective as silents in educational work.

Even more startling figures are recorded when only the increase in knowledge is considered. These ranged from 42 per cent in the test (Continued on Page 6)

"Chain" Taxation is Opposed By 37 Out of 39 Legislatures

Possibility of "chain store" tax legislation next season, with the measures made to include theater circuits, is very remote, it has been brought out by developments of the past week in connection with the formation of the New York State Independent Retail Merchants' Association for the purpose of bringing about a state tax on chain stores. Legislative attitude toward such a levy is indicated by the fact that out of 39 measures of this kind introduced this year, 37 were defeated. It is pointed out by Robert W. largely on the fact that so many productions are based on stage plays, novels and magazine stories, in which dialogue is the prime factoe. Before any action is set down for a stage play adaptation is almost impossible, it is contended, while a story written with the screen directly in mind and visualized in terms of action rather than dialogue always has better possibilities.

SERIALS ANSWER THE B.O. CRY

By DON CILLETTE

W HEN dc luxe houses, from the Roxy down, go far serials as a regular part of their menu, and when big circuits enter extensive booking deals on chapter ries, there must be a reason.

The reason is the packed lineup for the new season, as indicated by the ad-ance guard, contains real, honest-to-goodness tonic for the box-office.

First chapter of two of these serials viewed last week, just about top anything in their line that has come along.

"The Vanishing Legion"

One is Mascot's "The Vanishing Legion," produced by the serial specialist, Nat Le-

Besides its swell cast headed by Harry Carey and Edwinne Bithood, who are good for big exploitation as a result of their Trader Horn" fame, "Little Frank Darrow In," who will be a riot with the juveniles, this picture is jammed with the ac-thin, thrills and suspense for which and fans have been yelling.

"Danger Island"

Then comes Universal's "Danger Island," with Kenneth Harlan and Lucile Brown.
With fine atmospheric stuff on the "Treasure Island" order, a topnotch cast and fine production, this is another strong for the kids as well as the grownups.

Both stories contain production values seldom found in serials.

Coming at a time when family pictures are so badly needed, "The Vanishing Legion" and "Danger Island" are veritable godsends.

Italian Production Planned

"Immacolata," all-Italian feature, will be soon produced in the East by Thalia Amusement Corp. Head-the cast will be Baroness Elvira Curei, with Carlo Polita, Frank
Amoldo, Lucile de Prate and Jeanne Wolms. Eugene Roder will direct will be assisted by Italian director

PARAMOUNT-WARNER PEACE PACT RATIFIED

5 of New Para. Lineup Finished; 15 Starting in Aug.

Open Shop
— an independent year

By JACK ALICOATE—

Like the jolly brood of Tennyson, it seems that the curvilinear business of femininity, of the stock market, and the motion picture industry, continue forever their way of irregularity. After paying due for a couple of years to the stock curve of the independent producer is once more decidedly upward. Again, after a period of self-generated production complacency, we find some of the first line companies taking on outside or independent product. That’s a healthy sign. It begins to look like the opportunity of the independent is again here or hereabouts. Notwithstanding the success of the dynamic and colorful Signor Mussolini, dictatorships have yet to prove their permanent worth in motion picture production.

Having the liberty of a column gives one sole opportunity of reporting, in addition to one’s obvious daily slants, the occasional temperamental tempo of one’s contacts. We presume what we are trying to say is that in these few days we find a rather restless every-for-himself atmosphere in most instances of the business. Perhaps it is the weather. Again it may be caused by the low business visibility. At any rate, as a master of accurate reporting, the scale of most offices we visit is low, and if we were doing it indeed of shooting golf in our spare (nothing) we’d be constantly holding get-togethers, pep-ups and other morale builders. Autumn is set over the hill and with it, no doubt, better weather to look forward to.

Waltz Rebuilding Albany Strand

Albany, N. Y. — Reopening of the Strand has been postponed to Aug. 16 as a result of a decision by Warner Bros. to make more extensive changes. It is announced by Herman Maier, chief of construction. Only repairs were planned at first, but new plans call for practically rebuilding the house.

Precedent Favoring Producers Seen in "Amber. Tragedy" Ruling

A precedent favorable producers in their handling of copyright suits is seen in the decision of Justice W. L. Witschief in the Westminster County Supreme Court, White Plains, N. Y., in the case of John J. Dreiser's motion for a temporary injunction to block the showing of "The Man's An American Tragedy."

In addition to upholding Paramount in its contentions that it had fulfilled its end of the agreement whereby the author's suggestions were accepted as far as possible, and that the question of whether the picture portrays the book is a matter of opinion since both defendant and plaintiff submitted their respective contentions, Justice Witschief's opinion says in part:

"The plaintiff claims a violation of the agreement, to consider his suggestions, and that the picture, as the defendant proposes to make it, is an ordinary murder story, depicting Clyde Griffiths as a despicable, redemption, and contemptuous individual. He claims that instead of an indictment of Griffiths, the story would have been a story of the man and an indictment of Clyde Griffiths."

"The book consists of two volumes, and 335,000,000 words. The plaintiff appears to view the book from the standpoint of the fact that Clyde he says, has the sympathy of the reader, because he came to a tragic end through the action of others, and most of them wholly beyond his control, and greatly because of a psychoneurosis developed by his starred boyhood. The difficulty in picturing such a viewpoint of the book is apparent. That view depends upon the frame of mind of the individual, upon his outlook upon life, and whether a fatality or a believer in the power of the individual to overcome weaknesses of character, to take upon his environment, to subdue his physical and to be the master of his body, rather than by marring it."

"In the preparation of the picture, the producer must give consideration to the fact that the great majority of the people, composing the audience before which the picture will be presented, will be more interested in that justice prevail over wrongdoers than in the inevitability of Clyde's end clearly appear."

DeForest Plans To Replace 1,000 Devices in 6 Months

Under its new replacement plan, General Talking Picture expects to make approximately 1,000 installations of De Forest equipment during the next six months. S. FILMS TO BE REMADE IN GERMANY BY DR. BOEHM

H. L. Boehm, who came to this country three months ago as German delegate to the S.M.P.E. convention in Hollywood and has remained to study American production and exhibition, as well as to book a six-week European tour, the interesting comments are those of Chester B. Bahn, cinema critic of the Syracuse "Herald," who impressed Chet most was the signal victory scored by the Old Guard. In other words, directors dating back to the silent régime of the Ten Best, nine are veterans of the screen's silent era, Chet points out of the innumerable stage directors who were summoned to Hollywood after the cinema became artificiamente, only two have done work winning them recognition.

Here are some pertinent comments that Mr. Bahn makes on the situation. In general, a few days, pictures have become such a combination effort that the obstacles are many to a director's assuming any personal prominence. A great story will often carry a certain production along to success, no matter who made it. Superstition often proves a telling thing where there is a really able man doing the supervising publicizing of directors has declined but still, the directors have a behind the screen, rather than actually on it. There have been too many new stars introduced within recent years to permit of going out of the player ranks with the ballyhoo. The director always will be a powerful factor in the industry. But his name on the billing today is not the magnet that draws the paying patronage on a large scale. And while it is true that directors have won the Hollywood battle from the Broadway legit recruits, the mortality rate among the former has been large. The last Hollywood census showed that of the 390 directors resident there, only 40 are on a weekly salary basis and these vital facts from one of the film's closest and keenest students forecast the Director's Future Power in the biz or loss of power. Any way you want to figure it.

In a certain Hullower dance where film folk gather for luncheon, director Leo McCarey tells of a bus-boy whose mentality is that you might call arrested. He is the butt of much banter on the screen players but now they don't kid him any more. Since one hat asked him what proof he expected to make his life work, and the bus boy said, "Well, me ole man sez I ain't got much sense, so I might as well be a motion picture actor."

Hot news from Tommy Northmoreland in our Arkansas correspondent, informs of a state-wide Battin Beauty contest for culled gal... which Universal Newsreel will photograph as Lilti Rock... and so the culled gal who wears a black bathing suit should crop first prize easily. A promoter advertises in the Stamford (Conn.) "Advocate" for a director to assist in producing a sea-going talkie... all the director has to supply is a schooner, a beach with a few shacks, a dance hall... a young "he-looking" captain... a gal to be carried off to sea... a gal for an alluring South Sea Islander... and just as an afterthought a lil financial cooperation... gosh, if a director had all that he could make a pix hisself.

Noting an ad offering the secrets of how to make money writing for the screen, Wallace Smith, the well known author, kiddingly submitted one of his unpublished stories under an assumed name and they told him his manuscript showed some signs of merit... but that he would have to take a course of lessons and that they guaranteed to make a writer out of him within six months for a certain sum... the joke of it was that they called attention to the fact that the two of them had sold Wallace Smith famous names like not on their work! Nat Cohn's missus presented him with the third baby girl in a row and Nat, courageous optimist, sez he will gamblin' till it's a boy.

Ufa Seeks Pasadena House

In its plans to establish a theater in every German neighborhood in this country, Ufa is now negotiating a lease in Pasadena, which boasts the wealthiest German population in the U. S. The Ufa houses are not intended to compete with U. S. theaters, says P. Wyne, Jones, head of the American Ufa office, but rather to cater to the German populace and students who desire to hear correct German spoken in conversationally.

Our plans for theaters now include, in addition to the Cosmopolite, in New York and the UFA Cinema in Chicago, houses in St. Louis, Cincinnati, Milwaukee, Hoboken, Newark and Jersey City with many more in the offing.

H. G. Cocks Transferred

A powerful drama. It should bring tears to the eyes of most persons. The interest is gripped right at the start, and is not relaxed up to the closing scenes. The deeply appealing situations are numerous. The story is unusual; it has many novel twists.

You have the picture; it is up to you then to work hard to put it over. No matter how much you say about it you cannot say enough.

Suitable for all, including children. Excellent Sunday show.

ANOTHER SMASH HIT FROM DEPENDABLE COLUMBIA!

Variety

A fine piece of work including a novel angle. Excellent material which ought to stir up a load of box-office attention. If it doesn’t it may be because it was not properly exploited.

* * * * *

In fact “Miracle Woman” is a plum for Columbia’s ace director as also Barbara Stanwyck who is strong.

Miss Stanwyck’s performance is splendid in unfolding plenty of fire balanced by undertones of instinctive character softness and mood as she falls in love with a blind boy whom comes one of her ardent followers.

The cast is good throughout with dependable Hardy again making a better promoter, a characterization when his long suit. Manners does excellent well with his highly sympathetic assignment.

* * * * *

It’s a splendid effort from Hayakawa who supervised, down through Swerling and Dorothy Howell respectively did the adaptation and cast. Sound and camera work are excellent.

* * * * *

A big and strong film on numerous channels of publicity with a fine performance by Barbara Stanwyck and other cast members. Has heart of a dynamic opening sequence.

The Thrills of Gabby Mr. Gibbons

There is a little series of tabloid hot-shots on the way that should prove a welcome addition to the novelty-short field. Officially they are called the "Supreme Thrills of Gabby Mr. Gibbons." Actually they are interviews by this inimitable soldier of the press with internationally known figures in which an outstanding event in their lives is cinematized. The first is "Woodrow Wilson," dramatized through the eyes of Admiral Carney Grayson. It hits the high spots of the war and runs about ten minutes of express train speed. Abe Vaneman and the Van Beuren outfit are the producers and Pathe the distributing company. If future releases live up to the promise of this first sam they should click handily.

Gang Victims’ Families Get $2,000 from Warners

As a tieup with "The Star Witness," Warner Bros. yesterday presented checks amounting to $2,000 to the parents of the two children killed by New York gangsters recently. The money represented the proceeds of the two opening performances of the picture, "Winter Garden." Harry Charnas, managing director for Warner's Metropolitan houses, made the presentation.

"SPORTING BLOOD"
A $2 PICTURE IS COMING DIRECT TO YOUR THEATRE!

Any other company would have road-showed "Sporting Blood." Coast reviewers gave a hint of its importance when they previewed it. "Brought forth a panic of applause at the conclusion," states the Hollywood Herald. "It will be loved and cheered and wept over 'till it takes a top-notch place in this season's record," says Motion Picture Daily. Then the print came East and it became the talk of New York's film row.

"Sporting Blood" belongs in the Astor Theatre for a $2 engagement. But M-G-M will release it immediately to exhibitors. This summer, as never before, M-G-M with its release (just to name a few) of Dressler-Moran in "Politics"; Norma Shearer in "A Free Soul"; Greta Garbo in "Susan Lenox" and now "Sporting Blood" is virtually keeping hundreds of theatres alive! Exhibitors are frank in telling us that! And we are meeting the needs of exhibitors with product that is keeping seats filled. For those exhibitors who are now making deals on next season's film service it is well to bear in mind that M-G-M is more than a fair weather friend. M-G-M is your hot weather friend too, dependable when things are right and equally dependable when adverse conditions have to be faced!

Aaron Supergin was conducted with Al Steffes in charge. The ultimatum issued states: "We are confronted with the problem either of closing our theaters or discharging one of the two operators now unnecessarily employed per shift. There exists no reason for the employment of a second man, whose salary ranging from $100 to $175 a week, when applied to other expenses, would allow our theaters to remain open."

Fox Has Completed 36 Educational Films for Schools

Fox already has completed 36 of its educational films for school showing under the plan recently demonstrated in Washington and which is understood to have received Government approval. Other 36 films are on the way. Other firms are reported becoming interested in the school film field, and much activity in this line is expected if the Fox plan proves a success. Erpi has made about 60 educational pictures.

French Film Imports Decline

Paris—The past three years have shown a gradual decline in film imports into France. During the first five months of 1929 the imports were 725,717 meters; in the first five months of 1930 imports fell to 571,582 meters, and in the same period of 1931 to 415,561 meters. French film journals ascribe this decline to the fact that talking pictures are receiving better exploitation than did silents and consequently their number is smaller.

Bogota's 14,458,501 Film Patrons

Bogota—According to figures just compiled, 14,458,501 persons in Bogota attended 3,124 performances at local picture houses during 1930. Of this number, 1,927,915 attended evening shows and 425,368 during the day.

Glenn E. Rominger is handling the sound recording on "Ghost Gang," at Columbia. He was also the recording engineer on "Arizona" and "The Miracle Woman."

Frank Leyendecker, representative of Viola Irene Cooper, play broker, has arrived from New York. He is offering the talking picture rights to "Shooting the News," an original written by Miss Cooper, and "Kiss Proof," also an original. His office also represents Robert Hichens, A. E. Mason, Owen Johnson, Edward Childs Carpenter and other writers.

The "Monkey Delano" stories by Jennie Harris Oliver, which have been running in "Good Housekeeping," have been purchased by M-G-M.

Paul Sloane has been selected by Radio Pictures to direct Dick Grace's biography of a film stunt aviator, "The Lost Squadron."

Walter Klinger, Mack Sennett's casting director, was one of the judges of the North Hollywood pachyderm parade. Walter resides in North Hollywood and it is hard to be a judge of beauty among your neighbors. Jed Buell, the Sennett press agent, predicts Walter will have a tough time borrowing butter from his neighbors.

Don Marquis, playwright and novelist who furnished additional dialogue for "Skippy," will do the same work for "Sooky," which will also be made by Paramount. Marquis has numerous plays, poems, novels, short stories, books of humor, screen originals and newspaper columns to his credit.

Nat Perrin has been assigned to the job of collaborating on the fourth Chic Sale short to be filmed by Lou Brock for Radio Pictures.

Will Rogers will have two beautiful leading ladies in his next Fox picture, "Ambassador from U. S.," and "Home Sweet Home." These pictures are being produced by Ben Lewis and Romer Youngblood, respectively.

Chicago—Offices are being opened by Federal Checking Service in Minneapolis and Des Moines, in addition to the branches contemplated for Atlanta and Charlotte, according to Harry Ross, president.

five years is an expressively short span, yet seems but yesterday that Jim Barrymore first flashed across the silversheet in "Don Jan" at the Warner theater Broadway, and the long-to-remembered revolution of movies was on. And that rushed exactly five years ago.
By the energy, farsighted and eternal credit of the refather Warner Brothers must go credit for this startling innovation that quickly changed a great art industry into a noisy and noisy one. To contemplate the millions that went into changing movies into talkies is staggering.
New stars were made almost night. The old order immedately commenced to wane and in place came this new thundering power that shook the motion picture industry to its very foundations and opened an entirely new type in the history of the world's most romantic industry. Would the picture business have survived without sound, and to what extent?
This thought is interesting as well as controversial.

And now who are
Warner Brothers we congratu-

There are several, and if the world fights they must be pretty well thought of from Maine to California and from Philadelphia to Florida. Let's sketch them lightly.

"AN AMERICAN TRAGEDY"

Stark, honest, tragic and carrying an unescapable sense of human understanding—that's "An American Tragedy" as we see it at the premier showing, last night before a distinguished audience at the Criterion. It exemplifies what can be accomplished by the welding together of such compelling forces as the dynamic and penetrating writing of Dreiser and the masterful and understanding direction of Von Stenberg, in the simplicity of the story lies its tremendous power. The cast is secondary. Phillips Holmes is the boy and Sylvia Sidney is the lady.
Frances Dee is the society girl. To single out an exceptional beauty is an injustice to all. Here is a powerful human document in cinema form.
It is painted in colors of unhappiness.
It is gray, dark and awe inspiring.
"An American Tragedy" is produced by Paramount, which decides adult entertainment should be shown in every theater in the country, for it truly great pictures such as this lies the destiny of the industry.

• • • THE FIRST of the Floyd Gibbons "Supreme Thrills" series was shown to the trade, fan and newspaper representa- tives yesterday. The first feature-film was from the panteen point of the 75th floor of the Empire State building which probably establishes a new record for a screening in the sky. This first release is titled "Woodrow Wilson's Great Decision." They took a bunch of historic library shots associated with the war- oint's activities, and from them constructed a mighty interesting series of highlights, and with Floyd doing his gat- ing-gun delivery, explaining each shot, succeeded in making those momentous events live again. There is no question now that the film is a distinct acquisition to the screen, and perhaps one of the most unique. It is a lighting, pulsing quality that literally reaches out and grips you in your seat. Here is a mugg who could monologue a reel of from today's movies, and if made dramatic and vital, it might have killed industry. Also there must be given to Floyd for his brush work and ability to go to work on the rest of the series. The scenes through like this are at least one of the real Unsolved Mysteries of the film biz. • • •

"there was Bert Adler, Robert Edgar Long, Hal Howe, Merrill Crawford, and Herman Holland, and a flock of others making good livin' from free-lance publicity in those days will now change." The passing of Harry marked the passing of one of the most colorful and romantic eras in the film biz. When knights of the fancy adjectives rode forth alone to do doughty deeds on the field of Ballyhoo, Blah and Holoney, now all the romance has passed. It's still the same B.B.B., but they grind it out on mma- graph machines fed from the tired brains of salaried minions who are here today and gone tomorrow—and that's the reason we sport alongside our desk the biggest waste basket on the market. • • •

(other happy sight in an interview with The Film Daily, Burger said: "If ever we go, the first question exhibitors ask, and the first one they seem to expect us to ask, is How's business?" After talking to scores of them, big and little, in almost every conceivable type of situation in this district during the past month, the answer seems to be that "It depends a good deal on your state of mind."

"By that I do not mean that if you think business is good, it is good and if you think it's rotten it is rotten. I mean that if an exhibitor is trying to run his business on the same basis that he did in 1928 and he is trying to maintain his present volume with those years, for the average picture in the average situation, he probably has cause to think business is poor.

"If the exhibitor is waiting for conditions to change—changing the conditions under which he operates his own business to meet the present trend, then he is waiting in vain. Most conditions don't change until they ARE CHANGED.

"There is plenty of business to be had. People haven't stopped eating. They are still wearing clothes. They still drive automobiles. They burn up gas and wear out tires. They pay entertainment money. They are still spending some money for luxuries. To be sure, they are not spending as freely as they did in '28 and '29, but the years of paper profits and one-day millionaires. No country could maintain that pace very long;

"Mr. Spry summed up the situation: "There is just a rock bottom, rock bottom, in the country today as ever, more 'n 'less. But buying habits and spending habits have changed and we will stay changed for a long while. People are more thrifty, they spend more cautiously and those who are working are saving.

"The smart exhibitor gear's himself to new trends. He buys cautiously to a greater extent than ever. His admission prices are geared to represent the values he is presenting. The wise exhibitor throws into the discard all his preconceived notions of business habits. He has stopped being a businessman and keeps himself flexible. He is able to jump in any direction, to meet a situation as it arises, to handle his booking intelligently and generally.

"Realizing that his playing time is the most valuable possession he has, the exhibitor takes cognizance of the fact as he did in the past.

"So far as he is able to, he refuses to sign up blindfolded for a lengthy title. He needs both a better knowledge of himself with obligations that may tie him up for a year and prevent him from being able to take advantage of buying that exceptional outstanding picture that is likely to pop up any day from some company with whom he may not be doing business regularly.

"Further, the smart showman today doesn't bind himself rigidly to a fixed number of changes per week. He realizes that it takes an extraordinary picture to do a satisfactory business, that the public is shopping for its amusement. When he does book in a show he books it or buys it so that he is in a position to run it as long as it will draw, knowing from experience that the extra day of showing on one or another picture sometimes worth more to him than dollars and cents, worth another hundred thousand in '28 and '29. In this way he creates an incentive for the producer to make better pictures and doesn't handicap himself making a picture that will break the average.

"He tells the truth in his advertising. When he has something to say worthy of shout, he SHOUTS the whole town hears him. Not just the comparative few who may happen to pass his lobby display. Every picture is the 'greatest.' He doesn't pretend if it's his patronage grows because he buys and books wisely and plays fair with his picture.

"Business enterprises of almost every sort that are interpreting and meeting the new conditions are doing well. They are just a little behind a profit. There are, of course, exceptions, as there always have been.

"There are low spots that represent the death of old ideas or the existence of fixed overloads that are all out of proportion to potentialities of the public. And there are high spots that represent new stars on the industrial and commercial map. Our cinderellas, for instance. We don't have to say another word about that! Just give it a thought for a moment. You'll have to agree that ideas, well sold, still make money. That's all any man needs to put him in the right frame of mind.

"In the past month we have driven some two thousand miles over the highways and byways between Southern Virginia and Northern Maine. Here and there, sometimes in a small town, other times in a middle-sized city or again in the outskirts as well as the first runs of the big cities, we found a surprising number of exhibitors who declare their business is going better than ever. They may work like hell, but I can't kick much. Business will go where it is invited, provided the invitation is in tune with the times, etc."

EDITOR'S NOTE: Other film executives who have been having thoughts they would like to express on the subject of "How's Business?" are invited to send their expressions to "The Film Daily."

Short Shots from
New York Studios

ORGE OFFERMAN, JR., is appearing with Billy House in a new short comedy being made at the Paramount studios.

Janet Reade has been signed by Sam Sax to star in one of the series of "Broadway Brevities," musical two-reelers, being made by Fox. Roy Mack will have charge of the filming. Mack also is directing the series of Rand cartoons featuring popular melody singers.

Helen Mack, who leaves New York next week to begin work under contract with Fox, was brought to the screen by Albert Parker, test director for Fox. On June 29 Park signed Miss Mack to an option, giving Fox exclusive rights to her services in screen tests. While awaiting the results of her test, Miss Mack gained the consent of her agent to do one day's work in D. Griffith's "The Struggle." Soon after her tests were viewed by Winold Sheehan she signed a contract with Fox. Parker has been responsible for many new screen personalities recruited from the stage.

Edgar Bergen, ventriloquist, who is already been seen with his dummy, Charley, in two Vitaphone shorts, has been signed by Sam Sax and make another called "The Eyes Have It," under the direction of Alf Baland.

PHIL M. DAILY

AND THEY say Broadway is hardboiled... It happened Monday even in front of the Winter Garden. Just the first night there was leaving the opening performance of "The Star Witness" our elegant business manager, Mister Don Mersereau, stood outside the door, figuring that the run of this pic would be good for three or maybe five ad pages in the I'tie ol' paper. When he noted a shabbily clad figure of a youth with gaunt face ambling along the kid was about 18, quite evidently in pain. He clutched at his side, gasped forward suddenly hitting the sidewalk with a thud. Don and several other bystanders rushed forward. "What's wrong?" they asked, hurrying him in the Winter Garden lobby when the kid came to, Herbert Copelan, assistant general manager of the Warner Broadway houses, made him comfortable in a cool spot; a bunch of onlookers, led by Edward Holmgren, starting in, for this unfortunate, then the waif recovered his voice and in a Southern drawl started to protest that he was all right; he wasn't looking for any charity. He had had almost any trouble. Meanwhile Mister Mersereau had dashed across the street for a cop. As the boy looked like an ambulance case and the officer came on the run grabbed the kid as he started to make a get-away, and in that gruff way these New York cops havewhen they're trying to conceal a kindly act threatened to take him to the hoosegow, unless he listened to reason. "Just the cop shook hands, with Copelan for being a 'white guy,'" on learning that he had signed the kid up right there as an usher. He had taken him to the Y.M.C.A. for a feed and a comfortable night's lodging. Telling him to report for work the next morn which the youngsters from Memphis did—and was broken hearted because they didn't have a conform to fit him. He was the child of some broken home and was taken off from starvation by brother Copelan gave orders for a uniform to measure and we hope the kid makes good and still there are fools who claim Broadway is Hard Boiled.

AT THE A.M.P.A. luncheon they appointed the following Nominating Committee to name the officers for the coming year: Capt. George Blason, George Harvey, Walter Eberhardt, Marvin Kirsch, Paul Benjamin, Charles Barrell, Leon Bamberger—though Michael Simmons has definitely announced that he would not run for a second term as president, due to pressing other work, the assembled A.M.P.A's voted unanimously that Mike could have the honor if he wanted to change his mind. Which, if you ask us, was a handsome gesture coming to a great guy who has done wonders in putting the press ors along the film map where they rightfully belong. And the swing that succeeds him has got a helmet to beat—no foolin'.

R. W. HORN, salesman in the metropolitan territory for Western Electric, is a strong hand for passing out cigs to his prospective patrons.> He sat down in the box and figured up the personal damages that he has been unable to ring in on his Swell sheet and decided something had to be done about it. So he ups and gets his concern to pay for the cigs by using advertising copyers with his name underneath the firm's trademark. R. W. isn't Scotch but if he was, they'd be proud of him.

JUST TO show the evil of these double bills, W. Ray Johnston notes the following appearing in the mazdas on an upper Broadway film house marquee: "One Heavenly Night" and "Gin". And wasn't Charlie Hill offering the proud egg to be appointed projectionist at the special showing of the Floyd Gibbons pix atop the Empire State building. Sid Rechetaik, former publicity director of the Vitaphone studio, is one gent we are rooting for to connect in a Big Way—his record deserves it. Irving Shifflin of Radio publicity, pulled a god on the temporary title, "Mama," only to finally released as "Mrs. Foley Herself," try see "Mama" was just one of those "one-day" titles.

NEWS of the DAY

AN S. R. O. ATTRACTION FOR EVERY THEATER AND EXECUTIVE
The line-up of Fox product, clamoring for release from the film-cans to the nation’s screen, has forced the fine achievement, “Transatlantic,” from its well-won second week at the Roxy. This Friday will see the new Will Rogers picture, “Young as You Feel,” in the great, cool playhouse, while “Transatlantic” will tie-up at the screen-wharf of the Brooklyn Fox theatre.

Fox has an impressive string of pictures scheduled for weeks ahead. They include “Bad Girl,” which is sure sensation; “The Brat,” Sally O’Neil’s new one; “The Spider,” starring Edmund Lowe; the latest Gaynor-Farrell special, “Merely Mary Ann”; “Skyline,” another highly-touted production — and still others to follow.

Here's Samuel Goldwyn's Answer to your demand for Ronald Colman in a picture of action "The Unholy Garden"!

Jimmy Starr, ace reviewer on the Los Angeles Evening Express, says: "Samuel Goldwyn, the producer of this United Artists picture, has a knack of picking stories which will have that much-sought-after universal appeal. In "The Unholy Garden" he has a film that will please the kids with adventure, give the men a kick with daring deeds and thrill the feminine side of the audience with plenty of romance."

RKO TO PLUG VAUDE IF FILMS FALL DOWN

Factors Favor Turn for Industry, Says Sam Katz

Better Films, Cool Weather and Reduced Overhead to Aid Comeback

Turn for the better, as far as the picture theater business is concerned, is due within the next month or so, declares Sam Katz in a "personal talk" to his organization contained in a special edition of "Public Opinion" just issued. In his message, which takes up the entire edition, Katz admits that subnormal product, bad weather, industrial depression and other factors have hit the picture business severely in the past year, but he points out that things are improving.

ESTABLISH PROPERTY RIGHT IN FIGHT FILM DECISION

In the first decision of its kind in record, Supreme Court Justice Brewer has ruled in favor of the Film Fund and the Dodger Athletic Club in an injunction to restrain the showing of RKO Pathé's pictures of the Sharkey-Walker fight. His decision is said to establish the existence of a property right in a motion picture production of it.

7,000 Accounts Is Goal Set by United Artists

United Artists expect to sell between 6,000 and 7,000 accounts on its new season product.

6,000 Nightly Attend Denver Night Baseball

Denver—Local movies are beginning to feel competition from night baseball, which now draws around 6,000 nightly, whereas 1,500 to 3,000 was considered big in the days before the lights.

Vice-President Curtis Sends Thanks

In a letter to Hiram S. Brown, president of RKO, Vice-President Charles Curtis expresses appreciation for the cooperation extended by RKO and affiliated organizations in connection with the observance of Fourth of July Patriotic Week. From all reports, says the Vice-President, this year's demonstration was far wider in scope than last year's.

Local Conditions Should Govern B. O. Price Cuts, Declares Lichtman

Admission price cutting is a matter to be regulated by local conditions, said Al Lichtman of United Artists on Friday. The problem cannot be dealt with on a general basis, he pointed out. Great box-office pictures is the best solution, declared Lichtman, as the public will go to see them regardless of the price scale.

Action Films Lead Demand Abroad, Says Columbia's Foreign Manager

Only unusual American pictures are clicking with European audiences, said Hannah Kass, head of the Columbia foreign department. Friday, following her return from a seven weeks' visit abroad. Pictures with visual action predominating are in demand, she asserted. Owing to the trade show system in England pictures sold in that country stand on their own, Miss Kass pointed out, with individual merit alone counting.

Publicity 8 Weeks Ahead Under New Warner Plan

Under a new plan effected by Dave Weshner, Warner theaters in the east and midwest hereafter will be fully supplied with all publicity and exploitation material on pictures eight weeks in advance of play dates. This applies not only to Warner-First National films, but to Warner-Tubbs and Warner Bros.

Warner Theater Managers Hold Meeting on Monday

A meeting of Warner theater zone managers and executives, to discuss exploitation of early releases on the new Warner-First National product, being officially ushered in Aug. 22, will be held Monday at the home office. Dan Michalove will preside.

Return of Houses to Indies Favored by Wall St. Bankers

That Wall Street financial interests which are concerned with the film industry look with favor upon selling of certain houses by major circuits to independent operators is indicated by the opinions of bankers questioned by The Film Daily yesterday.

Consensus of opinion is that in numerous instances it is more feasible for an independent exhibitor to run a house because he is geared for this class of operation. Deals involving franchise arrangements, assuring the distributor-owner of representation in the theaters, were stressed as particularly advantageous. Another angle emphasized was the value of a strong independent exhibitor element in the industry to combat adverse legislation.

Tobis Seeking Outlet in Some RKO Houses

Milton Diamond, head of Tobis American Corp., is negotiating for showings of German talkers in several RKO houses, the Film Daily learns. Diamond's aim is to secure booking of the entire Tobis feature program in several smaller RKO key city theaters in German districts.

Three Features in Work At Columbia Studios

"The Ghost Walks," "Gallagher" and "Deadline" are in production at Columbia. "The Ghost Walks" co-stars Jack Holt and Ralph Graves and is being directed by Edward Sedgwick. "Gallagher" has an all-star cast, with Frank Capra directing. "Deadline" stars Buck Jones and is being directed by Lambert Hillyer.

Rowland V. Lee, who directed "The Ruling Voice" for First National, will direct "The Guilty Generation," for Columbia. Colonel Tim McCoy will be starred in a series of eight outdoor features for Columbia. It is understood J. P. McGowan will direct the entire series. The locale of the initial story is the Canadian northwest. Louis King will direct an untitled story, which is now in preparation.

Second Artclass Starts

"Pleasure," second in the series of 12 features to be made by Artclass, went into production last day at the Tec Art Studios. In the cast are Conway Tearle, Carmel Meyers, Paul Page, Frances Dade, Lina Basque and Loyal Hamilton. Louis Weiss, head of Artclass, is expected here from New York in September.

Sweet Handles "Battle Royal"

Harry Sweet, author-director-player, is directing "Battle Royal," one of the "Rufftown" series of RKO Pathé comedies which are starring James Gleason. It is based on an Arthur (Bugs) Baer humorous feature with scene adaptation credited to Ralph Ceder.

Advisor on Para. Football Film

"Racehorse" Russ Saunders, All-American quarterback, has been signed by Paramount as technical advisor on football for the production of "Touchdown." The story will feature Richard Arlen, Charles Starrett and Dorothy Tree. Norman McLeod will direct.

Educational Starts

New Comedy Series

First Educational-Vanity Comedy for the new season has been placed in production, with William Watson at the directorial helm. Featured in the cast are Vernon Dent, Jack Duffy, Ronnie Rondell, Helen Marn. William Goodrich has directed the first in the series of Educational-Mermaid Comedies, as yet untitled. Heading the cast are George Chandler, Helen Bolton and Pauline Wagner.

Maureen Opposite Quillian

Maureen O'Sullivan has been bor- rowed by RKO Pathé from Fox as leading woman for Eddie Quillian in his next picture, tentatively titled, "The Big Shot." Hal Conklin and George Drumgold wrote the story and Ralph Murphy is to direct.

Talmadge Signs Feminine Lead

Jacqueline Wells, new and youthful screen personality who recently completed an unusual record of playing four consecutive leads for the Pasadena Community Playhouse, has been signed to play the feminine character lead in Richard Talmadge's newspaper story, "Scareheads," which goes into production at Universal City this week.

Virginia True Boardman and True Boardman, mother and son, also have been signed by Talmadge for "Scareheads."

SIXTH FEATURE STARTED BY MONORAM PICTURES

Shooting on "The Man from Death Valley," Monogram western featuring Tom Tyler, started Thursday. Lloyd Norell is directing from a story by himself and Al Bridge. Paul Malvern and Archie Stout are assistant director and cameraman, respectively. This will be the sixth Monogram picture to be completed prior to the opening of the new releasing season. Harry Fraser, Monogram director, is working on the story for the next western featuring Bill Cody and 12-year-old Andy Shuford.

Postponing Benjamin Christianen's "The Isle of Hunted Men" for further preparation, Trem Carr, vice-president and production head of Monogram, announces "In Line of Duty" as the title of Monogram's next melodrama. Shooting is to start Aug. 10. "In Line of Duty" will be a northwest mounted story by G. A. Durlam. Paul Malvern is to be assistant director. The director will be announced later.

Howard Hughes Launches Two Comedies of the Air

"Sky Devils" and "Cock of the Air," Howard Hughes' projected air comedies, have gone into produc- tion at the same time, the former under direction of Edward Sutherland and the latter under direction of Thomas Buckingham, with Lewis Milestone supervising. "Sky Devils" had been started last month, but work was held up because of dissatisfaction with certain sequences, and the same cast returned to work today. Included are Spencer Tracy, Sidney Toler and George Cooper. Billie Dove, who has just completed "The Age for Love," plays the leading role in "Cock of the Air."

Bing Crosby Signed for Another Following his comedy performance in "I Surrender, Dear," Bing Crosby, popular radio and night club entertainer, was re-signed by Mack Sennett for another Sennett Featurette.

New Thrill-O-Drama Started

Preliminary work is under way on the production of "Neck and Neck," Sennett's seventh Thrill-O-Drama in Sono Art's series of ten. Casting has been completed with Glenn Tryon and Vera Reynolds heading the roster including Carrol Nye, Stepin Fetchit, Lafe McKe, Fern Emell, Wheeler Oakman, Edith Pellas, Billy Gilbert and Richard Granner.

Gary Cooper will be starred in "The Glass Key" when he returns to Hollywood after the completion of "Sal of Singapore" in New York. "The Glass Key" is a current novel by Dashiell Hammett.

Frank Albertson, Oscar Apfel and Wade Boteler have been added by Radio Pictures to the cast of "Other People's Business."

TO-DAY'S BIG EVENT

AS SEEN BY THE PRESS AGENT

"Marion Shilling, featured with Tom Keene in 'Sundown Trail,' has two 'home towns' the Midwest and New York, but spent her girlhood in St. Louis."

--RKO PATHE.

A WRITER for the New York "World Telegram" wrote a special story the other day in which he said a revival of activity is under way that will make Bergen, N. J., the "Detective Capital of the East." One of the reasons for increasing production in the East, according to the writer, is that "Wall St., which does much of the financing, wants production near hand so it can demand strict accounting."

Now let Hollywood start worrying!

Experiments are being conducted at the Vitaphone studios with a new device to eliminate the camera sounds when shooting. When sound film is used, large unwieldy camera booths weighing over a ton, were used by all studios. The booth gave way to the "blimps," resuming factories, which enclosed the camera and lessened the sound of whirring gears. Over this frame, last season a thick air blanket, resembling very much a catcher's chest protector was tried out. With the resumption of production activities at the Vitaphone studio this week, the cameramen came back to find the insides of the aluminum cages lined with sponge rubber almost two inches thick. It is now possible to stand right by the camera without hearing the gears turning over.

Karl Dane and George K. Arthur, with Director Al Ray are due back from Newport, R.I., where they filmed several episodes aboard ship for "Join the Navy," for Paramount two-reeler.

John Hamilton, who is appearing on the stage in "Unexpected Husband" at the 48th St. theater, plays the part of the police inspector in "Day of Mystery." Also, a part of the S.S. Van Dine detective mystery thrillers which went into work the past week at the Vitaphone studio under the direction of Arthur Hurley.

Murray Roth is back on the job at Vitaphone after a week's absence due to a serious case of sunburn. Another absentee welcomed back after being laid up several weeks recovering from an auto accident, is Ed Savin, business manager.

Ray Houdly, who is now of the western coast, recalls Tallulah Bankhead's first day in pictures. It was back in 1917, when Ray was Bernon production manager for Mutual Features at Glendale, Long Island. Tallulah had won a fan magazine beauty contest and had been given a "bit" in the picture. "His Inspiration," starring Edna Goodrich. Dell Henderson was the director and Sol Polito the cameraman. The late David Powell and John Bowers were in the cast.

Clarence Hennenock, Paramount writer and director, has finished his duties at the Paramount studios in New York and is going back to the Coast.

Rehearsals on "Sal of Singapore" will start next week and actual filming begins about mid-August. Edward Siroman will direct this Paramount picture.

Castro and his Cuban Orchestra, which played at the Havana Yacht Club and which is now on William Morris' Show Boat Cruise, have been signed by Sam Sax, head of the Brooklyn Vitaphone studio, for one of the band short to be released as part of a series of seven "Melody Masters." Another famous band master, Earl Carpenter and his Jones Beach band, have also contracted to a "Melody Master" short for Vitaphone, called "The Big House Party."

Averill Harris will play the important heavy role in "Sal of Singapore" with Claudette Colbert and Gary Cooper. Harris scored in "Secrets of a Secretary" and more recently played with Tallulah Bankhead and Fredie March in "My Sin." He is a veteran of the Broadway stage.

Congratulations:

Vacuum Trouble and Cure Discussed by McCullough

(Except from an article by R. W. McCullough in the Eastern edition of Fed's "The Last Word").

It must be remembered that the life of anything depends upon the care it receives and this particularly applies to vacuum tubes. Whenever in doubt about the line voltage, see for yourself if the voltage is above 110 volts. If you find the line voltage above 110 volts and varying over wide limits, it is first of all, foolish to go on writing a good stiff complaint to the Power Company. We have installed voltage regulators on the line to keep the voltage constant. When the voltage varies over wide limits, sometimes being high, sometimes normal, and at other times quite low, the voltage regulator shows the line voltage to be quite high, but uniform, a fixed resistance of 50 ohms, and value can be used.

There are many troubles in amplifiers that do not show up under normal condition, but do show up plainly under the normal load. Intermittent open circuits and high-resistance joints sometimes fall into this class. It is becoming increasingly common to find that most trouble emanates from defective vacuum tubes. Western Electric Sound Reproducing Equipment is very substantial. However, it will not stand neglect and abuse.

One of the greatest expenses in maintaining sound reproducing equipment is the replacing of vacuum tubes. All vacuum tubes, which are termed defective, do not fail prematurely as is believed by many projectionists. Regardless of the age of vacuum tubes, they should be handled with extreme care. The filaments of power amplifiers should be heated fully five minutes, before turning on the plate supply, in the Western Electric Power Amplifiers.

Many projectionists have had experience with a microphone tube in the photo-electric cell amplifier, which would result in a whistling noise, which would become louder and louder until the amplifier was shut off or the fader brought to zero. A "microphone tube" is simply an ordinary tube in which one or more of the elements are loosely mounted when assembled. It is essential that all the tube elements (grid, plate and filament) should be mounted and supported so that a rigid, fixed relation is maintained between them.

If any of the elements vibrate, the spacing between them changes and thus the normal characteristics of the tube are changed. For example, a tube having a low voltage amplification factor is constructed with the grid and plate elements mounted close together; whereas in a tube having high voltage amplification the grid is placed comparatively close to the filament and at some distance from the plate. If sound vibrations cause a tube to move, then all elements within will also move. Any change in the distance between these elements will cause the value of the plate current to be affected in proportion. The plate current variations are then magnified by the amplifying stages following the (microphonic tube) and are reproduced as a swaying howl, varying the uniform, or normal, plate elements. In some cases interchanging the tubes will correct this condition.

The first stage of the photo-electric cell amplifier, which employs 23B-A Western Electric Amplifier Tubes, usually is where this trouble occurs. Microphonic tubes, which cannot be used in the photo-electric cell amplifier, should not be discarded but might be used in the 41A Western Electric Amplifier, because there is less vibration in this amplifier.

Six-in-One Home Talks Perfected by Inventor

An invention known as Vista-phone, consisting of six principal forms of home entertainment combined into one machine, namely: the phonograph, radio, talking motion pictures, personal recording and reproducing device, television and motion picture camera arrangement for making your own talking pictures, has been perfected by A. C. Oranges, inventor of Astoria, L. L., New York.

The device, which is built into a cabinet no larger than the ordinary radio console, uses 16 mm. film, disk apparatus for sound and talking effect combined with push-pull transformers for amplification. Furnished complete and ready for operation the cabinet will be marketed for about $375.00.

Unbreakable Letters

Chicago—Cast aluminum sign letters of light weight that can be fixed to any height without breaking, yet give distinct visibility and are easily read from every angle, are being offered by the Friedly-Voshart Co. of this city.

DEVELOPS NEW GENERATOR FOR REPLACING BATTERIES

Many theater operators have found that by cleaning or removing dust their screen has brought it back to newness and made for better projection. Some of the screens formerly used throughout the country contain in their make-up certain pigments and other materials known only to the manufacturer who produces them, and who logically is the only one able to decide what materials should be used for cleaning or repairing this particular type of screen he manufactures. If your screen is in need of cleaning, do it yourself. Without the advice of the manufacturer or the renovating house which makes a specialty of good cleaning, you may totally ruin it.

This is the time of year when foresighted theater owners all over the country are taking advantage of the quiet days to prepare their theaters and plan for the busy days to come. If you are contemplating making any changes for the better of your house and the building of future patronage, now is the time to give it your consideration.

It is just as important to the small theater owner to study the acoustics of his house and to bring the sound in his theater to perfection, if he wants to continue to play to crowded houses, as it is to choose the sound apparatus upon which he is producing his performance. Those empty seats in your theater may be caused by poor hearing conditions. Empty seats cost money and the money you are losing would soon pay for the best acoustical corrections.

New Gift Novelty

Athol, Mass.—Pyroloid Sales Co. manufacturers and distributors of dressware sets used for premium performances, will soon put into production at their factory here an other novel article for building theater patronage. The gold metal set recently introduced, the company announces, brought demand for further extension of the line to enable repeat of the gift night exploitation with other details of feminine appeal at theaters which have established the stunt as an attraction.

Eight deals, with prices conforming with admission charged, no coupons and no split pieces, are now being offered by the company.

Stamford, Conn.—A motor generator recently received in theaters, designed to supply low voltage current for the fields of loud-speakers and for extra lighting equipment, has been developed and is being marketed by the Electric Specialty Co. here.

A filter system of the simplest type is used when power is supplied to the exciters, it is declared, but filters are not used in horn fields. The machines may be connected in place of storage batteries and are furnished complete with filters when required.

W. E. Working on New Aperture West Coast Bureau, THE FILM DAILY

Hollywood—Work on a new camera aperture, which it is claimed, will receive the opening from 1/10 of a inch to 6/100 of an inch, has been started by engineers at the ERF laboratory here.

Due to the variable density of W. E. sound tracks, pictures recorded on the RCA equipment, however, cannot be accommodated on the new opening, it is said, so the latter i x of variable area and the width of the sound track must be kept constant.

Should the new size aperture be adopted, the film manufacturers will have to rework the changeover of projective machine heads. According to ERP, 75 per cent of the theaters are equipped with W. E. apertures.

Lens and Stereopticon Booklet

Rochester, N. Y.—The Bausch & Lomb Optical Co. of this city has issued a brochure comprehensive describing in text and photograph illustrations the stereopticons produced by the company. A folder of its Super-Cinehop lenses has also been issued.
EQUIPMENT

AUTOMATIC SAFETY DEVICE IS PLACED ON THE MARKET

A new automatic fire prevention device known as the White Safety Control, Model Sc101, designed to detect any irregularity of the motion picture film in passing through the projection and mechanism, has been developed by the White Engineering Corp. of New York. The control is decreed to operate by first cutting off the light through the medium of the fire shutter. The machine projection is included in the expense of the electrical current before any possible damage can occur to either film or mechanism. The device, it is declared, will detect any mechanical irregularity, such as binding of gears, freezing of shafts in bearings or other similar accidents that might occur during the operation of sound projection apparatus.

Launch Sales Campaign

On DeVry Portable Unit

Oklahoma—DeVry Co. of Chicago has launched its sales campaigns in the middle western states for its Portable Sound Ensemble. Vic Fredericks, factory representative, is in charge of sales for the states of Illinois, Indiana, Iowa, Wisconsin, Minnesota, North Dakota, Missouri, Kansas, and Nebraska. He states his first step is to establish distributors for each territory and then to organize intensive sales and advertising campaigns.

Carrier Air System

For So. African House

A complete air conditioning and cooling system is to be installed in the new Loew’s, Inc., theater in Johannesburg, South Africa, by the Carrier Engineering Corp. of New York. Other recent contracts reported by the company include a complete system of “manufactured weather conditioning and refrigeration in the new RKO theater in Denver, and installation of a complete system in the Paramount theater now under construction in Boston.

Offers Carbon Jaw Cleaner Chicago—A novel tool that is said to keep 9 mm. and 13 mm. carbon jaws clean, and which operates by the motion of the rewind shaft and is lean and efficient, is being offered by the Gold Manufacturing Co. of this city. A carbon saver for use with 9 mm. carbon jaws of high intensity reflector arcs, said to enable a saving of 30 per cent, is also being marketed by the company.

Bethlehem Engineering Corp. of New York plans the erection of a theater at Eighth Ave. and Forty-second St., New York, at an estimated cost of $900,000. The house is expected to be leased by RKO Theaters.

Hialeah, Fla.—A 650-seat theater is planned here by James Hodges of Miami.

Concord, Calif.—Ground has been purchased for the erection of a 1,000-seat theater to be constructed here by the Peterson Circuit.

HEYWOOD-WAKEFIELD ADOPTS NEW UPHOLSTERY

Boston—A new upholstery, that is claimed to have withstood the most intensive and abusive tests known to science, has been adopted for use on all theater chairs now being put out by the Heywood-Wakefield Co. of this city. The fabric will outlaw all ordinary materials from four to six times, has a clean, dry feeling, sanitary surface, will not chip or crack, may be washed with soap and water and its acoustic properties are beyond approach, the company claims.

Western Equipment Co.

Busy on Installations

San Francisco—Equipment installations are on the increase, according to reports made by the Western Theatrical Equipment Co., which recently completed installation of sound apparatus and all mechanical equipment, including a Da-Tone sound screen, at the Tahoe Tavern, Lake Tahoe, Cal. Other transactions reported by the company include installation of Ashcraft high intensity reflector arc lamps at the California theater, Oak Park, Sacramento, Granada, Reno, Nav. Metropolitan, San Francisco, and the Baywood, San Mateo, Cal. Kaplan projectors, Roth generator and Vallen screen modifre were also installed at the Baywood.

Western has also been awarded a contract to furnish Des-Lite screens to the following state institutions: Stockton State Hospital, State Nantage Hospital, Pacific Colony at Spadra, Ventura School for Girls, Mendocino State Hospital, Whitter State School, Napa State Hospital, Preston School of Industry, Patton State Hospital, Norwalk State Hospital and Sonoma State Home.

GAUMONT-BRITISH PROFITS EXPECTED TO BE HIGHER

London—Directors of Gaumont-British Corp, report that, although the final audit of the corporation’s accounts has not been completed (accounts of 70 subsidiaries must be considered), they have progressed far enough in the main accounts to feel justified in predicting a “substantial profit” for the year ending March 31, 1931.

The corporation’s gross profit for the preceding year was $1,057,920, and its net profit after tax for the same period $1,097,115, a dividend of 6 per cent having been paid on the common stock. Since then the corporation has issued $1,000,000 of 6½ per cent mortgage debentures.

United Theaters Shows Big Deficit for Year

London—United Picture Theaters, the London cinema circuit, which recently went under the management of Gaumont-British Picture Corp., Ltd., for a period of five years, reports a further loss of $542,425 for the year ending Dec. 31, 1930. The gross deficit of the chain is now $759,915. New directors of the concern are Mark Oster, C. M. Woelf and A. W. Jarratt.

French Exhibitors vs. Authors

Paris—The powerful French Authors’ Society has informed small exhibitors that new contracts will not waive royalties being paid by small picture houses as heretofore, and that six seats must be placed at the disposal of the society. The Syndicat Francais, the exhibitors’ trade body, has lodged a strong protest with the authors’ organization.

Sign Stewart Rome for Film

London—Butcher’s Film Service has signed the prominent actor, Stewart Rome, for the role of Hilar Kite in the screen version of Tom Gallon’s novel, “The Great Gay Road.” Sinclair Hill will direct.

West Somerset to Have Film Palace

West Somerset—The theatre which British-Gaumont will build here will be one of the most modern and luxurious in this part of England.

MUSICAL RECORD

Sydney—Warner’s musical film, “Viennese Nights,” is in its third month at the Prince Edward. It has had the longest run of any picture this year not alone in Sydney but in the Antipodes and has, it is stated, topped all other pictures in receipts.

FOREIGN MARKETS

Chinese Market for Silent Films

The Hankow market for silent films is very promising, according to a report by the American Saltine Graces. It is especially useful for Chinese films, but with low rentals for films, exhibitors could establish theaters for American as well as Chinese silents in interior small towns, charging but a few cents admission.

French Newspaper Turning Producer

Paris—“L’Intransigent,” Parisian newspaper, is to finance the production of several films, it is stated. That evening journal owns “Les Miracles,” one of the most modern of Parisian houses, and will show its films there. Leon Bailly, general manager of “L’Intransigent,” is the originator of the scheme.

Sydney Police Ban Ballyhoos

Sydney—The Sydney police have been instructed to keep all picture house ballyhoo off the streets on the eve of an archaic regulation that no vehicle or display that is likely to frighten horses shall appear on the streets. Police officials have ordered all easels and other displays removed from the theater lobbies on the ground that such displays obstructed the exits. Film advertising and publicity men have proposed paying the government a tax of $3 a day for ballyhoo, imposing a limit on the number of licenses to be issued daily.

Producers Continue With F.B.I.

London—At the recent meeting of the British Producers group it was decided that the producers’ scheme would continue as an integral part of the Federation of British Industries. The formation of a separate organization for film producers, outside the Federation, had been agitated.

Para’s First British-Made Film

London—“These Charming People,” Paramount’s first British-made production, scored an immediate success here at its showing for the press the day before its opening at the Plaza. Cyril Maude and Nora Swinburne are in the cast.

Italian Shorts Sold in England

Rome—Pittalunga announces that its short subjects for the 1931-32 season have been sold in England, where its previous shorts have found a ready market.

Italian Films in Argentina

Buenos Aires—Juan Misenta has introduced two of Pittalunga’s recent films, “La Paloma,” and “La Felicita,” to great success. The reviews of “Naples Sings” and “Love’s Song,” both met with an excellent reception.

Twelve Film Journals in Czechoslovakia

Praha—Czechoslovakia is well supplied with motion picture journals and fan publications. A recent survey discloses twelve publications devoted to various phases of the film industry, including the Czech film publications—Hollywood, Filmovy Listy, Ceszky Filmovy Zpravodaj, Kino and Filmreyce. The other seven are Filmovy Kuryr, Kino-Flex, Film, Studio, Pressa (a film news service for foreign countries), Internationale Filmische, Die Lichtspielbuehne.

N.S.W. Union Opposes Sunday Films

Sydney—The N. S. Train Talkie a Success

London—The world’s first “train talkie,” on the Doncaster to London run of the L. & N. E. railway, turned out to be remarkably successful. More than 90 per cent of the dialogue was understandable in the most distant seats, most of the blaring being due to the train’s passing through tunnels. The Gau- mont company arranged for the experiment.
A very elaborate stage show at the Roxy this week, titled "Songs of Love," in five scenes. First seen was a pierrot production, titled "Theatrical Comical," featuring Patricia Bowman and George Alden, as the dancier, assisted by the ballet and chorus. Second scene was "The Bowery," featuring Harry Fitchgibbon and Mr. & Mrs. Fred Giterman. Third scene was a Garden of Today, featuring Harry & Fitzgibbon and the roxettes. Fourth scene, Interlude, with Betty Boos. The final scene is a wig seat, probably the most gorgeous thing of its kind ever staged. It would prove the highlight in any big Broadway scene production. The costumes of the girls are gorgeous. Each set shows a great stairway, with three narkspots seated before their instruments on the stage. This scene employs the entire ensemble, and is an eye-smash. The wedding ceremony has Dorothy Stiller and Carey Moon as the principals. The quartet HARP ensemble furnish the harmony. It is a great show, with splendid sets, marvoulous costumes, and some nice specialty acts.

Paramount
Arnold Johnson and His Band headline the stage show at the New York Paramount this week. It is the hit of the New York production, entitled "Beaux Arts," presented in three scenes, and other principals in the lineup include Fred Sanborn, Young China, Miriam Lau and Stella Power, the Porcelain Romancers, and the Alberta Raach Ballet. In opposition to the principal feature, "Huckleberry Finn," Jean Crawford offers an organ novelty in "Poor Kid" and "The Wedding of the Painted Dolls," with Little Larry and the Alberta Raach dancers appearing in the number. "Dark Eyes" is the overture by the Paramount orchestra, directed by Royhoff in his popular style.

INTEREST-GRABBING DRAMA, STRIKING AND HUMAN. PACKS A POWERFUL PUNCH. DISTINGUISHED AND EXCLUSIVELY ADULT FARE.

Director Von Sternberg has treated the famous Theodore Dreiser story with intimate understanding and respect. This presentation has infused the rather simple and sometimes episodic tale with new emotion and has polished all pretension to a cast which is entirely skillful and competent. The camera work is of the highest order. The story concerns a young factory foreman who "gets his sweetheart into trouble," then has to sell his soul to save her. But he is forever struggling to keep his left hand on the society girl and plans to drown the little factory worker whom he believes is apt to ruin him. The film is basically a tragic love story, but pretension has been entrusted to a cast which is entirely skillful and competent.

UNCONVINCING STORY FILLED WITH A LOT OF OLD VAUDEVILLE GAGS AND LAYING LAUGHS INFREQUENTLY.

This is about the weakest of the oft-used "alcoholics" story. The story is mostly to blame. It is full of holes, and too illogical for intelligent audiences to make any (un)real sense of. The story begins with the hooker and spins into a town broke, and meet up with a kindly old lady who is about to have her drug store taken away from her by a slick gent to whom she owes a large bill. The boys decide to run the store, and pay off the indebtedness. Then there is the angle of the daughter of the police chief falling in love with the bad boy (Bert Wheeler) and ending up with the crooked gent. The latter drags them to buy a load of a new lemon drink that is cooked up with booze. The boys are put together, severalMaxwell's drink filled with drunks, the villain plans the chief to police to make a raid. Then the dirt comes out when the two negro boys, who are the "furtively adopted" gent is part of the bootleg crew. Pretty wobbily and far-fetched.

SWELL STORY OF A BIG CITY ROMANCE PACKED WITH INFREQUENTLY AND APPEAL SHOULD BE A MONEY-GETTER.

Here is an unpretentious little story that is just filled to overflow- ing with human interest. This is in the Q Henry vein, dealing with a city girl who, under the guidance of a true blue hero on what might be a Coney Island boat. The hero's ambition is to have his own radio store. He is against his having any kids because of his poor circumstances and an unwillingness to have his own children suffer the deprivations that he went through. So when the wife learns she is to become a mother she tries to con- ceal it. The hero, who, upon finding it out, works overtime to obtain money for the coming expenses. In a prosperous crop up, though they are rather weak, each thinking the other does not want the baby, but the arrival of a new radio store opens a happy reconciliation. There is comedy, pathos and plenty of teard- jerker stuff in the story, enhanced by Frank Borzage's directing.

This is the first release of the most popular "Supreme Thrills" series, and it marks the film debut of the well-known war correspondent and radio star. It opens with Gibbons giving one of his rapid-fire talks, outlining the war career of Woodrow Wilson, and then introducing Admiral Grayson, personal physician to the president. The film is a compilation of library hot of the War, tracing the highlights of the events from the start to the finish, showing how intimately Wilson was associated with the momentous events. It finishes with the death of the president as用手 and outlining his residence where Wilson is passing away. Gibbons succeeds in making these old events tell again in very vivid manner. Some very fine and unusual war shots are shown, and with Gibbons' voice sounding throughout the reel, and occasional flashes of the speaker, it makes an interesting novelty that should please generally.

"The Naggers at the Races"
Vitaphone 1259 Time, 9 mins.
Good Comedy
In this number the Norworths transfer their battle to the racing track, where they go through the routine of annoying their grandstand neighbors. The wife is dumb to the racing stuff, but hubby is just wise enough to fall for the heaves. One of the races is run, and after it's over the couple battle their way to the grandstands, with old man stepping into one pool of water up to his ears. Gags and laughs are pretty consistent, and the skit as a whole should satisfy almost anywhere.

Bobby Jones in
"How I Play Golf"
No. 8—"The Brassie"
Vitaphone 5208 Time, 10 mins.
Fine
Another swell issue of the Bobby Jones series, highly entertaining all the way, containing some nifty shots that will bring "ahs" and "ohs" from the golf fans. Jones demonstrates to Claude Gillingwater and a couple of other spectators the wrong and right methods of holding and swinging a spoon, as well as the wrong and right position of the feet. At the same time he Bates off some classy shots. For byplay, there is a little incident wherein Gillingwater is trying to keep his daughter or niece, played by Lovetta Young, from keeping, her own date with her boy friend, but the young people sneak off after framing it with Jones to keep the old man interested in the golf stuff.

"Oh! Oh! Cleopatra"
RK0 Pathe Time, 20 mins.
Fair Satire
This Masquers Club farce is just mild entertainment. The cast is filled with prominent thessians who don't do anything but sit around an atmosphere. Wheeler and Woolsey carry the torch. It is a typical W. and W. theme and little new material is brocbon out. Some gags and face-slaming stunts, seen in other W. and W. pictures, are featured. The leads are coaxed into taking some newly discovered pills that cause them to revert back to the days of Caesar and Anthony. Woolsey as the former and Wheeler as the famous Mark. They both fall for Cleopatra and wind an hiving competition in a chariot race for her love. The race is the best part of the short. Dialogue is mostly obvious reparte and puns.

"Poise"
(A Granland Rice Shortlif)
RK0 Pathe Time, 9 mins.
Novel and Interesting
The outstanding sequence in this shortlifie is the appearance of Gene Murray and Barney Berlinger, all-around charmer, who is shown in the scene throw, the shot put, vault, hurdle. Normal and slow motion pictures are shown of Barney in action and an interesting clonation of an impressive clonation carried on by the Smith College girls at archery practice. Joe Kirkwood in some triffic shots and a show of coolness and coolness and coolness. Bob H. Davis, noted actor and acetylene, instructing Dary Vane in the act of "plug casting," round out about 500 feet of genuine entertainment for all.

"Whippet Racing"
M-G-M Time, 12 mins.
Sport Number
Lively number with the whippets featured from the time they are pups, through the training period and then finishing with an actual race. This was taken at the Pasadena course, showing four of the fastest whippets in the world in action. It is a very interesting reel, with an announcer explaining the routine with a good line of chatter that is mixed with an above-average comedy line.

"Smile, Damn Ya, Smile"
Vitaphone 4825 Time, 6 mins.
Fine Song Cartoon
An excellent example of the song cartoon, with a good idea and synchronization. It is one of the Merrie Melodies series featuring Foxy and Honey. Foxy is the pilot on a trolley car that travels a fantastic track system and does the usual tricks. After a comic experience with a hippo passenger, he takes Honey aboard and rides her through tunnels and up and down hills in roller coaster fashion to the smash finish. Abe Lyman's band supplies the music, which is excellent.

"Adventures in Africa"
No. 6—"The Buffalo Stampede"
Vitaphone 5106 Time, 17 mins.
Just Fair
A little long considering the nature of the subject. All concerned with chasing and catching some African water buffalo. Nothing specially exciting about this episode, although the synchronized talk tries to pep up the proceedings. Shows Wynn D. Hubbard and his troupe capturing two animals, which are constantly referred to as ferocious, but don't show it much. Just fairly interesting.

"Fun on the Ice"
(Aesop Fable)
RK0 Pathe Time, 8 mins.
Just Fair
There is little in this cartoon comedy to lift it out of the ordinary class. Not one new gag is clipped up. It is all about the Fables animals making whoopee on the ice, skating, playing hockey and breaking through the ice. The music and score and synchronization are well done, as is the animation, but those three requisites are not sufficient to put the picture over as a laugh number.
A PREDICTION

IN 1914 Eastman announced the first panchromatic motion picture negative film. It swept the country... In March, 1931, Eastman announced the first stable ultra-speed panchromatic—Eastman Super-sensitive Panchromatic Negative, Type 2... It is predicted that just as color-sensitive film has practically replaced color-blind material, so the new Eastman Super-sensitive will make slower emulsions virtually obsolete... Naturally the producers and camera men who are adopting this remarkable film now will reap the greatest advantage... Eastman Kodak Company, Rochester, New York. (J. E. "GREATEST HUMAN INTEREST PICTURE EVER MADE"—Max Balaban Greatest because of James Dunn’s magnificent performance. Through sheer personality and power, this find of the season becomes the sensation of the year.

Acting that carries the stamp of greatness — a screen presence that reaches out through the darkened theatre and sways every soul, touches every heart.

Best acting Sally Eilers has ever done. As great a picture as Fox has produced — from every angle.

WATERLOO BRIDGE

By FLORABEL MUIR.

Hollywood, Cal., Aug. 1.—The most important item in the day's entertainment accorded the Notre Dame football players and Mrs. Bonnie Rockne on the first day of their arrival in cinemaland was the unfolding of Universal's new picture, "Waterloo Bridge."

Chuckling of the stalwarts of the gridiron over the two-reelers which they had made themselves lapsed for Hollywood into an affair of secondary significance. Football shorts are proverbially sure fire. Seven reel war dramas do not always fall into that category.

There was surcease even from the self-gloration of Christy Walsh, when Robert E. Sherwood's gripping play was presented for the visiting athletic heroes. It is without question one of the worst products that Hollywood will ever send forth in this age motion picture industry, which it has been so adept at elevating to the level of a quality far above the stage of the cinema.

You will probably be prepared to remove the stage of the core of the play, "Waterloo Bridge," and if so, you should not have committed the error of attempting to do it. If you did not, you were not so well treated.

12, WINS $15,000

L. H. L. Aug. 1.—A $15,000 check was presented to William Lanio Jr., 12, at the Hollywood Drug Store, 2215 Sunset Blvd., to the astonishment of everybody present. It is the largest tip ever given to a bellboy, and his success illustrates the value of honesty, even to a child.
Lloyd enact a pair of war-stricken London street-walkers and Kent Douglass is the American soldier who comes face to face with fate above the murky Thames in time to twist the current of several lives.

Boost for Laemmle.

The reaction of the Notre Dame football giants, if typical of what the younger generation likes, ought to be encouraging to Junior Laemmle. In a year when the box office is as shy as a new secretary Junior should feel encouraged.

Waterloo Bridge is only one of half a dozen films produced by Universal that should bring a gratifying harvest to the cash register. It is my belief that 1931 has been an acid test of a 23-year-old boy saddled with terrific responsibility and that the boy has come through with glory.

RUBIN TURNS AUTHOR

A treatise dealing with the technical process of motion picture production, intended to interest and instruct the public as well as members of the film industry, is being prepared by R. B. Rubin, the comedian, who feels he has picked up enough data in the course of his 50 pictures, more or less, to fill a good-sized book. Rubin says he has heard many complaints about the scarcity of authentic books on various phases of picture production, and he hopes to induce others in the industry to write down their experiences and observations.

PARA. PAYS 2 1/2% STOCK INSTEAD OF 62 1/2% CASH

Commenting on the action of the directors, Adolph Zukor says:

"Some time ago the company purchased certain theaters and other assets which it then believed, and still believes, to be valuable acquisitions, obtained at a fair and reasonable figure. At the time these purchases were effected, payment was made in Paramount stock, with the right, however, to the vendors, within a certain time, to exchange such stock for cash at a price which would realize an amount which was not in excess of what the company did, does consider a fair price for the theaters and other assets. Naturally, with the change in market conditions that has since supervened, it is more advantageous to the vendors to take cash at the figures arrived upon rather than stock. A certain portion of the total amount involved in this transaction has already been called for by the vendors and paid out of current cash resources prior to June 30. As to the balance, aggregating approximately $11,500,000, it must be expected that a similar course will be pursued by the vendors.

"It should be understood that these transactions simply mean that the company is paying cash instead of stock, for the assets acquired. Normally, the capital expenditures thus called for would be met on the part of the company by the sale of securities to the public, but in view of prevailing market conditions, it is not considered an appropriate course or in the best interest of shareholders to dispose of either stock or long-term obligations at this time."

The earnings of Paramount Pictures for the first six months of the present conservatively figured (partly estimated) at $5,700,000, equal to $1.62 a share on the stock now outstanding. During the last eight years the company has averaged approximately 40 per cent of its annual net income in the first six months of the year, and 50 per cent in the second six months.

"The company's consolidated cash balance on June 30, is calculated at about $4,400,000. Bank loans outstanding at the same date were $1,000,000.

"Ordinarily, therefore, no question would arise as to the continuance of cash dividends, so long as the ratio of current assets to current liabilities is, as it is now calculated to be, not below two to one and the ratio of tangible assets to in question at least 1½ to 1. The maintenance of which ratios is required by the indentures securing the ½ per cent and 6 per cent bonds of the company, as a condition for the payment of such dividends. Consideration must be given, however, in the spirit of the due conservation, to the following circumstances:

Dramatic Stocks Vital to Training Units

DRAMATIC stock companies are the proper school for young men and women ambitious to become screen actors. The schooling provided by the motion picture studio is too limited and too superficial to provide good fundamentals, and cannot, of necessity, devote the time and patience to apprentice work.

In the theater stock companies, the young actor is called upon to play a different role each week, and in the course of a season will have an opportunity to develop his talents to an infinitely greater extent than in several years in pictures. Just as the stock company was the training school for many of the great stage and screen actors of today, it will continue to provide the talent for tomorrow.

Year Moratorium for Triangles

RECENTLY a dispatch from Germany declared that the strict censors of that country would like to "cut out the love triangle theme altogether." A German critic leaped at the proposal immediately and declared that it would be the finest thing that could happen to German cinema.

I would like to see the triangle banned for a while in this country, the love triangle is legitimate drama, but it is only one of many themes that can be utilized as a basic structure. But we have concentrated on it to such an extent that one would believe the only exciting event in this 1930 era is to have two men desiring one woman or—less frequently—two women desiring one man.

I would like to see a ten-year moratorium on the love triangle. Upon, a Knight, Philadelphia

ALONG THE RIALTO

THAT RISING young Broadway columnist, Walter Winchell, has turned screen scout— as a result of a letter he wrote to a new, June Mcloyd, pop Broadway singer, was launched on a screen career via "Reaching for the Moon" now she has been signed on a term contract by RKO Pathe. She appears in "June First," the initial offering of the "Gay Girls" comedy series.

A Van Beuren cameraman and assistant working through Northern China getting material for Vagabond Adventures to be released by RKO Pathe were taken prisoners by outlaws and held for ransom . . . . after five days of captivity they were rescued by soldiers . . . . at least that's the Van Beuren version . . . . but One Lung Lee, our Chink correspondent, sends us a different version . . . . that the bandits made their prisoners scream the minute they found out who they were . . . . knowing its useless to try to get ransom on film muggs . . . .

AND NOW Bill Hurst rises to ask "Where are the gaudy posters we use see in front of 14th Street, 23rd Street, 3rd and 6th Avenue cinemas?" Bill made a tour of those thoroughfares for the ever one and make his voice heard. Just one preaching poster did he see anywhere . . . . probably gone pancy, Bill . . . . like our Broadway film palaces . . . .

WHAT HAS happened to Ivan Abramov, the great producer of the 1917-18 era? Ivan has an absolutely sincere belief that his indie productions were as good as Mitchell Zukor's any day and if he ever met that gentleman, he no doubt would have given him a lot of argument on the subject and not another colorful personality that we miss in these drag, drag days . . . . when the film biz is so terribly commercial and prosaic—over in the ole Tce-Art studio on 44th Street, it use to be a pure joy to watch Ivan in the artistic throes of a super-special production . . . . often he would suddenly call a halt in the midst of a scene on one of his silent epics then—while everybody held their breath, Ivan would sit down on a corner, chin on hand, elbow on knee.

The Thinker . . . . he would last for a half hour suddenly the impresario would come out of his artistic trance gesticulating wildly and yelling things in his very own dialect that no one could understand . . . . he would be that excited . . . . after a special committee had finally got the drift of his Big Idea . . . . it would probably mean changing the draperies on a window set or—having the femme star come prancing in instead of a quiet entrance . . . . that were the happy days . . . . for Ivan.

A CERTAIN Broadway actor has a yen for Spiritu- alism with so little of material things left for actors nowadays . . . . Spiritualism must be a great comfort . . . . but this happened 10 years ago . . . . when the pickin's were good . . . . and all hands were eatin' regular . . . . and this book has a spiritual conclusion . . . . with the ole violin maker of Cremona who told him he must grab up all the genoio violin of that name still extant so one evening he failed to show up for the Broadway stage performance . . . . the boys was missing three days . . . . and right after that all the Canadian and American newspapers were filled with a sensational story the celebrated Stradivarius at the shores of St. Augustine was found—had disappeared from the collection of relics.
FLAT RENTAL POLICY STAGING A COMEBACK

by THE FILM DAILY yesterday.

Principal reason is the general business situation.

Straight rentals allow theaters more flexibility in their bills, it was pointed out. Among the reasons which have influenced distributors in favor of flat rental deals in most instances is the cost of checking. One sales manager laments a deal in which his company netted 67 cents on one last season's percentage runs.

provided independent opposition would do likewise. According to Edmund Mantell, owner of several independent houses in the Bronx, his theaters will drop the dual bills as the first houses in his territory to make the move. Mantell operates the Star and the Ritz with opposition from the Daily, operated by Jack Steinman of the Manhattan Playhouse Circuit. Steinman, who was out of town yesterday, is expected to make a statement regarding the fall policy of the Manhattan houses, upon his return.

features. In exceptional cases be sure that over-length is fully justified by audience appeal. Adopt measures that will insure greater freedom of authorship. Restore to feature pictures a larger measure of fast action which formerly gave to them their greatest appeal, utilizing all devices, including parallel lines of action to give us genuine motion pictures.

Do not sacrifice, however, the great boon of vital dialogue and sound effects. Remember that the original lure of motion pictures was the illusion of reality. Therefore, avoid strain- ing credulity. Emphasize truth.

Our annual national income is about $90,000,000,000 and nearly 95 per cent. of this huge sum is spent right here in these United States. Amid the prevailing gloom about everybody seems to have forgotten that impressive fact. Americans have gone in for a session of the blues and, true to tradition, in a big way. Some day our people will wake up to the fact that the wealth of the country is well over $300,000,000,000, somebody will whistle a pleasant waltz tune and the depression, a la American, will be quickly filed away with the nation's other unhappy memories.

ALONG THE RIALTO with PHIL DALY

- OVER AT the home ossiff of Educational they have doped out a brand new racket — it is called the Almaga- mated Association of Tramp and Exclusive Home Office Pals — it is a social organizase with a benevolent complex — the social side is great — for the unmarried fel lers, there is a paragraph in the bylaws which stipulates thus: "Each week he is weeked among the unmarried members. During the week he is, King, he can call on any unmarried member to submit his list of telephone numbers. He selects one jape’s number, and then the member possessing the phone number sends the King in strong with the gal, and arranges a date."

- that swell? but they played a dirty trick on Joe Rivkin — they waited till he was down and doin’ things ap pointed him King — wait till Joe hears about that one. the Association took out a short-term life insurance policy covering Joe on his airplane trip to the Coast and weren’t they disappointed when he arrived safely! for the married members, the Association is purely one of a benevolent nature — if a mugg goes broke before payday, he can slap member married on the back, say "My Pal!" and the other goof has to loan him half of his current bankroll — last week they initiated Bob Dodge the day before payday and as soon as he was pronounced a member, 15 of the married Pals fell on Bob at once, slapping his back and yelling "My Pal!" so Bob broke this week and so is his back now he’s planning to get married — just so’s he get even.

- GHOSTS OF The Past are occasionally resurrected. William S. Hart, the strong silent man of the West who used to thrill the kids in the old silent days, will be the subject of the "Intimate Talks" by Francis X. Bushman on Friday over the NBC-WJZ network — a case of one Ghost talkin’ about another.

- A LIL’ Journey to the Home of A Film Mugg — we dropped in the other day to give Louis Meyer the once over with the main part of Meyer & Rieger, film lab concern in the Film Center building — a very ambitious and optimistic egg, this Louis — two years ago he came back from Hollywood with exactly one grand in his kick and right away succeeded to the lab top job and today he has it and if you ask us, he must also have "it" to raise enough dough to equip the marvelous layout he has over there on Ninth Avenue and golly, the lab has every thin” besides lab equipment, a gorgeous modern sound room for recording — a machine shop for manufacturing lab equipment for outside concerns — and now Louis and his partner, Jack Rieger, have decided to invest the trailer field and state right the service — all proving that ya can’t keep a good man down — Louis has had his ups and downs for years and yarh — but seems to be up permanently with one of the smoothest functioning organizations we’ve encountered since we’ve been in this dizzy biz. Louis has both feet planted firmly on the gent on his way — he’s gone places and done things and modestly admitting that he doesn’t expect to Grab Everythin’ but quite sure that he and his partner are gonna Get Thiers and we’re bettin’ that they will.

- ALWAYS LIKE to hear about a gent who has taken a modest whirli at the pix going out and doin’ somethin’ else — another field to just a man — oh, yore, that’s the story of Barry Towny, the Broadway stage actor who has done bits in the film — Barry has written a play, "All Women Are" — some title, eh, wot? he plays the lead in the lab — and at the Astbury Park premiere the other week, the local reviewers went overboard praising it as a surefire Broadway smash — the sort of stuff that will have all the femmies jumpin’ with ecstasy in their seats and what a plot for talkie transcription! Marriage — first nite reactions — both man and wife — a Natural.

Two Stunts for "Night Nurse"

I\ speakers of Barbara Stanwyck in "Night Nurse" at the Stanley, Jersey City, Charles Carroll got up two stunts that helped to arouse public interest. First of these stunts was a clever booklet entitled "Confessions of a Night Nurse" as written by the heroine of Dora Macy's stirring novel. To add to the value of the book was a mathematical stunt by which one could by adding up certain columns of figures ascertain his or her normal blood pressure. The second stunt was an enormous practical book in the theater lobby. Crowds of people attracted to it turned its pages to read the printed matter and examine the excerpts of scenes from the picture.

Airport Week

Plugs "Chances"

JOHN GOODNO, manager of the Palace, Huntington, W. Va., in book "Chances," with Douglas Fairbanks, Jr., for the airport week in his city saw the possibilities. The Edsel Ford Rollability tour, which included Huntington in its itinerary, gave him a fine-hook up. For the front of his house, Goodno used an immense enlargement of a telegram from young Fairbanks in Hollywood. A huge cut-out of the star as the lieutenant in the picture was placed on top of the marque and across the entire front of the theater enclosure a banner reading: "Chances"--A Super Hit--"Chances." A motor car made over to look like an army tank with the barrel of a cannon protruding, toured the city.

• • • DIDJA HAPPEN to pick up WFAA at Dallas, Texas, on your rad-dee-oh last Sunday nite? .. well, fellows, it was worth while listening in for yes, Mister Rosenfield, dramatic editor of the Dallas Morning News, was givin' the works to Ray Bea, Paramount-Publix man ... Rosie shot his questions right and left ... and Bea came right back with snappy answers boy, if they'd get more of these Live Features on the air waves, instead of a lotta hooch about Sminky's corn salad, Jimson's combination tooth brush and shoe-shiner, et al. folks might start to get interested in their fireside entertainers once more.

• • • IT STARTED with Rosie askin' Mister Bea why theh advertisin' was used in the many superlatives in movie booklets that are second-rate programmers with ballyhooey that should be confined to epics "Don'tcha know, Mister Bea," queries Rosie, "that the public is wise to the misleading superlatives? And whyin' don't advertisin' practice more Truth in Advertisin'?" ... and Ray comes right back, snappy ... "Doncha unnerstan', Mister Rosenfield, that the biggest proportion of the folk that buy the pictures, are gettin' little coo-cooed out of a lotta bigness offensin' in other industries ... who still advertisin' on the price of Jawn Public and his family are a lotta suckers. It was all very exhilaratin' ... with Mister Bea and Paramount winning the debate by about 17 miles.

TIMELY TOPICS

A Digest of Current Opinions

Hard for Actor

To Meet Public

THE public falls in love with the character you play never with the individual. Therefore the result is the scene when a movie playgoer meet an actor in private life he invariably disappointed. He expects to meet a character acting as in a specific story, whereas, away from his great paint, an actor becomes just one of the millions of segments of all humanity. An this rule works both ways. Likewise, the movie playgoer finds it very difficult to meet the new members of the public, to bad in their delight in his work ... and then to see a puzzled high come into their eyes. This puzzled light is sure to come, for the theater-going public expect too much of an actor when they meet him face to face. The public have seen him in a picture at a high pitch of dramatic fervor ... and then when they meet the same actor on the golf course or at a party, they find him just another workingman relaxing from a day's work. The actor's business is to create an illusion. The better the illusion he creates the better actor he is. And no matter how fine a fellow an actor may be personally, he cannot, in his periods of relaxation, hope to meet the exaggerated hero ideals his 'fans' hold up for him.

Production of Westerns
To Start in Europe

West Coast Bureau, THE FILM DAILY

Hollywood—Due to the current shortage in Europe of outdoor and other action pictures turned out by Hollywood, plans are under consideration for the making of western melodramas, dealing with the traditional American cowboy, in both England and France. This information is veiled by Wallace Smith, author-scenarist under contract to Radio Pictures. Smith says his publishers, George Putnam & Sons, have requested him to dig up every magazine story or novel he has ever written with a western background.

SHORT SHOTS from EASTERN STUDIOS

By HARRY N. BLAIR

THREE Vitaphone shorts, a two-reeler and two one-reelers, were completed last week. The two-reeler was The Clyde Mystery, a crime story, and the one-reelers were two short thrillers. An E. M. Newman Travel Talk, “Little Journeys to Great Masters,” and “The Three Eyes Have It,” featuring Edgar Bergen, were the one-reelers completed.

“The Musical Mystery,” a miniature musical revue in two reels has gone into production today at the Vitaphone Studio under the direction of Roy Mack. Featured in the cast are the Albertina Rasch Girls and Janet Reade.

Irving Pichel, former leader in the 24-Theater movement of California and the Middle West and who is forging rapidly toward stardom by his work in character roles of unusual nature, returned to New York this week for his first visit in nine years. Pichel, who had much directorial and acting experience in the city before going West, has returned here from Hollywood, where he has been lately appearing in Paramount talking pictures. Pichel has started work soon with Tallulah Bankhead in her next Paramount vehicle, The Cheat, to be made at the Eastern studio.

First of Booth Tarkington’s Per- rod and Sam juvenile stories went into production Monday under direction of Alf Goulding. It is called Snakes Alive. The cast includes Sam Sax, studio chief, after over 500 tests, promises to make this juvenile series a hum- dinger. Billy Hayes will play Pen- ny, and Joan and Winnie Stimpson will play the starring roles. While Paul White and Ralph Scott, two Pickanninies, will supply the colored comedy of Herman and Ver- man, respectively.

Marchesi Iside Minnucci, of Sar- ravalle, and Countess Marianna Dori, described as Italian nobility, who recently came here on a visit, were signed by the Aurora Film Corp. for roles in Amore e Morte (“Love and Death”), the first of a series of Italian talking pictures to be made in this country, in which Cavalier Ufficiale Rosario Romeo will be featured.

TELEVISION—Its Methods and Uses, by Edgar H. Felix. McGraw-Hill Book Co., Inc., New York, $2.50.

Anybody interested in television will find this book both interesting and practical. In a concise and cut-out manner, Edgar H. Felix, radio consultant and member of the Institute of Radio Engineers, agrees with the author of the book, that television, as a medium of entertainment and education, has a bright and promising future.

The book is divided into four parts: the first deals with the technical aspects of television; the second with the business aspects; the third with the future of television; the fourth with its applications to television, radio, and film. The book is written in a clear and concise manner, and is highly recommended for anybody interested in the field.

Dialogue and Action
Serves Distinct Ends

When a drama is written for the stage, its maximum design in dialogue is only so much as is necessary to reveal the story. The dialogue, in other words, tells only "story" and nothing else. To a slight extent the telling of the "story" is amplified by the actions of the players.

In talkies, it is possible for the players to reveal more of the "story" of the picture than it is for stage players to reveal of a drama.
Therefore, part of the function of dramatic dialogue is taken over by the players.

However, the players in a motion picture are not expected to tell the entire story. This burden falls up-are in it. Lloyd Corrigan will direct. Raymond Griffith and Sidney Buchman will assist Corrigan in the preparation of the screen story.

Edward Breen experienced an embarrassing moment, when, in company with his wife, he was approached by C. C. Burr, producer of "Torchy" comedies, with a beautiful blonde in tow. Breen did not recognize the blonde, much to Burr’s surprise. The blonde, Dorothy Diz, also seemed confused.

"I never knew father and daughter to be so high hat before," said Burr. Then the situation dawned on Breen and Miss Diz that they had been playing father and daughter in the "Torphy" series, but had never met, because there had not been a single sequence where father and daughter were together.

player in a farce comedy to be produced on Broadway next season, according to report.

Buzz Barton inaugurs his first starring series with "The Cyclone Kid." Big 4.

Jed Buell, Mack Sennett’s handsome Boswell, is responsible for this one. He claims Andy Clyde was a blacksmith in his younger days and that Andy had an experienced boy as an apprentice. One day Andy said to the boy, "When I take the red hot horeshoe out of the fire and put it on the anvil, I will nod my head and you hit with the hammer as hard as you can."
He did, and Andy became an actor.

Joseph Fields and Earl Baldwin wrote the screen play and dialogue for Eddie Quillen’s next starring vehicle for RKO Pathe. It is now in production under the direction of Ralph Murphy. The story, yet untitled, is an original by George Drumgold and Hel Catlin.

Dorothy Tree, young New York stage actress recently placed under contract by Paramount, received her first assignment when she was selected for one of the leading roles in Ruth Chatterton’s new picture,
"Once a Lady."

Upon completion of "Consolaation Marriage," which he is filming now, Paul Sloane will direct Radio Pictures’ "The Lost Squadron," based on the book and serial by Dick Grace.

Sons of executives seem to like to follow in their father’s footsteps.
Yudly Schiffberg is writing public-ty at Paramount, while Harry Rapf’s son is in M-G-M’s scenario department, M. H. Hoffman, Jr., is head of Allied Pictures, while Bob-ny North’s boy has also shown interest in studio work.

Wallace Smith will do the dialogic for "Marcheta," in which Richard Dix and Irene Dunne will star for Radio.

C. Gardner Sullivan, prominent
M-G-M executive, has just completed his third original story this year.

Frank Albertson and Bette Davis will have the romantic juvenile leads in Radio’s "Other People’s Business," starring Seth Parker.

The Independent producing field is beckoning strongly to C. Graham Baker, formerly associate executive for Warners-First National.

Current Week's Gross in RKO Houses Sets Record

Box-Office Receipts Over Entire Circuit At New High

Gross business for the current week in all RKO theaters has broken all records of the circuit, an executive of the organization told The Film Daily yesterday. Favorable weather coupled with many theaters playing Constance Bennett in "The Little Mazda" so, with it, was a small-town exhibitor, a few nights ago. He had a vague idea that we were in pictures, which idea grew considerably more vague as the evening grew on. Most certainly he was blissfully unaware that we were a paid-up member, in good standing, of the cinema fourth estate. Did you think the motion picture trade papers are worth a whoop-la? we asked him, rather recklessly, "Bet your life they are," was his rebounding shot. "Without 'em I would not know what was going on in New York, the big towns, or Hollywood. For you can't believe film salesmen, imagine no magazines or daily newspapers," he continued. "How would we know what was happening every day? That's the same way the motion picture trade papers are worth a whoop-la." He asked us, rather recklessly, "Bet your life they are," was his rebounding shot. "Without 'em I would not know what was going on in New York, the big towns, or Hollywood. For you can't believe film salesmen, imagine no magazines or daily newspapers," he continued. "How would we know what was happening every day? That's the same way with our film trade papers. They ain't so good when they tell you what to do, but they are better when they tell you what not to do." And so, as the clock in the steeple struck one, we returned to our fireside and children, safe in the premises that as far, at least, as one exhibitor was concerned, their father was in a profession and not a racket.

With the midnight Midnight Madonna show, especially in large centers, becoming more and more conventional, we recently felt it our duty to do a little psychological researching, under cover of the early morning muzadas of Broadway, on the why, (Continued on Page 2) wherefore and habitats of those who do their retail film shopping when most folks are setting the alarm clock. We find these midnight film patrons a decidedly unusual type of fan. While light sophisticates we might call them. Wise in the ways of the world, full of smart tricks, imbued generally with the spirit of fun and good humor, and not a little patient. Our investigation further discloses that nine times out of ten they are attracted by the feature and but slightly, if at all, interested in shorts not so matter how. For instance, we recently saw a party of four meaner in after midnight, sit impatiently through three shorts, hoping audibly, the feature would be next, and then, up on their way to a competing house when the fourth short subject was flashed. And, as a matter of fact, we felt like doing the same thing.

tract signed by former owners with the union.
The judge denied plea of attorneys for D. G. Johnson, owner, for bond motion, his testimony that he could not from possible losses pending final outcome of the dispute and also denied the theater bond to stay the injunction. Johnson indicated the show house will close rather than employ union operators.

Film Players' Club Dance

The Film Players' Club will hold a dance, with vaudeville, Saturday night at the N. V. A. grand ballroom. Music will be furnished by the Chicago Rhythm Jacks. Comprising the committee of arrangements are: Harry Hornek, Al- lon Quinn, Alida Stanley, Carl Cui- Mel, Constance Lusby, Rose Felt- man, Avis Nast, Mrs. Julia Gorman, Theresa Klee and Tully Nash.

Sign Vitaphone Output

Vitaphone has closed contracts on its new product with 12 houses in the Schine Circuit, as well as with the Fox St. Louis group, the Schan- berg and the Hoosen houses and the Glen Dickinson circuit.

"Lane" Big in Binghamton

Binghamton, N. Y.—The Capitol, Comerford house, smashed its single day record Wednesday when "Honeymoon Lane" opened with its star, Eddie Dowling, appearing in person.

Sean Baltimore Sunday Law

Baltimore—In order that it may be made court proof, the proposed ordinance liberalizing Baltimore's Sunday laws has been placed in hands of high legal authorities for study and rewriting, if necessary.

16 Educational Releases Scheduled for September

Sixteen releases, its biggest line—lengthwise—yet, are scheduled by Educational for Sept. The list includes:

"Poker Widows," Mack Sennett comedy, with Patsy O'Leary and Arthur Stone; "Highlights of Travel," Lyman H. Howe's Hodge Podge, "I Surrender Dear," first Mack Sennett comedy, starring Bing Crosby; and a William J. Burns Detective Mystery and a Mack Sennett short subject, as yet untitled, for Sept. 13 release.

"Up Pops The Duke," a Mermaid with George Chandler, Pauline Wetzel, from the series, "Vanity comedy and a Terry-Toon will be released Sept. 20.

"Speed," Mack Sennett comedy featuring Andy Clyde and Marjorie Beebe, and a William J. Burns Detective Mystery and a Romantic Journey, both of which have not as yet been scheduled, are slated for release Sept. 27.

Louisville House Reopens Aug. 29

Louisville, Ky.—The Brown will reopen on Aug. 29 with an all RKO Pathe bill, headed by Ina Claire's "St. Louis Woman," starring Harry Rich and Helen Vinson, a comedy, and a Terry-Toon.

Unions Execs Conferring

Atlantic City, N. J.—President Aubrey Weber, president of the American Federation of Musicians and vice-president of the A. F. of L. is here attending the Executive Board's meeting in connection with the latter organization's coming annual convention, scheduled for Vancouver on Oct. 5. William F. Canavan and Fred J. Dempsey, president and treasurer, respectively, of the I.A.T.S.E. and M.P.O., will also attend the convention.

"Common Law" Run in Frisco

San Francisco—Constance Ben- nett's "The Common Law," is in its third week at the Orpheum. The RKO Pathe film is equaling the run of Charlie Chaplin's "City Lights," the only picture to have this length here in many months.

Day Ideal Traveltalks

Oscar Neufeld of Suburban Picture Corp., Philadelphia, and Marcel Meckolberg, representing the Cent- ral Booking Co., have been pur- chased for their respective terri- tories 12 Traveltalks produced by M. J. Kandel of Ideal Pictures Corp. Meckolberg also took the franchise on Ideal's new series of 12 animal pictures.

VAUDE-FILM POLICIES LOOM IN 25% OF HOUSES

Warners have decided upon the move, but have not yet specified the number of theaters and their locations to be included in the plan. Vaudeville booked directly by Warners will be routed over a circuit of from 10 to 15 weeks. Official word of the change in policy and the theaters involved will be made next week.

S. L. "Rooxy" Rothafel is now supervising all RKO intact units and making changes in presentation, before they leave New York.

Mark A. Lascher, RKO national publicity director, yesterday made the following statement to THE FILM DAILY, "The Palace on Broadway has always been a barometer as far as the popularity of vaudeville is concerned. The present show will stay its fifth week at the Palace. Although I cannot say how many RKO houses will include vaudeville with the picture next season, I fully believe in the manner in which the public has responded to the present vaudeville bill at the Palace speaks for itself and is a prediction as to the trend of the times."

No plans have been made for including vaudeville in Loew houses now on a straight picture policy according to Oscar Dooh, Loew publicity director.

RKO Houses Set Record In Current Week's Gross

(Continued from Page 1) Common Law" are said to be largely responsible for the unusual results. Present week's $11,000-a-day (to go) show an increase of about $75,000 over the first six days of last week.

Boscobel House Changes Hands

Boscobel, Wis.—The Falls Amusement Co. has taken over the Boscobel from H. C. Tibbetts. The theater is managed by J. R. McDonald.

COMING & GOING

CARL GOE, formerly of Tiffany, sales man, returned from the Deutschland for a six weeks' vacation in Europe. JOSEPH K. PLUNKETT and NAT BUCHBERG returned from Albany last night.

J. I. HESS, RKO advertising chief, leaves for Havana on Aug. 22.

MAURICE BARON, conductor of the RKO symphony orchestra, sails tomorrow on the Paris for a three weeks' vacation.

EDDIE SANTOR leaves Hollywood on Aug. 24 for a month's trip to make arrangements for his coming European tour in connection with the showing of "Palmy Days."

COLIN CLIVE arrives in New York today from England and will leave immediately for Universal City to appear in "Frankenstein."

ALONG THE RIALTO PHILADELPHIA

• • • A FRIENDLY rivalry has started between RKO Pathe and Educational home offices... following the lead of the latter organization with their Office Pals association... Manny Goldstein decided that somethin' had to be done about lining up the office associates of RKO Pathe... so he sent for Kid Zimbalist, the egg who promoted the Warners Club before he left to join up as an assistant to A. P. Waxman.

"Are we gonna let these Educational muggs get ahead of us?" asks Manny.

"Al's answer was to start the wheels movin' to organize a co-op buying club among the RKO Pathe force... T. J. Richards, head of the purchasing dept., will have charge of the co-op buying... ya may think this is a dry, uninteresting job... but that's where we fool ya... just think of the thrills Mister Richards will get when some gal puts in her order for a set of those pretty undies... in every life a lil' sunshine falls... so well, Al, here's wishin' you luck... if you do as good a job as you did on organizin' the Warner office staff, it will mean just so much extra copy for this kolym to quit worrying about... and with Lee Marcus, Manny Goldstein, Ned Deupree, C. J. Scollard and A. P. Waxman pledging their wholehearted support the RKO Pathe Club should be a Big Success.

• • • A CERTAIN young man up at the Radio ossif is feeling pretty chipper these days... Sam Warshawsky's play, "The Woman of Destiny," is all set with national women's clubs support for the promotion by the Wharf Plays at the Provincetown theater on Aug. 24... representatives of a dozen powerful feminine organizations will attend officially and report back to their headquarters for a proposed campaign to put the play over strong... the angle is that the opus carries a dramatic preachment on anti-war and woman's interest in politics.

• • • WALKED IN on Bert Ennis over at Columbia to find him studying a letter with furrowed brow... one of the field men had addressed him as "Exploration Director... "Now, I ask ya, Phil," sez Bert, "is that a dumb delivery or a Dirty Crack?"... and we replies "Obvious."... so Bert is still puzzled... Spotted Charlie Pettjohn lunching at the Empey Club with Sam Frigerio other day, reminds us that Sam built the first picture house in the world at the corner of Fifth Avenue and 110th Street... 30 years ago.

• • • A CIRCUIT theater manager up in New England, states G. L. Southwell, told his publicity dept. that they must use diplomatic phraseology in all their copy... and one mugg wrote a letter to inquire just what that meant... and the boss wrote back "When you say to your wife that 'Time stops in its flight when I gaze into your countenance,' THAT would be diplomatic phraseology for 'Your face would stop a clock.'"

• • • TOM AND NAT, cigar specialists for the film curb boys in our hamlet, are about the most interesting Irish and Armenian team in the biz as going ragging each other geometrically... Nat went up to Sullivan county over the week end to visit his family... his wife reports he never arrived... and he didn't come back to the Boyer cigar stand... Tom claims he planned to economize by hitch hiking, and was probably picked up along the route by some local con-stay-bale as just another tramp.

• • • AFTER LOOKING over the bathing beauties in some recent newsvrants, Jimmy Cunningham opines that they should call 'em Nudees Reels.

The union's proposal that a mission be appointed to survey condition of theaters and to determine their financial ills was turned down by the exhibitors.

Union men felt out the time with a suggestion that operations return every third week that sally their own players. This, too, was rejected on the grounds that it is only temporary relief.

State Atty. Swanson on at the mayor's office this week inquiring what action had been taken on the recommendation of the jury that charges be filed with the civil service commission against Thomas Maloy's brother, Joseph Maloy, charge of the licensing of movie picture operators. Swanson was informed the charges are now being drawn up. Joseph Maloy was named in true bills along with his brother.

 Paramount Color Deal Practically Closed

Indicating that Paramount definitely plans to resume production of color pictures in a big way is the fact that the company is understood to have practically completed negotiations for the Keller-Dorian color process. This non-pigment system is used in conjunction with black and white stock and is based on three colors. It is the property of the Keller-Dorian Corp., French organization. Eastman Kodak some time ago acquired the 16 mm. rights for amateur films.

Death of Blue Law in Ohio Brings 12 Sunday Openings

John G. Griffin Dies;

Canadian Film Pioneer

Toronto—John G. Griffin, 77, credited with bringing the first motion picture shows to Canada, is dead following an illness of a few months. Griffin opened a movie in 1906.

Cleveland—Twelve towns in this state have joined the Sunday show list since Aug. 2, when local option as a substitute for the state blue law went into effect. The dozen locations include: Bellaire, Martins Ferry, Steubenville, Yorkville, Bridgeport, Newcomerstown, Uhrichsville, Cadiz, Salem, East.

Winston Salem, N. C.—A 15-minute radio program direct from the sound ribbon of a motion picture film was broadcast from WSJS here. The performance is said to mark a new step in radio methods.
Putting It Over

Newark, N. J.—Marlene Dietrich in “Three Loves,” German silent picture with sound effects, has already run for six weeks at the Little Theater and is expected to continue until Labor Day. Henry Okun, publicist of the house, says the trick was done by putting up the “Adults Only” sign and using two-inch ads in all the papers, as well as featuring Marlene Dietrich’s name in big type, with the title in small letters. At another house, where the same picture played without this publicity, it lasted only two days.

D. W. Griffith Considering British Picture Offer

Having completed his latest production under working title of “The Struggle,” D. W. Griffith is now considering an offer made by the Wilcox interests in London to direct “Loyalities” from the John Galsworthy story. At present he is cutting “The Struggle,” made in New York. During the past year Griffith has written two plays.

Estelle Brody
Ann Greenway
Lucien Littlefield
Jack Fulh
Harold A. Noon
Mae Clarke
Ann Harding Completes First
Ann Harding has completed "De- votion," the first of the four starring vehicles in which RKO Pathe will present her during the new season. The story is an adaptation by Horace Jackson of a Pamela Wynne novel, directed by Robert Milton. Supporting cast includes: Leslie Howard, Robert Williams, Doris Lloyd, Louise Closer, Jack H., O. P. Heggie, Tempe Pigott, Dudley Digges, Allison Skipworth, Ruth Weston and Joan Carr.

Bill Boyd Unit at Sea
Bill Boyd, Robert Armstrong and James Gleason head an RKO Pathe unit of 100 players and technicians that is making scenes 25 miles at sea on the Pacific for Boyd's new vehicle. Albert Rogell is directing. Lew Lipton wrote the original story which was adapted for the screen by Commander Herbert A. Jones, U.S. Navy. F. McGrew Willis did the dialogue. Ten naval vessels, operating from San Diego, will work with the film unit in the sea action.

McGowan a Juvenile Specialist
During his ten-year career as a director of "Our Gang" comedies at the Hal Roach studios, Robert McGowan has handled the megaphone for 110 juvenile two-reelers. McGowan, who recently was signed to a new contract by Roach, has guided many youngsters on the road to stardom, among them being Jackie "Skippy" Cooper.

Benny Rubin On His Own Starting in September
Benny Rubin's plans to become an independent producer are expected to materialize next month upon the expiration of his present contract with RKO Pathe. Rubin has bought the rights to a magazine story, "Two Suspenders," which he intends to film with himself as director as well as playing a prominent role.

"Flying High" Starts
Katherine Crawford and Pat J. Brien have the romantic leads in M-G-M's picturization of "Flying High," which is going into production at once at Culver City. It will be directed by Charles Riesner. The cast is headed by Bert Lahr and includes Charlotte Greenwood and Guy Kibbee.

"Peach O' Reno" Starting Sooner

NEW THEATERS

Saugus, Mass.—A plan to build a theater in Saugus was recently announced on the site of the recently burned Hollywood, was revealed recently by an application made to the board of appeals by Albert E. Foy of Lynn to have land in that area re-zoned for business purposes.

Richmond, Calif.—A contract for excavating has been let to Marshall & Higgins of this city by the Henry I. Belier Construction Co., general contractor, for the $150,000 theater to be erected here by United Artists. Other sub-contracts are being let.

Monet, Mo.—A theater is being erected here by M. E. Gillioz at an estimated cost of $75,000.

West Newton, Mass.—Charles E. Hatfield, Rupert Thompson and Ben Rockman are the sponsors of the Garden City Auditorium, Inc., formed for the purpose of constructing a theater on the site formerly occupied by the Players Hall.

Tama, Ia.—The Idle Hour theater building here is being torn down and a new theater is to be erected by the owners of the building, F. W. Russell and W. J. Fife. Wesley Mansfield will be the manager of the new house, which will probably open Oct. 1.

NEW SOUND FILM SETS PUT ON FRENCH MARKET

Paris.—The following sound film reproduction sets have recently appeared on the French market:

"Universal," produced by the Societe des Apparatus Sonores. The price of 45,000 francs includes complete installations including two projectors for the projection of sound film bearing the sound recorded on film. The system may also be adapted to any existing projectors. It is stated that this set includes numerous technical improvements one of them being the elastic suspension of the projectors which is supposed to improve the purity of the reproduction and silence of mechanical vibrations of the sound.

"Teleson," produced by Societe Teleson-Film, is a sound head group that can be adapted on any projector. Price is 35,000 francs for complete installations.

"Echo-Color," introduced by the Societe Gescos, is a new sound head adaptable to all existing projectors. No price has been quoted for this apparatus. All the above sets are more especially adapted to the needs of small cinemas.

REPORT BOOM IN WIRING

Small English Theaters

London—Reports received here from various parts of the United Kingdom indicate that a decided boom in the wiring of small theaters for talking pictures is in progress. RCA Photophone, Ltd., announces an unprecedented demand for its new small theater reproducer for houses seating 500 or less.

SYNCHROFILM MODEL "J" SOUND HEAD

Rochester, N. Y.—Described as simple, sturdy and dependable, and offered on the same basis as the standard Synchrofilm, Model "J" sound heads are now being marketed by the Weber Machine Corp., of this city. They have been designed and built to comply with the requirements of the very small theaters, where low cost equipment is desirable, the company states.

New Light Exceeds... Sun's Brilliance

Modern projection calls for a light source equaling and in some cases exceeding the brilliancy of the sun itself.

Sound, color, and wide films, with long throws on porous screens now demanded by the modern theatre, have called for a most intense and active program of research and development to keep National Projector Carbons ahead of the requirements of modern projection.

The concentration of large quantities of electrical energy in slender carbons, while keeping the light confined to a point source, represents a most remarkable advance in lighting practice.

The results of this development program have been the production of National Projector Carbons of the highest quality with economies which make carbon costs extremely low in comparison with other important items needed for the successful operation of the theatre.

National Carbon Company will gladly cooperate with the producer, exhibitor, machine manufacturer or projectionist on any problem involving light.

New French Film Houses Increase

Paris—Seventy-six new film theaters were built here during the past twelve months, with a seating capacity of 55,000 as against 20 theaters, seating 20,000, in 1929. Talking pictures are held responsible for this increase in building.

INTERNATIONAL EXHIBIT IN LONDON NEXT SUMMER

London — The International Exhibitors’ Conference Trade Exhibition for next summer will be held in conjunction with the Cinema Exhibitors’ Congress during Derby Week at the Grosvenor Hotel. It is expected that this film exhibition will not be limited to British and continental film organizations but also from Continental and American organizations, making it a unique event in the history of the motion picture industry—the greatest trade conference yet held.

Italian Film Imports Mostly From the U.S.

Rome—The United States was the leading supplier of foreign made films to Italy during the first quarter of 1931. Italian imports of films during the first three months were 742,831 meters as against 577,995 meters for the corresponding three months of 1930. Exports during the same quarter for 1931 were 542,396 meters as against 500,174 meters for the first three months of 1930. Italian trade publications state that Italian picture houses require about 400 films a year while the annual production of such films in Italy is around 20. England, France and Germany, in the order named, follow the U.S. in exportation of films into Italy.

Another Paris News Reel Theater

Paris — Gaumont-France-Film. Aubert is negotiating with a company which has just been formed for the sale of the Electric Palace, which the new owners will use exclusively for the showing of news reels. Paris already has two theaters devoted to news reels, one of them run by the newspaper, “Le Journal.”

Gaumont Palace at Barnstaple

Barnstaple, Eng.—The Gaumont British circuit is adding another theater to its circuit in this city. It will be known as the Gaumont Palace, and erected on the site of the old Theater Royal.

4,847 HOUSES IN U. K.; 191 NOW BEING BUILT

London—The total number of motion picture theaters in the United Kingdom as of June 30, according to figures just made public, was 4,847, of which 3,917 were wired and 1,200 were not. New film houses under construction number 191. Divided regionally, England has 2,858 wired houses and 784 silent; Scotland has 891 wired and 219 silent; Wales 297 wired and 106 silent; and Ireland 157 wired and 121 silent.

International Cast For “Blue Danube”

London—A cast of famous international artists is being assembled for the forthcoming British and Dominions’ feature, “The Blue Danube,” which Herbert Wilcox will direct. Among the artists already engaged are Brigitte Helm, Joseph Schildkraut, Leonide Massine, Alfredo Rode and his Tzigane Band, and Mlle. Nikitina, famous Russian dancer. An entirely new technique of production, it is said, has been devised and the film, which will contain but little dialogue, is expected to create a sensation.

Aafa Dividend of 10 Per Cent

Berlin—At the annual meeting of the Aafa Co., a 10 per cent dividend was declared for the fiscal year ending Dec. 21, 1930. The capital stock was increased to 1,500,000 marks. The board was re-elected. The net profit was 76,400 marks.

Propaganda Films in India

Bombay—The Congresses of India, it is reliably reported here, are planning to take motion pictures of all public meetings of the Congress and all flag salutation ceremonies as topical events for free distribution to all picture houses in India as Congress propaganda. If the motion pictures are well received, Congress officials will approach film producers with a view to making special films showing the Congress activities in drama and in fiction.

SIX NEW PRODUCTIONS UNDER WAY AT UFA STUDIO

Berlin—Six pictures are currently being readied by Ufa for the coming season. Else Helms, noted German stage actress, has been signed for the lead in “Meine Frau, die Hochstaplerin” which Bruno Duday will produce for Ufa under the direction of Kurt Gerron. Music for “Sein Scheidungsgroß” is being composed by Otto Stransky. Alfred Zeisler will produce and direct this important picture.

“Die Graefin von Monte Carlo,” an adventure talking picture, will be produced under the supervision of Rabinovitsch. Erich Pommer is just completing his new Ufa talking picture, “Der Kongress Tanz,” starring Lil Dagover. H. H. Uhri is producing “Die Schlacht von Badenmuende,” with several of Germany’s foremost comedians in the cast—Max Adlersheim, Congress, Sophie Sandrock and Paul Heidemend. Philipp Lothar Mayring is directing. Gerhard Lamprecht will direct “Emil und die Detektive.”

IMPERIAL FILM INSTITUTE PROPOSED IN ENGLAND

London — At the recent British Commonwealth Educational Conference, G. T. Hankin proposed a scheme for an Imperial Film Institute, to stimulate the use of motion pictures in art, science and education throughout the Empire. Its constitution would be that of a semi-independent corporation responsible to some Minister, probably the President of the Board of Education. The proposal met with a good deal of favor. It is believed that such a body would gradually raise the standard of entertainment films.

French Pictures for London

London—Synchro-Color of Paris has sold three pictures for showing in England—“Sur la Terre,” “Vitez” and “Eperon d’Or.” “Le Million” is in its fifth month at the Rialto, London, and will be continued although “Le Chemin du Paradis” is awaiting showing at that theater.

Sunday Bill Haltered

London—Further consideration of the Sunday Performances Regulation Bill has been suspended for nearly three months, the committee appointed by the House of Commons having adjourned until October. Little progress so far has been made on the bill.
Constance Bennett in "BOUGHT"
Warner Bros. Time, 83 mins.

BENNETT'S BEST DRAMA IN SEVERAL PICTURES. REAL ENTERTAINMENT FOR ADULT AUDIENCES AND ESPECIALLY WOMEN.

Miss Bennett is a vehicle which entirely plays to her talents and which gives her an opportunity to wear those gowns which cause female audiences to fairly swoon. The story is that of a young and innocent woman who plays a restless daughter who has social ambitions—who wants to better her position. Gradually she climbs towards luxury, incidentally rejecting the love of a struggling young writer, effectively played by Ben Lyon. Finally, following a seduction scene, the story is that of a mother who marries a child and the wedding's off. Eventually she learns that the young man who has been paying attention to her is her father and she gets together with the writer. Richard Bennett is her father and the entire cast is excellent. It's a lavish production.

Richard Talmadge in "DANCING DYNAMITE"
Capitol Exchange Time, 67 mins.

FAST ACTION MELLER WITH DICK HORNICK OUTSTANDING HIMSELF IN THRILL STUFF THAT WILL PLEASE THE FANS.

In this one Richard Talmadge outshines himself in the number of the daring stunts he pulls throughout the footage. At a neighborhood house the showing of the film is being held at night, with the lights on, if that is any indication of the success of the opus. The scenario is beautiful, showing the scenes in and around Catalina Island. The story covers the efforts of a racketeering gang to shake down a rich industrial leader by kidnapping his daughter. Dick horns in as a member of a fishing crew, and the racketeers are out to get rid of him when they see him obstructing their plans. It is a series of fast action shots, with Dick in evidence most of the time. The only lack of footage topping with excitement every time he shows. He pulls some real, swift acting chords out of his bag, seeming to risk his neck a score of times in thrilling leaps, falls and whatnot. The windup is a whirl, with Dick in the middle of it, a motorcycle chase, and a series of hand-to-hand fights with members of the gang. Dick is excellent, not only in the striking shots, but in the way he goes about it.

Director, Noel Mason. No other credits listed.

Direction, satisfactory. Photography, clear.

"SILENCE" with Clive Brook
Marjorie Rambeau, Peggy Shannon Parmount Time, 60 mins.

MURDER MURDER IS WEAKENED BY MISCASTING IN PRINCIPAL ROLE. STRONG ALL-AROUND CAST.

This remake of the silent film and play by the same name by Max Marcin carries interest pretty well, but loses through the casting of the smooth, yet unappealing man of the world, the role of an oldtime New York crook, carnival grifter and convid, who would go to the chair in order to avoid being run out of town. He refuses the hand of a daughter, he wants to marry a boy of that crying to be blackmailed, and in the squeable that follows the girl learns the truth and shoots the crook. Her real father is a lawyer and he refuses to talk, but at the last minute the girl confesses and is exonerated. The story is a weakish one, a dual role of mother and boy. John Way scores as the blackmailer.

Directors, Louis Gannier, Max Marcin; Author, Max Marcin; Adapter, John Way; Dialogue, same; Editor, not credited; Casting, Mike Frizzell; Recorder Engineer, Henry M. Lindgren.

Direction, good. Photography, good.

Buddy Roosevelt in "LIGHTNIN' SMITH'S RETURN"
Syndicate Exchange Time, 59 mins.

WESTERN POORLY PRODUCED AND ACTED WITH A WEAK STORY THAT SCORES ONLY A FEW LAUGHS ON COMEDY ANGLE.

Just another example of a western turned out carelessly that rates very poorly. The story is about as many spots is pretty terrible. The direction is even worse. Altogether, it's just a filler for small towns, where they aren't fussing about their western fare. The story had merit, if it had been properly handled. But they mussed it up from start to finish, so that in many spots the motivation and action is so clouded that the story is confused and bewildered. Buddy Roosevelt, as the hero, is a writer of western stories who has never visited the West. He gets a letter from a girl on a ranch who kids him that he doesn't know what it all about, and that if he really come out, she will show him the real west. The gang sees him to appear as a notorious bandit, and the gang frames a holdup, etc. The real bandit appears, and then the final showdown.

Directors, Jack Irwin; Author, same; Adapter, same; Dialogue, same; Editor, Earl Turner; Camareron, Amos Steilman; Recording Engineer, Herbert Ekes.

Direction, poor. Photography, fair.

"SPORTING BLOOD" with Clark Gable
M-G-M Time, 82 mins.

GOOD HORSE-RACE DRAMA WITH SOME NEW ANGLES IN ATTRACTIVE KENTUCKY BACK-ROUND. WELL CAST AND DIRECTED.

Plenty of horses and colts, and much intimate human-interest material make this an entertaining offering. The story is a bit different from the usual run of horse-race films in so far as the first three or four reels are more about the raising of the blood-hunted horses than about racing. Clark Gable portrays a sporting fellow who is mixed up with a crowd of crooked gamblers but, who saves the day (and the race) at the finish. Scenes are actually taken in the "blue grass" region of Kentucky and provide colorful background. There is the usual thrills as "Tommy Boy," the beautiful daughter of his unscrupulous jockey. Dialogue is snappy and cast well chosen.

Cast: Clark Gable, Ernest Torrence, Mada Evans, Lew Cody, Maria Prevost, Harry St. John, J. F. Carroll, Mr. Donald, John Larkin, Eugene C. Trieff, John Broderick.

Directors, Charles Brabin; Author, Frederick HITTLE, Richard Boyer; Adapter, Willard Mack, Wanda Tushock; Dialogue, same; Editor, not credited; Camareron, Harry A. Stone; Recording Engineer, not credited.

Direction, very good. Photography, fine.

"FIFTY FATHOMS DEEP" with Jack Holt
Columbia Time, 68 mins.

THREATENING MELODRAMA REPELLENT WITH ACTION, SUSPENSE AND ROMANCE. SPLENDIDLY ACTED AND DIRECTED.

With a staunch story upon which to work, Director Roy William Neill has turned out a swell melodrama. Jack Holt and Richard Cromwell are deep-sea divers, with Holt acting as a sort of a guardian over the younger lad. While Holt is away Cromwell marries a girl of questionable reputation, although the boy believes she is the soul of purity. Upon Holt's return, Cromwell is called away on a job. Holt visits the boy's wife only to discover she is one of the crooked minions of his. Holt waits his time to tell the lad, but is saved from doing so by finding the body of the girl lying on the bottom of the sea next to the millionnaire owner of a yacht which Holt and Cromwell are salvaging, following an explosion. Loretta Sayers does a swell job of work, making her appearance by some fine acting.

Cast: Jack Holt, Loretta Sayers, Richard Cromwell, Mary Doran, Christina Monti, Ray Hatton, Helen Sever, Ronald Brooke, Mildred Bond, Joan Timney, Dorothy McCuistion, Kenneth Young.

Direction, excellent; Photography, very fine.

"THE SPIDER" with Edmund Lowe
Fox Time, 59 mins.

GOOD MYSTERY DRAMA WITH FANTASTIC THEMES. NO ROMANCE. DIRECTION AND PHOTOGRAPHY ARE OF STANDING FEATURES.

In the transposition of the Broadway hit to the screen it has been gained in effects and stunts, but in turn there has been much lost in suspense and action. Edmund Lowe does his best in an extremely serious part. In spite of this he is convincing. He portrays part of a great magician whose subject is a young man suffering from a degenerative disease. The man discovers the boy's true identity, does so, but only after causing murder to be committed during the performance, throwing the audience off. The effects are exceptionally fine. William Cameron Menzies has had a good job of the direction.

Directors, William Cameron Menzies, Marj McMackens; Authors, Fulton Ours, Raymond Griffith; Dialogue, same; Editor, George Hoor; Camareron, Cameron, James Howe; Recording Engineer, Albert Bruno.

Direction, fine. Photography, excellent.

Wally Wales in "RIDERS OF THE CACTUS"
Big 4 Time, 56 mins.

STRONG ACTION WESTER WITH SOME BEAUTIFUL CACTUS SHOTS OF CACTUS COUNTRY AND WALLY WALES' BOLD DESERT RACE.

Pictorially, this is one of the finest westerns ever produced. Most the action take place right in the desert, with the giant cactus in the foreground. It is a thoroughly well shot picture, and is rather out of the ordinary, t written by someone who knows west and put some originality in the plot development. The theme centers around an old Latin parchment which proves to hold the secret to a buried treasure of some old Spainish outlaws. The girl comes into the possession of the document, with realizing its significance. The hero gets hold of it, and with his gang touts out to the desert to locate the treasure. The hero following what seems to be a pack train mules, on a prospecting trip. B under the blankets his followers a comrade, the hero is saved. The strong action stuff for the limbs with the U. S. and Mexican bord patrols in at the finish.

Cast: Wally Wales, Robert H. Barron, Fred Church, Ed Cartwright, Don Wilson, J. Lorn Johnson, Tote Brooks, Pete Bond, DeLuna, Gus Anderson.

Directors, David Kirkland; Author, Charles L. Willson; Dialogue, same; Editor, not listed; Camareron, John Damson; Recording Engineer, R. Kriger.

The Daily Sunday, August 16, 1918
Clara Kimball Young in "WOMEN GO ON FOREVER" Tiffany-Cruze Time, 67 mins.

HUMAN INTEREST YARN THAT HAS POPULAR APPEAL ENDS WITH DRAMATIC KICK

This James Cruze production was made for the pop crowds with a boarding house atmosphere and a bang-up climax. It looks like an attempt to stage Clara in her comeback in a Marie Doudreet style with a big hearted mother type who tries to up her sentimental side with some grim actions. Miss Young does fairly well with a tough part, especially in the comedy scenes. All sorts of cheap boarding house types are introduced, but the main story centers around Marian Nixon and Page. The hero is railroaded to cover a racketeer, and meanwhile the hero's mother nearly doesn't know that he has been sent to prison. Clara's son, a blind boy, kills a racketeer to save his mother and is railroaded by another rowdy. They try to frame the released young convict for the second crime, but it all works out satisfactorily. The ending carries a dramatic kick and a lot of good human interest touches.

"THIRTEEN MEN AND A GIRL" Ufa Time, 70 mins.

SLOW-MOVING AND MORBID FILM WITH ENGLISH PLAYERS IS A DRAGGY AND DREARY EFFORT.

This is a Ufa production in English version with Conrad Veidt in the leading role. All the other principals are English players, speaking in a thick British accent that at times is not understandable. The story was evidently made for British consumption, and why they show it over here is a mystery. It is based on the German stage play, "The Last Company," and deals with events in the old Prussian war with the French. A small company of 12 men and their captain defend an outpost that commands the crossing of a river over a long bridge. The greater part of the film is concerned with a lot of slow action shots of the reactions of the men knowing they are going to be doomed. The enemy troops arrive, but they are out to hold the bridge till the last man. The battle is the only kick in the picture, ending with the entire garrison and a girl killed.

"DER WAHRE JAKOB" ("The Real Jacob") Transatlantic Pietà. Time, 86 mins.

PLEASING GERMAN COMEDY WITH EXCELLENT CHARACTORIZATION GETS THE LAUGHS IN ABUNDANCE AND SHOULD PLEASE GENERALLY

Based on the stage play by Arnold and Scharf, this is a very German production. Its chief charm is its naturalness, and the spirit of gaiety, and it is far from being an easy one. The film is a straw to the satire of the film. The characters are well rounded, lifelike and wholly enjoyable. In a word, they are human beings, and so story and characters make you feel that you are seeing a real slice from German life—which you are. An alderman and his friend are sent to attend a convention of a reform society in Berlin. The alderman meets up with a fortune teller. It is only after a hard, little knowing that is his step-daughter. She never lets on. Returned to his Saxony home, the almost dead man is in an in-terestingly for fear of development with his wife, and the other members of the reform society. Then the alderman comes out, and everybody is happy.

Direction, Hans Steinhoff; Authors, Arnold and Scharf; Nature of Production, Drama; Dialogue, same; Editor, not credited; Cameraman, Otto Stein; Recording Engineer, Carl Puth. Direction, satisfactory. Photography, fair.

"WATERLOO BRIDGE" with Mae Clarke, Kent Douglass Universal Time, 81 mins.

STRONG, GRIPPING DRAMA SET IN THE "ARMS OF LONDON," SUPERBLY ACTED AND MASTERFULLY DIRECTED.

Director James Whale has made an outstanding contribution in transforming this Robert W. Sherwood stage success to the screen. Staunchly directed, with the leading parts convincingly handled by Mae Clarke and Kent Douglass, the story, which is sophisticated but none the less fitted for all class audiences, provides unusually fine entertainment.

It concerns a cultured young private who falls in love with a girl of the London streets. The action takes place during the war in Europe, but it works out satisfactorily. The ending carries a dramatic kick and a lot of good human interest touches.

Cast: Mae Clarke, Kent Douglass, Doris Lloyd, Elke Greifeld, Enid Bennett, Frederic Kerr, Rita Calais, Bette Davis. Direction, James Whale; Author, Robert W. Sherwood; Same, same; Editor, Constance A. Hensley; Recording Engineer, C. Roy Hunter. Direction, exceptional. Photography, great.

OLD THOMAS H. INCE EPIC LIVES WITH SOUND AND DIALOGUE. INTERESTING AS THROWBACK TO EARLIER DAYS.

His old classic of 1916, made by Thomas H. Ince, has been cut from a projected 12 episodes. With the editing job has been well done. Its appeal must rest on the interest of the oldtimers in another age and of the unique melodrama here to the younger generation, to win it may appeal as more or less novelty, purely for the smaller neighborhoods, where a film resurfaces after so many years may get play. The story of the film is too familiar, even in its original form, to deserve repetition here, it is a moralizing preachment against war, with the hero, in charge of the submarine, refusing to sink the enemy liner as commander in order to spare the lives of the passengers. Then the anti-climax, the hero in a boat long after the war, seeing a flock of pigeons to symbolize the Christ. The war stories are still fine examples of their time, as well as the mob scenes and the atmosphere shots. There is also a bit of dialogue dubbing, plenty of sound effects and incidental music. Cast: William Livingstone, Lillian Reed, Alice Jer- ry, Em Markley, Director, Thomas H. Ince; Editor, Pierre Rloquent; Direction, good in its day. Photograph, good.

Roxy

Plenty of dancing punctuates the current stage offering at the Roxy. In one of the three sets under the heading of "On with the Show," the Joyce Kilmer poem, "Trees," is given a Terspichorean interpretation by the 32 Roxettes, while Harold Van Duze sings. "The Living Buddha" is danced by a Japanese team, Sanami and Michi, and "Mazurka Moderne" contains Patricia Bowman, George Kiddon, Val Geral and the ballet corps. Before the dance trilogy starts there is an elaborate overture in two scenes entitled "Samson and Delilah," the Saint- meneaux Ballet, under the special arrangement by Maurice Baron. One of the scenes, "My Heart at Seven," features has Harold Van Duze and Anne Tyson as soloists while the other, "The Temple of Jagan," includes the singing ensemble, ballet corps and Roxettes in addition to the soloists. With Maurice Baron on vacation, Mischa Violin is conducting the orchestra.

Paramount

The spectacle of a flock of sheep being released on the stage in one of the scenes gives a touch of unusual novelty to this week's presentation at the Paramount. It is a Frank Cambria unit entitled "A Day in the Alps," with appropriate atmospheric background, featuring the Six Maxellos, Jack Major, Bert Faye, Holly and Fox, the Bimbo Quartette, and the David Farkus Ballet. Another item of sizeable entertainment value is a production overture called "On Parade," in which the Bines Ballet participants, with Irving Talbot conducting the Paramount Orchestra. In his organ concert, Jesse Crawford offers some selections from "The Firefly."

Capitol

Polly Moran holds the spotlight at the Capitol this week in the stage presentation, "Pieta." Miss Moran's appearance brought forth a thunderous round of applause and throughout her monologue, which appeared to be more or less extemporaneous, the laughs were many and hearty. Joseph Pope Jones, a negro baritone, with a voice of marble, singing two numbers. Jones could select more appealing material for popular renditions. Dances by Joyce Coleman and pianist, and Charles Peterson were well received. Chester Hale's Senoritas offered several numbers in colorized. Miss Bankhead and the Capitolians backed up the entire presentation with snappy up-to-date tunes.
REVIWES OF SOUND SHORTS

"Roamin' in the Cloomin'" (Harry Lauder Series) M-G-M Time, 10 mins. Enjoyable

Fortunately the producer did not try to inject a lot of "motion picture technique" in the film of the noted Scotch comedian singing his most famous, successive, and gradually works up to scenes of the magnificent palace of the Maharaja of Baroda. Several shots of the Maharaja himself participating in everyday life, follow. With the interesting and well-delivered descriptive talk which accompanies the scenes, it makes enjoyable entertainment.

"Various Shifts" Universal Time, 10 mins. Swell Football

First of the Knute Rockne-Notre Dame series is built up with a lot of creepy suspense by the employment of a shadow projected every so often throughout the action, with the mystery and suspense is strong throughout, and well handled for thrills.

"A Burglar to the Rescue" Universal Time, 22 mins. Thrill Number

Initial subject in the Shadow Detective series is built up with a lot of creepy suspense by the employment of a shadow projected every so often throughout the action, with the mystery and suspense is strong throughout, and well handled for thrills.

"Wild and Woolly" (Sports Champion Series) M-G-M Time, 9 mins. Thrille

Broncho and steed during a real western rodeo are featured in this short. Bronchos that are really wild provide plenty of thrills as the cow-boys ride them for the first time. Slow motion provides the novelty. Pictorially, and for action, this is a speedy short, but hampered by anachronism for the movie got its usual play, but the skit as a whole is just passable.

"Notre Dame Offensive System" Universal Time, 10 mins. Fast Football

The second in the Knute Rockne-Notre Dame series is a fine exposition of the offensive systems used by the leading college football teams, as compared with the Notre Dame brand. The Notre Dame coach leads off each play with a description, and he shows the tactics that his team has built up to offset the opposition plays. This reel is one of the fastest and most exciting football films ever shot, and the slow motion views make it easy to follow every action of the individual players.

"Love Tails of Morocco" (Dogville Comedy) M-G-M Time, 16 mins. A Scareem

Hal Roach has turned out a sombrero, in this canine laughmaker which shows the dogs as members of the Foreign Legion. Four mutts, while sitting around a table in the mess hall, tell stories of how each one came to join the Legion. There are four "flashbacks," one of Dan rather amusing. Dialogue is most cleverly synchronized and is well written. Production dog is certainly an exceptionally good number.

"The Blonde Girls of Jena" Ufa Time, 9 mins. German Musical

This is a musical number showing a group of students with their girls seated around a banquet table, singing their songs. There is a slight story interest worked up with one of the girls writing a love song to his sweetheart about the blonde girls of Jena. The singing has a good quality, and should prove fairly diverting to German audiences.

"Ghost Towns" Talking Pic, Epics Time, 10 mins. Interesting

Towns that figured in the run of the Pacific train, are shown in the product of this series. Virginia, Nev., where most of the scenes this short were taken, is shown in a good light. A historical sequence has been added to give the idea of the entertainment that was in those days by a beef-truck crew. Accompanying audience is seen off by Gayne Whitman, who reads some highlights of the famous stories, hotels, gambling dens, etc. Makes an engaging tale.

"First to Fight" Universal Time, 33 mins. Misses

A Slim Summerville comedy, with Eddie Gribbin again acting as tough sergeant making things tough for Slim, the bagler. This time a pas transfers to the Montana Press, and Slim, is the broad一個 and gets one really laughable gag in the newspaper office. This concerns a scene between Slim and a native which is placed in a bar in the midwest and scattered all over the loudspeakers. This is the sort of thing that the people to hear. Rest of the material has been done to death in former reels. Most is very mechanical, lacking spontaneity to get the laughs. And too much repetition and similarity. The reel could be boiled down to half the length, it has been snapped up into a real number.

"Old Clothes" Ufa Time, 18 mins. German Comedy

A comedy sketch with costuming of a clothing shop, where the property worries because of lack of business. His assistant gets a bright idea, buys a few leather pocketbooks for a peddler. These are placed in pockets of various suits, and when a customer from the country comes in, he buys the coat when he finds the pocketbook inside. But when he has departed, the suit is found to be the purest wonder. He contains a wallet with a thousand marks. The comedy character is very good, and should please German audiences.

"Accumulation of 2900 and marry you" is the slim theme of this mild comedy. Chase shows the new as the young man who has been simply mixed up with a bundle of crops while working out his salvation. Situation is speedily and, with the help of a Brooklyn dog, Charley Chase gains a few laughs, but very little

"BEST ROGERS SINCE 'THEY HAD TO SEE PARIS''
Reviewers Acclaim Hit—Crowded Roxy Rocks With Laughs

NEW YORK SAYS "PACKS LAUGHS GALORE"
Lots of laughs are certain when a story and director turn Will Rogers and Fifi Dorsay loose to strut their stuff. This is what happens at the Roxy. And that accounts for the smirking which echoes through its cool depths.
—Regina Crewe, New York American

Will Rogers is better than ever in "Young as You Feel"... His fun is infectious. It's a livelier and snappier Rogers than I've ever seen before.
—Kate Cameron, New York Daily News

SAN FRANCISCO QUAKES WITH LAUGHTER
Rogers fans will roll in the aisles; the remaining baker's dozen of movie fans hereabout can take their choice. His carryings on with Fifi Dorsay are performed with boyishness.
—San Francisco Chronicle

"Young as You Feel" was paid the tribute of applause after the audience had been weakened from laughter. Gives Rogers something new to play with. How he handles the situations and surprises the boys means just that many more laughs.
—San Francisco Call-Bulletin

WHILE CHICAGO ROARS
When Rogers and Fifi Dorsay get together in a picture the laughs fall thick and fast. There is something irresistible about the combination of the philosophizing cowboy and the hot-cha mamma.
—Carol Frink, Chicago Herald and Examiner

Rogers funnier than ever. It's a riot.
—Doris Arden, Chicago Daily Times

Rogers is a delight, a man one never sees enough of. 100 per cent entertainment. Fifi Dorsay makes enchanting hey hey as Fleurette.
—Mae Vine, Chicago Tribune

Best thing Rogers has done for the screen since "They Had To See Paris." It MOVE...

American Backgrounds Are Featured

American Backgrounds in screen stories will be more than ever a requisite, says Jacob Wilk, story manager for Warner-First National, and material offering plots with a modern true-to-life small-town and big-city slant are to have preference in the production of these companies, he declares. Foreign and exotic backgrounds will not be ruled out entirely, but will be less in demand, says Wilk.

Philadelphia Musicians Renewing Agreement
Philadelphia—No important differences are expected to interfere with the signing of a new contract between the musicians' union and Warner-Stanley. Amicable relations fostered by William Goldman, general manager of the Warner houses in this territory, are likely to smooth the way for quick disposition of the agreement which replaces the contract expiring Sept. 1.

studio operations, declares Bennie Berger, head of the Northwest Theatre Ass'n, in a statement for THE FILM DAILY. Berger's product is the biggest problem facing exhibitors today, says Berger, and the best way of meeting the situation is to kick Wall St. dictatorship and all the mathematicians out of the business and allow showmen brains to again produce pictures.

There is nothing wrong with the types of productions if they are made by good states. The exhibitor leader also believes price cutting is wrong at this time, and he is opposed to double-feature programs. With all the rotten pictures produced in the last 12 months, Berger adds, "We need a little perfume, such as pictures on the order of 'The Big Parade,' 'The Covered Wagon,' 'Birth of a Nation,' 'Ten Commandments,' etc."

THINGS WE Never Thought Worth Mentioning Till Now

That a canvass of the Fox studios reveals some interesting info concerning the pre-Hellerwood days of the players and directors — Paul Cavanagh, who plays crook parts, was a member of the Royal Mounted of Canada. James Dunn sold lunch wagons and played the stock market, the former to his profit and the latter to his loss. Jimmie Kirkwood worked in a Grand Rapids furniture factory. J. M. Kerrigan was a newspaper reporter in Dublin, and quit his job when the boss refused him a holiday.

John G. Blystone started life as an electrician — Kenneth Mackenna was once on J. P. Morgan's secretarial staff — Frank Borzage worked in the silver mines in Utah — Henry King drove a chariot in a circus and no doubt these geniuses now wish they were still doing Those Things.

THAT Eddie Klein calls attention to the use of the "moving closeup" by Karl Freund, camera wizard, in Universal's "Strictly Dishonorable," a closeup with constantly changing backgrounds and replete with action, which may revolutionize this dept of screen photography.

THAT Robert Sherwood in a recent article wondered why such a genius as Von Stroheim is not directing, and why "Queen Kelly" was shelved — and Joe Poland in his Film Mercury kylom supplies the info, thus "Queen Kelly" was shelved because it couldn't be released after costing $500 grand and this sum would enable a producer to pay a supervisor, director, star or writer one grand a week for 16 years.

THAT after razzin' and kiddin' a lotta muggs in this kylom for years the same muggs now step out and make us a Handsome Gesture — by organizin' a whoop-up campaign on that Zit's Columnist Pop Contest for us with handsome display posters originated by Harvey-Jaederker co-operating with the A.M.P.A — Madison Square Garden Association — and several dozen Broadway speakeseasees — and in spite of it all — we hereby serve notice that we're gonna razzin' and kidin' the same "cause we like it" and so do THEY.

THAT according to Billy Ferguson, the film biz has nothing to worry about on this Television gag for some time to come — for he tried to pull a television stunt on a trip to Nova Scotia on the Leviathan with the cooperation of the leading experts in the new racket and they couldn't do a Thing.

THAT Arthur Hurley, directing shorts over at Vitaphone, is putting feature production values into these S. S. Van Dine shorts — and if ya ask us, Arthur should be directing Big Features — the Paul Baran feature — and Lou Schwartz will cover New York State selling Meyer-Rieger trailers that Joe Well has hung up a record for novelization of Universal features, with syndicated newspaper circulation running into the millions — that Dave Bader is having a very tough assignment — visitin' all of the Continental summer resorts with his boss, Uncle Carl.

THAT Mister Wiltch can use these for his Simile Book, in case he runs short — beauty sitting on the beach with BOTH shoulders strap down — The talkies are a pretty dummell — easy on the eyes, but their prattle is of no importance — chorus gals are like a swarm of locusts — they leave Ruin in back of em.

In Neil Stunt Helps 'Big Business Girl'

The lack of a pencil when it is hurriedly needed is not conducive to a sweet temper, particularly in hot weather. Knowing this, the manager of the Princess in Louisville, Ky., felt that he would keep a number of business people in his home town in good humor and at the same time call attention to "Big Business Girl" at his house by distributing pencils of the better kind. In this he was aided by the Postal Telegraph company. The latter supplied the pencils, 500 of them, and "theater attached them to cards saying: 'Take a note of Gretta Young is now at Princess Theater in Big Business Girl.' " Postal messenger boys distributed the pencils and tags all over town.

Organ Stunt Proves Popular

Milton Charles, featured organist at the Mastbaum Theater, Philadelphia, evolved a tie-up with the Speak-o-phone representative in that city which proved a successful program feature. Charles then flashed slides of three old-time songs on the screen, the audience indicating their favorite by applause. "Tell Me I Meet Again" was chosen. Charles played the number with the entire audience of 4,500 voices singing. He made occasional comments while the audience sang. The Speak-o-phone record was then played back to the audience. The holder of the lucky number received the record of the audience's singing.

-• • • GOING BACK to the very inception of the film biz 35 years ago, to be exact - we find the picturesque figure of Lyman H. Howe looming up at that time as the outstanding figure in what was then disparagingly spoken of as the "flickers" - and it may surprise a lot of you to be told that Wilkes-Barre, Pa., was the first film center for it was in this mountain city that Mister Howe started his picture career '

- • • •

• • • HE EVEN had advance agents out ahead of the various companies and a young feller named Bob Gillum joined up as advance man on the No. 1 company, touring the New England states - and soon became Mister Howe's right hand man - and now that this pioneer showman is no more - Robert is the head of the Lyman H. Howe studio and still functioning in Wilkes-Barre - the first picture concern to produce and distribute - and still in the game after 35 years.

- • • •

• • • AND WAS there competition? plenty. These roadshowing pix companies sprang up like mushrooms everywhere - sometimes two rival units would be playing the same town together - then, sez Mister Gillum, it was merely a question of screen illumination - the show that gave the best illumination got the crowds regardless how loud-see the pictures were - but then, in those early days, all the pix were loud-see - gas tanks were used for illumination - and some mechanical genius in the Howe organizashe worked out a gadget that kept the screen illuminated the whole time - and they came pretty near putting their competitors out of business.

- • • •

• • • AN IDEA was taking form in the brain of Lyman Howe - he was a man of real vision - he saw the day when pictures would be the principal entertainment of the masses - when folks would patronize a flicker show seven days a week - so he conceived the notion of building a chain of houses across the continent - he approached his wealthy friends - capitalists, bankers - to raise the necessary dough - they thought he had gone knertz - when they refused to help him in his madcap adventure - he started out to raise the capital alone - and his intimates told his wife to dissuade him! or Lyman would lose every nickel he had made - so, at his wife's pleadings - he abandoned the Crazy Idea - can ya beat it? - over 20 years ago - he sez to his assistant. Mister Gillum - "Some day, Bob, they'll work out a mechanical scheme to put sound and voices right on the screen - so's we won't have to make the effects back of the screen by hand - like we do now." - that's how crazy this pioneer was - and in the books and articles that talk about the First Minds in the film biz - nobody ever mentions Lyman H. Howe - the gent who first made the nation picture-conscious 35 years ago - but Mitchell Mark, who built the Broadway Strand - appreciated him and asked him to build the theater - figuring his name would insure the success of the project - but again Mister Howe's friends discouraged him - considering it another Crazy Project -

Advertising on Higher Plane

The vastly higher plane on which film exploitation and publicity is conducted now in contrast with methods of five or ten years ago is one evidence of the longer and more dignified tone of the industry- Cheap and unsavory stunts designed to attract attention to a production or an individual, colorful and exaggerated descriptions of forthcoming pictures, are no longer relied upon by major producers of pictures. In the early days of wildcat production no claim was too gigantic for publicity men to make for the particular picture or star in which they were interested. All sorts of bizarre and spectacular gags were resorted to for the purpose of stimulating interest in this or that playgo. The public seemed to expect it. Advertising of pictures today, although it is dynamic and colorful, is a truer guide to what the patron may actually expect of the subject than it ever has been. When the phraseology of the exploitation agent sounds bombastic and he resorts to superlatives, it is because he himself is not sold on the thing he has to offer.

"WHILE Dayton and Memphis, Tenn., were threatening with clubs of censorship or annihilation the showing of Clarence Darrow's film on evolution, 'The Mystery of Life,' Knoxville audiences not only accepted it without a murmur at the Strand yesterday, but actually packed the house to see it."—Knoxville News-Sentinel, August 4.

"MYSTERY OF LIFE," opened to best Monday business this year with the exception of 'Daddy Long Legs,'" wires Ken Woodward, Penn Theatre, Uniontown, Pa. "Give censors a vote of thanks for leaving in all scenes, several of which mean a lot to the picture."

a visit. Increased production by American companies in Great Brit-in also will be forced by the quota

James Bacal, managing director of Gaumont-British and Associated British Cinemas, the latter affiliated with British International Pictures which together have 600 of the leading houses in England, are gradually becoming keener competitors and the growing output of their producing companies will eventually reduce the choice playdates for American pictures, Bacal points out.
In his opinion, says the British executive, there is an extensive field in Great Britain for the cre-nation of modern theaters to replace the older, smaller, section halls which have plenty of potential audiences but are too unattractive to draw them in.

British financiers are too conservative, are not yet sold on the fact that movies have become a stable commodity, says Bacal, because there is too much hesitancy about investing in theaters or film production. The unfortunate experience of several film companies which were financed by stock promotion projects, in which many people lost all their money, also has made it difficult to obtain funds by public financing. In addition, says Bacal, England hasn't the facilities, technicians and other resources to produce pictures of the same quality as those turned out in Hollywood.

Pictures made on the continent
do not find much favor in England, where they are considered "too heavy," according to Bacal, adding that light-hearted, sentimental stories with an agreeable ending are the most popular with British fans.

There is a trend toward better balanced films, in place of double features, and some of the Bacal houses soon will use stage acts in place of the second feature.

In addition to operating theaters,
Bacal and his associates are engaged in various other activities, including the distribution and explo-tation of pictures for independent U.S. firms, arranging for theater construction, etc. Bacal will be at the Hotel Commodore until Friday, when he leaves for Chicago.

C. Graham Baker, formerly associate executive for Warner-First National, will shortly be associated as a prominent figure with one of Hollywood's major producing organizations, it is reported.

Victor Schertzinger plans a two weeks' vacation in the High Sierras.

Al DeMonde, prominent scenar-ist and former Universal associate producer hearkened to the call of the "Fourth Estate" recently. DeMonde covered a local murder trial for a leading newspaper syndicate.

Lois Moran has been engaged by Columbia for "The Men in Her Life.

The new Wampus baby stars will make their bow to the world on the

Sidney Lust Lauds Washington Film As Goodwill Builder for Industry

Washington Bureau of THE FILM DAILY—Declaring that the George Washington Bi-Centennial film to be made by Warner Bros., with the sponsorship of the Chamber of Commerce of Washington offers a grand opportunity to build goodwill with the Government and the nation as a whole, Sidney Lust, head of the Lust theaters, urges exhibitors everywhere to get behind this project and make the most of it. When the idea for the Bi-Centennial was first reached, a committee consisting of Lust and A. Julian Brylawski went to New York and induced Warner Bros. to undertake the making of the film.

Plans for the scenario are now under way. Jacob Wilk, in charge of the Warner scenario department, has been here and approved some of the ideas submitted in a contest. Work on the picture is expected to start within the next few weeks.

YOUNG AS YOU FEEL

Excellent Business . . . .

Laughs fall thick and fast. There is something irresistible about the combination of the philosophizing cowboy and the hot-cha mamma. — Chicago Herald and Examiner

Rogers funnier than ever. It's a riot. — Chicago Daily Times

Rogers is a delight, a man one never sees enough of. 100 per cent entertainment. Fifi Dorsay makes enchanting hey hey as Fleurette. — Chicago Tribune

Best thing Rogers has done for the screen since "They Had to See Paris." It MOVES . . . Amusing offering the whole family will enjoy. — Chicago Evening American

TRANSATLANTIC

Drew Out the Crowds . . . .

An unusual and an entertaining film, so cleverly directed that your interest doesn't lag a moment. Lowe gives a grand performance . . . Splendidly acted — there's some unusual and impressionistic photography, and the ship scenes furnish an interesting background. You'll enjoy this for there's the flavor of the "different" about it. Excellent film. — Chicago Daily Times

"Transatlantic" may place Howard among 1931's best . . . A photoplay of exceptional brilliance. We feel sure critics will have a hard time eliminating it in compiling their selections of 1931's best offerings. Produced with a masterly touch . . . Director never loses the human element . . . The acting is well nigh flawless. — Chicago American

4 FOX smash hits for
MERELY MARY ANN

"Another 'Daddy Long Legs' in popular appeal. It is very rare for a star to have such good luck in two consecutive roles as has be-fallen Janet Gaynor, and her popularity rating should take a big jump ... In fact 'Merely Mary Ann' is just about all right in every particular. It should be even more popular than 'Daddy Long Legs.' It is the kind of picture which makes the great majority of the public faithful movie fans." —Chicago Evening Post

"Here are Charles Farrell and Janet Gaynor in the romantic Cinderella story that their fans cry for." —Chicago Daily Tribune

"'Merely Mary Ann' should make itself a lot of money in the loop and outlying houses." —Chicago Daily News

To be followed by
BAD GIRL

"One of the best of the year. It has the cleverest dialog, the most inspired direction, great acting and a most human, compelling little yarn ... James Dunn gives a remarkable performance ... It is great entertainment. A Grade A film." —New York Daily Mirror

"Rates 4 stars ... Under impressive direction the cast give splendid representations of the principal characters in Vina Delmar's famous story." —New York Daily News

"Very moving and human. Direction is deft and effortless, full of fine shadings ... But it is the warm and human interpretations of Sally Eilers and James Dunn that give the film its real distinction. Splendid picture." —New York World-Telegram

"It is not every day that the movies give us anything as genuine as 'Bad Girl' ... Rings true to life. It is difficult to imagine how the screen version could have been improved ... Dialog is fresh, sparkling and true ... Humor without cheapness, laugh in almost every line, even in the most pathetic scenes ... It is good, fine and sincere, without a false note in it ... Splendidly acted by James Dunn ... For 'Bad Girl' we have nothing but cheers." —New York Sun
DICK WILLIS, makeup expert at the Warner Vitaphone studio, has moved into larger quarters. Celuloid etchings, the work of his brother, Jack, will soon adorn the walls.

Georges Metzaza, who appears with Claudette Colbert in "Secrets of a Secretary," owns a pin that he values more than any of his other possessions. It was presented to him by Lord Lonsdale when Metzaza sang at his wedding anniversary party, in the presence of the King and Queen of England.

Stanley Rauh is hard at work adapting the Pennod stories, by Booth Tarkington, into 15 single reels for Warner Bros.

Final photographing of scenes for "The Struggle," David Wark Griffith's forthcoming picture, was concluded Friday, with pedestrians in various incorporated sections of New York acting as a traffic light at an intersection of two East side thoroughfares. Cameras were set up and upon roofs on several sides of the crossing, were masked with curtains and otherwise hidden, and the direction of actors was by signals given from a third-story window.

Griffith will spend a month or more in the processes of editing and cutting his picture, which is destined for release in the latter part of October. "The Struggle" is based on an original story by John Emerson and Anita Loos. Hal Scilly and Zita Johann have the chief roles.

Ruth Etting, who has worked in a number of Vitaphone shorts, is receiving plenty of fan mail, much to the gratification of the studio personnel.

"The Sea Ghost," authored by Burnet Hershey, Vitaphone studio staff writer, will soon be released by an independent company.

Cameramen at the Vitaphone studio are suffering from household's knee. While shooting "Snakes Alive!" the first of the Booth Tarkington Juvenile shorts, the camera boys had to shoot while stretched out full length on the floor in order to follow the movements of the kid players.

Jack Carroll, a member of the Paramount New York studio music department, is drafted for picture work in almost every sequence demanded of the services of a talented pianist. His latest seven appearance is in "Secrets of a Secretary.

Robert (Believe It or Not) Ripley was the big attraction at the Vitaphone studio yesterday, where they have started his first of his new series.

Ann Andrews, prominent stage actress, has been signed by Paramount through the William Morris office to play Tallulah Bankhead in "The Cheat.

Fanny Watson and Thelma White are again at work at the Vitaphone studios on another of the series of two-reel comedies. The present subject is titled "Of All People."

Repeats for "The Common Law"

"The Common Law" is playing repeat dates in two Connecticut cities. Having scored at the St. James, Waterbury, it now goes into the Strand and follows from the Palace in South Norwalk to the Rialto.

menting on a communication said to have been received by the association from a large distributing company stating flatly that it is not interested in selling to theater chains as it is a large distributor.

A ten-cent grind policy in normal times may tend to cheapen the business in some localities, but motion pictures attained their present greatness as the people's entertainment, and to take the pictures out of the reach of the people in time of industrial depression and unemployment is economic folly," says Myers.

"A serious consequence of the present selling policies of certain distributors is that, having sold to first run in a given locality on a high percentage basis, their interest in that locality narrows down to protecting the first run."

"This has resulted in unreasonable protection both as regards time and distance, in requirements that subsequent runs raise their admission prices, and in downright refusals to sell to the subsequent run."

George Davis is now manager of the Fox Ambassador in Brooklyn, succeeding Irving Berman, who has been shifted to the Alba.

J. J. Breslin, formerly manager of the Jefferson, Auburn, has been transferred by Fox Theaters to the Utica in Utica. He is succeeded in Auburn by C. J. Rose, former manager of the Colonial, Norwich.

J. L. Rose has been shifted from the Rialto, Little Falls, to the Norwich house, and is succeeded in Little Falls by T. E. Hall.

U ADDS 14 FEATURES TO NEW SEASON LINEUP

(Continued from Page 1) and the replacing of baby-faced "O Promise Me." Seven pictures have been completed, with the Tom Mix pictures scheduled to start production Oct. 15, at the close of Mix's circus engagements. Five dramas are in production at Universal City's "The Rue Morgue" ready for production within the next two weeks.

REVIVALS ABANDONED
AS A DEFINITE FLOP

Two weeks of revivals of the best Warner-First National hits of the past two seasons, with a change of bill daily, is dropping the policy after one week. The Rialto also is scheduled to resume its first-run status shortly after a summer's poor business with old Paramount and United Artists releases. Another classic revival flop was the recent showing of "Sunny Side Up" at the Roxy.

inventories and accounts receivable of the radio and record division shown in the Feb. 28 statement. For the first time in the history of the company earnings available for all interest, including the interest requirements on the Optional 6 per cent Convertible Debentures, series due 1959, after deducting all charges including the write-down of $3,073,968.53, but before amortization and depletion of fixed properties, was $8,215,993.42, equivalent to over 1.62 times the consolidated interest charges.

During the quarter ended May 30, a special charge-off amounting to $2,073,230.21 was made to Surplus Account to write-down the plant and equipment of the radio and record divisions. The consolidated balance sheet, as of May 30, shows a current ratio of over 1.94 to 1. Total current assets were $30,957,012 as compared with total current liabilities of $15,960,639.63. Cash on hand amounted to $4,013,841.71, while notes payable were $2,051,680.84.

Harry M. Warner, president of the company, stated: "The company today has no bank loans and cash on hand is more than sufficient to meet the requirements for the interest on the Debentures and the dividend on the preferred stock payable Sept. 1. On July 16, the company deposited with the Trustee a principal amount of Option- al 6 per cent Convertible Debentures, series due 1959, in satisfaction of the annual purchase requirements due August 1, 1931. While the operations for the quarter ending Aug. 29 will result in a loss, there has been a notable pick-up in business during the past few weeks and the outlook for the coming year is encouraging.

The consolidated statement shows total assets of $221,120,548.49 as of Aug. 29, as against $250,185,444.49 on Aug. 30, 1930.

By RALPH WILK

Hollywood

GENIAL JOE SHERMAN, M-G-M publicist, and Mary Doran, former M-G-M actress, stole a march on their friends by being married in San Diego. Howard Strickling acted as best man.

By the way, Sherman was an attorney before entering newspaper publicity work. He is also a first president of the Wampas and co-author of an original, "Through the Window," which is now being produced by Paramount. His bride, who is free-lancing, appeared in several Ziegfeld productions before coming to the Coast.

Mrs. George Gale Bakewell has been appointed secretary of the Motion Picture Relief Fund of America, succeeding A. W. Stockman.

Our Passing Show: Leo Carrillo, Murray Smith, Fran Orsatti, Jack Linn at J. P. Medbury's party in honor of Oscar Strauss; Leo Morris motioning to Culver City on business.

If the plans of Wallace Smith are carried out this fall, the scenarist and Mrs. Smith will journey to Labrador for two months' excursion, his purpose is to accumulate material and some exterior shots for an original story dealing with the picturesque people there and their range existence.

Fred Walton, English character actor and former star of the London and New York musical stages, plays a comedy role as the butler of "The Big Gamble," Bill Boyd's new KO Pathé starring picture.

Here and There: Rowland Brown returning from a trip to San Francisco; Max Shagrin hurrying to his office in the Warner Bros. theatre building; Murray Fell motoring on Vine St.

Joe Bonomo is all smiles these days. The athletic actor recently became the father of a baby girl, his first born.

William Goodrich has placed in production the second in the new Educational-Cameo Comedies, with Al St. John, Lynott Brent, Audrey Ferris and Stanley Blystone in the principal comedy roles.

Llewellyn Miller reports that John LeRoy Johnson, Universal studio publicity chief, is the only press agent that does not smoke and that he stopped smoking when he was ten. We met him ten years later, when he was a sports cartoonist on the St. Paul Daily News and was covering an interscholastic track meet at the University of Minnesota.

Harry Hellingsworth and Bradley Knowe have been added to Radio's "Are These Our Children?"

"The Freshman's Finish" has been selected as the title of the first Varsity Comedy on Educational's 1931-32 program. Shooting has just been completed with Vernon Dent, Jack Duffy, Ronnie Rondell, Helen Mann, Carlyle Moore, Jr., and Sally Sweet in the cast.

Richard Harlan, who directed foreign versions at Fox for a year, has joined Universal and is organizing a Spanish department. Universal is planning to make Spanish versions of several of its important pictures.

Harry Lieb, veteran film editor, is cutting "Twenty Grand," Universal. He also did the editing on "Homicide Squad" and "Ex-Rad Baby."

Dorothy Tree, the original younger sister in "Holiday," has been cast to appear as Ruth Chatterton's daughter in "Once a Lady," which is being directed by Guthrie McClintic at Paramount.

George Barbier, who attracted much attention in "The Smiling Lieutenant," is busy, to say the least. He has been appearing in "Touchdown," for Paramount, and is also working in "Girls About Town," at the same studio.

Ronen Mamonian, who directed "City Streets" and "Applause," is completing his cast for "Dr. Jekyll and Mr. Hyde." Fredric March, Miriam Hopkins and Rose Hobart head the cast.

Florence Ryerson is busily engaged getting her Tiffany story, "X Marks the Spot," into shape for shooting.

Conchita Montenegro will be the new heart interest for Edmund Lowe and Victor McLaglen in " Disorderly Conduct," Fox picture. El Brendel also has a featured part.

PUBLIX DROPS LOCALIZED FILM BUYING

Radio Moves Up Strongest Features on New Program

Stars and other things — BY JACK ALICOATE

We hate to be eome personal, but we do sometimes wonder if the old pubic is being fed up. We are, with seeing the same old movies in the same old way. We have seen Connie Bennett romantically betrayed so many times that we have lost all sympathy for her, and are commencing to discount her as just a lady wolf in sheep's clothing. How that film agent, Ralph Ince, manages to talk on the screen after bein to the hoosegow in so many deouts is nobody's business. Edie Lowe has kidded so many gals to going the way of all flesh that we would think, by this time, they knew to leave, even on the screen. Once, at that, Mackan, Schub-erg, Mayer, Warner, Goldwyn, John, LeBaron & Co., know more than we do about the matter, anyway, so let's let it drop.

The labor situation, brought to a head in Chicago, is but one of many now menancing throughout the country. In the other hand, in many cities, the labor question has been ad ted to the satisfaction of all by combination of cool heads and cooperative analysis. That this industry must be thoroughly liquidated, along with business and industry in general, is but basic economics. That labor, in view of the greater purchasing power of the dollar, should have in this combination, is a question so open and controversial as to have the attention of none less than President Hoover. The situation, obviously is irritating, but, like other matters of the sort, can and should be worked out in the spirit of understanding and co-operation from both sides.

Holding of the next convention of the M.P.T.O.A. in February and making it a big get-together meeting commemorative of the 200th anniversary of the birth of George Washington is advocated by M. E. Comerford and other officials of the national organization. "The convention," says Comerford, "should be held at a place where the great force of our screen power will be expressed best in the work of advancing and developing all lines of action which will help government and people most."

"We are now in the midst of a financial, industrial and business condition, which needs adjusting. This will be done in an American way by American minds and hands and our Theaters can give any plans adopted much force and effect."

Action Pictures Lineup For State Right Market

The 24 features planned by Action Pictures will be sold on state right market. In the New York territory the product will be handled by Action Pictures exclusive exchange which has changed its name from Aywon. The Coast territory will be handled by All-Star, and in Boston, Century Films will represent Action.

Cliff Broughton of Action left New York yesterday for the Coast to start production on the company's second picture, "Chinatown After Dark."

F. L. Granville Completing Production Arrangements

Production arrangements for the Multicolor jungle feature to be made by Fred Leroy Granville in association with Capt. Norman Franklin will be completed following the arrival of Granville in Hollywood next week. The expedition to the far east will get under way next month. Granville, at one time with Universal, is now an independent producer in England. He recently sold "Cattivation," British feature with Conway Tearle, to Capitol Productions for distribution throughout the U. S.

By RALPH WILK

HOLLYWOOD

SAMUEL L. ZIERLER has decided that "Race Track" as the next vehicle for his star Leo Carrillo, will follow-up to the James Cagney production, "Hell Bound." Douglas Day, who adapted "Laughter," will do the adaptation of "Race Track," which is a story by Wells Root.

Dwight Frye has been added by Universal to the cast of "Frankenstein."

Marilyn Miller returns to Hollywood this week from Santa Barbara, where she has been recuperating from her recent illness. She is to begin work next month in "Her Majesty, Love," at First National.

Inez Seabury, Eddie Gribbon, Edward LeSaint and three Oriental leading women will appear with Slim Summerville in his new Universal comedy of the marine corps, "Peeking in Pekin."

"The Nevada Buckaroo," second in Tiffany's new series of ten Bob Steele westerns, has been completed, according to announcement by Trem Carr, who is making the series. Supporting the cowboy star in this action drama are Dorothy Dixon, Ed Brady, George Hayes, Glen Cavender and Billy Engle. J. P. McCarthy directed.

Every male star and player on the RKO Pathe feature contract list except Eddie Quillan has been placed in the cast of "Suicide B". Bill Boyd heads the array of contract talent in the starring role. He is supported by Robert Armstrong, James Gleason, Harry Holleeder and the late William Tom Keene. Quillan is busy on a new starring vehicle of his own.

Sarah Padden will support Elissa Landi in Fox's "Wicked," directed by Raoul Walsh.

Two actors and two directors wind up their M-G-M association next month. They are: four Novello, who will be replaced on one of the "Lonesome" series; S. Herbert Braggiotti, foreign actor, and directors Zion Myers and Jules White.

Richard Boleslavsky, Radio Pictures' director, has returned to Hollywood after a three weeks' vacation in the High Sierras.

Frances Dade will be seen in "Range Law," a new Ken Maynard western, which is now in the process of editing at Tiffany.

"The Thirteenth Chair," original by Louis Sarecky, associate producer at the Radio Pictures studio, will be moved up a month on schedule. Production has been set for Sept. 1. The cast includes Ricardo Cortez, Robert Ames, Rosco Ates, Kitty Kelly, Joseph Cawthorn and Ned Sparks.

ALONG THE RIALTO

with PHIL DAILY

- - - THERE MAY BE a tipoff for big film producers in the goings-on at the Palace the last five weeks. Word vaudeville, the former and distinguished owner of the Amusement Family, has been staging a comeback with the customers blocking the sidewalks north and south as they rush right past the picture houses which are supposed to have it. All over a vaude show excuse us while we laff creely behind our typesetting machine figure it out the same identical bill held over in its entirety for five Smash Weeks. Have pix pulled on the public? is the cycle swinging back to flesh shows? nunno that ain’t the answer, dear constituents. the Palace is giving the green light. 아마 diversified not only in the types of gorgeous comedy and goofy cut-up nonsense but also in the NUMBER of entertainers supplying same. and THAT is the I’I secret of the 20th Century where they make for any showman’s eyes give yourself a treat . . . walk past the Palace front any afternoon or eve and then try and squawk that this Depression thing has hit the amusement industry most deeply. The only depression that has hit the film end of amusements is in the minds of the ginks makin’ pix who haven’t sensed that in times of financial stress folks want to laugh uproariously to forget their troubles to be amused amusingly. . . . they want carefree entertainment the reckless, flighty, jolly hoopla kind that wipes the furrows from their brows and makes them forget financial worries. . . . that’s exactly what the Palace is supplyin’ to great big Gobs.

- - - The ENTIRE bill is an invitation to the careworn public to kick aside Oie Man Trouble to come in for two hours and laughl’mselves silly at the vastly amusing antics of Lou Holtz and Billy Gaxton and the dazzling array of other talent. . . . the show whizzes along at dizzy comic pace without a single setup and mebbe if the Great Minds in the Hollerder studes could lay aside their self-complacency long enough to hark to a tip this Palace show might supply the answer. . . . mercy pix by lining up a half dozen Real Comics in each production and let ’em run wild. . . . as long as they continue FUNNY gagwrones, there are enough funny gents in Hollerder kickin’ out their shoes tryin’ to bust into casting offices. . . . but then they tell us that the Calls for-nigh-ay sunshine has been so fierce this year . . . that it has frizzled and dried up most of the brains in the soft-nosed gummers and those with hard consks ain’t got any gray matter to shrivel up anyway. have to wotch-ell.

- - - REMEMBER US tellin’ you about Frank Buck shooting the “Bring Em Back Alive” series for Van Beuren in the Singapore wilds . . . and that Frank was out to get shots of the Stadang . . . the most ferocious wild beast known to big game hunters which has never been photographed. Because the beast charges so fast and is so terrifying in appearance that no goop with a camera ever stood to snap one . . . well, Frank got his photographs of the stadang, all right . . . but he was severely gored doing it. He’s almost cached in. . . . in the day’s work of a free lance producer tryin’ to bring a few thrills to us jaded city dwellers.

- - - LETTER FROM a brand new bootlegger, sez “There is a time in everybody’s life when a little stimulant is not only necessary but beneficial and pleasing . . . Pay-Day for Independents

By DON GILLETTE

A T NO TIME in motion picture history has the independent been the subject of more discussion and acclaim than in the past year.

In the reversion from massed activity to small unit production that is now under way, the individual with ideas, originality, showman's sense and enterprise is on the threshold of some of the best opportunities in a decade.

DIVERSITY OF STARS
IN MONOGRAM'S LIST

New stars for each succeeding picture, and stories of action and intense heart-interest, will form the entertainment value of the 28 features on the 1931-32 Monogram release program according to W. Ray Johnston, president. "There is no question in our minds as to the sort of picture the theatergoers of this country want," said Johnston. "Popular themes, away from sophistication, with plenty of action, is the correct formula."

Numerous Contract Suits
Hinge on Northwest Case

Minneapolis — Numerous contract suits hinge on the outcome of case now under way in which M-G-M is suing George Carisch, owner of the Mohawk, St. Paul, over films bought under the old contract. The Northwest Allied is behind the exhibitor. Carisch's defense, that the contract is illegal because it violates the antitrust laws, is unenforceable because of lack of mutual obligation on the part of those who entered into it, has been upheld by Judge Clyde R. White in the District Court here, thereby giving Allied the first round. M-G-M is expected to fight Judge White's ruling.

WEISS BROS. LINE UP
PRETENTIOUS PROGRAM

With 23 features set for the 1931-32 release, Weiss Brothers has lined up the most pretentious production and release schedule ever announced by Artclass Pictures. The program consists of three independent productions, three other independent produced pictures and eight Westerns.

15 "Musical Reves"
Added to Imperial List

Fifteen "Musical Reves" have been added to the Imperial Distributing Corp. line-up for the current season. Part of the "Port Of Call" series of 26 releases have played the Capitol on Broadway and have been booked over the entire Iowa Circuit. " Ubangi," the six feature which played the Roxie and Cameo will be Imperial’s feature release for the season with the addition of "The Blonde Cynical," an Australian expedition picture, received from the Antipodes.

Variety for Talmadge

Variety is to be the keynote of the group of six features being produced by Richard Talmadge for its new season, "Scareheads," under way, is a newspaper story which will be followed by a monarch, a railroad and a sea story, Dick Talmadge will do his thing in all of them.

NIGHT LIFE IN RENO—Artclass production, distributed in the Metropolitan area by First Division Exchanges, Inc., running 72 minutes, directed by Ray Cannon from an original story by Arthur Hoerl who also adapted and dialogued it. Film editors were Don Hayes and Martha Dresback. Well known screen names are the principals in the cast, as follows—Virginia Valli, Jameson Thomas, Dixie Lee, Dorothy Christy, Carmelita Geraghty, Arthur Housman, Pat O'Malley and Clarence Wilson. Reno is very much in the public eye lately, and therefore this film is topical and should bring them in if exploited properly. It will assuredly pleasantly entertain almost any class of audience. When the Los Angeles wife discovers that her husband is consorting with her close girl friend she promptly jumps to Reno. The typical shyster lawyer is there to take her case. The husband follows her to prevent her from getting a divorce. He meets a wealthy rounder and accompanies him to meet two girls in a social way. One of the girls happens to be friend wife. Plenty of comedy situations to enliven this one. And then there are many tense situations and drama enough to more than satisfy the lovers of melodrama. When the rounder's wife is murdered the heroine is accused. A very good picture.

Harry Thomas Optimistic

In order to differentiate between the sophistication of "type" attractions, Harry H. Thomas, head of the Thomas Pictures has named the 46 features to be distributed by First Division as "every旅客 attractions." Each feature will be independently exploited by men covering cities throughout the country.

"First Division is entering its biggest year," said Thomas. "Every one of its releases has been booked 100 per cent to the circuit in advance. With the meritorious attraction that is possible to buy and control, he enjoys the exhibitor with pictures for the masses."

FILM FOLK MORE KEEN FOR RAINY DAY FUNDS

In the motion picture field, where actors and actresses are the in the past virtually made fortunes overnight and then let their vast earnings slip through their fingers before making personal trust agreements. Now, today more widely than ever before for the preservation and personal estates, a trust officer of a leading New York trust institution told the New York American that at the present time, a majority of the leading motion picture screen performers have set up personal trust agreements in one form or another.

One of the common practices among high-salaried motion picture performers today, a trust officer pointed out, is to have part of his or her salary sent directly to a trust company or bank for deposit under a personal trust agreement. An actor, for instance, who is making $3,000 or $4,000 a week, sends $2,500 a week to a trust institution to cover the remainder for his personal expenses and current needs. Other film performers accumulate their salary checks in bank until they have a sizable amount, then set up personal trusts, either revocable, or irrevocable, for the benefit of their families.

The motion picture people seem to be sounder business folks than people, trust officers' trust men attribute this generally to the fact that motion picture artists have personal lawyers to handle their contracts and other legal matters, and that the advice and counsel received by them is usually sound advice and counsel.

CHESTERFIELD COMPLETES HALF OF 1931-32 GROUP

Six features, all action pictures with star casts, have been scheduled by George R. Batchelder, president of Chesterfield, for 1931-32 releases through Tim Newton's "Devil's Vice Specialty," with Glenn Tryon, Myrna Kennedy, Phillips Smalley, Mary Carr, Jimmy Aubrey, Tom O'Brien, directed by Richard Thorpe; "The Lawless Woman," with Carol Nye, Vera Reynolds, Thomas Jackson, Wheeler Oakman, Jim Burst, Glen Lee, Phillips Smalley directed by Richard Thorpe; "Red Lady From Nowhere," with Bob Day, Barbee Barbara, Burtis, Phillips Smalley, Jimmy Burtis, directed by Richard Thorpe. The fourth picture has just completed its initial preparation and is in production. Richard Thorpe will direct the two remaining productions currently, "Half to Juanita," "Into the Flames."

FOUR FAVORITE CASES PENDING IN N. Y. COURT

Five copyright violation cases are now pending in Federal Court in New York City. Educational M-G-M and Universal, with associated companies, have suits pending against the American theater Canarsee, operated by Louis Scala. M-G-M has a similar suit pending against T. A. Amuse Corp., which runs the Amer Movies. Educational has instituted a copyright action against the house. Cases will be held in October.

Third Fairy-Tale Film Being Started by Uni

"Through the Looking-glass" is the third fairy-tale feature selected for production by Uni-Foto Film, of which Hugo F. Maienthurn is president. "Ali' Wonderland," first of the series has been completed by Bud Po, who directed at the Metrop studios. "Rip Van Winkle" is of the series, is now in preparation. Maienthurn expects non-theatrical sales to equal the regular theater sales in as much as the films are being made on 16 mm, in addition to standard size, and being exploited throughout the country as live shows for schools, churches and educational and institutions.

AMKINO WILL DISTRIBUTE
30 SOVIET PRODUCTIONS

Out of the entire output of motion pictures to be produced this year in Soviet Russia, 30 have been selected for American release by L. I. Monosson, president of the Amkino Corp. The number is eight more than that handled in past years and is due to the increasing popularity of Russian features of an entirely different make-up than American or other foreign productions, according to Monosson. The films have been selected from the whole production output of 12 motion picture companies in Soviet Russia. Among the films already set for release are: "The Quiet Don," "The Road to Life," "Soll Thirsty," "A Jew at War," "A Son of the Land," "The Black Sea Mutiny," "Alone," "Tommy," "The Dead House," "The Mechanical Traitor," "In the Far East," "Struggles of Life" (talk in English), "The Five-Year Plan: Russia's Remaking" (talk in English) and a number of sound short subjects and cartoons.

"All Quiet" for French Children: Paris—In its efforts to provide films for school children, Pathé-Nathan screen "All Quiet on the Western Front" for a specially invited audience of children at the Moulin Rouge. Well known educators were present to study the reaction of the children to the film.

HAVING passed-up "gangster themes" from the start and only touched lightly and appreciatively on the "sophisticated" type dramas, independent producers seemingly have bided their time to bring forth, in more or less of an indus- trium blast, what many claim to be the solution of the better-motion-picture-business question. With the independent schedule made up entirely of action pictures, melodramas and western dramas, the theory upon which the majority of these producers have based their selections, is the public's never-wan- ning relish of "down to real life" in fact or fiction.

Were it not for a sense of absolute confidence in their belief of what the public wants, independent producers would not now be smiling behind their press books at the dismal failure of the "other kind" of features that have attempted to hold up summer business, letting the other fellow spend huge sums of money on lavish but meaningless productions was their privilege, of which they took advantage.

More independent producers have sprung up during the past few months than have started during any one previous year. Every independent producing company has increased its schedule and many are daily adding to their original line-up. Independents who never before sent out publicity or explota- tion (except what was badly written by the president or sales manager) are engaging publicity and advertising men either on part or whole time. Press books of diverse colors adorn the desks of the executives. Tie-ups with na- tional advertisers have been and are being worked out and good salesmen who have breezed through the politics of every large distributing company are finding a haven and security) under the wings of the independents.

The genuine optimism of the industry is in the hearts and minds of the independents. Every picture does not necessarily have to be a "knock-out" nor does each employee have to rave over the newest production in order to remain in good faith. It will undoubtedly be a banner year for independent pictures and very possibly the first of many.

to the acceptance of stories of action, melodramatic value and intense short-interest. Monogram's line-up provides 28 of the most fast-moving of these and Cliff Broughton of Action Pictures has now en route to the Coast to super- vise production of more than a score of fast-moving dramas. Richard Talmadge will turn out six action productions. Big Four has an- nounced 18 westerns and eight melodramas, all of the "hard-riding, tear-jerking" kind. Peerless Productions is planning 24, Louis Weiss of Artclass has scheduled a program of 23 independent westerns, and westerns, and others such as Harry H. Thomas of First Division and George R. Batcheller of Chesterfield are carrying on along like lines.

With sales contracts showing an average of 30 per cent over written business for the same period last year, independent producers look for a like percentage of actual sales for the entire season, according to the president of a representative inde- pendent producing company.

50% QUOTA SENTIMENT
GROWING IN ENGLAND

London—Opinion is gaining ground in England that a 50 per cent quota policy will be the best interests of British producers and distributors. Many profess to see a favorable outcome of the project if the F.B.I. and T.U. agree as to the necessity of such a quota. This would give British exhibitors 200 British-made pictures and 200 American-made films year, and keep some $10,000,000 now spent abroad in the United Kingdom. Already more than 12 British distributors have been announced for next year.

Indipendents Facing Their Greatest Opportunity

By M. H. HOFFMAN

This year marks the start of the latest opportunity independent producers have ever had.Existing dependent exchanges everywhere are looking at wide open where the old ones are not wide awake.

Major producing and distributing companies have their doors wide open for worth-while product, and not only independent theaters, but other theaters as well are ready to look box-office pictures regardless who makes them.

Yet, this is nothing new. It's the same old story. The public doesn't care who makes a good picture, and the exhibitor cannot afford to miss paying the public.

Pay-Day for Independents

are holler for the indie output because it is the action type of entertainment which their patrons refer to the sophisticated and over-hyped pictures that have been coming out in overdose quantities.

The foreign field, likewise, is clamoring for the fast drama which meet the understanding of a wide range of peoples.

SO THE CHANCES for an independent to realize on his investment not only are exceptionally good, but he can afford to spend enough money on his productions to make them stand up favorably alongside the efforts of the bigger companies.

In this the indie is helped by the ample supply of stars, featured players and expert technical staffs now available to him.

And in addition to the eagerness shown by big distributors in grabbing up any good indie product, the country's independent exchanges themselves are now spotted and manned to obtain the most thorough coverage.

SIX COLUMBIA STAGES
WORKING AT CAPACITY

Production activity at Columbia is practically on a capacity basis, with four pictures shooting and two more scheduled to begin any day.

"Revolt" is the latest feature to start. Constance Cummings, Leo Carrillo, Leslie Fenton, Boris Karloff and Emma Dunn are in the cast. Rowland V. Lee is directing from a script prepared by Jack Cunningham.

Current production also includes "Callagher," temporary title for a newspaper story, with Loretta Young, Robert Williams, Joan Harlow, Reginald Owen, Louise Clopper Hale, Edmund Breese and Walter Catlett. Frank Capra is directing.

The latest Jack Holt-Ralph Graves co-starring story, under the working title "The Ghost Walks," is nearing completion. Sally Blane is featured, with Edward Sedgwick directing.

The Buck Jones Western, "The Deadline," is just finishing and the company will return from location shortly. Loretta Sayers plays opposite Buck.

"Men in Her Life" will start production within the week. William Beaudine will direct. A Tim McCoy western, "Gamblers' Gun," starts within the next few days.

The "Mickey Mouse" cartoons, Bryan Foy's "Monkey Shines," Winkler's "Krazy-Kat" series and Charles Minta's "Scrappy," also are all in active production.

Mickey Mouse
again shares honors with Will Rogers
this time in
"YOUNG AS YOU FEEL"

Something in a Name
June MacCloy was born on June 2. Her first screen role was in "June Moon." The title of her first Gay Girls comedy for RKO Path was "June First." She completed her part with Bill Boyd in "The Big Parade," her first feature role under her current RKO Path contract, on June 4.

Steady Production
Maintained at Pathé

With two features before the cameras, five in preparation and five in the cutting rooms being edited for release, activity at the RKO Pathé studios is following the steady schedule. Nine of the 30 features have been completed so far. Three of these are dramas, of which there will be 12, and six are westerns in the group of 18.

Tiffani's schedule on production is running at an average of 35 percent ahead of the plans set at the recent convention. Nine of the 30 features have been completed so far, three of these are dramas, of which there will be 12, and six are westerns in the group of 18.

Next "Bill and Andy" Picture
"Oklahoma Jim" has been selected as the title for the third of the series of Monogram's "Bill and Andy" westerns. Director Harry Fraser is working on the story and expects to complete it in a few days. The first two of this series, starring Bill Cody and little Andy Shuford, were "Dugan of the Badlands" and "The Montana Kid."

5 "Ghost Town" Shorts Lined Up
Among the subjects that will be made in the "Ghost Town" series being produced by Argus-Lancaster will be "Ghosts of Ramona," "Ghosts of Kit Carson," "Ghosts of Captain Kidd," "Ghosts of Nevada," and "Ghosts of Bret Harte."

Universal Title Changes
Some title changes have been effected in Universal's short product. Slim Summerville's third Marine comedy, known in the studio as "Some Do and Some Don't," was changed to "Bless the Ladies," while "Changes of the Love Story," "The Vollisimo Case," which featured Lina Basquette, James Murray and Stanley Fields, was changed to "Tapped." "Trapped" is the sequel of the Shadow-Detective Magazine feature article.

Cast for Tom Tyler Film
Members of the supporting cast for "The Man from Death Valley," Monogram western featuring Tom Tyler, are announced by Trem Carr. Players selected by Charles A. Post, production manager, are Betty Mack, John Oscar, Gino Crallo, Stanley Blystone and J. J. Jenks. Lloyd Nober will direct from a story by Paul McVeey.

Production at Tiffany
Well Ahead of Schedule

Tiffany's schedule on production is running at an average of 35 percent ahead of the plans set at the recent convention. Nine of the 30 features have been completed so far, three of these are dramas, of which there will be 12, and six are westerns in the group of 18.

Five Being Prepared
by United Artist

Five new vehicles are currently in preparation at United Artist. They include "Queer People," "Skylark," "Searce," "Arrowsmith" and "Cock of the Air." In addition "Corra" and "The Greeks Had Name for It" are in work.

Powell Starting Second
William Powell starts rehearsals this week of "Divorce Detective," his second starring vehicle for Warner Bros.
A LITTLE from "LOTS"

By RALPH WILK

HOLLYWOOD

CLARK GABLE has been given the male lead opposite Joan Crawford in "The Mirage," a picturization of Edgar Selwyn's play of the same name, to be directed by Clarence Brown.

Regis Toomey's plans for a vacation have been changed as a result of the Paramount featured player bag assigned to a role in Ruth Chatterton's new picture, "Once a Lady." He was also cast for a part in "Touchdown." Toomey will share the supporting honors with Inez Figge and Charlie Ruggles also have been selected for future roles in this picture, which Loyd Corrigan will direct.

Virginia Bruce, one of the blonde cow girls selected by Florenz Ziegfeld in Hollywood and taken East to make Chicago pictures, has been signed by M-G-M.

Samuel Zierler, president of James Cune Productions, has made arrangements whereby the entire facilities of the Auga Caliente Race track and Jockey Club, will be used at the disposal of the unit making "Racetrack," new Tiffany production starring Leo Carrillo.

Harry Cribbin has one of the leading roles in support of Benny Rubin's "Dumb Dick," RKO Pathé comedy. Ralph Ceder is directing.

Because of the lengthy and difficult shooting schedule on "Dr. Jekyll and Mr. Hyde," Robert Lee relinquished his position as a Paramount director return to the post of assistant director to Robert Mamoulian on his single production.

Ann Harding's next starring vehicle for RKO Pathé will be "Preg- ge," original by Harry Hervey, now being adapted by Graham John.

Norma Shearer and Robert Montgomery will appear together in "Private Lives," adapted from Noel Coward's stage play. Sidney Franklin will direct the picture for M-G-M.

Claire Maynard, New York model recently placed under contract by Fox and regarded as a "discovery," will make her professional debut in "Over the Hill." Edward Crandall and Ruth Donnelly also have been assigned principal parts in the picture.

Sally Blane has been signed for the feminine lead in Columbia's "The Ghost Walks." (tentative title), which is in production under the direction of Edward Sedgwick.

Sue Carol has been signed by Monogram to take the leading feminine role in "In Line of Duty," replacing Betty Bronson, previously announced and who it was found was unavailable in time to start this newest Monogram release. Noah Beery, James Murray and Frances McDonald complete the cast, with Bert Glennon directing. Story is by G. A. Durgam.

Ernest Wood and Ferdinand Muetter will be featured players in Fox's new Will Rogers picture, "Dullar Bill." Greta Nissen, Marguerite Churchill, Gustav Von Seyffertitz, Arnold Koff and Ted Alexander will play in support of Mr. Rogers. Sam Taylor will direct.

Gavin Gordon, Southerner, playing a principal role in Radio Pictures' "Secret Service," starring Richard Dix, doubled as an "accent teacher" the other day. Gordon used his time between scenes instructing Dix and Shirley Grey in the proper way to slum "r's." in the Southern manner.

Roland Young has been signed for a comedy role in Pola Negri's forthcoming RKO Pathe picture, "A Woman Commands.

Frances Agnew, one of the screen's leading scenarists since her script on "Are Parents People?" six years ago, arrived recently to rejoin Paramount's writing staff. She comes from New York where she has been doing special writing and scenario work for the past year.

Miss Agnew returns to the company with which she made her film debut. After some newspaper experiences in New York, she was representing the New York Morning Telegraph in Hollywood in 1925 when given the assignment on "Are Parents People?" Following this, she worked on "Marymaplin" and "The Golden Princess" for Paramount. Her other scripts include "The Perfect Spy," "Silk Legs," "The Rainbow Man," "Syncopation," "Soft Living," and "The Joy Girl.

"ACE" of Screen Daredevils in the 3rd. of his smashing "ACTION SIX" "SCAREHEADS"

The highest powered Newspaper melo-drama since "FRONT PAGE" the picture that mopped up RICHARD TALMADGE takes this space to congratulate Howard Hughes on the smashing success of his sensational newspaper melodrama "The Front Page."

Altho' "SCAREHEADS," — Talmadge's smash newspaper drama was scheduled for production long ago, Mr. Hughes beat us to it and we are glad he did for his great picture proved that millions of fans will pack thousands of theatres to see a great picture, depression or no depression.

"SCAREHEADS"—the 3rd of Talmadge's high powered "ACTION SIX" is Talmadge's best to date.

It gives the "Ace" of screen daredevils the big chance to do his stuff, not duplicated by any Star in pictures today.

Power, Speed, Action, and punch, describe "SCAREHEADS," and presents the famous "Dick" at his best, in the kind of a story and the kind of entertainment millions will applaud and hugely enjoy.

High powered advertising and exploitation backs up this latest Talmadge release.

Book, Boost and Clean up with TALMADGE'S ACTION SIX Theater Equipment

By M. P. Booth

Now is the Time To Check Up Heating Equipment for Winter

With cool weather just around the corner and winter not far behind it, J. H. Elder, director of maintenance for Publix suggests that managers of all theaters look to their heating equipment now so that this equipment will be ready for use as soon as cold weather sets in.

"It is very essential," says Elder, "that heating equipment in all theaters be checked, cleaned and any necessary repairs made prior to the next heating season. To do this work now will cost less than if we waited and made the necessary repairs just before or after putting the equipment in operation for the winter.

Below are a few items that should be checked in connection with your heating equipment:

- "Fire-places, ash pit, back connections and all oil-burning equipment should be thoroughly cleaned.
- "All boiler-brickwork, fire-brick, grates, sections, tubes, flanges or sections should be inspected, repaired or replaced where found necessary.
- "Dampers regulations, safety valves and gauges should be carefully checked, adjusted or replaced.
- "Gauge glasses should be cleaned and where necessary replaced.
- "Vertical or horizontal flues or chimneys, boiler sections and tubes, should be thoroughly cleaned, cleaned and replaced, and repaired, if possible.
- "All air leaks in horizontal or vertical flues should be properly sealed with cement or fire resisting material. (Leaks can be determined by the use of a candle light, as the leak will draw or blow the flame, thus indicating that a leak exists.)
- "Repair or replace all defective or leaking pipes, valves, radiators or other parts of such equipment. Re-pack all valves or hand-operated valves, radiators, pipe lines or boilers. Check all pumps and motors in connection with this equipment and see that they are thoroughly cleaned and in good condition.

In addition to these items, any necessary repairs should be made to the following: Thermostats, smoke detectors, fans, motors, and any other appliances that require maintenance.

“EAST OF BORNEO”
with Charles Bickford, Rose Hobart
Universal
Time, 74 mins.

A POP SMASH. SPECTACULAR MELODRAMA WILL WOOF EM’ WITH SEX, SENSE AND SMASHING THRILLS.

Here is a colorful Oriental jungle meller that has practically everything. Made frankly for the popular market, it is a highly trick of showmanship with prodigal profusion. It is a riot of colorful atmosphere and situations. It is delicately handled, weird and gripping situations, thrill upon thrill, suspense, and some of the most terrifying wild animals ever filmed. It is also another “Trader Horn” striking out into an entirely different treatment. A showman’s picture, it is a treat for the hearty ballyhoo. Briefly, the plot: Rose Hobart follows her husband, Charles Bickford, He is a cavalry officer in the service of Borneo. He has gone native acting as court physician to the sinister native Prince, played by Georges Marchand. The Prince tries to possess the girl. The husband fights for her safety. Then a succession of situations, both perilous and funny, to a smash climax. And wild animal shots of which alone would make this a hair-raiser of the first water.

Cast: Charles Bickford, Rose Hobart, Georges Marchand, Lupita Tovar, Noble Johnson.

Director, George Melford; Author, Dale Winton; Forgetful, Charles Bickford, Georges Marchand, Lupita Tovar, Noble Johnson.

Recording Engineer, Einar Register.

“THE GAY DIPLOMAT” with Ivan Lebedeff
Radio Pictures, 70 mins.

MECHANICAL AND SLOW MOVING STORY, WITH ARTIFICIAL TREATMENT AND ACTING.

The advance publicity given Ivan Lebedeff as the hero was a great building-up for a second Valentine, but it was a far from happy or propitious one. For Lebedeff is the direct antithesis of the great screen lover. He’s acting natural and mechanical. He fails to get over on the screen any sense of a vibrant personality—let alone a heart breaker who can make his power felt by the females in the audience. The theme has been poorly treated throughout. As a Russian captain, Lebedeff is sent on a diplomatic mission to uncover a female spy in Bucharest. Three women are suspected. He is to make love to all three, and endeavor to find the traitress among them. A great idea if it had been dramatized and developed properly. But they missed both ways. You can feel no sympathy for the three women and, especially, for a series of events that builds no real suspense and leaves you cold.

Cast: Ivan Lebedeff, Genevieve Tobin, Duval, Paddy Boland, James Coddington, Rita La Roy, Colin Campbell, Edward Marlowe.

“THE PARISIAN”
with Adolphe Menjou and Elissa Landi
Capital Pictures
Time, 63 mins.

DRAGGY COMEDY WITH TOO MUCH TALK AND TOO LITTLE FUN. MENJOU AND LANDI POORLY DIRECTED.

Made by Pathé-Natan in France, this English dialogue picture fails absolutely. It shows the absurdity of having no treatment or training for American audiences. Menjou lacks the pep and snap which are considered to be synonymous with his appearance, and Elissa Landi has been seen to much better advantage. Menjou plays the part of a Parisian gentleman-plier who married for the second time and who is surprised by the appearance of his nineteen-year-old son, by his former marriage. The boy tries to transform his father from a waxer to a businessman but with little success. Finally Menjou decides that he is too old for his young wife and that his son will be a more fitting companion for her, but it all works out peacefully. Too poorly. Sound recording is poor and the cast badly chosen for comedy work.

Cast: Adolphe Menjou, Roger Trevaly, Redgel, Williams, Campion, Elissa Landi, Renee Savoy, Valerie, Pauline Carton.

Director, Richard de Tirmon; Author, Remy de la Harpe; Forgetful, Adolphe Menjou, Roger Trevaly, Redgel, Williams, Campion, Elissa Landi, Renee Savoy, Valerie, Pauline Carton.

“SHOULD A DOCTOR TELL?”
Regal
Time, 52 mins.

INTERESTING THEME WITH BIG FEMALE APPEAL WELL HANDLED DIRECTION AND ACTING IN BRITISH PRODUCTION.

This is a very intelligent British production, treating a delicate theme bravely and successfully. The love affair that arises is a loud, but the love should have been switched in their roles, and it would have been better. A young English girl tells a doctor for medical treatment after being duped by a man who had inveigled her into a mock marriage. Later she marries the doctor’s son, also a physician. Then the problem arises between the doctor’s wife and the young wife—should a doctor tell? He decides to keep her secret, and stick to his professional ethics. Then a dramatic incident develops in the doctor’s life, with the doctor’s daughter learning that her fiancée is the man who spoiled the life of her brother’s wife. The cast is good, the direction is well handled, but the finish is not to be given a fine finish on a very worthy little picture.

“THE LAST FLIGHT”
First National
Time, 80 mins.

CHARMING FILM WITH ITS WHIMSICAL STORY OF WAR BUDDIES ADOPTING A GIRL. BARTHELMESS SCORES STRONG.

This will appeal to the feminine with its very pleasant sentimental story. Helen Chandler does well in the part of the naive girl who has never grown up, and is "adopted" by the two boys. The latter are American aviators whom the war has disillusioned, and, left with no interest in life or their comradeship and an enormous desire to drink themselves to death and have a good time. Then they meet the girl in a café, adopt her, and take her on a trip to Lisbon. Here a succession of incidents results in the death of two of the buddies, the disappearance of the third, leaving Barthelmeiss and the girl alone. They decide to complete the script in the right atmosphere and interest is charming, and the entire production well handled with a delious flavor. It is a clean and wholesome story, and just made for the family trade. Barthelmeiss handles his part admirably, as do the entire company cast.

Director, William Dieterle; Author, John Monk Saunders; Forgetful, Richard Barthelmeiss; Dialogue-same; Editor, Al Hall, Canneman, Sid Higginbottom.

Direction, good. Photography, okay.

“DAUGHTER OF THE DRAGG”
Paramount
Time, 70 mins.

W E ARE ENTERTAINED OR PEOPLED AND DRAGGY STORY. WRITTEN AND DIRECTED BY A MAN CHURCH.

The insidious Fu Manchu has been resurrected to continue vengeance upon the Petrie family, whom he blames for the murder of his own line in China. Before dies in an early reel, after kill Sir John Petrie, he compels daughter, Anna May Wong, to an oath to kill the remaining Petrie young man. This occupies the story which ends with her failure and death. An interesting highlight of the picture is the return of the film to a screen of professional, making a Scotland Yard man. Players are much better than usual. The picture will have best chances with those before discriminating audiences.

“DIE BLONDE NACHTIGAL”
UFY
Time, 60 mins.

PLEASING GERMAN FILM WITH SENTIMENT AND SONG CLEVERLY HANDLED AND HUMAN INTER-

TIGHTS AND GOOD CHARACTER ACTING.

This is a typical sample of recent German offerings combining a sentimental theme with light and light characterizations. Elster scores as the blonde nightclub singer who is in the business personality is a pleasing voice. The rest of the cast are well picked for a variety of human characterizations. Production is marked by neatness and an air of reality that is characteristic of this type of offnings from the Berlin studios. Story tells of the singer who comes famous at a little beer laden. A little romance develops a young student, which is cut interrupted when the singer became enganged to sing in a big opera. Cirkulations bring back to the humble beer garden atmosphere, and the return of the little romance. It should go all right, and it should easily be followed by Amer-patrons also.

"THE SKY SPIDER" Pictures Time, 99 mins.

"SOUND SHORTS"

"Rhythms of a Big City"
Vitaphone Time, 10 mins. A Screen Classic

Put this down in your date book as a truly distinctive short—of the type that discerning audiences, in particular, will rave about. Murray Roth and Glen Lambert, who co-authored and co-directed, have provided a variety of trick story angles which greatly enhance the production. Relating the movements of a great metropolis, the picture sketches what perhaps may be termed an average day in its existence, briefly touching upon its many facets and uncovering Dolly Gilbert and John Hickie are both attractive in their roles. No dialogue is included in the picture. Its working out, and the sky instead a splendid, moving score has been arranged by Harold Levey. The superb photography is by Ed DuPar and Ray Foster. Bert Frank edited the film.

"The Voice of Hollywood"
Tiffany Time, 11 mins. PLEASING

This offering in the "Star" radio station from Hollywood employs Cary Grant and is a gaga worked all through the various shots of the Hollywood celebrities. Chester Conklin is used as the television subject, offering the public a new recipe for baking a cake. Meanwhile such well known screen characters as Charles Chaplin, cilones De Rio, Carl Laemmle, Mitzi Green and Constance Bennett are presented, among many others. It is well handled from a production angle, with Lew Ayres acting as announcer.

Tom Howard in "Two A. M."
 Paramount Time, 9 mins. Amusing Travesty

Very humorous travesty on burglary. Tom Howard plays the part of the dumb assistant, who carries the tools, makes a lot of noise, calls upstairs to ask the folks for the combination of the safe, gets chummy with the cop and finally turns Dolly Gilbert and John Hickie are both attractive in their roles. No dialogue is included in the picture. Its working out, and the sky instead a splendid, moving score has been arranged by Harold Levey. The superb photography is by Ed DuPar and Ray Foster. Bert Frank edited the film.

"Little Journeys to Great Masters" (E. M. Newman Travel Master)
Vitaphone 1548 Time, 8 mins. Mildly Interesting

A Cook's tour of Italy, with stress placed on its beautiful cathedrals and other historical and architectural points, is provided in this member of "Little Journeys to Famous Series". As descriptive voice has been dubbed in. It's mildly interesting.

"Gold-Digging Gentlemen"
Vitaphone 1263 Time, 10 mins. Good Flash Comedy

Nicely entertaining skit dealing with gogos and their elderly parents. Told in a homely satirical vein, and with a cabaret sequence interpolated, the subject maintains satirical interest. Showcases a couple of gogs playing up to their rich employers while "on duty," but denying their vocation and spending their dough on other dates during their off time. The dowagers come along and catch the foursome in a ritz restaurant, whereupon the gogs are rankled back to their paid escort duties.

Eddie Buzzell in "Chris-Crossed"
Columbia Time, 9 mins. Nifty

This is one of the best of the "bedtime stories for grownups" turned out by Eddie Buzzell so far. It is a treat the story of America by Colouaxis and into Chris at home working out hit theories despite objections from a sympathetic parents, then appearing at a race track, going across and finally the sighting of land—none other than New York in all its skyscraper glory, with the discoverer being greeted by a harbor demonstration like that accorded the returning Lindbergh. Enter is it rather humorous and should prove a big laugh anywhere.

Eddie Foy Jr. and Eric Dressler in "Good Mourning"
Vitaphone 1206 Time, 10 mins. Familiar Stuff

Telling their wives that they must attend a friend's "wake," the two young husbands, played by Eddie Foy Jr., and Eric Dressler, go on a party with a roll of hot numbers. Meanwhile the fellow who is supposed to be dead calls up one of the errant lads, resulting in the wives getting wise and the husbands getting in the neck on their return. One of the wifey roles is played by Lily Langtry. Nothing new in the idea, but it manages to hold interest pretty well nevertheless.

"Tennis Technique"
(Sport Champion Series) M-G-M Time, 10 mins. Interested

After getting off to a slow start, this William "Bill" Tilden release speeds up and finishes with a bang. Tilden, after explaining the fundamentals of good tennis playing and shows, in both normal and slow motion, some of the strokes for which he is so famous. The "aerial marker" idea is clever and explanatory. The analysis of Tilden's matching game and serve is interesting. There is little to interest everyone regardless of whether they are tennis fans or not.

"Spring Training"
Educational Time, 9 mins. Snappy Football

One of the first of the "Football for the Furry" series of shorts of the famous college football teams. Putting their squads through their gridiron work and showing their teamwork, the first of the series, Coach Howard J. Jones of the Southern California. Al Gauf shows his in its spring practice. It is a very well produced reel, snappy and full of action. Coach Jones explains each play they execute. Many of the shots are in slow motion, so that each individual movement of the players is seen in detail. Should prove a strong feature with the football fans.

"Success"
Vitaphone 1257-8 Time, 17 mins. Excellent Comedy

Jack Haley, who does the lead in this entertaining comedy, is a Jack Oakie type and his work is grand. Helen Lynd plays his sweetie. Story concerns young song pluggers, who wants to marry charmer but dad insists that his son-in-law be a baseball player. Boy, who is near sighted, takes a try at baseball and through a streak of real comedy luck, comes through in big league with the help of a couple of old friends.'

"The Navajo Witch"
Talking Picture Epics Time, 8 mins. Very Entertaining

One of the Wild Life series. Very picturesque, being a personally conducted tour through the life of a Navajo Indian family on the desert. It is very unusual and entertaining, following the Indians as they tend the herd of goats, catching a hoot owl, and bringing it home to the family shawl, where the old grannie reanimates, and has the owl released, sure that it is an old witch that will cause trouble. The narrator has a good delivery, speaking in his western style that fits in admirably with the subject.

"Ye Olde Time Newsreel"
Vitaphone Time, 7 mins. Novelty

Interesting presentation of old library shots, with the narrator gagging and kidding the various views dating back to the very earliest of pictures. Each shot is introduced by the narrator, providing an appropriate old melody. The views cover such interesting relics as the assembly of the Wright plane, an old horse car, bathing beauty styles of the nineties, a fashion parade on the Atlantic City boardwalk, the first of the original horseless buggies, etc.
Short Shots from New York Studios

By HARRY N. BLAIR

NEELY EDWARDS, James Morton and Jessie Bushley are appearing with Fanny Watson and Thelma White in their new Vitaphone short, "Of All People," being directed by Alf Goulding.

Raquel Davido has been assigned a part in "Sal of Singapore," which has just gone into production at the Paramount New York studio.

Robert Ripley has completed his first "Believe It or Not" short under his new Vitaphone contract. Roy Mack directed it. Ripley is making 13 of these novelties this year, against 11 last year.

"Balmy Daze," third in the series of Simple Simon Comedies productions starring Louis Simon, has been completed. The picture boasts a cast of 60 and eight elaborate sets, with dialogue kept to a minimum. Harry Tighe is Simon's chief support. Plans are now under way for the remaining three comedies to be made by Simple Simon this season.

Tommy Madden, former heavyweight fighter and in recent years a picture actor, is working in "Sal of Singapore," now being made at the Paramount New York studio.

Rose Mariella is lending her glamour to "Sal of Singapore.

Teddy Pable of the Paramount Joinville camera staff has been visiting friends around New York during the past few days.

Dewey Wringley, process man with Pathe at the Coast, is in town getting some special shots.

Enrie Madriguera arranged the score for "My Sin," Tallulah Bankhead vehicle which Paramount soon opens on Broadway.

William Gargan has been assigned a part in "Girl from Nowhere," which is Paramount's new title for "Sal of Singapore," now in production at the Long Island studio. He opens in "He," Theater Guild production, on Broadway Sept. 21st.

A PREDICTION

IN 1914 Eastman announced the first panchromatic motion picture negative film. It swept the country... In March, 1931, Eastman announced the first stable ultra-speed panchromatic—Eastman Super-sensitive Panchromatic Negative, Type 2... It is predicted that just as color-sensitive film has practically replaced color-blind material, so the new Eastman Super-sensitive will make slower emulsions virtually obsolete... Naturally the producers and camera men who are adopting this remarkable film now will reap the greatest advantage... Eastman Kodak Company, Rochester, New York. (J. E. Trailers Called Best Medium For Advertising of Pictures

San Francisco—In a discussion of the relative merits of newspaper and trailer advertising for the boosting of patronage, exhibitors in this territory have voted in favor of trailers, according to a survey by Film Trade Topics. It is generally agreed that properly designed trailers are the greatest sales medium for coming attractions, and that the application of more advertising psychology, as well as greater care in construction, would make most trailers many times more effective.

Columbia Earns $3.09 a Share

Net earnings of Columbia Pictures for the year ended June 27 amounted to $500,860.86 after all charges, equal to $3.09 on the common stock outstanding, compared with $6.12 in the preceding year. Gross income for the year was $5,000,807.44. Assets of the company as of June 27 totaled $6,355,105.49, against $5,979,550.86 a year ago.

In a statement accompanying the report, President Joe Brandt said:

"The accompanying income statement does not fully reflect the earning capacity of this corporation during the fiscal year just ended. A substantial amount of income, which normally would have been received from the distribution of our pictures in Great Britain and the Irish Free State, will not be received until after the beginning of the new fiscal year as a result of our having...

1. What text, and to what other subjects, does Business Office regulation of Editorial Policy apply to movies?
2. Do they print motion picture reviews for the benefit of readers or advertisers?
3. If for readers, how are the readers benefited by discriminatory curtailment of legitimate news of current motion picture entertainment?
4. If for advertisers, how do the advertisers benefit by curtailment of certain screen news?
5. Does the theater advertiser decrease their newspaper advertising? Do the local advertisers who handle film advertised goods increase or decrease their newspaper advertising?
6. Do the national advertisers concerned show more, or less, disposition to list the Gannett Newspapers?

What is your reason for issuing the instructions referred to?

Is the Editorial Policy of the Gannett Newspapers regulated by the Business Office, or is there other advertising medium?

Has any other advertising medium taken a similar attitude toward the Gannett Newspapers?

Do you know that advertising of motion pictures had been appearing in theaters all over the country for more than twenty years?

Let's all pull in the same direction.

The public has wandered away from the box office—or, shall we say it was driven away by poor pictures? Nevertheless the public must be brought back to its once favorite entertainment.

Something must be done.
Something CAN be done!

Let's lose no more time about it. Let's show the old flare that show business is noted for. Let's get out the cymbals, a band or two, a street parade—let's circus the public back to its enthusiasm for pictures. And let's keep them enthused and eager to continue their lines at the box office by early delivery of the good pictures that are on the new season's programs. The mob spirit still rules the most of America. It needs but to be led. Start the way with a clarion call; bring forth the best pictures for current showings; city mayors, governors and even the President will hop on the band wagon for a rousing call to a better day. And merchants and clubs and other organizations will join hands to make one grand welcome to the return of better pictures and better times.

Business needs a revival.
Show business can lead the procession!

Motion pictures kept spirits high during the war. They can similarly brighten up a depression-minded people. The public low Business!

has money to spend—but it hasn’t been encouraged to spend it. Too many alibis. Too little effort.

A revival? Sure! Let’s give ’em an old-fashioned revival—but without the hymn singing. Let’s cheer their souls; let’s stir their interest; let’s arouse their desire; let’s make ’em stampede to the box-offices!

Let’s revive Greater Movie Season.

But let’s do it BIG! Let’s do it in a never-to-be-forgotten manner—with a “this means everything” spirit.

Team Work!

Let’s co-ordinate our efforts. We can’t win by scattered shots. Make it a nation-wide affair—shoot the works—start it off right and keep it going!

There are good men in the industry’s home offices who know how. They don’t need to be told what to do—they’re only waiting for the signal. Give it to ’em, General Hays! They’ll carry it through their district exploitation men to the exhibitors and through them to the public. They’ll sweep away the cobwebs and put new pep into the cash register.

A revival? Sure! Cast aside the one-sheets and bring out the twenty-fours. Throw away the air rifles and bring on the Big Berthas. Rig up in full colors; fly high the motion picture flag.

Wake Up, Show Business—WAKE UP BUSINESS!

WALTER FUTTER has signed

Tom Miranda, who was at one time scenario chief at Fox, to write an original script covering an idea which he claims will be even more thrilling than "Frisky Speaks."

As a reward for their work in "Street Scene," Budah Boudi and George Humbert have been added to the cast of "Arroussmith," which stars Ronald Colman. Miss Bondi and Humbert were members of the original New York cast of the El-

THINGS WE Never Thought Worth Mentioning Till
Now . . . that the Big Film Pioneers Boys are back with his Television racket . . . and with the Radio Corporation group having tried to sew it up in the bag for their Own Li'l Circle . . .
. . . but the independents like Messrs. Jenkins and De Forrest beat 'em to it . . . and forced their hand . . . and the Government passing out television permits . . .
the Big Group had to start active work ahead of their schedule in order to grab off some of these permits . . . or be left Out In the Cold altogether . . . which is why they are in such a helluva hurry to get Radio City under way . . .
even though their original plans did not contemplate action for a donkey's years . . . but the reason is big . . . the sound equipment racket also . . . and wanted to get their Profits out of the talkin' screen . . . before they launched Television on the public . . . feelin' the baby one phot . . . at a time and practicin' at the time they sat back and cut the hole at their Leisure . . . but as we pointed out, the indie boys spoiled their li'l game . . . and are forcing the Television issue at pinch-web . . . and now they are in a tough spot . . . and they watch the Heavy Gravy oozing away . . . if they aren't able to bottle up the indie boys . . . which is just another proof . . . that Capital can't Corral Ideas . . . and that Brains and Inventive Genius count heavier than the Wall Street money bags . . . which goes for this new television game as this new television toy . . . and that's why the Indies Producers are comin' back so strong . . . for they have Brains and Ideas, too . . . which is why this industry will always remain Wide Open . . . and make it worth for you and us to stick around a li'l longer . . . for Our Day may come . . . If we have Brains and Ideas . . .
encouragin'? . . . eh, what? . . . most suttinly.

THAT as long as we have spilled so much inside Dope . . . we might as well go a li'l further . . . and wiz ya up that Television right This Minute is a FACT so far as the entertainment field is concerned . . . now it's merely a matter of ironin' out some technical problems such as cloudy-day television . . . and, most important to the Big Pellers, tryin' to sew it up . . . and not kick the Other Amusements all to smithereens by launchin' the Novelty too fast . . . and stampedin' the public away from the Radio Station and the Big Pellers.
In general, with the entire industrial structure . . . and the Investments of the Big Pellers
In Radio and Sound Pix
but the Controlling Minds figure that in just about two years . . . Television will be operating and HOW.

THAT they are practically all set right now . . .
to turn a gadget in a television station in, say, Schenectady . . .
and give a complete television program with sound and everythin'. . . to duplicate any picture theater's show
. . . in Galveston, Texas . . . or Nome, Alaska . . . and if ya think that's a lotta hooch . . . just mull over the fact that recently the li'l television pic was six-fivin' thru the ether from that upstate city . . . completely encircling the globe . . . and appearing within no time . . . flashing on a screen . . . in the Very Same room from which it was shot . . .
and as good an impression, too . . . and if they can do that . . . shootin' a television screen show to a dump in Oklahoma is a cinch . . . and that, folks, is the reason why Hollerword can't remain the Film Center . . .
Forever.

THAT it has seeped from the Inside Circle that Hizzoner Jimmie Walker . . . is scheduled to be the Hays of Television . . . takin' over his vastly important as-sement as soon as he mannifies himself . . . to appear . . .
at 150 grand per annum . . . which may explain why Jimmie isn't losing any sleep over the Seabury investigation as it fluffs around the wholeboard and points east.
That we hope we haven't upset you . . . but ya might as well prepare yourself for the Inevitable.

Dual Feature Problem Slows Up Chicago Buying

Indies Wondering If Policy Will Be Continued

Chicago—Uncertainty as to whether or not the double feature policy is going to be continued into the new season is causing local indie houses to go slow in buying 1931-32 product. It is indicated by a survey just completed here. Another regarding factor is the current controversy between the operators’ unions. Downstate, however, the situation is radically different with the independents buying full steam.

M-G-M Foreign Schedule Depends on U.S. Reaction

M-G-M will not schedule any features for foreign distribution until after they have been shown to American audiences, "Laudy" Lawrence of the M-G-M foreign department said. (Continued on Page 8)

Slash Prices Friday

Cleveland—The local admission-price slashing carnival will reach its high point Friday when reductions ranging from 16 to 40 per cent will be effected. KKO Hippodrome has cut evening admission prices 10 cents and has extended the bargain morning matinee one hour.

99% of Copyright Actions Being Settled Out of Court

Approximately 99 per cent of copyright violations suits instituted by the Copyright Protection Bureau, administered under guidance of the Hays Office, are being settled before the cases go to trial. The Film Daily was told yesterday. Theaters so charged are finding it cheaper to adjust the matter before court and legal costs amount to the expenses, it was pointed out.

Proposed Ordinance at Atlanta Would Fix Number of Men

Prospects of projectionists’ unions throughout the country sponsoring passage of laws requiring that at least two operators be employed in a booth became evident yesterday. This possibility was being discussed in connection with campaigns being staged by locals to maintain their policy of demanding two men in the booths, as nearly 300 new contracts are being negotiated. A proposed city ordinance of this

Chicago—Under police protection, a Chicago independent houses reopened today with non-union operators. Tom Maloy, head of the local projectionists’ union, said he would see that these theaters are closed.

Panama Injuns Wild For Newsreels and Cartoons

West Palm Beach—Down in Panama, the little-known San Blas Indians simply go wild over newsreels and cartoons, say members of the George Vanderbilt expedition which has just arrived here. The explorers also found that motion picture films have replaced beads and mirrors as currency in trade with the natives.

Wilhelm Diehrer, first National's German director, who has been vacationing in the Sierras, will return to Hollywood this week.

Thalians Making Six

Shorts for "I'll" Release

West Coast Bureau, THE FILM DAILY

Hollywood—Bryan Foy will direct "The Hollywood Cleanup," the first of a series of shorts to be made by the Thalians for release through Universal. Arthur Lake, who is the initial subject, which was written by Charles Lamont.

Proceeds from the comedies will be used for the building of a clubhouse for the Thalians, a social organization. Among the members of the club are Laura La Plante, Billie Dove, Lew Ayres, Mae Clarke, Sue Carol, Mary Brian, Colleen Moore, Regina Denny, Nick Studivant, Benny Rubin, Chadury Rogers, Georgie Stone, Rex Bell. Foy is donating his services, as will members of each cast.

3 Norworth Shorts on "B" Way

Mr. and Mrs. Jack Norworth, who have been starring in a series of 12 Vitaphone shorts and who are under contract with Warner Bros., to make six more, have no less than three of their shorts playing at the same time in New York first-run houses. At the Winter Garden their current comedy, "The Naggers at the Races" has been held over for a third week, at the New York Strand, "The Naggers Housewarming" is on display, and the Brooklyn Strand is showing "The Naggers in the Subway."

Plan to Standardize Roll, Machine Tickets

Washington Bureau of THE FILM DAILY

Washington—At the suggestion of the Federal Trade Commission, the roll and machine ticket industry has adopted a set of trade practice conference rules. Members have agreed to refrain from such unethical or unlawful business practices as engaging in ruthless competition, defamations of competitors, enticing employees of competitors, discrimination in price between different purchasers of commodities, second payment of rebates. The industry has also agreed that standardization and simplification of various forms of roll and machine tickets should be undertaken.

New Milwaukee Equipment Firm

Milwaukee—Articles of incorporation have been filed by the Wisconsin Sound Equipment Corporation. The company has been capitalized for $25,000. Signers of the articles are W. L. Bushey, Clarence Kruecke and Fred Bushey.

Gay Comedies Formed; Plan 12 Two-Reelers

West Coast Bureau, THE FILM DAILY

Hollywood—Frank Gar and Max Slobin have organized Gay Comedies, with Gay as president, in charge of production, and Slobin as vice-president and general manager. The new company will make a series of 12 two-reel comedies.

Gay is a writer and director and was in charge of foreign comedies at Fox under John Stone. He also wrote and co-directed English features at Fox. More recently, he was with C. C. Burr.

New Operators' Union To Aid Indie Houses

One of the longest continuous scenes shot for a motion picture was accomplished by Director Richard Wallace in making "The Road to Reno," recently completed at the Paramount studios. Nearly eight minutes of uninterrupted action was sustained by the cast in shooting a comedy sequence.

Wallace desired to have the tempo of the scene kept at a fast comedy pace and feared to break it up into short sequences. In consequence an entire day was spent staging it until the actors were able to give speeches and business with the letter-perfect precision of a stage performance.

Vivien Osborne is playing an important role in "The Beloved Bachelor," which Lloyd Corrigan is directing at Paramount. Before coming to the Coast, Miss Osborne had an excellent record on the New York stage.

* * *

Loretta Young and Robert Williams will play the leading roles in "Gallagher," tentative title of the Special Capra Production announced by Columbia for 1934-35.

Vernon Pickard, Notre Dame graduate, is playing the part of the young priest in "The Spirit of Notre Dame," at Universal.

Edwin Maxwell says he knows one man in Hollywood who is not writing a play—and that is the man who cleans his shoes every week. * * *

Milt Howe, Paramount publicist, has returned from a vacation spent at Missoula, Mont.

* * *

David Manners is a booster for pathology. His real name is Rauf Ackiem, but declares his success as an actor started when he changed his name, after studying numerology.

* * *

Robert F. Hill, director of Tom Edwards' new feature for the "Sandown Trail," joined the films as an actor with the old Imp company in 1914 and in less than two years was writing and directing. His screen stories include those for the first western starring Will Rogers and as a direc- tor he has guided Laura La Plante, Herb Rawlinson and William Desmond in many of their most suc- cessful pictures.

  IT IS not generally known that Jack Cohn of Columbia is one of the most expert amateur bartenders who has spent his share of time behind the bar. Jack took over Zuko's old apartment on West End Avenue not because of the southern exposure but mainly to possess its spiffy bar, one of those tricky kind of bars, complete with a brass rail 'n everything'. Jack plays bartender to his guests, mixing cocktails for his aperitif loving friends.

GREGORY LINDER, the dynamic prey of Colorfilm Corporation, has not only perfected his Super color process so that it shapes up as well as the most natural color we have ever seen on a screen. Cohn has got it down to a sales price of six cents a foot, b'gosh! Moreover he is just one cent less than color has ever sold for before! In addition, Cohn and Captain George F. Zimmer, who was the government's (W. C. B.) chief secret intelligence operative with a motion picture camera during the war, has an all set to shoot the German superplane "DO-X" and he's doing it in Super color when it arrives here from Miami on Thursday.

A CLEVER stunt for drawing biz from the big neighboring town is described by Tommy Taskemond, our Arkansas sleuth. He tells the Rialto theater in North Little Rock, just across the river from the big Li'l Rock, that the owner sends two free tickets through the mail to every previous citizen of the big burg, just a sort of a ride across the bridge to his house, with plenty of parking facilities. The gag is that if they miss the big picture at the Little Rock theaters that the Rialto shows 'em soon after for 30 cents nite tariff and they're doing a whale of a biz.

ANY DIRECTOR in need of a real tragic scene is referred to the one that Joe Poland offers free, gratis and for nothin' in his Film Mercury kolymus... to wit... scene is the Rolls Royce factory. viewpoint. The soonest most film folk leave the other fellow alone, concentrate on working out their own problems and maintain their outlook and their knitting, the sooner this industry, as a whole, will return to its rightful place in the sun. In other words, once more, experience with life in general and this industry in particular is that giving un-asked for advice is usually a total waste of time, and, looking at the whole thing philosophically, the best and safest personal investment one can make in futurity is happily to mind one’s own business.

TIMELY TOPICS
A Digest of Current Opinions

icture Directing coming Specialized
WITH most professions now tending toward specialization, why not that of motion picture directors? Physicians, engineers and even artists are meeting modern conditions by specializing in one branch of their vacation. There is as much if not more reason why a director of films should concentrate on one type of story and devote himself and his study to that particular type. The famous character doctors, for instance, every ailment in the category has passed away in favor of the physician who knows ten times as much about his special line as any general practitioner could know. Once upon a time a man known as a film director of any merit would be asked to tackle comedies, westerns, farces, melodramas, or a variety of picture. While there is some distinction made now between the ability of this director and that, specialization is not carried far enough. That will be one of the future developments of pictures that will be a great help to the industry.

Bromberg, Atlanta, one of the greatest salesmen in the biz...E. J. Lustig, Salt Lake City, a big guy in a small territory...Max Wiesner, Milwaukee, a go-getter, who covers the field personally...B. H. Mills, Albany, a talkie picture himself, who invariably closes on the dotted line...William White, of W. H. White, which is the best good will is the greatest salesman, proved by the fact that every exhibit in his territory is a close personal friend...Jack Berkowitz, Buffalo, owner of three exchanges, one of those rare guys whose criticisms are always constructive and so we could go on for a koyum, givin' you Flashes of the men who are making Monogram stand out like the royal markers on the Prince of Wales' laundry...

AND WHO should drop in on us but our old pal Miss L. H. Clark, editor of "Today's Cinematograph," that Lunnon trade journal - a smart woman who has built the rag up from its inconspicuous to the point of being a world sensation and when we corresponded with her...we always pictured her as one of these very efficient but dried-up middle-aged frizzles...and doggone if she ain't a Ziegfeld eyesmash and one of those penches-and-cream-complexions...and genoigne...and chaperonin' her around was her American correspondent...Lois Guimond the lucky dog...some guys get all the breaks.

WHAT WE admire about the work of Gerald Rudolph, loudspeaker for RCA Photophone...is that he injects originality in his printed blurbs...the latest sample bein' a nifty brochure..."That's selling!"...an imaginary sales talk with his ego of characters...Consisting of a Salesman, an Exhib and an Operator...and between the three of 'em...they get over the dry and technical details of sound equipment efficiency...together with all the color sex appeal and dramatic drama of a combined effort of Theodore Dreiser, Hy Daah and Marlene ("Lego") Dietrich...excuse us, hy, for gettin' ya in the Wrong Sequence...the a.s.o. goes for Marlene...but what we are tryin' to say is that this egg Jerry Rudolph has the knack of presenting technical dryness in entertaining showman dress which is some Asset...in this biz that is rapidly turning into Machinery instead of Art.

A PIP from Peggy...meanin' Peggy Goldberg...at Educational publicity...it seems that Claude Fleming, the Hinglish narrator in the Romantic Journeys series...was tellin' how he had been in the Bavarian Alps...he casually mentioned that he visited the 'ome of Mary Magdalene, but Mary was on her honeymoon in Dres-dan...then he called on Peter the Apostle and Peggy that the heat had got the bloomin' Hinglishman...till Claude explained that he referred to the players in the Passion Play at Oberammergau.

HOLLERWORD FACTORS get a break!...Roy Del Ruth has been approached by Lunnon hardhatters to provide the names of well dressed male players...to be outfitted with the very latest styles from Piccadilly for nothin'...Roy sent in his Own Name...why not?

Local Beauty Contest Gets Play
H. MILLER, manager of the Metropolitan, Chicago, in figuring that the early part of August would be an inside time to organize a bathing beauty contest brought upon himself a lot of excitement. Getting the cooperation of the merchants in the South Side, he announced that the winner of the contest would be named Miss Metropolitan and would be given the leading role in a motion picture to be gotten up by the merchants. On the night of the contest nearly a hundred entrants put in an appearance. The contestants were all colored beauties. So much excitement was occasioned by the contest that the crowds flocking to see it were so great that police aid had to be called to keep them in check. All of the contestants had friends to cheer for them, but the white population of the South Side got to the Metropolitan first and few of the rosettes for the entrants succeeded in getting inside the house. The merchants of the district are going through with their original plan of placing the winners in Toplaid.

A Digest of Current Opinions

Westerns Are Glance Wheel

Western films pulled the motion picture industry out of a bad hole and sent it to greatness. Years later, they repeated that feat, today, they are still safeguarding the industry. Screen entertainment was about to die in its infancy when the cowboy and Indian thrillers came along and saved it. The novelty of the genre movement had worn off, the first westerns introduced fast action thrillers in connection with stories. The westerns sent in action to successfully pinch hit for novelty and save the industry again after talking pictures ceased to be the big thing. In the first days of sound, people flocked to the theaters just to hear the screen players talk. They soon began to hear entirely too much talk. Charles M. Rogers and Harry Joe Brown made the first Ken Maynard outdoor talkers to prove that he audible films did not have to be confined within four walls and to chatter. Fox crashed through with “In Old Arizona,” and Paramount turned out “The Virginian.” Westerns, with their sweeping action outdoor scenery and terser dialogue, had saved the day. Right now, they are one of the industry’s greatest guarantors. They keep the motion picture in westerns and youngsters in the long-going habit. They are a wholesome, wholesome balance lever against too much talk, sophistication, and sex.

Bathing Beauts
Line ’Em Up

VOGEL GETTIER, manager of the Ottumwa, Ottumwa, IA., increased 2½ times average business with a bathing beauty parade. The preliminary work and judging took place at the municipal swimming pool. This pool is an improvement of the mayor’s, so Gettier had all the city officials and newspapers behind him. No announcement was made as to who the judges had selected as the six most perfectly formed girls. To learn their identities was necessary for people to visit the theater the next day where the judges’ choices were displayed on the stage of the theater with applause of the audience selecting a Miss Ottumwa.

Big Campaign
On “Up for Murder”

STUNTS used on “Up for Murder” at the Metropolitan, Baltimore: Radio broadcast one week in advance and currently; giant 24-sheet net bannor suspended at intersection in front of theater; tie-up with McCrory’s 5 and 10 Cent Store, in which they inserted candy slips into every bag of candy that was sold. These slips were imprinted with the name of the attraction, and lucky numbers. Fifty lucky numbers were posted in the lobby of the theater, which entitled winners to passes; front window display of McCrory’s 5 and 10 Cent Store was given over to tie-up; 2,000 tab “News-Herald”s were distributed. Some of these were distributed from prominent newsstands in the city.

Many Happy Returns

Best wishes and congratulations are extended by THE FILM DAILY to the following members of the industry, who are celebrating their birthdays:

August 28
Edmund Joseph Paul Pritzoff Gretchen Hartman Al. Ray
Mr. Norman Robbins, President,
National Screen Service,
126 West 46th Street,
New York, N. Y.

Dear Mr. Robbins:

I am sure you will be interested in the results of a test made recently in my theatre, The Strand, in East Orange, New Jersey.

Like all exhibitors, particularly in these times when every dollar must count, I was anxious to know what form of advertising was bringing me the most business.

For two days during the showing of "Skippy" and two days during the showing of "Strangers May Kiss" patrons were asked to indicate on the enclosed ballots their reason for attending the show. They had been previously advised of the test by a screen announcement.

In the four days there were 6144 admissions. I received 1266 answers, 80% of them by mail. The results are enclosed.

As much as this is a second-run house and both "Skippy" and "Strangers May Kiss" had tremendous "word of mouth" advertising, I was not surprised at the showing this question made. I use thirteen newspapers, in the surrounding towns - going as far as Stewart - and the high percentage for newspapers certainly was a complete vindication for this form of advertising.

But what surprised me most was the high effectiveness of the trailers. There were 218 patrons - 17% - who came in solely because of the trailers. Considering that thirty-five admissions - about nine a day - paid their cost, they certainly are profitable figures and you have my permission to use them.

Sincerely yours,

Adolph Rettig,
Mgr. The New Strand

The ballot on which patrons voted

---

Here's how one exhibitor found out—SO CAN YOU!

“‘What brought you to this theatre?’ Adolph Rettig, Manager of The New Strand, East Orange, N. J., asked 8134 patrons. 1265 told him. 333 said ‘others told me.’ 244 said Newspaper Advertising. 218 said ‘THE TRAILER ON THE SCREEN.’ And only 9 admissions a day paid the cost of the trailers. The rest was profit!

Trailers sell seats—profitably, economically. Because they sell pictures WITH PICTURES... to amusement-minded audiences. No waste circulation. Your screen is the focal point for all eyes—your patrons can't help seeing your trailers.

More than 8000 theatres served!

HOLLYWOOD

THREE divisions of the U. S. Naval service are working in conjunction with the Bill Boyd production, “Suicide Fleet.” The submarine cruiser, Argonaut, under Lieutenant-Commander W. E. Doyle; the destroyer, Freble, commanded by Lieutenant-Commander T. D. Westfall, and the Noa, skippered by Lieutenant-Commander Stuart A. Maher, appear in much of the action. Six other destroyers and two seaplanes appear in the climaxing battle scenes.

Alice Hey in Rice’s famous novel, “Mrs. Wiggs of the Cabbage Patch,” is said to be another of the well known Paramount’s series of productions for children. It will, it is reported, follow ‘Tom Sawyer,” with Junior Dakins and Charlotte Henry in the leads under the direction of Norman Taurog.

G. Raymond Nye and Edwin J. Brady are the late additions to the cast of Colunia’s newest Buck Jones feature, tentatively titled “Deadline.” L &’eta Sayers, Robert Ellis and Knut Ericson are in the cast. Lambert Hillyer is directing.

Ruth Weston, film actress, who reads and speaks English, French, German and Italian and has a partial mastery of Arabic and Swahili, will be seen in “Devotion,” Ann Harding’s next picture for RKO Pathe.

Willie Hoppe acknowledges world’s champion billiard player for years, has been signed by M-G-M to show the world how to play billiards with its special subject directed by Zion Myers. As a contrast to his polished work, Henry Armetta and Monty Costello have been hired to demonstrate clearly how not to play the historic old game.

It looks as though the talented Mae Clarke has secured the coveted role of Elizabeth in “Frankenstein.” She has not had a moment’s leisure since she was cast for “Waterloo Bridge.” Twenty Girls was followed and now before that is even finished, she is tentatively assigned to “Frankenstein.”

Clarke Gable has been given the male lead opposite Joan Crawford

Ken Flies—Without Tarzan

Ken Maynard, Tiffany’s western star, flew from Hollywood to Cleveland in his new 220 horsepower Stearman, to attend the National Air meet. He had a picture of Tarzan, his familiar white horse, passed on the plane.

“Lady With A Past” Next for Bennett

Constance Bennett’s next vehicle for Pathe will be “Lady with a Past,” based on Harriet Henry’s novel. E. H. Griffith will direct and Austin Parker is doing the adaptation. Miss Bennett arrives in New York Monday on the Paris after a vacation abroad.

In M-G-M’s “The Mirage.” This edgy seamy play will be directed by Clarence Brown. Russell Ford, New York stage actor, has been assigned a role in this picture.

Another of Universal’s discoveries is making her debut, Paule Moore, the 1-year-old dark-eyed mass from Harrisburg, Pa., has been given a small role in “Juggernaut.” Bert Itoch was also added to the cast.

Frederick Lonsdale, author of “The Last of Mrs. Coney,” “The High Road” and many other plays, is now completing an original script for Robert Montgomery at the M-G-M studios, the first of three scripts he is to prepare for M-G-M.

Hal Roach is personally directing the forthcoming Zasu Pitts-Phyllis Hodge comedy, “Pajama Party,” which started last week. Elizabeth Forrester has been signed for an important role.

Buster Keaton is himself again. A week ago his pet St. Bernard Elmer, disappeared, and Keaton was so worried he couldn’t think of a single gag. But Elmer was found, returned and now Keaton’s “vying to go.”

Edward Brophy, a Buster Keaton “find,” is a production manager much in demand on the side” as an actor. So much so that another studio borrowed him from M-G-M. “Now you are a real actor at last,” Keaton told him, “You’ve been sold down the river.”

“Private Lives,” the adaptation of Noel Coward’s stage play of the same name, will be Norma Shearer’s next M-G-M picture, with Robert Montgomery playing opposite her. Sidney Franklin will direct.

Production has started on “Dogs Is Dogs,” latest Hal Roach “Our Gang” comedy under the direction of Robert McGowan. The story revolves around Pete the Pup and a police dog who essays the role of a heavy.

Virginia Bruce, one of the blonde show girls selected by Florenz Ziegfeld in Hollywood and taken East to appear in “Smiles,” has been signed by M-G-M.

M-G-M has signed Nils Asther to a new contract. Asther has recently appeared in vaudeville. His next screen role will soon be announced.

Wallace Beery loves to “kid” Clarke Gable about the latter’s alleged “sex appeal.” He had a picture taken of himself among the M-G-M chorus girls, and autographed it to Gable—“Dear Clare, Just to show you what an amateur you really are... What a Man. Beery.”

John Miljan has a new pad. He trims formal gardens. Weird and fantastic are the shapes of the hedges he has personally trimmed at his Beverly Hills home. “I can’t tell whether they’re supposed to be pictures of us actors or geometrical problems,” remarked a fellow M-G-M player, who inspected his handiwork.

Warner Baxter will play opposite Dolores Del Rio in Radio Pictures’ “The Dove,” which goes into production the first week in October. Herbert Brenon will direct.

Walter Thompson, who edited “Only Men Wanted,” an RKO Pathé comedy, will cut “Blondes Prefer Blondes,” which will be directed by Ed Kennedy.

Andy Clyde, Mac Sennett star comedian, declares he can’t understand why so many movies are going into bankruptcy, because there isn’t any money in nowadays.

Carson Jouve is the latest owner of a pilot’s flying license. He has been assigned to do the sound work on an untitled Tiffany feature. He recently completed the recording on “Mudcr at Midnight.”

Big Bill Lucas is busy as the narrator on “The Wild Life” series, the material for which was gathered by William and George Allen, naturalist’s and motion picture photographers. Elmer Clifton is sponsoring the series, which is being distributed by Talking Picture Epics.

Radio has discontinued the use of the titles “Glamour,” “Pick-Up” and “Penthouse.”

A. John Strausky, Jr., is doing the recording on “Left Over Ladies,” for Tiffany.

Claiming the fastest shooting record ever achieved by “Dick” Talmadge, final scenes of “Scarlet...heads,” his latest action feature were finished yesterday. In the cast are Richard Hughes, King Saxon, Virginia Sisson, Virginia True Boardman, True Boardman, Jacqueline Wells, Joseph Girard and Walter James. Release date is set for Sept. 1.

Lassett Sherman has been selected to direct Ina Claire in her next RKO Pictures production which will be started about Oct. 4. It is a story of New York’s social set.

Grace MacLean, associate producer at the RKO Pathé Pictures studio, has been assigned to supervise three pictures. He will guide the destinies of “Ladies of the Jury,” which is to star Edna May Oliver; “The Other Passport,” a Harold Macgrath story featuring Irene Dunne, and “The Last Vague,” now being written by L. A. Wylie, novelist.

Johnny Riso, one-armed tennis expert, W. J. Johnson, Virginia Sisson and Gertrude Howard have been as signed character roles in RKO-Radio Pictures’ “Private Life,” starring Richard Dix. The film, being directed by J. Walter Ruben, is based on the famous Civil War spy play by William Gillette. Others in the cast are Shirley Grey, Nancy O’Neil, Gavin Gordon, William Post, Jr., and Frederick Burton.

Raft Harold is playing the prosecuting attorney in Radio Pictures’ “Are These Our Children,” being directed by Wesley Ruggles.

Rowland Brown, Universal director, is at San Quentin prison to get information and study prison routine for his production “Gallows” of which he is the author as well a director.

Francis Edwards Faragoh will prepare the screen version of “Oh, Promise Me!” the Lindsay-Robinson-Brown Broadway stage play he purchased by Universal. Faragon wrote the screen versions of “Little Caesar” and “Iron Man.”

Robert Alden, who appeared in “Paramount on Parade,” “Only the Brave” and others, has been signed on a long term contract by Columbia.

Wanted—Rejection Slips

Found—a man who wants rejection slips. Today a man walked into our office and asked for rejection slips. Just who was it? This is a surprise. Until he explained he was a property man at the Tiffany studios and these slips are for a scene in “Left Over Ladies,” which will be made soon.

EXEMPLIFIES THE PACE OF THE AGE

The trend in fiction is to short stories. They’re even calling them short, short stories, and some magazines give you the reading time. It’s the hit-and-run, look-and-leap, hear-and-hike era. And folks like movie entertainment that’s short and sweet. Educational’s varied program—made by specialists—meets the new demand. You, too, must meet it. Give them variety—and more variety—comedies, cartoons, romance, travel, novelty. Make it snappy. Seeing, hearing time, 8 to 20 minutes. Tuned to the age in showing time, diversity, quality.

 A LONG COMES a gent with a suggestion for opening up a new avenue for the employment of Art in the film biz — more particularly on the screen — in an interview in “Art-Throbs,” the Harvey-Jaediker house organ, Albert Schiller presents his ideas — he being the director of Advertising Agencies’ Service Corporation — and a recognized authority among the nation’s craftsmen of typography and the allied industries — he believes that his well known experimentations with typographic ornament can be applied to the films — by placing in motion upon the screen artistic compositions of ornamental designs — in place of the standardized, routine titles we have at present — and if he can pull that one, he deserves to be moved up into the Film Hall of Fame — for there has been a new idea in the titles since the talkies started — and that’s too long a hiatus — in addition to this interesting development, Mister Schiller has some intriguing ideas on applying the principles of advertising layout to the screen, which might possibly result in a radical departure in the present screen technique — and all this, coming from a gent who has revolutionized some phases of his own particular craft — calls for giving him a chance to show what he can do — and inject some artistic novelty into Hollywood productions — so we pass it along gladly — to any Open Minds who believe that the screen can be improved and that the Pre-Progressives left in this practically standardized biz — or are we too Radical?

Novel Newspaper Contest on “Politics”

A SMASHING contest in cash prizes was included by Jerry O’Connell, manager of the Loew’s Allen, Cleveland, Ohio, in the extensive campaign he used on “Politics.” The novel contest ran in the Cleveland News for four days, under the title “What Would The Men Do, If The Housewives Went On Strike.” The contest was started on the Friday previous to the opening of the picture, with a two column picture of Marie Dressler and Polly Moran, double headlines and an interesting story. The results of the contest were published in the News during the run of the picture, with cash prizes and guest tickets offered for the best answer.

Tie In With Fire Department

MANAGER C. J. LAWLER tied in very nicely with the fire department to exploit “The Fourth Alarm” playing at the Public-Lawler, Greenfield, Mass. Through the sanction of the fire chief, a large sign was put on the main door of the Central Fire station, the sign reading, “Nobody at home today — We can be located at The Fourth Alarm’ at the Lawler theater.” The sign created a great deal of comment and was excellent publicity for the picture.

HOLLYWOOD

CHARLES KENYON and Maude Fulton have completed the script for their new Marion Marsh picture tentatively titled “Poor Little Ritz Girl.” Miss Marsh is just back from a vacation in New York. Production starts Sept. 8.

More than 5,000 extras and bit players will be used by RKO Pathé within the next four weeks. From 2,000 to 5,000 extras will be used in scenes of Pola Negri’s “A Woman Commands” by Director Paul L. Stein. Albert Rogell will employ several thousands in the Bill Boyd picture, “Suicide Fleet,” while Eddie Quillan’s new picture will call for many bit players and extras.

Arnold Lucy has been cast for “Dr. Jekyll and Mr. Hyde,” Paramount picture which has just gone into production.

Lucille Webster Gleason has been signed for a part in “Girls About Town,” Paramount picture.

H. B. Warner will work in “A Woman Commands” for Pathé with Paul L. Stein directing.

June MacCloy has been cast for “The Big Gamble,” Bill Boyd starring vehicle for Pathé.

Edmund Lowe and Linda Watkins will be seen together in “Cheating,” a new Fox production. Claire Maynard will also be in the film.

Warner Baxter and Leila Hyams will play the leading roles in Fox’s “Surrender” which is based on the novel “Axelle.”

Will Rogers’ next picture for Fox will be titled “Ambassador Bill” instead of the previously announced title “Dollar Bill.”

Fox has signed Weldon Heyburn, a new leading man, who has played opposite many leading stars on the legitimate stage. Heyburn will arrive from the east Saturday.

Harpo Marx is still the mute player amid a cast of talkers in the Marx Bros. new picture, “Monkey Business.”

Bill Boyd will have one of the strongest casts that Charles R. Rogers, in charge of RKO Pathé productions, has ever assembled in “The Big Gamble,” the Octopus Boy.

Scott To Build Studio

Construction of a studio one mile southwest of Azusa will begin shortly, with the acquisition of property situated on either side of the proposed Arrow Highway, by Henry W. Scott, promoter from St. Louis and Oklahoma City. Scott will spend $45,000 to build sound stages and $35,000 for sound equipment.

Cohen story in which he will star under Fred Niblo’s direction. The support includes Dorothy Sebastian, Warner Oland, William Collier, Jr., ZaSu Pitts, James Gleason, June MacCloy, Ralph Ince and Genevieve Mitchell. Miss Sebastian, Boyd’s bride of a few months, has the leading feminine role.

Blanche Friderici and Tyler Brooke have been assigned roles in Columbia’s “A Dangerous Affair,” a story dealing with the background in which the Jack Holt—Ralph Graves combination will act the leading roles. Sally Blane is the love interest.

Val Paul, veteran motion picture executive, has been appointed production manager at the RKO Pathé studios. Paul was a film actor in early single-reel productions, since which time he has been writer, director and production executive. He was associated with Charles R. Rogers, RKO Pathé production head, when the latter was an independent producer.

Two westerns and a melodrama are the latest Monogram pictures to go into production. “In the Line of Duty,” the melodrama, has Sue Carol, Noah Beery, Francis MacDonald and James Murray in the cast. Bert Glennon is directing at Idyllwild. The two westerns are “Dugan of the Badlands” and “The Montana Kid” featuring Bill Cody and 12-year-old Andy Shuford.

Mae Busch has a leading role in support of Frank McHugh in “The Big Scoop,” which Harry Sweet is directing for RKO Pathé.

Robert Williams, an actor since the age of seven, has been given a role in his third RKO Pathé production in succession—“Devotion.”

Twenty-five bashed noses; fifty cauliflower ears—and in dinner jackets! That was Director R. G. Vorkapich’s order for some Eddie Quillan’s “Tip Off.” The casting director produced them.

Ben Lyon has been signed to play opposite Marilyn Miller in First National’s “Her Majesty Love.”

Scripts of “Suicide Fleet” an RKO-Pathé feature now in preparation have been submitted to, and approved by U. S. Navy officials who subsequently ordered full cooperation to the production unit, to be given by the members of crews now at the submarine base San Pedro, Cal. Bill Boyd, James Gleason and Robert Armstrong will head the cast.

George Cooper, who recently completed the recording on all the Buck Jones pictures, will soon start work on “Revolt,” which Rowland V. Lee will direct for Columbia.

Mrs. Grace Duffie Boylan, former national president of the League of American Penwoman, and mother of Malcolm Stuart Boylan, the screen writer, has arrived in Hollywood. While here she will discuss the filming of her own two best novels, “The Kiss of Glory” and “The Suppliant,” with certain producers. She will also confer with local political leaders regarding the Republican status of Tennessee in the next election, being a leader in the Republican affairs of the southern state.

Our Passing Show: Phillips Holmes, Edward H. Griffith, Lucien Hubbard, Joe Jackson, Robert Florey, Valenit Mandelstam, Nat Perrin, Frank Woods, Percy Heath at the Writers’ club entertainment, at which Waldemar Young was a very capable master of ceremonies.

Lewis Weitzkenorn, E. Lloyd Sheld- don, Oliver H. P. Garrett, Sam and Bella Spewack, Arthur Kober, Starker Vorkapich, Herman J. Mankiewicz, Herman Michelson and Abraham Jacoby are Paramounters. Weitzkenorn worked on the old New York World.

Richard Dix flunked in drama while attending the St. Paul Catherine High School. Arthur Sheeksen, who studied dramatics at the same school, is now seen atartt at Paramount, while Richard Arlen, who attended the institution, did study the subject.

Edward Cronjager is complete photography on “Secret Servant” which stars Richard Dix. Cronjager was also in charge of the camera work on “Cimarron” and “The Big Defender.”

Harry Allen has been signed Paramount for George Baner’s next vehicle, “Rieh Man’s Folly.”

J. H. Kerr has collected a “farm” of domestic animals valued at $10,000. The animals are sent to motion picture studios.

Deny Studio Closing

Denial that the United Artists' studio is closing for six months, as reported, is made by executives of the plant. Closing is now under way on two pictures.

The Domino club, which was organized less than two years ago, has 255 members. On Sept. 14, the club's activities move to their permanent home in West Hollywood. Mrs. James Gleason, president, and members have, to a great extent, outgrown the club's original plan.

Others prominent on the council and committees of the club are George Drexel, Mrs. Cecil P. Miley, Dorothy Bernard Van Cleve, Olive Cooper, Mae Marsh, Katherine Givney, Dorothy jersey, Jo Wallace, Mrs. Edward R. Robinson, Edith Taylor Thompson, Julia Dean, Mary Forbes, Mrs. Ludden Hare, Mable Fulton, Helen DeStefani, Frances Rotoli, Miss DeWitt Jennings.

Among the "Dominoes" are Mary Pickford, Ruth Chatterton, Helen hundler, Ona Munson, Joan Crawford, Lisa Busquet and Frances Starr. Mrs. Ken Maynard is an associate member, since she is non-professional.

More Passing Show: Martin Corin, Walter Ledgewood, John Power and H. Mehl, the survivors in the Fox tennis tournament, which will be completed Sunday; Robert freemel moving on Sunset Blvd.

Robert Planck, who photographed "Three Live Ghosts" and who has worked on several other United Artists productions, is doing the camera work on "Penthouse Murder," which is being produced by Famous Attractions, with Thornton Freeland directing.

Mel Brown, accompanied by Mrs. Brown and their daughter, has left on a two months' vacation which will take them to the northwest. They will stop at Spokane, Seattle, Tacoma, Portland and several Canadian cities, possibly reaching Alaska, before turning homeward. Brown recently completed "Fanny Pally Herself" for RKO Radio Pictures.

George A. Arcaimbau, has been assigned to direct Louis Weitzenkorn's "Pick-Up" which has been adapted to the screen by Wallace Smith, Robert Aldrich, Richard Cortez and Mary Astor have been selected to head the cast.

Elissa Landi is planning to sail for a visit about Sept. 15 if—and it's the "if" that worries Elissa—her current Fox picture, "The Yellow Ticket," is finished by then.

Anthony Coldewey, former scena-rio editor and story executive for First National, has been signed as a member of RKO Pathe's writing staff.

Will Rogers has a new pal-eight-year-old Tad Alexander. Tad was signed by Fox Films to play the part of the boy king in "Dollar Bill," Rogers' next picture.

Both Dudley Digges and O. P. Heggie, screen character actors, became interested in acting through amateur theatricals. Digges was active in the "Irish Players," in his native Dublin. Heggie's outstanding work as an amateur performer while attending Whimham College in Adelaide, Australia, where he was born, won him professional offers.

Ralf Harloe, who has an important role in Eddie Quillan's RKO production, "The Tip Off," has the distinction of playing his very first 400 stage plays during a career which extends over a period of 10 years.

Helen Twelvetrees will return in a few days from a trip to Vancouver, in the course of which she leisurely motored north and came home by steamer.

Dorothy Tree, now under contract with Paramount, will make her screen debut in "One, a Lady." Ruth Chatterton's new feature. The story is by Zoe Akins and will be directed by Guthrie McClintic.

Peggy Shannon will play the feminine lead in Paramount's "Foeshe down," Richard Arlen, Jack Oakie and Charles Starrett are also in the cast.

Paramount has purchased the screen rights for "As Husbands Go," a stage success selected as one of the ten best plays in 1930-31 by Burns Mantle.

"The Beloved Bachelor" is the title selected for Paul Lukas' forthcoming Paramount vehicle. Lloyd Corrigan will direct.

The cast of Paramount's "Girls About Town" will include Kay Francis, Joel McCrea, Lilian Tashman, Evelyn Tagg, Margaret Card and Judith Wood.

Halliwell Hobbes and Edgar Norton have been added to the cast of "Dr. Jekyll and Mr. Hyde" which Paramount will produce with Fredric March in the title role.

Frances Agnew has arrived in Hollywood to join Paramount's writing staff.

SHORT SHOTS from EASTERN STUDIOS

DUE to the illness of Rose Marriella, Bee Sheldon is acting as Claudette Colbert's stand-in for "Blind Cargo." Miss Colbert's newest screen play in which she shares stellar honors with Gary Cooper.

Casey Robinson, who both wrote and directed "Romany," a Paramount short subject starring Ethel Merman, for which John Green composed the music, is now at work on Miss Merman's next picture for Paramount, as yet untitled.

With two features and a record number of shorts in work at Paramount's New York studio, Fred Graf, studio hairdresser has found it necessary to re-engage Freida Schmidt as his assistant.

William Steiner, Jr., is chief cam-eraman on "Blind Cargo" with Joe Nadel acting as production manager on the same picture which Edward Slioman is directing.

Harry W. Conn has just completed "Wild and Woody Vest" for Smith & Dale's latest Paramount short which Aubrey Scotto directed, is now on scouring dialogue for the next of the series to be made by that popular team of laugh-getters.

While filming scenes for "Blind Cargo," on a freighter out on the Atlantic, little 9-months-old Richard Spire, who figures prominently in the action, proved himself the best sailor of them all. When several members of the picture unit got off the boat to test their conversation with themselves—so much, in fact, that he refused to miss anything by taking his regular afternoon nap.

After a long period at Para-mount's New York studio, where he completed work on "Ernst Lubpeople Merrill White returns to this week to the company's West Coast plant, where he will edit "The Man I Killed," Lubrach's latest effort, White was responsible for the cut-ting and editing of "The Smiling Lieutenant."

Following the completion of her role as feminine lead in "The Man I Killed," it is understood that Parma-mount will star Nancy Carroll in an elaborate musical production.

Lonnie D'Orna, former assistant to Edmund Goulding, sailed this week on the Ile De France, for a brief European vacation.

Richard Bay, formerly as-sistant director at Paramount's New York studio, and more recently right hand man to D. W. Griffith during the filming of "The Struggle," has returned to the Coast.

"Fairy Dust," third of the series of Simple Simon two-reel comedies, is now in the process of editing, having recently been completed at the Audio Cinema studio. Louis Sayes heads a cast of 100, which includes Harry Tighe and Gertrude Mudge.

With a gesture of disdain toward Hollywood, Paramount recently closed a two-reel deal with wilds of Long Island, for "Wild and Woolly Vest," a two-reel comedy starring Smith & Dale.

Arthur Ellis, who has edited sev-eral Paramount features since re-turning from the Juvenile studies where he was in charge of cutting all foreign language versions, has been assigned the editing of "Blind Cargo," now in production here, with Claudette Colbert and Gary Cooper in the featured roles.

Joe Ruttenberg, having completed D. W. Griffith's "The Struggle," for which he was loaned by Paramount to act as chief cameraman, is now working on "The Cheat," with George Folsey.

Ford Sterling has started work on "Walking the Dogs," last of a series of two-reel comedies in which he is starring at the Paramount New York studio. Frances Hyland wrote the script and Al. Ray is directing.

Robert Ripley has completed his 10th "Believe It Or Not" short for Vitaphone. He utilized material gathered on his recent trip through Morocco, Algeria, Tunisia, Egypt, Palestine, Syria and Turkey.

As soon as "Havana Cocktails" was completed, footage for Paramount's Vitaphone studio, production was immediately started on "Platinum Blondes." The former was finished at noon, Tuesday, and the latter one hour later after the gang had eaten lunch.

Warm weather is still with us, and the theater operator who goes that age-long dictum of showmanship that the month of September ends the outdoor recreation season is beginning to make plans and decide his policy for the coming winter season.

Aside that cool dark nights will soon upon us and the many who have ventured to out-door pastimes will soon be flocking back to the genial warmth of under-cover entertainment, and as picture goers have become accustomed to de-lux houses, offering entertainment under the conditions of the East, it is up to every individual operator and manager to put his house in condition so that he will get the fullest possible benefit from that potential business. The fact that we do not be overlooked that it is during the first few weeks of the season the seed for the whole winter's volume of business is sow. Aside from any alterations and improvements in equipment that you may plan, check up on your sound and see that it is up to standard, for your projection equipment may be beginning to wear. Have it gone thorough and replace any worn parts. Be sure that you have sufficient supply of spare parts in case of emergency. Check up on your screen. It may be dirty, bulgy or loose. Where boiler heating is used the boilers should be overhauled and tried out, and a sufficient supply of fuel laid in to meet any sudden demand. Sometimes a "cold snap" will bring a rush if patrons to the theater and a "welcome impression" given patrons on their first visit may have material effect on business all during the season.

These and many other ideas which automatically suggest themselves when putting one's theater in condition, will be carried out within the next few weeks by the keen and resourceful showman who is always eager to take advantage of any and every circumstance to popularize his theater for the coming season.

The time for remodeling, decorating, making improvements and checking your equipment is NOW.

CHINA MAY SOON MAKE OWN TALKING PICTURES

Shanghai—Reports are being circulated here that sound recording apparatus will soon be installed in five Chinese motion picture studios. Three of the projects are said to be being financed by American companies, and two American manufacturers will be involved in the stage of talk. The sound apparatus will be brought in from America, and American sound technicians will be brought here to teach the Chinese the intricate processes of producing talking pictures.

There are approximately 300 picture theaters in China, 55 of which are equipped for sound reproduction. Of the remaining 245 about 100 show only Chinese pictures, the remaining 145 giving mixed programs of American, Chinese and European silent pictures. The popularity of talking pictures in China is so great that the sale of silent films is considered merely a means of marking time until China is able to produce talking pictures in the Chinese language.

Directors at present are concentrating their efforts on the 55 theaters with sound reproduction equipment. Twenty-two of these are in Shanghai and six in Hong Kong. These theaters produce most of the revenue. A talking picture shown in Shanghai returns a profit of about $7,000 Mexican, while the revenue of the same picture in Peking is around $300 Mexican.

ECUADOR MAY GET TALKIES WITHIN THE NEXT YEAR

Guayaquil—A good deal of interest is being manifested in Ecuador in talking pictures. In fact, one of the leading companies is now making inquiries for small portable machines available for sound track and disc reproduction. One American manufacturer of sound equipment is represented in Ecuador as is a German competing company. It is considered likely that both Guayaquil and Quito may have sound theaters within a year, despite the fact that economic conditions will not now permit of the increased admission price which would be necessary to support talking pictures.

Film Africa from Air

London—Roy Tackett, British avi-ator who is planning to fly over uncharted sections of Africa to make a picture from the air, will take a 16 mm camera and shoot several thousand feet of film by the film-for-wide-screen process.

Paris' 2,500 Seat Newsrel Theater

Paris—The rush to build newsrel theaters is on. Two such houses are already open and the Electric Palace is to be transformed into a newsrel theater. Such a theater on a grand scale, seating 2,500, is in the process of erection on the Place Cligny, while a 350 seater is being built in the Boulevard Haussmann.

BRITISH CENSOR BOARD PASSES FEWER PICTURES

London—A big drop in the number of motion pictures passed by the British censors for the half year ending June 30 was looked for on account of the economic conditions, but the decrease is bigger than was expected. While there was an increase in 100 sound pictures passed as against 291 the year before, there was a decrease of 356 in the number of silent pictures passed in comparison with the figures for the first half of 1930. The decrease was greatest in feature pictures, but 95 silent productions having been passed as against 239 in the year before, were a big factor in the decrease of 15 per cent in silent shorts noted as in the case of features.

COUNTY COUNCILS TO AID IN BRITISH CENSORSHIP

London—Upon the advice of the British Home Secretary, the County Council's Association may keep in closer contact with local authorities and discuss any matters that arise upon which the Board may wish to be advised by local authorities.

The County Councils' Association has accepted Home Secretary Clynes' suggestion and thus a semi-official censorship is in the offing. In some circles it was thought that the new arrangement might prove a sort of Board of Appeal from the Censor Board, and considerable satisfaction was expressed at the prospect, but this proves to have been a misunderstanding of the Home Office's official communication to the County Councils' Association.

It was suggested by the Home Secretary that the consultative committee should consist of (say) ten members, four to be nominated by the County Councils' Association, four by the Municipal Corporations' Association and two by the L. C. C.

MALVERN FESTIVAL TO BECOME TRADE SHOW

Malvern, Eng.—So great was the success of the Malvern Film Festival conducted by British International Pictures concurrently with the Festival of Old English Drama, that the Film Festival next year will become a trade show at which film never previously seen in Great Britain will be screened. Business at the Malvern Picture House, duration of the festival, is said to have been greater than that of a number of London's leading motion picture theaters.
Novelty Diving Beauties Click in Capitol Revue

The Capitol stage show is set around a strong flash novelty act, with the setting built around a diving tank, concealed in front from the audience, but with large mirrors enabling them to see the diving girls as they splash. Eight girls appear first in regular costumes, and parade up the steps and dive into the tank, fully clothed. They appear almost instantly in different costumes. This routine continues, through a series of costumes until they reach the final elimination for a few spangles. The finale has the girls doing a series of fancy diving tricks while in the Elim, in pip for a summer show. With the audience trying to figure out the change costume gag. The balance of the bill preceding opens with the Chester Hare Girls in a routine featuring parrots; a stepper with an eccentric shake; a comedy acrobatic trampoline team who get the laughs with their trick legs. A female soloist is introduced to the diving tank act.

"GUilty hands" with Lionel Barrymore, Kay Francis M-G-M. MURDER THEMEN: A US VICTORY PLAYS MAKES STRONG DRAMATIC FARE, WITH LIONEL BARRYMORE GIVING SPLENDID PERFORMANCE.

This is an original by Bayard Veiller, who wrote it with much of the tricky stage technique for building thrills that made him famous under the title of "The Play's the Thing." If you stop to analyze the motivation, it is full of holes and illogical, but Barrymore and intelligent young girl insists on marrying a middle aged rogue after her father, has clearly shown her the type of rotten he is. But outside of this basic fact on which the entire plot is built, it's fine entertainment that can. Barrymore's acting is good, and he does not get away with it. Which fact furnishes a great deal of entertainment.

CAST: Lionello Barrymore, Kay Francis, Madge Evans, William Bakewell, C. Aubrey Smith, Polly Moran, Alan Mowbray, Forbes Harver, Charles Crockett, Henry Barron. Director, W. S. Van Dyke; Author, Bayard Veiller; Adaptation, Anne Bauchens; Cameramen, Meritt, Winterstein. Direction, very good. Photography, excellent.

"THE GREAT LOVER" with Myrna Loy and Robert Ames M-G-M. ARTIFICIAL STORY OF OPERATIC LIFE Creates LITTLE LIFE IN A USA TOUR WITH MENJOU HANDICAPPED.

Adapted from an old stage play, this one is outstanding for the talkies. There are over a half dozen in many other screen plays, so far as the atmosphere of the opera is concerned, but there are few that get through the reefs. Menjou does his best as the great lover, but none of the scenes gives him a chance to prove that he really is such. He is just a great opera singer with another femme opera divo tattling his wife, who falls in love with a girl with operatic aspirations. But nowhere is a great love scene developed, or anything that excites the tongue. And the girl, played by Irene Dunne, flippets from her love for the opera star to her love for her original sweetheart, a lesser opera star, until Menjou makes up his mind for her by doing the big sacrifice act in the end. So Menjou is good, and everybody can breathe a sigh of relief. It's just one of those unsatisfactory, wobbly type of screen plays.

CAST: Adolphe Menjou, Irene Dunne, Ernest Dearth, Gordon Harker, Donald O'Connor, Cliff Edwards, Hale Hamilton, Roscoe Arbuckle, Lewis Stone, May Whitty, Robert Gable, Victor McLaglen. Director, Harry Reammond; Authors, Leo McCarey, Gene Harkey; Adaptation, Gene Harkey; Editor, Helen Warne; Cameramen, Meritt B. Gerstad; Recording Engineer, not listed. Direction, weak. Photography, okay.

"REBOUND" with Ina Claire, Robert Ames RKO Pathé. Time, 67 minutes. CLASS PRODUCTION WITH SPLENDID CAST, ABSORBING LOVE THEME THAT WILL GET FEELINGS GOING, AND CLEVER DIALOGUE.

Taken from the stage play by Donald Ogden Stewart, it looks like a perfect presentation in screen form. It is not made for the masses, now that the classes and the not the masses, but with such a human theme that even the morons can get it without perfect. And Edward H. Griffith has directed with his usual cunning and understanding of the fine shades the subject the author tried to inject in characters and situations. It involves a marriage mixup, with Robert Ames as the hubby rebundling in his attention to a girl who has married another. Meanwhile Ames has married and lives around the efforts of his wife (Ina Claire) to hold his love and outwit the other woman. A natural for the film, this one has a great mixup, and soon searches deep into a woman's soul with a powerful punch. And the dialogue sparkles.

"UNDOwT" with Mary Nolan, Johnny Mack Brown Universal. Time, 56 minutes. UNSATISFACTORY DRAMA WITH LIGHTHOUSE ATMOSPHERE AND MARY NOLAN LOST IN DRAMATIC ROLE.

They decided for some reason that they had to do a dramatic role, and as a demonstration were married to a poor lighthouse keep- er, and with a baby in the bargain, Mary was completely submerged. Johnny Mack Brown gives a good performance insofar as a wobbly story will permit him. Johnny takes the girl away from her fiance, who happens to be a lighthouse inspector who gets Johnny married with his new wife in a lonely lighthouse. Johnny goes blind, the rival arrives and tries to seduce Mary, and she goes so far as to desert Johnny and the lighthouse. But remorse overtakes her, and she leaves the hall bedroom and beats it back to the lighthouse where Johnny has miraculously recovered his sight in time to beat up his rival when he returns to put the cork in the cork screw more. Pretty dizzy, and too implausible to get anywhere.

CAST: Mary Nolan, Johnny Mack Brown, Robert Ellis, Churchill Ross, Audrey Ferris, Fred Kohler, Dan Keenan, Dennis O'Keefe, Bela Lugosi, Daniel Steele; Adapters, Winnifred Reeve; Director, Robert Ellis. Photography, not listed; Cameramen, Jerri Asl; Recording Engineer, not listed. Direction, poor. Photography, fair.

"PERSONAL MAID" Paramount. Time, 70 minutes. MILD COMEDY DRAMA ENHANCED BY A SUPERLATIVE CAST AND FINE DIRECTION—BEST BEAT TO UNDISCRIMINATING AUDIENCES.

A splendid cast tries valiantly to overcome the story weaknesses in this picture and succeeds in giving a series of excellent performances. This is particularly true of Mary Boland, stage star, who garnered plenty of laughs. Gene Raymond in a role which is generally unsympathetic, stands out and Miss Car- roll and George Fawcett contribute good pieces of work. But the story never materializes to an interest holding degree. It concerns a little Irish girl who becomes a personal maid with a wealthy family and finds that practically all the men that Miss Carroll ever knew "wants the make." Eventually the scheme of the family reforms and is ready to wed her at the fade out.

CAST: Nancy Carroll, Pat O'Brien, Gene Raymond, Mary Boland, George Fawcett, Hugh O'Meara. Director, Monta Bell; Author, Grace Perkin; Adapters, Adelaide Heibloom; Dialogue, Adele Roland; Editor, Dan Loughlin; Recording Engineer, C. A. Tuthill. Direction, grade A. Photography, good.

"MANY A SLIP" Universal. Time, 64 minutes. WEAK COMEDY IDEA UN- SATISFACTORIZED MOTIVATION THAT HAS LITTLE POINT OR INTEREST TO CARRY IT THROUGH.

Just a weak number that was intended to be a light domestic comedy to carry things through—so weak, little plot to carry it, and the motivation is not only weak but illogical, until that one little family that the young hero married into a meddlesome family that was always trying to tell his wife what to do and how to do it. Then hubby gets an erron- eous impression that the stork is on the way, and goes out and loads on a closet with toys in anticipa- tion. And friend wife hasn't the heart to enlighten him that it's all a mistake. So when he finds that there isn't any baby, and that he is, he leaves her in a huff. Some weeks later the family drops in on one at a time to tell him through that he is the way on after all. Then the happy reconciliation, with the play having teetered between comedy, numbness, and domestic tragic—and getting nowhere. So the title is still good.

CAST: Joan Bennett, Lew Ayres, Slim Summerville, George Meeker, Roscoe Karns, Vivian Oakland, C. J. Nugent, W. Morgan, Van Moore; Author, Edith Fis- serald, Robert Tiskin; Director, Gladys Leb- berg; Photography, Edward G. Boyle; Cameramen, Jerome Asch; Recording Engineer, C. Roy Hunter. Direction, weak. Photography, good.
"THE HOMICIDE SQUAD" with Leo Carrillo, Mary Brian, Noah Beery, Russell Gleason
Universal
Time, 60 mins.
TENSE, THRILLING GAN- MELODRAMA PACKED WITH SUSPENSE. Russell Gleason gives exceptional portrayal.

Exhibiting a goodly amount of direct dramatical vein, George Melford has turned out this gangster picture, so ruthless in its treatment of the underdog, that in its emotional theme, that only strong-hearted and staunch-nerved audience will be able to sit through it without "holding tight" and sitting on the edge of their chairs. Russell Gleason contributes a piece of acting that would "make" him even if one of his other fine portrayals counted.

In the part of a weak-kneed kid who gets mixed up with a gang and españoles is the burden of drama. Carrillo, as the killer, gives a neat, suave reading. In order to get the killer to confess, the homicide squad cleverly makes the killer think that the kid is his long lost son. This is the weakness point and he falls for the trick. There is plenty of shooting and "sweating" gripping romance.

Cast: Leo Carrillo, Noah Beery, Mary Brian, Russell Gleason, Pat O'Malley, J. Farrell MacDonald.

Director, George Melford; Author, Henry Le Fevre; Associate director, John D. William; Dialogue, same; Editor, Maurice Fiver; Sound Supervision, G. Roy Hunter; Camera, George Robinson.

Direction, exceptional. Photography, excellent.

"THE WHITE DEVIL" with Ivan Mosjoukine Talking Picture Episode
Time, 77 mins.
COLORFUL DRAMA OF OLD RUSSIA FROM TOLOSTOY NOVEL. A STRIKING POPULAR KICK WITH ROMANCE, BATTLE SCENES AND FINE SETTINGS.

This is a Ufa production employing an English cast principally, with Ivan Mosjoukine as the Cau- casian military leader in Tolstoi's story, "Hadjchi Murat." The settings throughout are very elaborate and it has been ingeniously directed with the cast uniformly good. Color atmosphere, with the Caucasian mountain tribe attacked by the Czar's hordes, and overcoming them through the trickery of their leader. Then he is forced to flee to St. Petersburg through the treachery of a jealous rival leader. Here he meets an old village sweetheart, whom he saves from the advances of the Czar. Fleeing back to his mountain village, after he has lost his life to save his sweetheart from the Czarist troops. Moves swiftly, with lots of suspense.

Cast: Ivan Mosjoukine, Lil Dagover, Betty Amsom, Fritz Albert, Underwood, Jack Salt, Winchell; Director, Ivan Mosjoukine; Author, Leo Tolstoi; Adaptor, not credited; Dialogue, same; Editor, not credited; Recording Engineers, Harvey & Phillips.

Direction, satisfactory. Photography, very good.

MOTHER AND SON with Clara Kimball Young
Monogram
Time, 61 mins.
POP DRAMA THEME HITTING THE HUMAN INTEREST ANGLE WITH MOTHER LOVE AND CLARA GETTING OVERSTRONG.

This has the elements that makes for the popular entertainment classification. Clara Kimball Young is well cast as Faro Lili of the old West. She is an attractive dame, and now reformed and living a quiet life, her only ambition to see her son succeed. He is riding around with a society girl, daughter of a Wall street financier. Clara goes broke in the stock market, and drifts to Reno, where she becomes the silent partner of the man and his partner. This is a strong story, illustrating the jail break of a dangerous criminal and his recapture under very dramatic circumstances. Fine production values throughout, the reel moving with an air of realism that grips you. For the thrill lovers, it has the stuff that will send it in strong.

Cast: Clara Kimball Young, Bruce War- ren, Mildred Golden, John Elliot, Ernest Millard, Gordon Wood.

Director, John F. McCarthy; Author, Wel- lington Cook; Adaptation, same; Editor, Len Wheeler; Camera, Archie Stout.

Direction, good. Photography, fair.

"PARTNERS OF THE TRAIL" with Tom Tyler
Monogram
Time, 63 mins.
SLOW ACTION WITH STORY TAKING TOO LONG TO GET TO WESTERN, BUT SNAPS UP TOWARD THE END.

This has one of those semi-mys- tery plots with the hero trying to guess just who is what and which is the hero. Tom Tyler is the bandit, who meets up with an Eastern tenderfoot who has fled from the law. But the law catches up with him, and Tom rescues him from the sheriff's clutches. Then as the story nears the end you learn that the Eastern lad was railroaded for shooting a dame who was really shot by Tom, for the lady was a faithless wife. So the Eastern boy had escaped the jail, and come West to kill the man for whom he had suffered. It is all very confusing, and meanwhile little has occurred in the way of action to entitle it to the action western classification. But it snaps up toward the close, with the sheriff again hot on the trail, with Tom in the lead. At Eastern station, Tom's pal, from a bandit's career, and Tom wondering who is double-crossing him. Pretty good and illogical motivation throughout.

Cast: Tom Tyler, Betty Mack, Reginald Darnell, Jack McKEW; Director, Wally Forre; Author, G. A. Dun- lam; Adaptor, not credited; Dialogue, same; Editor, not credited; Camera, Ernst Storr; Recording Engineers, Harvey & Phillips.

Direction, indifferent. Photography, okay.

"THE TRAIL OF THE SWORDFISH" Educational
Time, 11 mins.
"Sport Thriller"

The first episode in "Cannibals of the Deep" series, from the Sennett studios. Mack Sennett himself is featured in one of his deep sea fishing movies. One of the finest sea fishing pictures ever made. It carries a powerful wallop, with Sennett in two thrilling battles with a giant tuna and swordfish. The sight of the latter leaping high from the water as the sunlight is a gorgeous and thrilling spectacle that will warm the heart of every outdoor sports lover. A genuine novelty, done with class.

"The Trap" Educational
Time, 11 mins.
A Thriller

The latest in the William J. Burns Detective series has been snapped up so that it does not look like it belonged to the same series. Here we have a strong story illustrating the jail break of a dangerous criminal and his recapture under very dramatic circumstances. Fine production values throughout, the reel moving with an air of realism that grips you. For the thrill lovers, it has the stuff that will send it in strong.

"The Cannonball" Educational
Time, 22 mins.
Surefire

Strong comedy that rates high on the production angle, which has enough to fill a half dozen of the routine comedy shorts. The gags are highly original, with Andy Clyde scoring heavily all the way as the inventor of a rocket who in- herits a broken down jerkwater rail- road with one wobbly car and a few cars.

The climax is a race between Andy's train and the new bus, for the mail carrying contract. This sequence is a riot of laughs, with the trick stuff snappy and original. Surefire in any house.

"The Tamale Vendor" Educational
Time, 21 mins.
Can't Miss

Swell laugh number, with Tom Patricola going over strong with his eccentric comedy guitar playing and fast stepping in a Mexican hacienda setting. Tom falls in love with the Mexican girl whose rich father has forbidden him to marry her middle-aged Mar. This part is played beautifully by Charles Ju- dels, who is an excellent foil for Tom, if they build only of the snappiest and funniest comedies of the season. It is an ex- ample of Sennett's knack for fine characterization and classy artistry by this new comedy team. Can't miss.

"Volley and Smash" M-G-M Time, 11 mins.
"A Pip"

The third of the William T. Tilden tennis series. Likened to their predecessors, this is about the best sports offering that we can recall among all the varied sports series. Tilden is superb, both in his on court play and in his intelligent handling of the explanatory dialogue. He has fine voice, and is an actor par excellence. The camera work is unsurpassed. The lightning delivery of the tennis champ has been caught perfectly, with a splendid technical treatment. The various volley strokes are analyzed in slow motion, with a white marking devise to outline the sweep of the champ's tennis racket. Finishes with some fast tournament brand of play with an opponent, like with J. Parker Macdonal as explained. A pip for any house.

"One More Time" Vitaphone 5602 Time, 9 mins.
"Cartoon Cutups"

Foxy and Honey, new entrants in the field of animated characters are featured in the third of a series of "Merrie Melodies," music for which is supplied by Abe Ly- man and his band. The characteristic "One More Time" and an under-world plot has been given the action. It's entertaining stuff, aid- ed by some new pen and ink gags.

"Fur, Fur Away" Paramount Time, 18 mins.
"Pip Comedy"

Larry Kent's New York studio department has turned out another comedy woz with Nat Howansky and Dave Smith and Dale team clowning in grand style. Locate this time is the frozen North with the two comedians muscling into the fur trading racket. The comedy never slows down and the gags are surefire. Casey Robinson directed.

Bobbi Jones in "How I Play Golf" Vitaphone 5209 Time, 11 mins.
Fine

The ninth episode in the Bobby Jones series, "How I Play Golf." A funny foursome is used for atmos- phere, with J. Farrell Macdonal for the comedy relief. Mac gets sore when the foursome razz him for his poor driving, and his bad sleep. In his dreams, Bobby tells him the fine points of driving, and corrects his mistakes. Then Mac learns to up, and is razzed with the foursome and makes a beautiful drive, leaving them speechless. A swell gag for getting over the golf champ's instructions.

Bobby's work and explanatory talk are aces.

THINGS WE Never Thought Worth Mentioning Till Now . . . that the reason more babies are not employed in talkies, even though women go wild about ‘em, is because of the “ifs, ands buts” imposed by the war, Howard V. Estabrook and Warner. . . and they can only be employed two hours in the morning and two in the afternoon . . . and an infant cannot be worked under the lights more than 30 seconds at a time . . . and they must employ the baby’s mother and a trained nurse and arrange for a nursery outside of that, using an infant in pix is perfectly simple.

THAT nowadays a screen writer feels slighted unless there are two or three charges of plagiarism confronting him every time he produces a new picture . . . that, according to Howard Estabrook, these charges of plagiarism constitute a new racket, two stories recently prepared by Estabrook for RKO had not been produced before letters were received claiming plagiarism . . . in one case only three people knew what the story was about . . . so Howard figures these plagiarism racketeers must be psychic.

THAT Pep-O-grams, mag of the Paramount Pep Club, takes Eddie Brown, cashier, for a Dizzy Ride on his famous mustache . . . claiming he spends an hour each night working on the dandruff . . . using his props . . . and topping off with white lead filler and a coat of weatherproof varnish . . . but elves, the Paramount gals say the result is worth it all.

THAT since Harold Noise made that pix, “Explorers of the World,” at the Atlas Soundfilm stude, featuring himself and five other explorers—the rest of the gang at the Explorers Club have swapped him with reels of their own explorations . . . and are yelling for a chance to go Hollywood.

THAT “Vally,” famous cartoonist who wrote the history of war for the A.E.F. in comics, is doing the art work for “The Legion on Parade” a three-reel production with story built around the Legion’s national convention at Detroit . . . which Jaysee Williams will release.

THAT the politest elevator operator in the Broadway sector is in the Loew’s State building . . . he thanks ya when ya step in and out . . . his life is just a continuous Thanksgiving . . . that whether a guy enters the bridle path or the bridal path, he’s gotta operate under a check-rein which reminds us that the week ending Sept. 12 is Paramount Week . . . for both of us . . . and check-rein is right.

THAT Robert Bruce Coleman, director and inventor of Visu-Color process . . . is wondering whether he is still a director or a newspaper dramatic critic . . . since Mister Coleman of the “Mirror” was so shocked on learnin’ that a muggle in the film biz was usin’ His Name . . . to promote a picture organizin’ . . . that Hype Coleman, pioneer projection room operator, is busy running the Motorized Talking Picture Service outfit over at 727 Seventh Avenue that the next Tiffany Chimp comic is called “Gland Hotel” and on which they probably will refer to the customers as “jests.” It’s a cinch there will be a lotta monkey biz goin’ on this hotel.

LINDA WATKINS, Helen Mae and Conchita Montenegro mad their bow as the Fox “Debutante Stars” at a press dinner at the Fox studios. William Collier, Sr., acted as toastmaster.

Allan Dwan, in introducing Mia Mace, told of casting her for a role in “Zaza,” starring Gloria Swanson. Helen is about 10 years old, at the time. In her album, Dwan had written “To a sweet little girl, with a great future.” Toastmaster Collier said the words were “ specially for albums.”

Barbara Ann Blue, five and one half year old daughter of Mont Blue, is reported recuperating for a long appendicitis operation.

Chi. Theater Owners Seek Dissolution of Injunction

The action was taken in an effort to have licenses of permit men revoked after it had been charged they were obtained by fraud. Judge Hall referred the matter to a Master in Chancery who will at once start taking testimony on it. It is likely that some time will elapse before a decision is reached. Otherwise the situation has been no change in the situation. Theaters at which stench bombs were set off on Saturday, the Jackson Park and the Madelein, are on the South and the West Sides respectively. The police are still investigating the stench bombings of these two houses. Assistant State's Attorney Charles E. Lounsbury recommended that the licenses of 137 non-union projectionists be revoked, alleging that with one exception they had been obtained by fraud.

CLAUDETTE COLBERT, Hugh O'Connell, Betty Garde and Georges Metaxa, principals in "Secrets of a Secretary," were present at the New York opening of the picture on Friday night, at the Paramount theater. It was necessary for O'Connell to hurry over between acts of "Once in a Lifetime," in which he has been playing the role of Dr. Lewis, while he created and has acted for 23 years, eh.

MARGARET LEE, who plays the femme lead opposite Walter O'Keefe in "Platinum Blonde," a Vitaphone short, prepared for a picture called "The Cheat" by playing roles in recent Broadway shows, including "Made in Hollywood" and "June Moon," she now appearing in "Once In a Lifetime," the stage satire on Hollywood.

Paramount Notes: Gary Cooper looking bronzed and fit, attracting much feminine admiration at various first nights.... Tallulah Bankhead called over her role in "The Cheat".... Terry Carroll, Nancy sister, is again acting as her star. In... Entire upper stage resembles the deck of an ocean liner for "Blind Cargo."

Along the Rialto with Phil M. Daly

- LITTLE over two years ago there was a young feller acting as operator in the booth of the Pablix Theater in Lakeland, Florida—a quiet sort of a chap—one of those kind who lets others do the yapping while he does the heavy thinking. a mugg with a mechanical inventive turn of mind, always foolin' around with cameras and projection machines in his spare time. while the other operators fooled around with. well, what DO operators fool around with after business hours? the result was the invention of the Contrer lens adapter....which is now an important part of most of the projection machines of the nation....and for this lil' gimmick which J. Bergi Contrer knocked off in his spare time...he collected 25 grand outright, not bad for a youngster of 23 years, eh.

MEANWHILE Bergi had struck up an acquaintance with George Guilette, one who was makin' local advertisin' reeins in that section....George used Bergi to shoot some of his pix....and discoverin' that this young man was a wiz with the lens....so they joined forces....and came up here to the Big Hamlet....resolved to Do or Bust....and in two short years these ginks have been steppin' along together high, wise and handsome....having made it a threesome with Verne Braman....another young man with inventive genius....and ya can walk over to the Atlas Souninum stude any day....and see a practical demonstration of what they are doin'....not only in sound....but in Color....they havin' associated themselves with Gregory Linder, proxy of Colorfilm Corp....a swell combina- tion that is knockin' 'em dead in all branches of studio activity.

JUST TO complete the record about Mister Contrer he has put the sound in the Akeley cameras....doped out a nifty portable sound outfit that has been officially adopted by the U. S. Navy....and with this set he knocked off the Cineglow sound system of recording....and outside of that, Bergi has just been loanin' around wastin' his Youth....and if this lad of 26 ever settles down in earnest....we'll betcha that he will be heard from....meanwhile he is an ocmial of all three corpora- tions above mentioned....drawin' handsome salaries three ways, of course....just a Southern boy tryin' to struggle along in a Tough Racket....while a lotta veterans born and raised in the film biz.....are constantly complainin' that there are no Breaks!....oops.

THIS MUST be Youth's Day in this column....for here we have the spectacle of Alvin Adams—bein' moved up from the press book dept. of Paramount....to the very important position of assistant advertisin' manager....when Cliff Lewis succeeded Russell Holman....and it seems only like yesterday....that Alvin could be seen runnin' around cheerfully....just a kid off a boy in the same organization....golly, they sure do Move Up fast in this Paramount outfit....when they've got The Stuff....like Alvin has.

UNDERSTAND that Mister Goldwyn's pix, "Street Scene," was put through the works without any United Artists credit on the print....ready to show to the Rivoli....but they changed their minds and cut in a silent credit strip for the New York opening.

PIES again come into their own.
Mack Sennett is rewriting "The Great Pie Mystery," a burlesque based on gangster and mystery tales, which will feature Harry Gribbin and May Boley. Del Lord is the director.

Ten former collegiate grid stars, including three all-Americans and four team captains, have been signed by Paramount to appear in "Touchdowns," The ten are Russ Saunders, Morley Drury, Jesse Hibbs, Roy Beigals, Nate Barragar, Harry Edelson, Marjor April, Jesse Show, Frank Anthony and Dick Templeton.

Joan Peers has been added by Fox to the cast of "Over the Hill." Mae Marsh, James Dunn, Sally Eilers, James Kirkwood, William Pawley and Edward Crandall have leading roles. Henry King will direct.

Recently, genial Jed Buell, probably affected by the heat, went the last week and wrote a poem dedicated to his goldfish. Jed is Boswell for Mack Sennett.

Harry Carr recently typed the following: "I have been in many groups of men when they were talking. I have yet to hear one man talk about babies—nor have I ever seen a man show a photo of a baby." Apparently, Harry has never met Jerry Hoff.

If stars should be cast according to picture titles, we would place Bow Fox in "The Greeks Had a Word for It."

Howard A. Green is working on his third original story for Columbia. It will star Jack Holt. Green wrote "The Dangerous Affair," co-starring Holt and Ralph Graves, and an original for Barbara Stanwyck.

Molly O'Day replaces Sally O'Neill in the Fox film production, "Soap Sister."

Junior Coghlan is taking his art seriously. Signed for a jockey role in the Tiffany Production, "Race Track," starring Leo Carrillo. Junior is practising up on his gaiting a few hours a day, and running down to Agua Caliente to ride the famous track which will be seen in the picture.

Isabelle Withers, Howard Hickman, Wally Albright and Bud Jamieson have been added to the cast of "The Big Scoop," an RKO production directed by Frank Blyweat, with Mae Busch in an important role. Harry Sweet is directing.

First National does itself proud in the casting of Starlyn Miller's new starring vehicle, "Her Majesty, Love." Ben Lyon will play opposite her, and tour—count em, tour—comedians will be in the cast—Leon Errol, W. C. Field, Ford Sterling and Chester Conklin. Others in Miss Miller's support will be Guy Kibbee, Maude Eburne, Ruth Hall, Brandon Hurst and Mac Madison. Production starts Sept. 8 under the direction of William Dieterle.

"Freights of Destiny" is the new western story purchased from Adele Brotton by RKO Radio to star Tom Keene. Miss Brotton has already started the adaptation of the story and will have it in shape for actual production early in September.

The Tiffany Chimp, under the direction of Sig Neufeld, have started another of their anti-pilferage campaigns. Business is good at the Hollywood studios. "Gland Hotel" is the title selected for the new laugh-maker.

Louise Closer, who recently scored a screen hit with Constance Bennett in "Born to Love," is again appearing under the RKO Pathé contract. One of the several character actresses will be seen as Ann Harding's mother in the star's forthcoming production, "Devotion."

"Silent Thunder" replaces "Gos- sip" as the title of the drama which will be included in Tiffany's Quality Group of twelve features. "Silent Thunder" is based on Andrew Soutar's popular novel bearing the same title.

been cut to six for the present season. These will be "Skyline" formerly "East Side, West Side"; "Riders of the Purple Sage," "The Yellow Ticket," "Over the Hill," "Salome's Dance," and "In Her Arms," which as a silent was titled "Fazil." Paramount has scheduled four remakes as against six last season. They are "The Cheat," "Dr. Jekyll and Mr. Hyde," "The Miracle Man" and "Mrs. Wiggs of the Cabbage Patch." Universal will remake "Lasa of the Rio Grande," it being the only remake as against five last year, and O-Pathé made none last season but will remake into sound "The Big Gamble" known in silent as "Red Dog." "The Common Law" another remake has already been released by them. M-G-M last year issued four remakes but have only one, "The Squaw Man," for 1931-32 release. RKO Radio made one remake last year and will make one more. The DeLux this season.

First National remake nine last season but have scheduled only two for the current year. They are "The Home from the Hills," "Song of the Damned." Warner produced seven remakes last season and will make none this year. United Artists and Tiffany made two remakes with none planned for 1931-32. Columbia produced one remake last year with none scheduled for the present season.

New Birmingham Contract

Cuts Operators 10 P. C.
Birmingham — Accepting a 10 per cent reduction in wages, the operators' union has signed a new two-year contract with Public and RKO. Policy of continuing two men in the booth continues. So far independent theaters and the projectionists have not reached an agreement on a new contract.

San Angelo Goes Non-Union
Dallas—Three theaters in San Angelo now have a non-union contract with the recently-formed operators' union, are using non-union projectionists.

Omaha Paets Expire Oct. 1
Omaha — Omaha theaters have until Oct. 1 to sign a new contract with the projectionists' union.

40 INDIE HOUSES SET TO RUN WITH 1 MAN IN BOOTH

Cincinnati—Starting today, 40 independent houses will begin to operate with one operator in their booths, according to a decision made at a meeting at the Hotel Gibson at which they rejected the union's proposal that two men be employed in each booth. A three-week period of 50 a week be effected in each projectionists salary. The union contract expired yesterday.

Assailing production costs, the statement says in reference to rentals: "Mounting production costs, poor pictures, crazy competition for screens, increase of waste—all these burdens are passed on to the theater men and to the theatrogoers." Charge is made that expenses tied up in wages have been increased at prices of all other commodities during the past two years, there has been "a general increase in film prices and percentages for the 10th consecutive year."

Primary purposes of the meeting are to criticize the M-G-M sales policy and to assail score charges.

The Dreyfus Case

IT MUST BE GOOD TO:

DAILY NEWS

"'Dreyfus Case,' a moving film, rates 3 stars. The acting is impressive ... is a moving spectacle. The Warner Theatre was crowded for the initial showing of the film, and I have no doubts that it will continue to draw crowds."

Kate Cameron

DAILY MIRROR

"An impressive picture. Dignified and stirring film. The cast is uniformly excellent. The performance of Cedric Hardwicke, who plays Dreyfus, is a gem."

Bland Johaneson

TIMES

"An intensely interesting picture. The dialogue in this production is adroitly penned. The performers all do efficient work ..."

Mordaunt Hall

AMERICAN

"'Dreyfus Case' historically thrilling in movie form. The film at the Warner must be regarded as a true historical document—a drama of real life—in which the participants are resurrected to enact their celebrated roles again. Speaks well for the executives who selected it."

Regina Crew

EVE. POST

"The 'Dreyfus Case' ... has been dramatized with triumphant skill and understanding ... it is a picture which everyone ought to rush immediately to see—it is a poignant and deep human document, magnificently acted and magnificent, too, in its pictorial and atmospheric fidelity."

DESERVE SUCH PRAISE

HERALD TRIBUNE

... an earnest, straightforward and intensely interesting dramatic screen drama ... so inherently powerful is its drama and so honestly and unaffectedly is its narrative handled that the play never ceases being enormously effective. In addition, it is admirably cast."

Richard Watts, Jr.

M. P. DAILY

Presenting something different, the 'Dreyfus Case' is a suspenseful drama of France's scandal 1894. The trial scene in the Zola case is the picture's highlight ... the cast is uniformly good."

FILM DAILY

"Well acted and forcefully presented adaptation of famous French treason case. Cedric Hardwicke handles the title role admirably, giving an intelligent reading at all times."

VARIETY

"'Dreyfus Case' surprises. First time in months house in five figures. Ought to get good money ... opened to capacity. 'Dreyfus' is a certain grosser and bound to do business ... but its best indication of strength lies in the line waiting in front of Warner's tonight (opening night), to see the picture. First time the house has done that kind of business in over a year."

PENDABLE COLUMBIA!
A LITTLE from "LOTS"

By RALPH WILK

HOLLYWOOD

CLARK GABLE will play opposite Joan Crawford in "The Mirror." Miss Crawford will play the role Florence Reed created on the New York stage. Lenore J. Coffee has prepared the screen version of the Edgar Selwyn play.

A former studio publicity man, who has been giving radio programs, has been "given the air."

Endre Bohem, who has been with Fox and M-G-M, has joined the Paramount scenario staff and is writing an original, "Constantinople."

Garrett Fort, veteran scenarist, has written an original, "The Second Shot," which will star Helen Twelvetrees at RKO Pathe. He also wrote the screen play and dialogue for "Frankenstein," which is in production at Universal, "The Lady Descends," a play which he wrote in collaboration with Garrett Weston, will be presented in New York in the fall.

Regis Toomey, who was a football manager at the University of Pittsburgh, is playing an important role in "Touchdown," which is being made by Paramount.

Richard Cahan, veteran film editor, will edit "Men in Her Life," which will be made by Columbia, with William Beaudine directing.

Lloyd Whitlock is losing little time between pictures. He had no sooner finished work in "Scareheads," a Richard Talmadge production, than he was signed for a role in "The Last Performance," which is being made by Chesterfield Prods.

More Passing Show: John LeRoy Johnston and his sons, Billy and Junior, lunching at Universal; Abe Meyer motoring to the Metropolitan studio; Robert Planeck busy at Tiffany.

Harry Lieb is one of the busiest film editors on the Coast. During the past two years, he cut 14 features and three shorts. He is now editing "Up and Up" at Universal. Before joining Universal he was with Hal Roach.

John Stumar, ace cameraman, who photographed "The Flood" and "The Avenger," for Columbia, is now doing the camera work on "Left Over Ladies" at Tiffany. Before going to Tiffany, he spent several months in the trick camera department at Warner's First National.

Mary Nolan has been signed by Al Mannon to appear in "Decency," which he will produce for Peerless, at the Teco studios.

Lucien Littlefield and Frank Sheridan have been signed for important character roles in Paramount's "The Man I Killed," featuring Lionel Barrymore, Phillips Holmes and Nancy Carroll. Ernst Lubitsch will direct.

Constructiveness Keynote of Meet

Keynote of the national exhibitor protest meeting yesterday at the Hotel Astor was sounded by Charles L. O'Reilly, president of the T.O.C.C. at the meeting, picture men he expressed his hopes for constructive, sane session. "Let it be fact-finding rather than fault-finding," he asked.

Exhibit Protest Meet Sidelights

Both M. P. T. O. A. and Allied States Ass'n officials worked shoulder to shoulder in tackling whatever problems sprang into the conversations.

The Philly exhib unit boys won plenty of applause for their work in maneuvering the situation, ably supported by Pete Harrison.

When Felix Feist mounted the rostrum, he was welcomed to the opportunity to attend the meeting as afforded him a chance to sell M-G-M product.

A Schenectady exhib who apparently didn't catch the name of M. A. Lightman won a laugh when he referred to him as "Winnie Lightner," No blows were struck.

Walter Vincent swung the gavel in big-league fashion, garnering numerous compliments for his handling of the meeting.

Jay Emanuel, theater operator and general live-wire in the Philly exhib organization, didn't go in for oratory but nevertheless did a lot of valuable work.

Dishonest exhibitors make checking necessary, according to one exhib's observation—and his remark aroused some applause.

Sid Samuelson's Allied outfit from New Jersey didn't arrive for the confab. Held a meeting of its own at Asbury Park.

Old-timer exhibitor conventioners used to brick-tossing fracas would have found the affair pretty tame stuff. "Mud sailing" was taboo.

The T. O. C. C., through Prexy Charlie O'Reilly, entertained the out-of-towners at a dinner last night at the M. P. Club.

tention from his auditors, said only in "isolated incidents" have exhib complaints against M-G-M been justified. His company has always listened to theater men's complaints he declared, and has "no intent to hurt exhibitors." He said he never instructed his men in the field to employ "high-handed methods." Discussing needs in product, Feist said that M-G-M, through its latter affiliations, is in a position to learn what product clicks and why. All exhibitors concerns pictures, declared Feist, the rest would be chaotic. He said he mentioned 20 productions on which G-M did not regain its product costs. Speaking of production conditions Feist asserted that "I can't restrain words of people c"ing such unique work," High quality of last year's product, he stated, has resulted in the company's assuming new obligations to its producing staff.

MOBILIZING TO AID UNEMPLOYMENT

Dr. Goldsmith Nominated For Presidency of S. M. P. E.

National Relief
—an industry to the fore

By JACK ALICOATE

Never has a Motion Pictures, City, State or First As Usual the Nation called and found this industry wanting or unprepared for whole-hearted and enthusiastic co-operation. Heading the activity in Washington, and as fast as they could gather, motion picture leaders from every section of the country mobilized yesterday and will shortly offer the resources of this great industry to President Hoover in his program for relief and unemployment. Some sixty executives, representing every branch of the industry, as well as the heads of the trade press, attended the conference and, as this is being written, plans are being formed for a nation-wide set-up.

* * *

Let No Stone Be Unturned

The purpose of this movement will have the energizing guidance and leadership of Will Hays as its head. First, to develop plans that will make certain that the industry will leave not one unturned in the discharge of a full and complete duty toward humanitarian and unemployment problems in Cities and States as well as the Nation. Secondly, to co-ordinate its activities in such fashion as to avoid overlapping, as well as the intelligent handling of the hundreds of childish requests from well meaning but impractical individuals.

* * *

Time To Prepare

This unemployment and relief problem is one that will confront every theater operator in the country during the coming winter. The truth is that it is aggressive and has the sponsorship of the biggest minds in the country. It is not to be construed that the entire country is going on the rocks or that

Cantor Signs New Contract
With Goldwyn for 5 Years

West Coast Survey, THE FILM DAILY

Hollywood—Exchanging his present contract with Samuel Goldwyn for a new one, Eddie Cantor has signed an agreement extending his services with that producer for five years. Cantor arrives in New York Sunday.

"As far as I know there will not be one paragraph changed in the standard exhibition contract drafted by the 5-5-5 conference," said Sidney R. Kent yesterday. He made this statement to THE FILM DAILY when asked if the standard contracts to be issued by major distributors will exactly conform with the

Leaders of Industry Map Plan Under Guidance of Will H. Hays

Leaders in all branches of the film industry met yesterday at the invitation of Will H. Hays and mobilized on a national scale to help relieve the unemployment situation. Hays will serve as chairman of the central planning committee which will function to coordinate the industry's resources with the nation's relief program initiated by President Hoover.

Hays last night appointed the following to the committee:

Representing Theater Owners: Abram F. Myers, President of Allied States; M. A. Lightman, President.

- IT'S NOT only the film biz that is plagued by the reactionaries and mole mountains with pre-Victorian ideas. Take instance the cigarette manufacturers. In one case, who have been up against a puff proposition tryin' to get over their sales message to the femmes who like their cigs even as you and I but the fuss fusses and the moralizers raise such 'ell at the idea of picturing a gal smokin'. . . . that the cig people have had to gun for femme patronage by indirect method first they started with colored art studios of beautiful girls, with their cig package appearing down in the corner. . . . more suggestion that a gal MIGHT smoke. . . . Next advance was the gal proffering a light to her boy friend now the Camel people have got Real Bold. . . . and turned out a full page ad showing the femme actually ACCEPTING a cig from her boy friend. In a few months it won't be at all surprising to see the gal actually SMOKIN' the cig. . . . and the silly part of it all is that for the past year the egghead manufacturers in their ad copy have been plugging the advantages of gals smoking their particular brand and when they finally come clean and show the ladies smokin' naturally they can give most of the credit to the film producers who have been showing the ladies in the pix smokin' regardless of who and why shouldn't they? . . . wimmen are entitled to some consideration. . . . for after all is said and done they are human beings, in spite of all that married men say . . . but please don't quote us.

the agreement, Paramount must repurchase on September 5, 65,000 shares of its own stock at $75 a share, a total of $4,875,000.

Balter alleges that the agreement was illegal because it was made without consent of stockholders and that Samuel Katz, vice president of Paramount, and a voting trustee of the Kunsky Theaters, Inc., acted in a dual capacity in the transaction. Both allegations were denied by counsel for the defendants who stated that Katz' only interest in the acquired organization was through ownership of 29% of the company's stock by a subsidiary of Paramount. The re-purchase agreement was contained in the company's annual report for 1929 and 1930, he stated. He declared the transaction had been highly profitable to Paramount, the company having earned more than 9% on its investment in each of the last two years.

Did you ever see a baseball pitcher wave his support in from the field to the bench? Well, hardly. No matter how strong he's twirling, he can't go it alone. Your feature, too, needs the air-tight backing to the last fade out of the evening's show. No matter how good, it's only half your bill. When it's a flop, your whole show depends on the supporting featurettes.

Educational has a two-reel comedy for every week in the year. And in the 82 single-reel pictures, the world's borders are our studio walls.

Folks don't shell out just to see THE PITCHER. It's the team—the whole show—the Educational support—that puts 'em on their toes from the bleachers to the boxes.

Furnish" No, and which forced for more. The Play and and there, girl, and now enabled Bobby with the Cinema and was the Count himself and scrambling into a lifeboat, which was upset...and bein' picked up hours later...more dead than alive...so naturally he was very anxious to meet the gent who gave him the works.

Now IT so happens that Mason Eberson, the host, has a peculiar sense of humor, so he hadn't told the Count who he was goonner meet...and during the luncheon, he ups and sez, casual like..."Oh, by the way, Count, you torpedoed Mister Fisher on the City of Athens in the course of your war adventures."...and the Count, casual like, raises his eyebrows, and sez..."No, you're wrong, Mason Eberson. I blew him up with a mine..."...and Mister Fisher, who naturally was the most interested party, butts into the conversation by sayin'..."Thank gawd I know at last what really happened to me..." then the Count courteously explained that the day before his raiding vessel had laid a 'tnt on the German sea raider and left for other conquests...so that when Mister Fisher met up with one of the mines 24 hours later...naturally he, the count, was not there to have the honor of meetin' him.

SO THEN the Count and Mister Fisher got real chummy...and found out that as world travelers they had a lot of friends in common. "Strange," sez the Count, "but I have met so many of your Victims, and now they are all my Friends, like you, Mister Fisher..." now what are ya gonna do with a guy like that...then they discovered that they were both members of the International Magicians' Society...and made an appointment to get together and exchange tricks...at which Mister Eberson turned to Mister Donald Mersereau, another guest, and sez..."Say, tell me—which is the guest of honor—the Victim or the Raider?"...and Don sez that after listenin' to both of these birds describin' their experiences...it's a toss-up. And Miss Fisher agreed.

ONE OF the world's shortest interviews was that accorded to a trade paper feller about a year ago by the precoy of a major company, who the reporter went into a long query to the effect..."Is true, Mister So-and-So, that you are about to sever all your motion picture connections?" Mister So-and-So merely looked at him...so the interviewer started all over again, thinkin' he had not heard, and Mister So-and-So interrupted with just One Word...and that word was the definite, final and devastating answer to the question...so the reporter tipped out...and if ya knew what this dizzy film biz is principally composed of then ya know the Answer.

THAT PREVIEW of Educational-Tiffany sports shorts gave the local sports scribes on the dailies a great kick. The local rag, "Gotham Life," which tells all about the weary doings of our hard hat, has a great yarn by Bide Dudley, who reminisces about some of the olemiers on the staff of the Mornin' Telly.
Should Use

Never Before Have So Many Real Names Been Available

By A. H. SCHNITZER
Short Subject Sales Manager
RKO Pathe Distributing Corporation

Names mean as much today in shorts as they do in features. Never before have as many real names been available in quality short films.

What is worth playing is worth advertising. Any exhibitor who has, let us say, a Jimmy Gleason two-reeler or a Floyd Gibbons' thrill reel on his bill and fails to give it a fair play in his advertising is, to say the least, neglecting a sales angle. Some exhibitors cover this phase of their bills with "Also Comedy and News" or "Selected Shorts.

But it is not selling copy either in newspaper space or in marquee incandescents.

Presentation of this copy is important. Type display of these box office names together with titles is one way of selling shorts. However, the modern showman strives to put ideas into his copy.

To give exhibitors material with which to work in the proper advertising and publicizing of RKO Pathe shorts, that department has issued an Exhibitors' Campaign Book entirely devoted to shorts. In addition, on series like the Floyd Gibbons and Masquers groups, special press sheets have been prepared.

The shorts campaign material includes features, news and play-date stories, some cuts and novelty accessories. But most important are the varied size little ad mats that can be conveniently used.

Experiencing With a Four-reeler

An experiment in four-reel comedies is being made by Universal which is releasing "First to Fight," starring Slim Summerville. Its reaction at the boxoffice will be watched by the modern owner, owing to its unusual footage. Summerville is appearing in a series of comedies dealing with life in the Marine Corps.

Old-Fashioned Slapstick 26 Pittaluga Shorts Extinct, Says Director

The term "slapstick," as used in describing the modern one or two-reel comedy is a misnomer, according to Edward Cline, veteran film director, now acting as producer for short pictures in Paramount's New York studio.

"The origination of the term can be traced back to the days of old burlesque when the comedian used a paddle or, later, to slap people on the head, or body. The latte was in fact two laths, fastened together and used as a weapon of defense between them, so that when any one was hit with those lathes there was a sharp noise like that when a person's cheek is slapped with the palm of a hand.

"Since the term first was used there has been a steady refinement and improvement of comedy and I believe that the real, old-fashioned type of 'slapstick' comedy is extinct.

"The comedies now being produced probably could best be described as broad comedy. These comedies do not depict the impossible but instead picture things which could happen even though unlikely to happen. We cling to the term 'slapstick,' merely because we cannot find a better phrase to describe the modern motion picture comedy.

Sennett Lining Up Stories

Mack Sennett has returned from his vacation in Alaska and has once more taken up the comedy reins. He is now lining up stories and making preparations for production of the five series he is making for Educational.

Exploitation Tieups Set for Warner Shorts

Exploitation, a phase of the picture business that has generally cut very little figure in the past in conjunction with short subjects, will this year play a prominent part in the plans of Vitaphone for the coming year.

Vitaphone made an exploitation tie-up with Parker Bros. manufacturers of ping pong tables and equipment for one of Ted Husing's "Sportslants" shorts in which the game of ping pong or tabletennis as it is called, appears.

E. M. Newman's series of World Travel Talks is being brought to the attention of book sellers where the shorts are booked, by Funk & Wagnalls Co. publishers of Newman's Book. Dealers will be asked to place this exploitation.

Robert L. Ripley's "Believe It Or Not!" Vitaphone shorts are being tied in with daily and Sunday newspapers that are publishing his cartoons. Newspapers are asked to announce in their columns that whenever the short "Believe It Or Not!" appears at the name of theater and in return the theater agrees to run a slide after the "Believe It Or Not!" cartoon appears daily exclusively in the name of paper.

"Bosko," the hero of Vitaphone's Cartoon series, "Looney Tunes," which is produced by Leon Schlesinger, is going to be produced as a doll and as a toy.

Goodrich Farmed Out

William Goodrich, director-in-chief of the Educational Studios, was contemplating a few days' vacation in which he was to receive at a auction, when RKO Pathe sent out an SOS for a sure-fire comedy director, so through special arrangements with E. H. Allen, general manager of Educational, Goodrich took his microphone to Culver City and got right on the job. He is scheduled to start a new Cartoon comedy in a few days, so the vacation was just a good idea gone wrong.

"Mickey Mouse" Parade

In conjunction with a Fanchon and Marco presentation of a "Mickey Mouse Idea," Bill Thomas, publicity director of the Fantages, Hollywood, organized a parade of the female "Mice" through the main streets of the city. Certain tie-ups were effected, such as a stop at a well-known restaurant for a huge ration of cheese for the "Mice" and a peek at the inside of a nationally advertised electric refrigerator. Transportation was taken care of by a local auto dealer.
Greatest Name in Shorts, too!

It's perfectly natural that PARAMOUNT, for 20 years the recognized leader in features should also make the best shorts. The same high-calibre production organization makes PARAMOUNT shorts as well as features. Real showmen, schooled in the demands of movie fans, bring these great seat-sellers to you: PARAMOUNT SOUND NEWS, 104 sparkling issues. 32 TWO-REEL COMEDIES. 52 ONE-REEL PRODUCTIONS. 18 SCREEN SONGS. 18 TALKARTOONS. 12 PARAMOUNT PICTORIALS. 12 SCREEN SOUVENIRS.

Hal Roach Studios will deliver five series of eight comedies each. Thirteen releases are now completed, ZaSu Pitts and Thelma Todd have finished "Catch-As-Catch-Can" and "Pajama Party." The Boy Friends unit has delivered "Call a Cop" and "Mama Loves Papa" while the remaining three units have completed three comedies each as follows: Our Gang; "Big Ears," "Shiver My Timbers" and "Dogs Is Dogs," Charley Chase; "The Panic Is On," "Skip the Malo" and "What a Bazo." Stan Laurel and Oliver Hardy; "Come Clean," "One Good Turn" and "Beau Hunks."

M-G-M's own Dogville Comedies have completed three of a series of six; "Love Tails of Morocco," "Two Barks Brothers" and "Trader Hound."

Among the single reel releases, four starring Sir Harry Lauder have been completed and titled "Roamin' in the Gloomin'," "She's My Daisy," "Nanny" and "I Love a Lassie." Eight of the James A. FitzPatrick Traveltalks are likewise finished, leaving five still to be delivered. Mr. FitzPatrick is now planning another trip abroad for the purpose of recording special material for the balance of the series.

Sport Champions, a series of twelve outstanding champions of various sports, are being completed rapidly.

Thirty-Five Paramount Shorts For Release In First Quarter

TWO OF FOUR MASCOT SERIALS COMPLETED

Nat Levine, president of Mascot Pictures Corp., has completed two of the four chapter plays which he will make for the independent market during the 1931-32 season. The first serial, released in 12 installments, was "The Vanishing Legion," starring Harry Carey and Edwin Booth. The supporting cast included Rex, King of Wild Horses, Frankie Darro, William Desmond, Philo McCullough, Joe Bonomo, Tom Dugan, Edward Hearn, Al Taylor, Lafe McKee, Dick Hatton, Pete Morrison, Dick Dinson, Bob Kortman, Paul Weigel, Frank Brownlee, Yakima Canutt and Bob Walker. The story and scenario were by Wynden Gittens and Ford Bebee. B. Reaves Eason directed under the personal supervision of Nat Levine.

Exploitation Booklet

"Business Builders," an eight-page exploitation booklet just published by Educational Film Exchanges, presents to exhibitors a number of strong inducements for the proper merchandising of his short subjects and offers concrete examples of this organizations willingness to aid the showman.

Thirty-five short subjects will be released by Paramount during the first quarter of 1931-32. Of this number, 10 are two-reelers and the remainder are one-reelers.

Prominent in the two-reel division are the famous comedy team of Karl Dane and George K. Arthur, who co-star in "The Lease Breakers" and "Good Old Summer Time." Lulu McConnell, who appears in "Nothing to Declare" and "Keeping Up with the Neighbors"; the dialect duo of Smith and Dale in "What Price Pants?" and "Far, Far Away." Billy House, the rotund funster, who stars in "Bullmanis" and "Out of Bounds," and Ford Sterling, who appears in "There Ought to Be a Law" and "The Man Who Bought an Automobile." Burns and Allen, Tom Howard, Willie West and McGnty, Helen Kane, Lillian Roth, Borrah Minnetch, Solly Ward and Herb Williams are listed to appear in one-reelers. Five "Screen Songs" and three "Talkaroons" are on the release schedule, as well as three one-reel issues of "Screen Souvenirs." One "Paramount Pictorial" will be released each month, the first featuring Lowell Thomas, the Aber Twins, and Japanese Goldfish.

Eight Reelers Have Completed Production

A one-reel Technicolor subject entitled "Beauty Secrets of Hollywood" is slated for Paramount release September 5.

THIRTY-SIX OF PATHE'S 48 TWO-REELERS READY

RKO Pathe has made excellent progress on its program of 48 two-reel comedies, 36 being completed to date. Lew Lipton is in charge of comedy production under the supervision of Charles R. Rogers, vice president in charge of the Culver City studios.

On the staff are such directors as Harry Sweet, Ralph Ceder, William Goodrich, Edgar Kennedy and Howard Bretherton.

Completed in the eight series of two-reelers, each composed of six releases are as follows:

Four Masquers Comedies with 100 or more male stars from leads to extras with a guest star girl for each subject are ready for exhibition. They are "Stout Hearts and Wailing Hands," "Oh, Oh, Cleopatra," "The Great Junction Hotel" and "Wide Open Spaces.

On the Traveling Man series featuring Louis John Bartels, five subjects are in the can. They are "That's My Line," "Beach Pajamas," "Selling Shorts," "Stop That Run" and "Blondes by Proxy."

Edgar Kennedy, featured in the Mr. Average Man series, has completed five comedies, "Lemon Margarita," "Thanks Again," "Camping Out," "Bon Voyage" and "Mother in Law's Day."

Five Gay Girls Comedies, featuring June MacCloy, Marion Shilling and Gertrude Short, have been sent to exchanges. They are "Junk First," "Take 'Em and Shake 'Em," "Easy to Get," "Only Men Want" and "Gigollettes."

In the Manhattan Comedies series, three subjects have been completed featuring Daphne Pollard. They are "She Snoops to Conquer," "Oh, Marry Me," and "Crashing Reno."

8,000 Terry-Tooners

With an enrollment of membership of 8,000 boys and girls and new units being formed in key points throughout the country, the Terry-Tooners Men and Fan Club sponsored by Educational, has won the support of leading executives of the industry's major circuits.

32 B. I. PRODUCTIONS FOR AUSTRALIAN HOUSES

Sydney—Union Theaters Feature Exchange has scheduled 32 British International features for new season distribution throughout Australia, according to Gordon Ellis, manager of Union Theaters exchange. Outstanding B. I. productions for the season are “Dreyfus,” “Tell England,” “City of Song” and “Avalanche.” Among the others are “Carmen,” “Children of Chance,” “Keepers of Youth,” “Rich and Strange,” “Girl in the Night,” “McGluskie, the Sea Rover,” “Hobson’s Choice” and others.

In short subjects, the U. T. F. E. has scheduled 52 issues of the Pathé Super Sound Weekly News Reel; 31 Educational two-reel comedies, and sixteen Terry Toon cartoons.

West-Pearson Directors Report $42,710 Profit

London—The West-Pearson report for the year shows a profit of $42,710, but the auditor and the directors both make reservations in the report. Picture rights and completed pictures are given at $500,000, and this figure is doubted since “Journey’s End” did not bring in the returns expected, particularly in the United States. Nor was provision made for studio and equipment depreciation.

N. S. W. Exhibs Want Moratorium on Debts

Sydney—At a recent special meeting of the U.S.W. Exhibitors’ Association it was decided to seek political assistance in the heavy losses sustained by decreased picture theater patronage. The help they ask is that the Government amend the Moratorium Act to include film contracts, equipment purchase agreements and service payments. The meeting was the largest ever attended in New South Wales, more than 50 independent theater owners being present.

Mildes Tells British of W. B. Star Appeal

London—Max Milder, now managing director for Warner Bros. in Great Britain, in announcing the Warner product for 1931-32, laid particular stress upon the outstanding value of the star names to be found in the new product and the great importance of individual personalities in the making and presenting of feature pictures.

U. T. (Victoria) Ltd. Profit

Sydney—Union Theaters (Victoria, Ltd.), shows a profit of $114,825 for the year ending March 31, as against $184,720 for the previous year.

MANY GERMAN PICTURE COS. HAVE LIQUIDATED

Berlin—According to German film trade journals the number of motion picture companies which went out of business during the first half of 1931 exceeded by 48 the number of new organizations. Newly vested capital, however, is in excess of that liquidated by 158,000 mark—a very small sum in comparison with the total sum invested in pictures.

The depression in the German motion picture business is further attested by the decline of 7,500,000 marks, or 14 percent, in the entertainments tax receipts in German cities. The decline, it is stated, due to decrease in theater attendance and not to reductions in admission prices. In Berlin the total number of cinema patrons in 1930 was 56,500,000, a decrease of 2,000,000 over the 1929 figure.

24 Educational Shorts Now Completed On New Year List

With 24 subjects either just completed or in various stages of production, Educational has passed two of the most active months in the history of the company. The combined short feature programs of Educational and Tiffany consist of 172 subjects, and the various units producing for Educational are working on all cylinders to meet the heavy schedule.

Operating with a production staff that has been practically doubled, Mack Sennett has each of his five different series under way. Two in the new Andy Clyde starring series have been completed, with "The Cannonball" now being released and "Tied Troubles" scheduled for October release. Bing Crosby will be featured in a group of Sennett comedies. Crosby's first two comedies will be titled "I Surrender Dear" and "One More Chance."

"The Great Pie Mystery," a two-reel comedy which will mark the revival of the famous Sennett pastry, is now being edited. Harry Gribbon, May Boole, Harry Myers and Alma Bennett are in the cast. "The World Flier," the first Mack Sennett Brevity, has been completed, with Charles Judels, Arthur Stone and Patsy O'Leary, as well as Loressa Turnbull, world's champion speed boat driver, and Harry For-}

Variety Keynote of Paramount Short Subject List

Comedy Is Predominating Element, States Larry Kent

Variety enough to please all groups of film fans is one of the outstanding features of the comprehensive short subject program now in production at Paramount's New York studio, according to Larry Kent, who is in charge of the filming of this important division of the company's 1931-32 product.

"Because we believe that variety is one of the keypoints of successful short subject production we have combed the amusement world for the best performers and stories in a wide range of entertainment," Kent points out in discussing his short subject schedule.

"Although comedy predominates throughout the list, we believe we have assembled widely dissimilar types of both players and scripts.

"Primarily, our product for the season divides itself into dialogue productions and musicals. The division is approximately half and half. But in both groups we have taken great care to insure the maximum variation in the actual material presented.

"For instance: In the group of musicals we have one-reelers starring such outstanding but totally different performers as Rudy Vallee, Ethel Merman, Helen Kane, the Boswell Sisters, Lilian Roth, Anna Chang, Boris Minnivetich and his Harmonica Rascals, Eddie Younger's Mountaineers, Charlie Davis and His Gang, George Dewey Washington, the Haje Trio and the Four Muskeeters. Everyone of these stars or stellar units are topnotchers yet no two of them offer the same type of entertainment.

"In the one-reeler comedy division the variety is equally marked. One stellar group includes Burns and Allen, Solly Ward, Tom Howard, Mitchell and Durant, Alan Brooks, Cameron and Aylesworth, Herb Williams, Joe Laurie, Jr., and Jack Benny. All of them are comedians of stellar rank yet there is a tremendous difference between the furiously knock-about comedy of Mitchell and Durant, for instance, and the rapidfire patter of Burns and Allen or the dead-pan fun-making of Tom Howard."

Three Shorts a Week Is New Season Vitaphone Studio Plan

With 168 one and two-reelers listed to date, Vitaphone Studio, Hollywood, will produce a total of 118 shorts for release during the 1931-32 season, with 100 one-reel and 18 two-reelers. The list includes 16 one-reelers that will be shipped to the branches. The production schedule at the studio calls for two one-reelers and two two-reeler each week.

The two-reelers on which all shooting has been finished are two "Big Star" comedies starring Fanny Watson, Thelma White, in "Lucky 13" and "Of All People" and one starring Walter O'Keefe in "Platinum Blondes." The first of 12 S. Van Dine Detective Mystery 2-reelers, "The Clyde Mystery," with Donald Meek and John Hamilton; the first of 12 "Broadway Brevities" series of 2-reelers, "The Musical Mystery," with Janet Read, Loma Ruth, Gwen Milne, the Albertina Rasch Girls and many others from Broadway's musical comedy stage.

‘SCRAPPY’ FILM FANS’ FAVORITE SAYS REGINA CREWE

By REGINA CREWE,
Motion Picture Editor N. Y. American.

Charles B. Mintz has a new idea. And this “Cartoon King” thinks so well of it that he is spending $1,000 a minute—yes, $1,000 a minute and more—to present his latest inspiration to the picture-going public.

Heretofore the cartoon screen has been cluttered up with more animals than there are in the zoo. Only a genuine nature lover and a devotee of dumb beasts—very dumb beasts—could sustain interest in the antics of the cartoon critters, Oswald Rabbits, Mickey Mice, Crazy Kats tumbled one after the other from the hallowed chambers of the picture prestige-tors. It remained for Charlie Mintz to give us something bright, new and original. And Charles has arisen to the occasion.

“SCRAPPY” is the name of the newcomer. And he’s destined to be the film fans’ favorite just as much as “Buddy” is the darling of the debs. This cartoon kid is arar boy—the sort who gets in your hair and your heart at the same time. And he arrives on the crest of the wave of juvenile popularity.

Marjorie Beebe is getting acquainted with New York while waiting to start work at the Warner Vitaphone studio where she will be featured in two comedies. Miss Beebe recently completed a series for Paramount here, opposite Dave and Arthur.

A highly original setting has been designed by shooting Location Director and supervising Art Director the Paramount New York studio, for "Musical Jazz," which will be produced as a Vitaphone short directed by Ray Mack.

The three years spent in the Orient has come in handy to Gaston Duval, in charge of research at the Paramount New York studio where "The Cheat," with a definite oriental background, is now in production.

The Chisnau Quimis are anticipating a "Blessed Event"... "Mickey" popular Vitaphoner, again guarding the sound stages against intrusion.

Ruth Etting's several Vitaphone shorts went over so well that she is scheduled to make four more for the current season's program, first of which starts Sept. 11.

Lucia Backus Seeger plays a prominent role in "Automobile Intoxication," a Paramount short featuring Ford Sterling and which Art Ray directed.

Ruth St. Denis, famous exponent of the classic dance, has been engaged by Paramount to stage the Cambodian dance number which will be a feature of "The Cheat," now in production. Actual Cambodian dancers are given into the service of the king for training, at the age of eight and seldom reach majority due to the fact that their entire bodies are frequently covered with paint.

Fanny visits the Warner Vitaphone studio to make one of the "Girl Friends" comedies with Thelma White, she is sure to be accompanied by her sister.

Bert Frank, head of the Vitaphone cutting room, is compiling several more of those popular shorts which received much praise when shown on Broadway, "Evolution," "Stars of Yesterday," and "Ye Old Time Newsreel." are three of the films turned out by Bert during the past season.

Eddie DuPar, head cameraman at Vitaphone had a rough experience while taking pictures of the Interclub Yacht Races, recently, for the Ted Husing series "Sportslanters." He was in a small power boat which the high waves kept bouncing up and down. It took three men to hold the camera from being pitched overboard.

Walter O'Keefe proved himself a real trouper at the Vitaphone Studio this week. With less than 48 hours notice, he was able to step in and give a fine performance in "Platinum Blondes," a two-reel Big Star Comedy.

Better Shorts Killing Off Double Feature?

That the end of the double feature epidemic will soon be in sight is the prediction of Mack Stark, general manager of Simple Simon Comedie Inc., following a survey of the entire country.

Shorts producers, who have been feeling the effects of the double feature fad, have improved the product to such an extent that its exhibitor with an eye to ultimate profits cannot afford to leave the off his bill. This, Stark believes, is especially true of the independent shorts producer who is in a position to put more money and more effort into the independent producer-distributor organizations, besides not being burdened with a high overhead.

With houses in many key cities given over to the exclusive showing of short subjects and enjoying good patronage, it is evident that the public is hungry for the variety in motion picture entertainment while only the short subject can supply the demand. To persist in throwing an all-feature bill to the exclusion of shorts, while it may result in a certain improvement in business will ultimately turn patrons away from the theater, is Stark's firm conviction.

Arthur S. Ford, an English chemical engineer, after more than 40 years of research work and experiment, has succeeded, it is reported, in transforming sugar into a plastic substance from which, it is claimed, non-inflammable film can be produced. Calling his sugar celluloid "sakaloid" the inventor claims he can produce celluloid for all purposes, at very low cost. The raw material used can be either beet or sugar cane in any stage of refinement, or even raw sugar cane, treated in one way, it freezes into a hard, glass-like mass; in another it becomes a transparent substance, with rubber-like qualities; while a third variation of the process converts it into a celluloid. A large American chemical corporation, it is declared has interested itself in the invention and plan commercial production of the new material within the next few weeks.

course of a year much electric light juice is wasted due to unclean mar-

NEW ELECTRIC PIT LIFT PUT OUT BY OTIS ELEVATOR CO.

Several types of electrically driven stage and pit elevators, arranged for individual and group operation, in synchronism, have been brought out by the Otis Elevator Co., New York City.
Control of the individual groups is accomplished by means of a push button, similar to that used for stage lifting; it is declared.

NEW ALTERNATIVE PRINTING ATTACHMENT ANNOUNCED BY BELL & HOWELL

Chicago, Ill. — An alternative sound printing attachment which can be fitted into the company's Model "D" continuous 35 mm printer has been announced and is being made by the Bell & Howell Company, of this city.

Instead of having movable masks at the aperture, it is said the five-way attachment utilizes a 220° drum in which are cut five openings. Four of the openings are arranged to take care of printing the sound and picture areas respectively of the negative, whether the negative is running forward or backward. The fifth opening is arranged to print ordinary "silent" negatives. In other words, instead of arranging masks to give the various combinations of aperture openings, the five-way wheel is turned to the correct openings.

These openings the company declares are indexed to facilitate the operator using them for sound and picture area printing, in correct sequence.

The Door Man

Many managers place a man at the door without any thought of his intelligence. Doormen hear much more from patrons than the managers ever do, and an intelligent man on the door can be of great help in advising the manager what the patrons' reaction is on the picture showing, what they want in the way of picture fare and any little improvements in the running of the house that may add to their comfort.

Neon Sign Cable for Indoor Use

Schenectady, N. Y.—Development of an indoor-type neon cable available in ratings of 5,000, 10,000 and 15,000 volts, has been announced by the General Electric Co., of this city.

The standard color of the finish is brown, but special colors such as black, etc., can be furnished at slight additional cost, the company states.

AMPLION CORP. MARKETS NEW REPRODUCING UNIT

Development of a new reproducing unit marketed under the trade name of "Octophase" has been announced by Amplion Products Corp., of New York City.
Efficiency of the unit, it is said, is from six to eight hundred per cent greater than that of cone speakers and its output volume so high it exceeds that of the average speaker by an amount equivalent to that obtained by the use of an extra stage of amplification. Not only may greater volume be obtained with lower amplification output, with the use of this unit, but due to the wide frequency range of reproduction, clearness and naturalness of tone, greater intelligibility of speech is realized at lower volumes, the company declares.

"The Old Family Album"
Colorfilm
Time: 9 mins.
Swell Novelty

The first two of the series, "The Old Family Album," shape up as a distinct and welcome novelty carrying a very wide pop appeal. Done throughout in Colorfilm, a process that is extremely natural in tints, this feature has remarkable clarity. Howard and Sadler, the well known vaude team, are featured. The reel is beautifully photographed and handled with fine technical skill, making a very enjoyable reel throughout.

"Castilian Memoirs"
"(Port O' Call) Series

This short carries with it an excellent description of many different kinds of drinking and some of the outlandish activities of the people in the port. The material is handled well and the two stars, together with the small cast, produce an excellent and amusing reel.

"The Holy City"
Ideal

A Knockout

The first reel in the "Holy City" series is a real winner. The cast is well chosen and the photography is unusually good. The series promises to be an excellent one for vaudeville entertainment.

"No Holds Barred"
Educational

Thrills

This is the first of the series, "No Holds Barred," and it is off to a fine start. The photography is excellent and the action is fast and exciting.

"Famous Plays of 1930"
Universal

Pepal

The third reel in the Knute Rockne-Notre Dame series, made very dramatic and spectacular by the Notre Dame stars showing the great plays that Notre Dame won in the 1930 season. Such plays as Schwartz's 67-yard run against Pittsburgh, and many plays by other leading teams that scored for their respective colleges are finely reproduced. Plenty of action in this one for the fans. The explanatory dialogue by the Notre Dame coach keeps the reel pepped up.

"Honeymoon Heaven"
"(Port O' Call) Series

Imperial

Excellent

This is one of the best travel shorts to be presented this year. It concerns Honolulu, its people, beautiful scenery, sports and dances, and is filled with romance and color from start to finish. Scenes taken in front of the Royal Hawaiian Hotel where expert surf-board riders race at 40 miles an hour over the waves of the beach at Waikiki provide the thrills of the reel. Exotic volcanos, "Diamond Head," singular natives and their customs and beautiful Hawaiian dancing girls, go to make this first class entertainment that will stand exploring.

"Haunted Romance"
"(Port O' Call) Series"

Imperial

Good Stuff

Hong Kong, Victoria and the world are depicted in this travel picture. A surprisng modern city is shown, Hong Kong, with its traffic policemen and beautiful hotels, and then the other sides of native life, families living in small boats, eking out a living by human scavengers. The reel is nicely described and well edited, a combination that will interest a large audience.

"Wedge Plays"
Educational

A Fine Football Short

The second in the "Football vs. The Fan" series. Howard Johnson, coach of the University of Southern California, takes his Trojans through the league play in all the main formations. He shows old style and modern versons, demonstrating in practical work and actual shots from big football games just how the wedge play is made effective. Very super photography, splendid explanations of the game are taken by the coach, and all-round good football any way you look at it.

"Olympic Talent"
RKO Pathe

Time, 10 mins.

Timely

A splendid presentation of tryouts for the coming Olympic games showing all the various American competitors in the recent event Jersey City stadium. Most of the big college teams are represented, with sprints, distance running, hurdles, javelin and shot put. Girls are also represented in many varieties of sports.
SOUND SHORTS

"Jungle Babies" Time, 9 mins.

A College of Shorts showing wild animals and their young. Very pvel and interesting. Bears, kauaroos, various rodents and other animals exhibit the strong moth-inclined in the caring for their offspring. The film is well directed and cleverly described by F. Clemenger.

"Kicking Game"

Time, 9 mins.

Dip Sports Real

The third in the series, "Football on the Fan." It features Lynn Kepley, coach of the University of Washington, Bill Ingram of California, and Lou Little of Columbus. The extruding of these brilliant scenes and the team's play is brought very graphically in team practice, and then into shots from big college games showing various lighting styles. Plenty of diversity with the various teams doing their soft, fine photography, and all and class in production values. So fans will go for this in a big way.

"Julius Sizer"

KO Pathe Time, 18 mins.

Missie

A missie, with Benny Rubin as a Zangle leader very much out of his element. The gags are forced and mechanical, and it develops little of the way of real comedy. Benny is known as the scissor artist, and the story is well set up and nicely handled. The final gag is simply throwing in such a way that it pin them against the wall. The gag is too far-fetched to get over, and the plot material is very obvious. The pin is in play.

"One Hundred Dollars"

Universal Time, 20 mins.

Flat

Pretty weak number, being a rehash of a lot of old gags that are all worked to death long ago. Charlie Lawrence is featured as the comedian for some unexplained reason. He is a slow-witted youth who is informed by his girl that he must sell $100 a week before his father will give his consent to their marriage. Then the hero gets a job as an insurance agent, and is assigned to sell the plan to a young girl. He uses everything up trying to sell the father the policy in the midst of his golf tournament match. Which is all very sily, and not at all funny. Then the finale has the very nifty in the girl's locker room, a gag dragged in just to show the grins in their unities.

"Isle of Isolation"

"(Fort O' Call Series)"

Imperial Time, 11 mins.

Unusual

Taken at Ban in the Dutch South Sea Islands, this short brings to the screen a people and a land, seldom, if ever, seen by an American. From these, we get a lot of interest about these people and their ways of life. This is a very well done number. It is well done in every way.

"Dreamworld"

Educational Time, 11 mins.

Class

One of the Romantic Journeys series done in animation, with Claude Riemann as the traveler narrating the views portrayed. The setting is southern California in its most gorgeous aspects, and Riemann and the camera have caught the fairyland atmosphere perfectly. Some very unusual shots are presented of the desert, the mountains and the ocean, together with beautiful landscapes of old Spanish missions. This is a very fine, stylishly done, and the chatty style makes you feel that you are right there on the journey with him, a classy travel number that will please the discriminating.

"Adventures in Africa"

No. 7—The Witch Doctor's Magic Vitaphone

Time, 10 mins.

Below Average

This number in the African Adventure series is just about passable. It does not contain anything sufficiently outstanding to bring it up to the average of preceding numbers. Some of it, particularly where the witch doctor is chased out of the colony after the natives have becomewise to his facery, is too apparently staged. The picture is principally concerned with rounding up animals for food without scarifying them or drawing blood in any way, on penalty of the curse pronounced by the witch doctor. Natives singled out for this duty are supposed to die of fever. The white man, however, shows them how to catch the animals without shedding blood, and upon returning from the successful hunt the witch doctor is put to rout.

Syndicated Articles To Plug Series

Universal has arranged for the syndication to several thousand newspapers throughout the country of a series of illustrated lessons in football as a plug for their series of Christy Walsh All America Sport Reels. The lessons have been written by Frank Carideo, famous star of the Notre Dame eleven. There will be 20 in all and each one will be illustrated with specially posed pictures. Similar material will be prepared on the other sport subjects being made by Universal which include Soccer, Basketball, Tennis and other leading athletic activities.

Twelve Expeditions Will Film Material for “Magic Carpet” Series

Plans have been completed by Truman H. Talley, general manager of Fox Movietone News for the production of the second series of 26 releases for “The Magic Carpet of Movietone.” Twelve expeditions have been arranged by Louis de Rochemont, short subject editor, to cover parts of the world not already reached by staff units in New York, London, Berlin, Sydney and Paris.

One of the units, already in Alaska is headed by Eric Mayell. Another, which is in charge of Jack Lieb, is in Africa gathering material for three releases. The Lieb unit, with Carl Bjerre, sound engineer is working up from Cape Town through the Union of South Africa. Northern Africa is being covered by crews working out of the Paris office. Richard Maeder and Lewis Tappan have secured material for the “Magic Carpet” in the Sudan, Ethiopia and the Belgian Congo. Ariel Vargas, pioneer newsreel man, is securing film in the Orient and the islands of northern Japan. James McInnis and William K. Hawk are in India and will tour the Dutch East Indies.

Crews, under the supervision of Harry Lawson are working in Australia, New Zealand and the Malay Archipelago. Ben Miggins, European director and Russell Muth in charge of the Paris office have sent units to Scandinavia, Spain and the Slavish countries. Charles Herbert and a camera and sound crew will shortly start a round-the-world trip in search of material. Canadian and South American territories are also covered by units.

Al St. John to Make 4 Two-Reelers for Para.

Work has begun at the Paramount New York studios on a series of four two-reel comedies in which Al St. John will star. The first will be “Mademoiselle Irene the Great,” an adaptation of a Saturday Evening Post story by Sunnally Johnson. Edward Cline is directing.

INTERESTING AND IMPRES-SIVE TOUR OF SIAMESE CITIES WITH INTIMATE VIEWS OF NA
IVES AND ROYALTY.

The coronation of King Prajadhikorn, who recently visited this coun-ptry, and the coronation cere-momy of H.H. Rama VI are the outstanding strokes in this travel film, although score of novel and curious scenes native sports and customs add considerably to the entertainment.
Such footage is given over to the oration sequence which shows such royal pomp and majesty, some it a relic of medieval days.

The coronation shots are unnaturally interesting.
Novelty is added to the by scenes of a Siamese pride-rituals in which the contestants use the Pheon. Carriage rides as part of the performance; elephants at work and play, and many other items are novel to American audiences.

This is the type of melodrama of which the making "pop" au-exists stand up and shout when a hero runs a gang, win, and over the plunders, to arrive "just in to save the heroine and her or old father from the clutches of the villain. Bob Custer, director, ars as a cattle-thief but after any fights, some hard ridin' and gun-play, he turns out to be a "rider of the range" out to get murderer. A rather pretty romance runs through the picture between Custer and Betty Mack, aid-considerably by Duke Lee, a vein, who knows how to act and becomes an integral part of the picture. Colorful and scenic locations have been chosen for the locale.
A few sequences, wherein cowboys play an important part, are the iron. King turned in a good job as a supervisor and the recording is far and distinct.

Paramount Time, 80 mins.

FAIRLY ENTERTAINING DRAMA OF PANAMA AND NEW YORK. BANKHEAD AND
MARCH BIG LURE IN THIS ONE.

This picture offers additional evidence to the effect that Miss Bankhead is first class starring material.
She has both glamour and ability.
Able support comes from Frederi-March opposite her. The story is inclined to a variation of "should a woman tell?" It is not striking original but it speed ups in the last wo reels, thus giving the audience a better impression than it really deserves. It concerns a hostess in a Panama cafe who kills her husband when he tries to grab her savings. A drunken young attorney comes to save her in the court sequence. She has been received to be about to marry a wealthy young chap when her past is exposed.
Eventually she turns to the lawyer in a cleverly-handled ending.

Cast: Tallulah Bankhead, Frederic March, Harry Rains, Sally Eilers, Susan Sutherland, Margaret Adams, Jack Passett, Lily Carhill, Averell Harris and Charles Pang.

Story, Owen Davis and Albert Herring; Director, Jack Rawlins. Cinematographer, Cam-

Columbia Time, 75 mins.

TYPICAL SEA-MELODRAMA WITH FIGHTS, MUTINY, BAD
MEN AND ROMANCE. RICHARD CROMWELL IS FINE AS LOVE-SICK YOUTH.

Fast action, strong dialogue and good performances by the leading players makes "Shanghai Love" in the better class list of two-fisted melodramas.
Noah Beery as the captain of a "hell ship" shanghies a Chinese woman, the man from whom Beery had taken his wife and years previous. Also on board as an able-seeam is Richard Cromwell, a youth who has once befriended Sally Blaine, the captain's daughter. The presence of the two men is resisted by Beery who orders his first mate to "get" them both.
Mutiity, with some hard fights, breaks out, and in the end, Beery is captured, released and free.
Cromwell and Sally Blaine join and the two go off to settle and have a happy ending.

Cast: Richard Cromwell, Noah Beery, Dora Bank, Goldie, Sidney Blackstock, Sid-

ADAPTATION OF STAGE PLAY
MISSES SPARKLE OF ORIGINAL, SHAPING UP AS ENTERTAIN-MENT FOR THE SELECT FEW.

This one misses the pop appeal a mile, with the motivation and acquirable story. As a vehicle for Beery it has its faults, too. As a play, "You and I," by Philip Barry, it was one of the finest comedies of the season.
It scored well in the theater.

The transposition to the screen seems to have clouded some of its values.
It wobbles around uncertainly, with no definite building toward any strong climax. The theme is that of a father who yearns to quit the business for his daughter. It is a rich little gem and an excellent example of a comic idea, it is cleverly handled and quite a gem in the furnace of Hollywood's present story craft. The scenes are smartly played throughout, with clever dialogue.

Cast: Lewis Stone, Evelyn Knapp, Charles B. Fitzsimons, Doris Wilson, John Darrow, Oscar Arel, Una Merkel.

Director, Robert Milton; Author, Philip Barry; Production, Fred Jackson; Adaptation, Owen Davis and Ad-ride, Hilbert; Camera, German, Cinematographer, Edith, Editor, Emmeline Hill; Recording Engineer, Ernest Zatorsky.

Direction, very good. Photography, fine.

Joan Crawford in "This Modern Age"
M-G-M. Time, 76 mins.

"ONE NUMBER--ONE SOCIET-
IZED AUDIENCES WITH SEX
VALUES CLEVERLY TIED UP IN UNUSUAL MOTHER-DAUGHTER RELATIONSHIP.

They put a splendid cast to work on a very unusual story that packs some powerful dramatic punches.
The idea is a modernized version of a sophisticated touch that will delight the intelligent audiences.

It is group-up entertainment in every sense of the term. Joan Crawford finds herself in Paris with her mother, a divorced, who is being supported by her French lover without Joan's knowledge. Then comes Joan's love affair with a fine youth of a splendid family. The mother sees that she must sacrifice herself to save the girl's happiness, when the young's family and he himself discover the mother's relationship with French lover and Joan. Fredrick handles the mother part with mature role and a fine delicacy which almost steals the picture.
But Joan Crawford, in her best work, is a moppet in this. It is all it is real entertainment done with class. Of course the ending works out happily.

Direction, smart. Photography, excellent.

"EXPLORERS OF THE WORLD"
Rajima Productions Time, 76 mins.

BIG KICK FOR THRILL AND
AND ADVENTURE-LOVERS IN CAM-ERA RECORDS OF FAMOUS EX-PLORERS.

This is primarily planned for roadshowing, but it will stand up as very absorbing entertainment for those who have the love of an spirit of adventure. It's chief value is in its stark realism, presenting very graphically the inside stories of those who have gone on anadvenrous explorers on their scientific expedition to the far corners of the world. The reels were assembled by explorer Harold Noise, who employed an interesting device for in-pacting the personal and human element into the photographic records.
There is a great deal of personal friends at a banquet table, and given a brief introduction of each collectivity, and they in turn take up the narration work on their own camera record as it starts to unreel.
These cover Harold McCracken, in his shoe-shaped first aid kit, and conducting the trek to Tibet for the Chinese government; Commander
Attilio Gatti, leader of the Italian
Antarctic expedition; Captain Commander J. R. Stenhouse, captain of the "Aurora," on the Imperial Trans-Antarctic expedition, Dr. Lauder's trip around the world, the Byrd Antarctic trip; and finally Harold Noise, leader of the Italian Expedition to the post of Western Brazil. Plenty of thrills and action.

"THE HORSE ATE THE HAT"
("Un Chepeau de Paille D'Italie")
Moviegraphs Time, 65 mins.

POOR FRENCH SILENT FILM
HOLDS LITTLE ENTERTAI-MENT IN FARCE IDEA THAT IS WEAKLY PRESENTED.

This is an adaptation of a French stage satire, which in its original form is a very effective piece in the transposing to the screen, they lost all the subtlity of the idea, and in many spots it goes slapstick, with the cast rushing around rather aimlessly and frantically, and not at all hilariously. Rene Clare, who made "Sous Les Toits de Paris," directed this work number some two years ago, and shows little of his masterful direction displayed in the later highly successful film. The yarn is all about a flirtation wife whose new hat is destroyed by the hero's horse. Then into the typical French situation of the situation, the wife's sweetheart involved, and the frantic efforts of all hands to protect themselves, or to find out what scandal the other party or the other parties is far superior to the material, but are made to act in a very amateurish manner more often than not.

Cast: Rene Clare, Alfred Luntz, Oleg Tchekhov, Paul Oliver, Alex Allin, Eugene Dekker, Gerald, Udine, Alexis Bened, Mlle Maryse Maia.

Director, Rene Clare; Author, Eugene Labiche; Marc Michael; Adaptation, Rene
Clare; Editor, not listed; Cameraman, not listed.

Direction, weak. Photography, fair.
EXHIBITORS SHOPPING FOR SHORT SUBJECTS

By CHARLES ROSENZWEIG

Keenly conscious of the fact that the short subject is today a vital factor in his program, the exhibitor is bowing shyly to the call of the distributors for this branch of his talking screen attractions.

RKO Radio Pictures have been more than gratified with the reception accorded their shorts for the season of 1931-32. This is due to the fact that RKO-Radio Pictures have embarked on their short subject '31-'32 program with more than the usual care and with the result that has proven to be exceptionally fortunate.

This policy has proven to be especially successful in the matter of picking the stars to head the short subject series. There is "Chic" Sale's for example, currently reported to have recently signed a contract with a major film company at $5,000 per week. Sale's is doing a series of six two-reelers for RKO-Radio Pictures, and exhibitors who are getting the benefit of a $5,000 a week star at two reel values are not congratulating themselves.

Ted Sparks, Rocco Ates, Clark & McCullough and Jimmy Savo are all stars in RKO-Radio Pictures shorts, who are steadily mounting in box office draw. And the sensational appeal of Nick Harris series of 12 two-reel featurettes bringing this internationally famous detective to the screen in real-life dramas taken from authentic cases will react strongly in the exhibitors' favor and such strong viewing in a good advertising background. Add to these the series of Mickey McGuire two-reelers through the formation of Mickey McGuire clubs throughout the country, and the 13 Amedee Van Beuren one-reel shorts, and it may be readily observed that Radio Pictures is well able to keep the exhibitor supplied with an exceptional program of short features of wide diversity and box office appeal.

Para. Signs Ethel Merman For 2 One-Reel Musicals

Ethel Merman has been signed by Paramount to appear in two one-reel musical productions to be made at the New York studios. First is an original story by Aubrey Scott who will also direct. John W. Green is scoring the music.

France Honors Film Folk

Paris—In the recent awards of honors by the Department of Public Instruction, the French government single out a number of persons. Charles Delac received the rosette, Georges Melies was made a chevalier, and M. Roux-Parasac and Auguste Baron received the cross of the Legion.

Showmanship Essential on Shorts—Bergerman

"Patrons must be assured of a good time when they go to the theater. Featuring pictures cannot be considered a good 'talking program,'" S. Stanley Bergerman of Universal told THE FILM DAILY yesterday. "A showman should see every picture put on the screen before it is bought for his public. Many programs have only grossed 50 per cent because showmanship of that kind was lacking."

Universal To Deliver 326
Short Reels Plan Indicate

Universal's short subject line-up for 1931-32 will include 326 reels in addition to 104 reels of Universal newreel. Single reel series will include 13 "Dangerous Jobs," 13 "Strange as It Seems," 20 Cartoons and 26 All American Sports reels of which the following 9 have been completed: "Shirts," "Offensive System," "Buckeye Boys," "Backfield Plays," "Carry-On" of the Notre Dame series, three baseball shorts as yet untitled and one Tilden "Talks." The two-reel line-up will take in 13 Shadow-Detective releases, four serials of 12 episodes each to be known as "Danger Island," "Dancing with Buffalo Bill," "Heroes of the Law" and "Airmail Mystery." Fifty-two comedies of two reels each and one of four reels, complete the short product schedule. The four-reeler "First to Fight," with Slim Summerville and the Bob Ralston series, have three other summervillreelers, "Hotter than Haiti," "Bless the Ladies," and "Peeking at Pek." The "Footlight Features" completed are "Models and Wives" with Sidney and Murray, "Robinson Crusoe and Son" and "An Apple a Day" with Charles Almedida and "Stepping" with Don Brodie, "One Hundred Dollars" with Charles Lawrence "East and West" and "Furious" with Daphne Pollard.

Ideal Producing 42 Shorts
For American-Foreign Sale

With 42 one-reelers on its 1931-32 schedule, Ideal Pictures Corp. will make the descriptive talk of all subjects over into three languages for foreign distribution. French versions will be described by Guy Higon, Castillian-Spanish by Louis Nebot, and Brazilian-Portuguese by H. de Almeida, Jr. The series includes 12 Milt Gross "Gross Exaggerations," 12 Traveltalks, described by Arthur Hale of WOR; 12 new animal shorts by J. ... comes the day when ultra-speed motion picture negative will eliminate slower emulsions. The latest impetus is supplied by the new gray backing on Eastman Super-sensitive. This advance is of particular interest to the exhibitor and the producer. Definitely improving photographic quality, it means more artistic, more pleasing, more satisfying pictures. And these factors, needless to say, have a very definite box-office value. Eastman Kodak Company, Rochester, New York. (J. E. Brulatour, Inc., Distributors, New York, Chicago, Hollywood.)

Plan Milt Gross One-Reelers

Milt Gross, cartoonist and humorist of the Hearst papers, has been signed by M. J. Kandel, of Ideal Pictures, for a series of 12 one-reelers to be known as "Gross Exaggerations." Tom Johnston, formerly cartoon and "strip" editor of the "N. Y. World," will write the gags and stories for the series and the dialogue will be composed by Frank dollan who was recently connected with the "Movie Memories" shorts released by Paramount. Gross will collaborate with Johnston in "gagging" the reels and will add sequences of animated cartooning to each. The shorts will be shown on travel films. It will be ready next week and titled "The Isle of Jazz."

12 Features to Be Produced

In England, States Warner

London (by cable)—Approximately $1,000,000 will be spent by Warner-First National on the 12 features scheduled for production at the Teddington Studios which they have taken over on a two-year's lease, according to Jack L. Warner. RCA sound will be used. Studio executives will be Irving Asher.

Columbia Seeks Exclusive Services of B. Stanwyck

Columbia Pictures has brought a court action against Barbara Stanwyck in an effort to restrain her from working for any other company. According to the complaint, she has signed a contract with Warner Bros. in violation of her Columbia contract.

MYERS SEES GANGSTER SUBJECTS OVERDONE

Washington Bureau of THE FILM DAILY

Washington — Although Allied States Ass'n has no definite policy as regards gangster pictures, President Abram F. Myers believes that the subject has been overdone and that "the public is beginning to yawn." He deplores "imitativeness which leads to production of an unending succession of such pictures."

Charges U. S. with Trying To Discredit British Films

Toronto—A resolution urging constituent organizations to encourage exhibition of British films and "further support the greater interchange of British films" was adopted at the British Empire Service League Conference here. Major General Sir Frederick Maurice charged Hollywood producers are "deliberately producing inferior films in British studios" and exhibiting them as British pictures "in order to discredit British films generally."

Sunday Show Voters Get Free Cleveland Tickets

Cleveland Heights, O.—M. B. Horowitz, general manager of the Washington circuit, which operates the Heights theater, received a letter of thanks and a free ticket to each of the 9,041 residents who voted for Sunday movies. The tickets were for a show, the day when Sunday movies went into effect at the two Cleveland Heights houses.
Two Australian Producers At Work, States Mason

Although two producing companies are now making feature films in Australia, there is no fear of pictures produced in the Antipodes competing with American or other foreign product. Cecil Mason, sales manager for Greater Australasian Films, told the FILM DAILY yesterday, that the two producers in Australia are the Union Theaters in Sydney, headed by Stuart F. Doyle, and the Eftec Films of Melbourne, headed by F. W. Thring. The former is making “On Our Selection” a feature with an all Australian cast and staff, and the latter is producing “The Sentimental Blake” which is being directed by an American. General Australasian Films represents Columbia and several British producers in the Antipodes.

Y.; and Specrak, San Diego.

Women Control Memphis Board

Memphis, Tenn.—Mrs. Walter Swartz, wife of a physician and prominently identified with the paraprofessional association, has replaced Mrs. Joseph Vogel on the movie censorship board which women now control to a one.

THINGS WE Never Thought Worth Mentioning Till Now... that now we know why press agents go cra-zy.... Jed Buhl, having forceably abandoned his son, entered three of Mack's beauties, Ann Christy, Ruth Hinton and Dorothy Granger, in an auto parade.... and Jed promoted a high-hat auto to carry em... now comes the Sad News.... the car called for the gals.... and it was a CLOSED vehicle.... now, we ask ya, howin'll could the syndicate photographers snap Mack's prise pips hidden behind $8,000 worth of aluminum. Varnish and plate glass?

THAT Tommy Westmorland, our Arkansas snooper, rises to comment on our article about Mister Schiller's new notion for the use of typographical design in picture titles; notes that the field is already in process of developing with Pathe's Audio-Revue using a modern sans-serif face, a Kabel light face or Future... and they have also been using impressionistic designs moving in a modern pattern behind their subtitles for decorative effects and Tommy winds up by saying that there is no doubt but that gents like Mister Schiller and himself could develop this field to Unlimted Proportions.... and he thinks that Pathe, Fox and M-G-M have the rest of the field stopped when it comes to art treatment of pix titles. Tommy, like Mister Schiller, knows his type.

THAT Sam Warshawsky is busy receiving squawks from Broadway stage producers... because he didn't give 'em a chance to grab off his smash hit. "One of Destiny" the part he was laid up with a cold... now comes the Sad News.... the car called for the gals.... and it was a CLOSED vehicle.... now, we ask ya, howin'll could the syndicate photographers snap Mack's prise pips hidden behind $8,000 worth of aluminum. Varnish and plate glass?

THAT Nell Roy, of "Girl Crazy," is planning to take a bungalow in Hollerwood... before she goes out on a film contract.... she is planning to go to the coast... and give her the lowdown... and Ben sends her a postcard sayin'... "This is the place for you!"

THAT Al Zimmerlani over at RKO Pathe proved himself a hero when Carrington North's see was injured by an unruly electric fan... Al's first aid measure probably saved the young lady from permanent disfigurement... that "The Walls Are High," second novel written by Joe Van Raalte, vet newspaperman, comes out this month... Van is the author of "Vice Squad"... that Katherine Albert of Photoplay, came east on a vacation, but has decided to stop over and marry Dale Eunson of Cosmopolitan on Sept. 19...

THAT George Shute, formerly of Motion Pix Herald, has joined the New Publicity Service in the hotel Dixie... that Catherine Calhoun Doumeroy was guest star of the Lakewood Players at Skowhegan, Maine, playing her original role in Rachel Crothers' comedy, "As Husbands Go"... that Sylvia Ninning, who appeared in "The Resurrection," expects to have a prominent part in Cecil D'ille's production of India.

By RALPH WILK

HOLLYWOOD

If you have any spare elephants around, send them to Jerry Zigm, manager of the Paramount, Denver. His collection of the ivory-tusked creatures is growing. Of course, the elephants are of the toy and souvenir variety.

In a recent issue of one of the trade papers, Paul Hurst, the actor, carries the following ad, addressed to a former acquaintance in the phone check you put over on me through your pretense of friendship, not only destroys your credit, but works a hardship on the honest man, who might have been benefited in these tough times by the confidence you have presumed to use on his trust, Paul Hurst. P. S. However, you can trust me not to tell anyone that you knowingly wrote a check on a bank, wherein you had no ac- count.—P. H.

Sam Bischoff is making prepara- tions for the production of "X Marks the Spot," at Tiffany. The story, despite the title is not a gangster yarn, but deals with newspaper life. Pat O'Brien is being consid- ered for the lead.

Famous last words: Yeah, the critics didn't like the picture, but it is making him a fortune.

Important roles in Paramount's shipbuilding story, "Rich Man's Folly," have been assigned to Wade Boteler, William Arnold, Alf P. James and Maude Lewis. The cast for this story of an ambition-mad builder of ships, starring George Bancroft, includes Robert Ames, Juliette Compton and Frances Dee in featured parts.

Herman Michelson, veteran newspaper man whose first novel, "Money Man," is just off the press, has ar- rived in Hollywood to begin his new work as a writer at Paramount's studios. For three years, Michelson was Sunday editor of the New York World, leaving when the World was merged with the Telegram. He is one of the leading newspaper editorial workers of the na- tion.

Claude King, stage actor of New York and London before embarking on a screen career, has been signed by Paramount to a long-ter- ted Englishman in the new Ruth Chatterton picture, "Once a Lady." Leonard Carey and Elsa Prescott are signed for character parts in the film.

Director Mervin S. Sandrich, Tom Lamon and Ned Sparks are comb- ining their various talents in the writing of the stories for the next picture, which are to star Ned Sparks for Radio Pictures under supervision of Producer Lou Brock.

Margaret Feely and Cora Lee Shunway, singers, have been added to the cast of Radio Pictures' "Other People's Business," starring Seth Parker.

Because of the lengthy and dif- ficult shooting schedule, Dr. Jekyll and Mr. Hyde, Robert Lee has relinquished his position as a Paramount director to be assistant director to Rouben Mamoulian on this single production. Lee was as- signed the duties at the request of Mamoulian, with whom he served as assistant on "City Streets," before becoming a director.

Dorothy Jordan has been borrowed from M-G-M by Paramount to act the leading feminine role in "The Beloved Bachelor," Paul Lukas' first starring film.

Regis Toomey, who recently completed a featured part in Para- mount's mystery picture, "24 Hours," has been assigned roles in Ruth Chatterton's "Once a Lady" and in "Touchdown!" the talking picture version of the collegiate football story, "Stadium."

Weiss Brothers Artolas Pictures has begun preparations for the early production of the first of eight Harry Carey special western productions. J. P. McCarthy, long identified with this type of production, has been en- gaged to direct the first of the se- ries.

Because Edmund Lowe's vacation has been prolonged, Spencer Tracy will play the role originally intended for People in Fox's "Disorderly Conduct." When Joan Bennett leaves the hospital to which she was confined as a result of being thrown from a horse, Tracy will complete his role in "She Wanted a Millionaire." Sally Eilers has a leading role in "Disorderly Con- duct."

Cleveland—Regis Duddy, assistant manager at RKO Palace, has been transferred to the Albee, Cincinnati, and William Quigley is now his suc- cessor in Cleveland.

Denver—The organ at the Para- mount is being put back into use. It is Bome from the Olympia, Miami, Fla., will be the new organ- ist. Until he arrives Armond Carlos of Colorado Springs will play.

Denver—West Masters, who has been playing on the west coast, suc- ceeds Margorie Nash at the Mayan organ.

Ridgewood, N. J.—Work on War- ner's new theater to be erected on the Schwartz property on East Ridgewood Ave. has been started. It will be finished by the first of the year.

Salem, Mass.—Charlie Goldreyer, who formerly operated the Holly- wood in Cliftondale, Mass., recently destroyed by fire, is reopening the old Comique here which he has re- named the Rialto.

Cleveland—H. R. Skibboll, local Educational branch manager, is at St. Luke's Hospital under medical observation.

Denver—The paramount is having its first anniversary this week and has ice cream and cake for all, cigars for the men and flowers for the ladies.

Fitchburg, Mass.—The Comings has changed hands and is now the State.

Walpole, Mass.—James Austin, former Franklin, Mass., exhibitor, opened the Elite, which has been closed for four years, on Labor Day. He is installing W. E. equipment. He sold his Franklin theater to the Phil Smith Circuit.

Cleveland—The New Broadway, closed most of the summer, re- opened Aug. 23.

Wilton, N. H.—Joseph La Casse, Jr., has opened the local theater in the Town Hall, closed for two months, and will reopen it late in September. He is installing W. E. equipment.

Mansfield, O.— Sol Bernstein is now playing a second run at the Ritz theater.

Guilford, Me.—Elliott & Mills are opening a new theater here about the middle of September. They may call it the Community.

Waldoboro, Me.—A new picture house, the Medomak, will be opened here soon by H. R. Olds. Showings will be on Wednesdays and Saturdays.

Nothing andp;—It is reported that the Elson Construction Co., will build a "film row" consisting of a group of buildings to house all ex- changes.

Worcester, Mass.—The Worcester, seating 1,400, was recently bought at auction by the Spencer Savings Bank holders of a $30,000 mortgage on the property. The bank will not demolish the building down but will offer the theater for sale.

Denver—Ben Ketchum and George Cleveland have taken over the Denham from Capt. C. C. Spicer and will operate it as a legitimate house to be opened in September.

Portland, Me.— The Jefferson, with a capital of $200,000 will be known as the Original Theater Activities, in conjunction with the New York Theaters, Inc., and the Theater Guild.

Minneapolis — RKO will reopen the Seventh Street theater here and the President at St. Paul on Sep- tember 9, according to Morgan Ames, district manager.

Springfield, Mass.—A $1,500 at- tachment has been filed in the reg- istry of deeds by Fox New England Theaters, Inc., against Worthington Corp.

Cleveland — Frank N. Phelps, former manager of the RKO Orpheum and RKO district manager for Minneapolis, is now district manager for Warner Bros. Ohio houses.

Des Moines—The Orpheum, form- er vaudeville-film house, will soon be reopened with a straight film policy.

Tifton, Ga.—The Strand is now equipped with Western Electric sound.

N. C. Allied Unit Convention

Efforts to increase its membership roster will be made by the recently formed Allied Theater Owners of North Carolina at its convention scheduled for Sept. 17. It is ex- pected that President Abram F. Myers of Allied States Ass'n will be present and speak.

The Judge said he found nothing to substantiate any of the points in the complaint.

Exhibs Already Signed Up May Be Offered 5-5-5 Contract

Sponsored Stage Show At Publix Denver House

Denver—Denver Dry Goods Co. is sponsoring the current stage show at the Publix Paramount. The presentation, called “Back to School,” has a cast of 20 youngsters. Store is repaid by a number of plugs.

Distributors are understood to be considering a plan to offer exhibitors who already bought their 1931-32 product the new 5-5-5 contract, substituting this agreement giving theaters more advantages in place of the ones already signed. Such a policy, from the distributor (Continued on Page 6)

Kansas City Exhibs Form Association in Fight Over Production

Kansas City—An association of local independent exhibitors has been formed and has appealed to the Federal Trade Commission for relief against protection demands of local Fox houses. R. R. Brewster, well-known Federal lawyer, has been retained. John Clark, Paramount sales executive, is here to look into the matter. The association contends Fox houses here are demanding unfair zoning arrangements.

300 Expected to Attend N. W. Allied Convention

Minneapolis—About 300 are expected to attend the Northwest Allied’s semi-annual convention starting today at the Radisson Hotel. In addition to Al Steffes, Abram F. Myers, Aaron Saperstein and other Allied big shots, Sidney R. Kent of Paramount, Governor Olson, Mayor Anderson and other celebrities will be at the dinner on Thursday.

Shorts Now Entertain Tired Business Man

Long Beach, Cal.—Comedy shorts, especially animated cartoons, have become the chief recreation of the tired business man as well as others, said Dr. Clinton Wunder, executive vice-president of the Academy of M. P. Arts and Sciences, in an address before the national convention of 20-30 clubs here.

The Charm of Bad Girl

There’s plenty of pretty good in this “Bad Girl” picture of Fox. It is about as palatable a dish as has been offered this season. If it contains a film lesson it is that all the world, and his brother, are interested in youth with its smiles and heartaches, and that screen dialogue can lose none of its charm, forcefulness, nor meaning when written by an understanding hand and directed with the sensitive and human touch of a Borage.

In the ordinary course of events we hear very little of the trailer, yet trailers play no unimportant part in both the production (Continued on Page 2) and merchandising branches of the industry. Used by four out of five exhibitors this trailer footage must be enormous. It is a rather interesting commentary that some recent tests, have found trailers their most effective means of advertising. Being both economical and without intricate circulation the trailer has long since established its value to the industry.

THE INDUSTRY'S DATE BOOK

Plans Foreign Film Showings
State College, Pa.—A series of "Little Theater" type film presentations is planned by George Williams, manager of the Catham here, for the winter season. At least six productions by foreign companies, preferably films with appeal for college town clientele, will be booked. If the policy takes, it will be extended.

Strikers and Operators Clash
Paterson, N. J.—In a clash between striking operators and strike-breakers, while the latter were leaving the United States theater, Vincent Kearney, a union operator, and August Marinou, striker, were arrested.

Paramount Buys "Mrs. Wiggs" Purchase of "Mrs. Wiggs of the Cabbage Patch," popular adult-juvenile classic, has been completed by Paramount. Junior Durkin and Charlotte V. Henry will have the leading roles. Sam Mintz will adapt the story.

Miami Operator Strike

Now Involves 7 Houses

Miami — All independent houses here, seven in number, are now included in the strike by Local 316, operators' union. The organization originally struck at the three Wolfson-Meyer theaters.

Houses in Miami where the strike is now in effect are the Capitol, Biltmore and Biscey Plaza of the Wolfson-Meyer Circuit; Studio 4, Coral Gables; Harvey Cunningham, owner; Coconut Grove, Irving Thomas and Finn Pearce, owners, and Tower, Nelson Tower, owner.

Operators employed in independent theaters where strike is in progress have formed a union known as Local Association of Motion Picture Operators of Miami, Fla. Roy Mitchell has been elected president, and B. C. Hofstader, business agent. This local has started picking houses in Miami whereas I.A.T.S.E. men are employed. At the same time I.A.T.S.E. men are picking houses where Local Association men are employed.

TREAT THIS PICTURE AS THOUGH YOU WERE CHARGING $2 TOP!

(No. 731 Straight from the Shoulder Talk by Carl Laemmle, President of the Universal Pictures Corporation)

THE BIGGEST SURPRISE PICTURE OF YEARS IS JUST ABOUT TO HIT THE WORLD between the eyes.

I REFER TO "EAST OF BORNEO."

IT LENDS ITSELF TO THE HIGHEST PRESSURE ADVERTISING YOU CAN POSSIBLY USE. IT WILL BACK UP EVERYTHING YOU SAY ABOUT IT.

IF YOU WILL GIVE IT A REGULAR CIRCUS ADVERTISING AND EXPLOITATION campaign, it will jerk your business out of the doldrums and give you a box-office thrill that you'll never forget.

DON'T TREAT IT JUST AS ANOTHER PICTURE.

GET AWAY FROM YOUR ROUTINE ADVERTISING. DON'T BE AFRAID TO SMASH it at your people for all you're worth, because I tell you again it will give your fans everything you lead them to expect.

IT IS NOT MERELY A SENSATION—NOT JUST ANOTHER THRILLER. IT IS IN SOME parts almost terrifying in the sensationalism of its wild beast scenes.

IT IS NOT JUST A TRIP INTO THE JUNGLE. IT IS A CORKING GOOD STORY WITH a splendid cast including Rose Hobart and Charles Bickford under the sterling direction of George Melford.

FRANKLY, THIS IS ONE OF THOSE CASES WHERE WE OURSELVES DID NOT realize we had such a startling production until we gave it a tryout and fairly knocked the fans off their chairs. That's why you have not heard much about it—but, boy, you will hear about it and you will remember the profit it makes for you for a long time to come.

USE 24 SHEETS! USE ALL THE OTHER REMARKABLE ADVERTISING HELPS WHICH are all prepared and ready for you to shoot! Put your heart and soul into it and you'll just naturally clean up!

More Preparation, Faster Shooting, New Warner Plan

Studios to Remain Open Continuously, Says Jack Warner

More time in preparation and less in shooting will be the keynote of the Warner-First National production policy hereafter, Jack L. Warner told THE FILM DAILY yesterday in an exclusive interview following his return from eight weeks abroad. Only four features at a time will be made by Warner and F. N., instead of the old mass method, and this will prevent any studio shutdown, said Warner. (Continued on Page 3)

FOX LIKELY TO RELEASE FOR SELZNICK-MILESTONE

West Coast Bureau, THE FILM DAILY

Hollywood—Fox is understood likely to release productions planned by the Selznick-Milestone Combination. It is reported that Frank Borzage and Raoul Walsh may be identified with the enterprise.

Publix Houses Book Vitaphone Shorts

Contracts were closed yesterday whereby more than 125 Publix houses in the Minneapolis, Omaha and Des Moines territories will play the full Warner-Vitaphone short output. In another deal, four Publix first-runs in Detroit also have signed for the Vita. product.

Quality Creates Cycles

West Coast Bur. THE FILM DAILY

Hollywood—Declaring that predictions about a "comedy year," "romance year," etc., mean nothing, Charles R. Rogers of RKO Pathe says that the sole determining factor in the matter of cycles is quality of the picture. Varied programs are the life of picture business, states Rogers, and when any type of film achieves special popularity it is because an unusual number of good pictures of that kind are produced.

Saving of $50,000,000 Looms Under New Union Contracts

A reduction of approximately 10 per cent is indicated for the coming year in the aggregate sum of $50,000,000 paid theater unions in wages, according to a survey made by THE FILM DAILY. This estimate, which is termed conservative, is based on new contracts with operators, musicians and stage hands for the year which, in most instances, began Labor Day. It covers both producer-owned and independent houses.

Organization went on record as backing Al Steffes, general manager, in the Chicago fight for one man in a booth, and assumed responsibility for his actions.

A large protest committee will visit Mayor Anderson today and impress upon him that Steffes is not making personal action, as alleged, in his fight, but has been given orders by the owners.

Announcement was made of the releasing of the Allied newsreel. Speakers at today's dinner will include Sidney R. Kent, Abram F. Myers, H. M. Richey, Lester Martin and J. McWilliams.

President Bennie Berger may resign, as he is moving to Sioux Falls, S. D.

faults and that "exhibitors put themselves in a weak position when they engage in sweeping denunciations of Hollywood and the methods by which pictures are made." The statement, coming on the heels of the "studio extravagance" denunciations uttered at the recent New York protest meeting, adds that the critics of Hollywood are purely destructive because they offer no helpful suggestions. Virtually all of the exhibitors' legitimate complaints belong to the marketing and distributing of films, says Myers. The Allied chief also states that sentiment is growing against the percentage system and the costly checking that it involves.

J. C. Latta's Father Dies
Cleveland—J. C. Latta, Warner theater district manager, is mourning the death of his father, who died Saturday after a short illness.

HOLLYWOOD

FREDERICK LONSDALE's original story for Robert Montgomery's new M-G-M picture is titled "Courage." The English playwright is on his way to London where he expects to finish his second original story before returning to Hollywood in two months.

Rod Brown's first directorial assignment since his return from Europe is "Freaks," a mystery story with a circus background. Willis Goldbeck is working with him on the script.

Charles "Buddy" Rogers and Peggy Shannon will be teamed again by Paramount in "Working Girls," which Dorothy Arzner will direct. Dorothy Hall, Broadway actress, also will be in it. Stuart Erwin has the comedy lead.

Ray Harris has joined the Paramount writing staff.

Tim McCoy is ready to start his second for Columbia. It is tentatively titled "Gambler's Guns" and appeared recently in a popular magazine. Ray Taylor will direct. Doris Hill will have the principal feminine role.

Hamilton MacFadden, who directed " Riders of the Purple Sage," has been assigned by Fox to direct "Devil's Lottery." Alexander Kirkland and William Pauel will be in the cast.

Paul Lukas' new Paramount picture, "The Beloved Bachelor," will have the following cast: Dorothy Jordan, Vivienne Osborne, Charlie Ruggles, Marjorie Gatta, John Breeden, Hariole Minjir, Leni Stengel, Alma Chester, Betty Van Allen and Guy Oliver. Lloyd Corrigan is directing from a play by Edward Pople.

Greta Nissen, the blond vamp of "Transatlantic," will be featured in Fox's "Cheating," in which Linda Watkins, Claire Maynard and Allain Dinehart have been cast.

The veteran Tom Ricketts has been signed for a part in Warner Baxter's next picture, "Surrender," and M. Maazel has been added to the cast of the Janet Gaynor-Charles Parrel picture, "Delicious."

Our Passing Show: Wilson Mizner, Robert Taylor, Shannon and Robert Hopkins lunching in Culver City; Nick Barrows and Howard Bretherton conferring at RKO-Pathe; Frank Guy receiving congratulations on his debut as an independent producer; Harrison Wiley motoring on Hollywood boulevard.

Ruth Chatterton will have the following players in the cast of her next Paramount production, "Once a Lady": Ivor Novello, Jill Esmond, Geoffrey Kerr, Regis Toomey, Doris Lloyd, Herbert Bunston, Gwendolen Logan, Gladie King, Stella Moore, Edith Kingdon, Ethel Griffies and Suzanne Ransom. Miss Moore is a niece of Miss Patrick Campbell.

Anderson Lawler, New York leading man, has been signed by Paramount for a prominent role in "Girls About Town," a sophisticated night-life comedy by Zoe Akins. Kay Francis, Joel McCrea and Lilian Tashman are prominently cast in it.

Sales Managers Decide to Postpone Use of New Form

Major Company sales managers, at a meeting yesterday at the Hotel Algonquin, are understood to have decided to defer placing of the 5-5-5 exhibition contract in operation until the next selling season. Possibility of this postponement was indicated in an exclusive story in Wednesday's Film Daily. Original plan was to have the contract ready for use about Jan. 1.

LAEMMLE SEES EUROPE IN SAME FIX AS U. S.

Business conditions in Europe are much the same as in the U. S., said Carl Laemmle on his return yesterday from a sojourn abroad. Film companies are having their troubles over there, but it is bringing about more efficient methods that will prove profitable later, declared the Universal president. U's business in England is very satisfactory, and

"Five Star Final"

A high-powered, intensely dramatic story dealing with tabloid news-paparazzi in the raw, Reed ef- ter reel—it packs an arm mule wallop. Unlike many other stories which charge along in smash tempo, this one has a theme with a strong woman angle. Additionally there's ex- cellent comedy relief. Cast headed by Edward G. Robinson performs with notable skill under the knowing direc- tion of Mervyn LeRoy. This first Na- tional picture is 100 proof entertain- ment for any adult audience.

yesterday. The present period, said the Consolidated Film president, offers excellent opportunity to improve manufacturing processes and reduce costs so that companies which take advantage of this are able to meet the current business situation successfully and make progress that will show increased profits both now and in the Paris-Berlin and Paris years.

Yates pointed out that during the first eight months of this year Consolidated Film Industries earned net profit after taxes equivalent to 128 per cent of the annual regular $2 dividend requirements of the preferred stock.

He stated that it was his belief based on a very careful survey that the remaining four months of this year would show the corporation profits at least equal and in all probability in excess of the average obtained thus far this year.

He also said: "These are hard times only in the sense that you have to work harder and that is what we are doing."

ALONG THE RIALTO WITH PHILM DAILY

• • • WALKED IN on Al Selig of Columbia and found Al in a reminiscent mood as he went back to the day when stars were stars and Al was signing his name to the film industry. He is the most successful film executive in the business. He has been a film manager for ten years and has never been in a situation where he was not able to make a profit. He is now building his own studio in Hollywood and is planning a series of pictures that will be produced in a single location. The pictures will be of a high quality and will be distributed throughout the country.

• • • ONE STUNT Al maneuvered was a "psychic" perfume especially designed to publicize Theda in "Cleopatra," on the idea that she got the screen vamps all steamed up on the idea that the perfume was "psychic" and it was a success. She used the perfume to promote her picture and it was a great success.

• • • FUNNY THING was that the screen vamps was just the opposite in real life and her home-loving habit of unusual sensitivity. One whom the breath of scandal never smirched was Theda. She was the most beautiful and charming of all the stars of the silent screen, and the others learned from her how to be charming. She was always in demand for interviews which killed the "mystery" atmosphere surrounding Theda, but she said that to this day Theda has her boudoir drenched with the exotic aroma.

• • • THEN THERE was Bill Farnum, the leading male star knocking "em down alone with Theda. His 10 grand a week from Fox he spent like loose sand slithering through your fingers. Bill had his country home at Saug Harbor and beautiful estate at Bucksport, Maine, his birthplace, and he had a country estate in Hollywood and much modest lil'1 playmates as a complete racing stable, racing motors, pleasure yachts.

• • • YEZZIR. stars were real kings and queens in those days, enjoying a worldwide homage from millions of admiring subjects. It's a safe bet that Theda Bara and Bill Farnum pictures started more exhibitors on the road to independent wealth than all the other film stars you can mention for their pix clicked in series over a period of years and they both were prolific producers these two started Bill Fox's fortune.

• • • AND TODAY Theda is playing one-nite stands in "Fata Morgana" and "The Coast," and Bill Farnum is filling secondary parts in pix, with the review of the same tone as "Ain't life queer?" sez Al. "Naw," sez we, "it's the folk in it."

Columbia Has the Big Hits!
SYLVIA SIDNEY, who is vacationing at her home in New York after making "An American Tragedy" and "Street Scene" on the coast, visited the Paramount studio in Astoria this week and renewed acquaintance with Gary Cooper, with whom she played in "City Streets." She also met Tallulah Bankhead and Claudette Colbert.

Miss Sidney returns to Hollywood soon to play the lead in "Ladies of the Big House" for Paramount.

Julia Reuben, popular secretary to Larry Kent, Paramount's short subject producer, sprang a surprise on her friends by eloping to Poughkeepsie last week with Barney Ochs, her childhood sweetheart.

James Dunn, new Fox contract player, hailed as the greatest "discovery" in years, was given his first job in pictures by Frank Heath, at the Paramount studio here.

Edgar Bergen, the only ventriloquist appearing in Vitaphone Varieties, is also a clever writer. He is author of "Free and Easy," his sixth Vitaphone short, which has just been completed under the direction of Alf Goulding. Three weeks ago, Bergen completed "The Eyes Have It." Both pictures will be released as part of the "Pepper Pot," one reel series.

Roy Mack has been busy these past few days rehearsing Ruth Elting and casting for the latest of the "Broadway Brevities" series of two-reelers. It is entitled "Words and Music," and goes into production at the Vitaphone studio this week.

Fanny Watson and Thelma White completed their third two-reeler, "Her Wedding Night-Mare," for Vitaphone this week, with Neely Edwards and Edward C. Morton again playing strong supporting roles. Edwards enacts a hard drinking bridegroom, Thelma the bride, Fanny her best girl friend, and Morton the heavy. Alf Goulding directed from an original by Burnett Hershey and Glenn Lambert.

"Play Ball," second of the Booth Tarkington series made by Vitaphone, is being adapted by Stanley Rash. It goes into production this week, with Alf Goulding directing.

Charles Wagenheim, who has a small part in "Grand Hotel" and who on several occasions assumed Sam Jaffe's role in that play, was given another opportunity to play Jaffe's part this week, due to the latter's illness. Wagenheim has appeared in many Broadway productions during the last five years, besides film work in New York studios.

Big things are expected of "The Cheat" with Tallulah Bankhead starred, George Abbott directing, and George Folsey as chief cameraman. Ernest Zatolsky is monitor man and Emma Hill will edit.

Robert (Believe It or Not) Ripley, who has been travelling in taxis, to and from the Vitaphone studio, where he is making a series of "Believe It or Not," one reeler, gave the gang something to admire when he pulled up Thursday in an Isotta Franchini which he had just bought....Even Murray Roth, got a kick out of the car, and when he learned the price, "Eighteen and one-half grand," he remarked, "Now Rip's a real actor."

Allied Told Settlement Expected in Chi. Strike

Minneapolis—The Chicago delegation of ten today told the Northwest Allied convention at its session in the Radisson Hotel, that they expect a settlement next week between the operators and theatre owners. Abram F. Myers and others spoke optimistically on the general situation. Telegrams were read from every Allied leader not present. Twenty-five exhibitors were on hand from Wisconsin. A letter was read from Mayor W. A. Anderson to the effect that he was sorry if anything in the letter he had written the Chicago union was misinterpreted as reflecting upon Al Steffes as a strikebreaker. He had stated the facts as he knew them and nothing objectionable was intended. President Berger said exhibitors are more enthusiastic over the success of the organization than ever. The absence of Sidney R. Kent as a banquet speaker was deplored. Abram F. Myers took his place. H. M. Richey of Michigan was toast master. Bennie Berger was induced to remain as president notwithstanding his removal from the twin cities.

Lasky Coming East

Uncertainty concerning the future of the Paramount New York studio may be dissipated soon with the return of Jesse L. Lasky from the Coast scheduled for next week. Two more features remain on the plant's schedule, one starring Tallulah Bankhead, which will be started upon completion of her "My Sin," now in production, and a Claudette Colbert-Fredric March vehicle.

TONY GAUDIO, veteran cameraman, who did the camera work on "Hell's Angels," is again busy on "Sky-Devils," a new photograph story of "Sky-Devils," which is being made by Howard Hughes.

SALMON GODWYN has borrowed Mage Evans from M-G-M for "The Greeks Must Go," a new adaptation of the Aristophanes comedy. "Sky-Devil," and Walter Catlett have signed for "Cock of the Air," starring Chester Morris and Dirle Dove under the direction of Thomas duckingham, with Lewis Milestone supervising. "Sky-Devil" has started production, Edward Sullivan directing, and Dean Morean, whose work in "Scarface" won her a term contract, with Howard Hughes, is now working in "Sky-Devils."

UNIVERSAL has elevated Edw. H. Knouke, director of "New York, New Generation," which William Beaudine will direct... Leslie Fenton and Boris Karloff are other additions to the cast... Edmund Gwenn, "Young Man of Manhattan," old-timers to the studio, have been signed for "Gallows."" Frank Coghlan, production man for Loretta Young, Robert Williams and Don Harkins, are also new... Other Universal advertising men busy on scripts include Ray Doyle, Don Lee, Ken Pink and George Sheldon.

Ray June, ace cameraman, who photographed Constance Bennett in "Bought," is doing the camera work on "Arrowbaum," starring Ronald Colman. He is under contract to United Artists.

COLUMBIA has cast Constance Cuming, of New York, "New Generation," which William Beaudine will direct... Leslie Fenton and Boris Karloff are other additions to the cast... Edmund Gwenn, "Young Man of Manhattan," old-timers to the studio, have been signed for "Gallows."

Naomi Ruth Stevens, who has been acting as mistress of ceremonies at Warner theaters in San Pedro, Huntington Park and Beverly Hills, has resumed her work in the studios. She is only five years old, but is a dramatic reader of exceptional ability. She also is a clever acrobat and acrobatic dancer.

PARAMOUNT has bought "The Heart Is a Lonely Hunter," magazine story by Mary Ethington, for Kay Francis and William Boyd... Arthur Kober is adapting it for the screen. It will direct... Charles Davis, "Judy" producer, and Arthur Kober are working on a new adaptation of "The Quiet Man," a 1931, in the company's list. It is also being worked on for the screen by Mabel Taliaferro and William Boyd.

New York State Measure Changed to Give Law and Order Break

Bill introduced recently in the New York State Senate by James J. O’Hara, of Brooklyn to outlaw gangster pictures has been amended to permit showing of films in which the forces of law and order ultimately win over the lawless elements.

Legislative guardians of the industry by its associations will make efforts to bring about similar amendments.

Roxy

"Blues," the Roxy stage presentation, supplies color, beauty and dash, and abounds with melodious melodies, both old and new. It is preceded by a miniature edition of "Rigoletto," programmed merely as the "Overtures." Several arias from the opera are beautifully sung by Benjamino Ricco, Rosemary Cameron, Sunnworth Frazer and Louise Scheerer. Three scenes from "Rigoletto" are depicted and the orchestra under the direction of Maurice Baron, does a fine job. "Blues" was an overly complicated "water fall" ensemble. Yasha Zaydo, pianist, plays two numbers masterfully and is followed by a modernistic "Blue" dance by Roger Pryor Trio. The presentation ends with a snappy number by the Roxyettes in which they dance to the "Memphis Blues." A new shadow effect, during the dance, is worth while seeing.

Paramount

Ben Bernie and Band headline the Frank Cambria presentation currently at the Paramount. The musical maestro of radio and vaudeville fame has a snappy and talented bunch of performers with him, and among the featured principles are Eileen Dougall, Pat Kennedy and an Albertina Rasch ballet which appears in an elaborate overture conducted by Irving Talbot. This is Bernie's only Broadway stage appearance in 18 months, and he leaves next week for Chicago. Jesse Crawford's organ concert includes an "Eli Eli!" duet with Leon Kairoff.

Dave Schooler Returning

Dave Schooler, after an absence of more than eight months, returns to the Capitol next Friday as master of ceremonies.

New Minneapolis Suburban House

Minneapolis — Ground for a new suburban theater in the vicinity of 26th and Chicago avenues, has been broken by the May Theater Co. of which Frank Woskie is the head. It will be of Spanish design and seat 650. Total cost is given as $40,000.

An interesting and practical text-book for projectionists, theater managers and others who are concerned with the reproduction of talkers. The author, Aaron Nadell, through his former connection with Electrical Research Products and subsequently with Public Theater, has been able to get authentic slants on the various problems involved, with the result that his book will give the reader a clear understanding of the intricacies of operating sound equipment.

Numerous illustrations supplement the text, which includes chapters on film reproduction, mechanical requirements of sound-on-film reproduction, sound-on-disc, mechanical requirements of sound-on-disc, between the projector and the amplifiers, amplifier and rectifier apparatus, amplifier circuits, acoustics, the loud speaker, motors, generators, speed control, care of sound equipment and precautions to prevent trouble, tracing trouble, recording. There is also a list of symbols, a precaution index, a trouble index and a subject index. Theater managers who want to be properly informed on the important matter of sound, with a view to not only detect and adjust troubles but also to improve the quality of their reproduction, will find this volume a good investment.

HOLLYWOOD

FRANKLIN FARNUM has a role in the new Tiffany production, "Lovers in London," and has just completed "Head in for Trouble," starring Bob Custer.

J. P. McGowan has been signed to direct "Cyclone Kid," initial buzz in a series of six to be produced and released by Big 4. McGowan has just completed "Head in for Trouble," starring Bob Custer.

Vicki Baum, author of "Grand Hotel," has been in Hollywood six months under contract to Paramount, leaves Sept. 28 for her home in Berlin, where she will resume the editorship of "Der Dame," the magazine from which she was granted a leave of absence.

Bramwell Fletcher and Theodor von Eltz will fill two important roles in RKO's "Chatterton's new picture, "Once a Lady," for Paramount.

Jimmie Starr is writing an original story for Tiffany productions. Karl Brown will assist on continuity and dialogue.

Mack Swain, a substantial member of the world's most famous police force, the Keystone cops, plays a bartender in "Wide Open Spaces," newest of the Hollywood Masquers' two-reel comedies. He lends the considerable weight of his support to Ned Sparks, Dorothy Sebastian and Antonio Moreno. The picture is in production at the RKO Pathe studios, directed by Arthur Rosson.

"Riders of the West," a new Bob Steele western, has been placed in production by Trem Carr. Bert Glennon is directing.

Jerry Mundy, Bud Jamison and Helvie Conklin have been added to the cast of "Gigollettes," one of the Gay Girls series of RKO Pathe comedies which co-feature Jane MacClay, Marion Shilling and Gertrude Short.

Huntley Gordon, Robert Warwick and Frank Mayo have been added to the cast of "Race Track," now in production at the Tiffany studios under the direction of James Cruse.

Lois Wilson's sister, who refuses to shine by reflected glory, and is known as Constance Lewis, has an important role in the cast supporting Ray Cooke in the second of the Educational-Torchy series. Kane Richmond also is in it.

Marvin Stephens, nine-year-old actor from the comedy lots, has been selected by Paramount for a role in Ernst Lubitsch's "The Man I Killed," in support of Lionel Barrymore, Phillips Holmes and Nancy Carroll.

Lee Moran has been cast for a part in "Race Track," Tiffany production featuring Leo Carrillo.

Betty Scott has been signed by E. H. Allen, general manager at the Educational studios, as special comedy writer, assisting Ernest Pagano and Jack Townley.

Maude Fulton has handled the adaptation and dialogue for "Safe in Hell," which has gone into production at First National. Dorothy Mackaill is starred. Supporting Miss Mackaill are Donald Cook, Victor Varconi, Ralf Haralde, Ivan Simpson, Nina Mae McKinney and others. William A. Wellman is directing.

RKO Pathe has given Harry Sweet a long-term contract, as a reward for his excellent direction of the first four Mr. Average Man Comedies, starring Edgar Kennedy.

Gene Raymond, Paramount juvenile player, has just received his second assignment, that of the leading male role in "Ladies of the Big House." Sylvia Sidney, now in New York, is to have the feminine lead.

Jobyna Hooland is happy on the Fox lot these days for two reasons: she has been signed for a featured part in "Stepping Sisters," Broadway stage success, and her brother, Olin Hooland, has a Fox contract to play a featured role in "Over the Hill."

Andre Beranger will have a role in the Fox picture, "Surrender," in which Warner Baxter and Leila Hyams will play the leads.

Curing Acoustics Without Padding

Curing of poor acoustics in theaters without the use of additional material is claimed by the National Theater Supply Co., sale representative of Kendall & Danville, Inc., of New York.

The method of sound correction, Kendall states, is based on area distribution, rather than on a volume content basis, utilizing the exhibitor's present equipment in its entirety and involving the use of neither additional equipment nor absorption material in the auditorium proper in any form.

Ventilating Equipment

Sales Are Running High

An unusually good season in ventilating equipment sales is reported by the National Theater Supply Co. Throughout the United States, the report states, the company has installed 350 Sirocco ventilating fans made especially for them by the American Boiler Corp. of Detroit. And over 300 of the National Sirocco Air Washers have been installed. More ventilating equipment was installed in this territory than in any other locality.

Sales of equipment, it is also reported, have been very good through the summer months and a few recent installations included the following: Complete equipment for the Rex, Starkville, Miss., and the State, Statesboro, Georgia; draperies and scenery at the Goetz, Monroe, Wis.; the Elgin High School, Elgin, Ill.; and the Ceramic, East Liverpool, Ohio. Recent ventilating installations include the Richland, Richland Center, Wis.; Nebraska, West Point, Neb.; and opera chairs to the Pastime, Berea, Ohio; and the Ohen of Cincinnati.

H. & C. Sales on Increase

Sales are on the increase according to Theatrical H. & C. of Connolly, New York, manufacturers of high intensity projection equipment and accessories. Recent shipments of the company's product reported by Connolly include the following: Two EF-4 spots to RKO Plaza, Schenectady, N. Y.; and the new to the Earl Carroll Theater in New York City. Two FR-10 projection lamps to the export department of the National Theater Supply Co., for shipment to Manila; two to the Palace Theater in Milwaukee, and two others to RKO Plaza in Schenectady, N. Y.

RCA Moves in Kansas City

Kansas City — Local branch of RCA Photophone has moved both service and sales offices from the Business Men's Assurance Building back to film row at 1700-8 Wyandootte.

Theaters Being Built

Philadelphia—An all A.C. operated 35 mm. portable projector packed in two small carrying cases, weighing a total weight of 82 pounds, is being marketed by Universal Sound System, Inc.

The mechanical construction of the projector and the sound mechanism are balanced into one operation so that there is no lost motion or flicker. A picture 9 feet by 12 feet can be thrown at a distance of 60 to 70 feet, and the amplification supplies sufficient sound for audiences of 5 to 1,000, the company declares.

New Chicago Sales Force

Built Up by DeForest Co.

Chicago—A complete new sales organization has been formed by Frank B. Rogers, recently appointed vice-president of General Talking Pictures, for the distribution of DeForest equipment in this territory.

The Chicago division, which has jurisdiction over the middle west and northwest territories, a total of 14 states, is now headed by J. V. Allan, who was formerly associated with Rogers in his connection with Elecetrical Research Products.

The offices of the company, formerly located at 1155 So. Wabash Ave., have been moved to Suite 300 in the Standard Oil Building, 910 So. Michigan Ave.

Knowles Co. Brings Out New Powers Reamer Shutter

West Coast Bureau, THE FILM DAILY
Los Angeles—A new rear shutter for Powers projectors that is said to afford nearly 78 per cent cooling at the aperture, an almost complete absence of film buckling and a light increase of 20 to 35 per cent at the screen, has been developed and is being marketed by the Knowles Reamer Shutter Co. of this city.

This device, the company claims, modernizes the Powers projector to where it is no longer necessary to discard the Powers now in use for a heavier and more expensive make of apparatus because of the excessive heat generated by the high intensity arc. A smooth and novel framing device replaces the old jerky form of framing bar that invariably over shot the mark. A quick means of setting the shutter while running is also had with a new type of collapsible glare shield.

British Quota Pictures
Cost $450 per 100 Feet
London—According to the report of the General Council of the T. U. C., British quota pictures have cost at least $450 per 100 feet to produce (with a maximum requirement of $50,000), exclusive of copyright and recording fees. The report also suggests that the Advisory Committee to the B. O. T. should be made more representative by including representatives of the F. B. I. and T. U. C., and that should be given to the Minister as to what he is aware of the working of the Act generally. The report sets out the rest of the pictures that T. U. C., with the F. B. I. film group, might urge the government to raise the British quota to 50 per cent.

Irish Admission Prices Up;
Theaters Likely to Close
Dublin—The extra tax recently imposed on film imports is having its effect. Admission prices have been advanced and a number of exhibitors are seriously considering closing down. The Metropolitan and several other Dublin houses have increased their admissions slightly, but even the higher prices have not checked the decline in patronage. No trade shows have been held in Dublin for six months, and the tax was increased from a penny to three-pence per foot.

Making "Mystery of Marriage"
London—Warners Films is making for British International distribution an unusual motion picture conceived and directed by Miss Mary Field, whose nature study films have been very popular. Its title is "The Mystery of Marriage" and it will show contrasts between the methods of courtship of the animal world and those of human beings.

Dog Stars in "Tailwaggers"
London—Delta Pictures, Ltd., has been formed, with a production unit installed at the Alliance Studios, for the production of a series of dog-subject shorts as its first output. Branches of the "Tailwaggers" series. Capt. H. E. Hobbs, founder of the Tailwaggers Club, will assist in the production.

British Producers Double Quota Needs
London—Starting last March, 12½ per cent of film distributors' output had to comprise British quota footage. It is now apparent, after six months, that the required figure will be almost doubled by British producers. In all about 140 British productions will be distributed during the year while the necessary quota figure, which depends upon the total picture output, will probably be closer to 30 per cent.

Never before have British producers achieved such an extensive production schedule. The total of 140 productions includes British International and associated companies; 35 from the Gaumont-British Corporation; 12 from Gainborough; 12 from British and Dominion; 8 from British Lion. The remaining 40 pictures will include at least 6 from Paramount; at least 6 from Associated Talking Pictures although it may double that number through its association with P.D.C. Pictures will also be included by Universal and Warner Bros., and from various British independent companies.

"Cathedral of the Talkies"
London—The Granada, just opened at Tooting, seating nearly 6,000, is being called the "Cathedral of the Talkies" because of its Gothic architecture and the original decorative schemes of Theodore Komisarjevsky. The proscenium arch is flanked by towering Gothic arches, giving a note of grandeur to the auditorium which is new in picture theaters. A mirror hall, with basic inspiration from the Gothic, is a feature of the circle level. Despite its great seating capacity, the vastness of the theater is not apparent, the area being cleverly broken by simple curves in the balcony and the walls.

Asher Heads W. B. English Studio
London—Irving Asher has been appointed production manager for Warner Bros. in England. The company has taken over the Teddington Studios of V. Royce, now named as secretary and controller.

Czechoslovakia to Make Motion Picture Equipment
Prague—Representatives of the Siemens-Halske Co. are expected to arrive here soon to complete negotiations with the Central Committee of Czechoslovak Motion Picture Theater Owners and the Corporation of Manufacturers of Talking Pictures, to obtain a license to use the company's patents in manufacturing talking picture equipment. Owners of the equipment would pay a certain fee to the patent owners, the amount of the fee being determined by the size of the theater. The patents expire in 1935.

Welsh-Pearson Producing For Gaumont Release
London—Welsh-Pearson disclosed at its annual meeting that it would continue active production of pictures, a contract having been entered into with Gaumont for the distribution of four Welsh-Pearson features. The first of these will be W. W. Jacob's "The Third String." His "Monkey's Paw" may be the second.

Franco-Belgian Film Tie-Up
Paris—M. Raisfeld, general manager of Distributeurs Unis, has made a tie-up with a Belgian group, it is reported, by which productions made in one country will be distributed in the other. The Belgian group, known as the Societe Generale Beige, brings 20,000 francs into the merger, The French group will produce and distribute pictures for them. An agreement has been concluded with Pathe-Natan by which the latter agrees to rent 5,000,000 francs worth of pictures a year for five years.

180 German Pictures Coming
Berlin—The British Film Distributors' inquiry among producers and distributors, estimates that there will be 180 German-produced motion pictures available for exhibition during the coming year. Of this number 140 have already been announced, while 10 others will be internationally produced.

But One Silent House in Belfast
Belfast, Ir—The Sand's Cineplex in Sandy Row is to go talkie this month, leaving but one silent house in Belfast, the Kelvin.

German Authors Forming Society to Deal with Films
Berlin—German authors' organizations interested in motion pictures have decided upon the creation of a society to deal with all claims of authors and composers relating to the screen rights for their works. Spio, the exhibitors' organization, is reported ready to resist any new demands, particularly in the constantly growing number of percentage claims. A novel feature of the authors' scheme is to ask that the prominence of each author be taken into consideration in the ultimate division of profits.

London Shilling Theater As Challenge to Cinema
London—L. Cowen has launched a move in connection with the Fortune theater to popularize stage productions, designed as a "challenge to the cinema." He has organized the Fortune Theater League, Ltd., and hopes to get a membership of 250,000 at a shilling each to support the move. Admission prices would be one, two and three shillings, with two performances a day of plays which have already proved to be successes.

Paris to Have 5,000-Seater
Paris—Braunerberg and Richebe are preparing the plans for a huge motion picture palace to be erected by the French "Opera," which will seat between 5,000 and 6,000. Work will start early in the new year, it is planned.

Pathé Pictorial in Sound
London—The Pathé Pictorial, which reached its 700th issue on Aug. 31st, will be issued in sound after Oct. 1, it is announced. Fred Watts, in charge of Pathé Pictorial, since its inception thirteen years ago, states that with its change to sound the release date will be changed from Monday to Thursday.

Bryson to Tour World
London—James V. Bryson, who has resigned as Universal head here, is planning to go on a world tour for his health.

Bagdad Talkie Theater
Bagdad—The Royal Cinema opened here with "Atlantic," after the installation of the Photele. The innovation is reported to be a big success.

English Traveling Theater
London—A traveling theater, British Acoustic and the Tomlinson Autocar's "mobile talkie film saloon," was given a demonstration recently under the auspices of the British Company. It is a self-contained projection plant, making its own current and showing a large picture on a special daylight Trans-Lux screen supported on a serrated rail at the rear of the "saloon."
SHORT SHOTS from EASTERN STUDIOS

By HARRY N. BLAIR

The fields of art and society are always well represented among the extras taking part in a Tallulah Bankhead picture. The former toast of London has become the rage with the Park Avenue crowd and the opportunity to appear in one of her pictures is widely sought. Among those playing bits in "The Cheat" are Nyea McMein, famous actor, Phyllis Winter, Philadelphia society girl and Radie Harris, fan writer and radio interviewer.

Roy Mack, director of the "Penrod" series for Vitaphone, had to abandon his planned return to the Prospects Parks to line up rival baseball teams consisting of boys ranging in age from eight to ten years and willing to be used for part of the action in "Play Ball," latest two-reeler of the series.

Paramount Notes: Arthur Cozine sporting a dandy coat of tan... Chick Kirk deserves plenty credit on turning out some swell sets for "The Cheat"... Harry Baldwin reveling in his new status as a full-fledged assistant director... Dick Hettel, of the camera crew, still thrilled over flying back from Washington in a storm... Gertrude Turchin, visiting the studio while recovering from a slight injury received when a ladder fell on the set... Douglas Dumbrille, stage actor, getting a big play from some Spanish girls on the "Blind Cargo" set when the removal of a wig disclosed his blonde hair.

Vitaphone Vitamins: Jack Nor- worth amusing the studio force with tales of his trip abroad... Jack looks like he enjoyed plenty of beer while in Germany... Billy ("Pen- rod") Hayes practicing on the back lot for his role in "Play Ball"... Dick Willis, make-up chief, expanding in his new quarters.

"All Sealed Up," second of the Al St. Johns series for Paramount, is exactly that with Al Ray acting as director and Eddie Dowling staging the dialogue.

Floyd Gibbons, who is making a series of RKO Pathé shorts, will broadcast the daily activities of the American Legion Convention in Detroit over a coast-to-coast NBC network. He will also screen his first two subjects for the big assembly of conventions.

Mort Blumenstock Succeeds Housman

Mort Blumenstock has been engaged as advertising manager of Metropolitan Theatres, to succeed Arthur Housman, resigned. Blumenstock, who formerly served with Paramount and First National and was under the direction of Dave Wesher, in charge of advertising for the entire Warner theatre chain.

"Go'lt Got" $825,000 from Davies

About $825,000 in back taxes and extra charges, covering deficits in income tax over a period of years involving earnings from properties which she owns in New York was paid to the government recently by Marion Davies, according to the star, who returned a few days ago from a vacation abroad. Negligence on the part of her real estate agent here was the reason for the tax oversight, said Miss Davies.

Engagement Cut Short

Denver—Local fans turned out so weakly for "Fifth and Tom" at the Rialto that it was taken off after only three days and "Fatal Hour" substituted to finish the week.

Pittsburgh House Goes Foreign

Pittsburgh—The Avenue Cinema, Liberty Ave., reopens Monday on a continuous weekly change policy, playing mostly foreign talkies.

Bill Cody in
"THE MONTANA KID"

Monogram

Time, 64 mins.

GOOD FAST ACTION FILM, WITH CODY AND HIS KID PAL.

ANDY SHUFORD, SUPPLYING THRILLS AND HUMAN INTEREST.

This western travels fast all the way, with a good human interest angle centering around the kid, Andy Shuford, whose father is killed by a crooked saloonkeeper, who has forged a deed to the dead man's ranch. Bill Cody starts out to even the score for the boy, by holding up the stage six times in succession, but only appropriating the villain's money. Then he forces the killer to accept his own money for the ranch. Later a duel Cody kills the killer, and is exonerated by the sheriff. A good love angle with the sheriff's niece, and with Andy, the yarn works out into a nice three-cornered story that is nicely balanced between sentiment and peppy action. A good cast, with the juveniles, and Bill Cody keeps the footage hopping with his gun play and riding stunts. Should please the Western fans easily.

Cast: Bill Cody, Andy Shuford, W. L. Thomas, Charles Dier, Good, Paul Panzer, John Elliott, Doris Hill.

Director, Harry Fraser; Author, same; Adaptor, G. A. Dorlan; Dialoguer, same; Editor, Len Wheeler; Cameraman, Archie Scott; Recording Engineers: Bailey and Phillips.

Direction, competent. Photography, clear.

Buck Jones in "Border Lore"

Columbia

Time, 63 mins.

FAST ACTION WESTERN HAS THE THRILLS WITH BUCK JONES PUTTING IT OVER STRONG IN COLORFUL MEXICAN SURROUNDINGS.

This one gets along at the jumpoff and stays that way throughout the footage. Buck Jones is in evidence most of the time, and that means that there is plenty of fast riding and gun play, along with a couple of good light stories. Buck Jones is the ranger who rejoins the force to track a gang leader over the Mexican border who has killed his brother. Under the guise of an outlaw, he works a scheme on the gang leader to get him back into Texas where the Rangers can nab him. But the villain escapes, and the hero pursues him across the border again, finishing with a good punch and lots of action. The story is of sentimental interest not overdone, with a Mexican cantina girl who is in love with the hero to the heavy. The thrill fans will go for this one.

Cast: Buck Jones, Lenita Tovar, James Mason, Frank Rice, Don Chapman, Louis Hacken, F. R. Smith, John Whitehead, John O'Brien, Robert Nesbitt, Stuart Anthony, Adaptor, same; Dialoguer, same; Cameraman, W. O'Connell; Editor, Otto Meyer; Recording Engineer, Glenn Rominger.

Direction, snappy. Photography, good.

DANTON

Capital

Time, 76 mins.

ADMIRABLE GERMAN FILM OF FRENCH REVOLUTION HAS POWERFUL PUNCH, WELL DIRECTED AND ACTED.

The familiar story of the French Revolution of 1789 is presented with thrilling effect and extremely fine photography. It is a Frenzburger Film of the Alliance of Berlin. German dialogue throughout, but so admirably directed and acted that the average American can thoroughly enjoy it. Fine contrasting scenes such as the furious mob in destructing the Bastille and the beautiful moment of the aristocrats. The action starts in the Club of the Jacobins, with Danton, ably portrayed by Fritz Kortner as the central figure. The story revolves around the political feud between Danton and Robespierre, in which grim reality Hart also participated, presenting the history-making events that converted Paris into an inferno of conflagration, all done with admirable finespun. Good cast throughout, and historically accurate as to costumes and sets.

Direction, Hans Behrend; Author, H. T. Hanch; other credits not listed.

Direction, very good. Photography, excellent.

"THE GUARDSMAN" with Alfred Lunt, Lynn Fontanne and Roland Young

M-G-M

Time, 89 mins.

HIGHLY ARTISTIC, BRILLIANT VICTORIAN STORY OF STAGE SUCCESS HAMPERED BY INSUFFICIENT ACTION AND LENGTHY DIALOGUE.

More praiseworthy acting than this comedy-drama contains will sell it, but the stage success does not make a happy adaptation for present-day motion picture audiences. Cleverly written dialogue and admirably delivered, reparte are its outstanding features, but both are served up in doses too large for excitement-loving audiences. The story concerns a handsome young Shakespearian actor who believes that his wife, also an actress of note, is losing her affection for him. Assuming that she is dreaming of some mythical lover in a uniform, the husband makes up and costuming complete, convincing a Russian prince and after much flirtation submits to his amours. At the end, she tells him that she knew all the time that he was a fake, but the audience is left to judge whether she did or not. A class act, all the way through.

Cast: Alfred Lunt, Lynn Fontanne, Roland Young, Zasu Pitts, Maude Eburne.

Director, Sidney Franklin; Author, Ferenc Molnar; Based on a Play by Georges V. Ham- West; Dialoguer, same; Editor, Conrad A. Nervst; Cameraman, Harry Frank; Recording Engineer, Douglas Shearer.

Direction, excellent. Photography, fine.

"DER HAMPELMANN" ("The Puppet")

Tobis-American

Time, 61 mins.

GERMAN HARVEY HAS CLEVER STORY AND IS HIGHLY AMUSING THROUGHOUT, WITH CAPABLE CAST AND DIRECTION.

Here is a very clever farce with a high degree of humor strung throughout, in it to make it peppy without giving offense. It is based on the operetta of the same name. Several catchy songs, with odd add-on of a Russian mechanical puppet for his wife. Then the fun begins with the fake puppet trying to respond to the mechanical actions of the doll, and the puppet pulls the various strings according to the directions. Later the "doll" is placed in the young wife's boudoir, who attempts to make love to him, with very interesting and amusing complications. Good fare for non-Yiddish speakers, who can follow with the fine pantomime action.

Director, E. W. Emo; Authors, Gustav Beer, Fritz Linder; Adapt. Hans Zellet; Dialogues, Gustav Beer; Editor, Tusburger; Cameraman, Curt Curtend, Fridl Berns; Recording Engineer, Victor Heiieman.

Direction, good. Photography, okay.
TRAVESTY ON THE TALKIES WITH HEAVY ATTEMPT AT COMEDY AND POOR STORY AND ACTING.

This one is a heavy Teutonic attempt at wit and humor, and is in ad contrast to the light and agreeable German films that have been so successfully and entertainingly done the past few months. They have three omen who work very strenuously trying to get the humor of the material licked into shape. The idea is too far fetched, and it is difficult even if German audiences will go for it. Certainly it is out of American patronage.

The idea is that of three impecunious omen who decide to organize themselves, and in a sort of pool for making Hollywood movies, they act as players, directors, business managers, etc. In turn they are trying to perform their various roles. It was evidently intended to do sly fun at the talkies, but it didn't work. The one redeeming feature comes with some tuneful numbers that are well worth listening to.

Direction, poor. Photography, okay.

"DAS ALTE LIED" with Lil Dagover

Henny Kaufman Time, 85 mins.

GOOD GERMAN LOVE DRAMA WITH MUSIC. FINE PERFORMANCE BY LIL DAGOVER AND SUPPORTING PLAYERS.

Lil Dagover, continental actress who arrived over here recently to take the place of Miss Davey, is a chief interest in this German picture. While the plot is in a familiar triangle vein, dealing with a woman and her loyal and innocent girl fighting for the love of the man, the treatment of the theme and the acting by Miss Dagover and her supporting cast give the story a well sustained interest. Human interest and heart appeal are pretty strong all the way through, and in addition the picture is as a musical. The work of Lil Dagover in particular, as the picture ponders the possibility of her forthcoming appearance in Hollywood production. Due to its all-Tetonic-linguistic, this attraction is suited almost exclusively to German audiences, although the story is not difficult to follow even with knowledge of the language.

Directed by: Lil Dagover, Egon Weisskech. Photography, Adolf Bierer, Robert Stoll, Felix Bressart, Lucie Eder, Lucile Morgan, Gertrude Neuwerth, Eike Wedekind, Director: Adolf Wedekind; Editor: Adolf Weisskech; Author: Dr. Egon Weisskech. Not credited: Editor, not credited; Director, not credited.

"The Turn of the Tide"
Floyd Gibbons
RKO Pathe

Time, 11 mins.

This is the second of the "Supreme Thrills" in which Floyd Gibbons dramatically draws a word picture of world-war happenings. This one has to do with Major-General James G. Harbord when he was in command of the Second Division. The event pictured and described is the mobilization of 300,000 American soldiers on July 18, 1918, in the valley of the Marne, for the battle which turned the tide of victory for the Allied troops. Gibbons' chatter is fast and cleverly delivered. The descriptive talk has been well-written and thoroughly outlines the cause and effect of the defensive and offensive. The picture opens with Gibbons introducing General Harbord who starts to outline the battle. Gibbons takes up the thread of the story and continues. Battle scenes are realistic and help Gibbons work the picture up to thrilling climax.

"Paris Nights"
(Magic Carpet of Movietone)
Fox

Time, 8 mins.

Interesting glimpse of Paris night life, with its cafes, clubs, dancing by the patrons and performers, and the general commotion of the resorts, combines with some of the Magic Carpet series. It holds interest very nicely and makes a suitable filler for any bill.

"How I Play Golf"
Bobby Jones

No. 10—Trouble Shots
Vitaphone

Time, 10 mins.

Maintains Stride

The stride set by the Bobby Jones golf shorts is satisfactorily maintained in this latest edition, which employs the incidental services of Edward G. Robinson. Joe E. Brown, Joan Blondell, Polly Walter, Douglas Fairbanks, Jr., and others. Brown bets Robinson that he can beat Jones, with Brown coming out winner more or less by accident. Comedy is good.

"Knocking Them Cold"
Andrew Tombs

Vitaphone 1103

Time, 10 mins.

Fair Comedy Skit

A theatrical boarding house sketch revolving around one of the vaudevillians, played by Andrew Tombs, who is always bragging. A gang of his fellow boarders go out to Jersey, where Andy is playing, and grab his act, resulting in his being canned by the theater manager. On his return home, however, Andy puts up the same bluff about having won $400. Fairly good idea, but done in such a manner that it is pretty much over the heads of any but metropolitan audiences.

"Olympic Events"

M-G-M

Time, 11 mins.

Swell

In this Sport Champions short the characters, one of the two principals, is introduced as an Olympic hero. The other is a rival who makes his appearance in each number of the series. This one is scheduled for the coming Olympic Games, the reel presents a group of outstanding contestants doing their stuff, with the old-time scenes of the games in their early stages preceding each stunt. Slow motion effects is amusingly employed throughout. A highly entertaining number for any bill.

"The Island Paradise"
Fitzpatrick Traveltalk

Time, 9 mins.

Interesting

An interesting traveltalk on Bali, a south sea island, which shows the natives in their everyday tasks and their extraordinary fields of rice. The women are beautifully formed and untouched by civilization. Temples of the highest and most ornate style are shown with young girls doing their native dances to some melodious music produced from instruments that have been handed down from generation to generation. In all, a very interesting short that will please everyone.

"Nothing to Declare"
Lulu McConnell

Paramount

Time, 19 mins.

Poor Comedy

Lulu McConnell's incessant gabbing is handed out in too big doses to make this comedy digestible. Idea involves Miss McConnell returning from abroad, telling about her seaweasiness, knocking her fellow passengers, going through the customs inspection routine, etc. It's not particularly all talk and gets rather tiresome.

"My Wife's Jewelry"
Tom Howard

Paramount

Time, 10 mins.

Good Comedy Skit

Another sketch in which Tom Howard plays the easygoing burlgar who kids the folks he is holding up. In this one he and kids himself along with the cops, with everybody falling into the spirit of the idea and helping the comedy along. Good humor.

"Mother Goose Melodies"

Columbia

Time, 8 mins.

Great

Walt Disney and his assistants have turned out a synchronized cartoon comedy that will be hard to better. It is an animated version of the Mother Goose rhymes worked into a story. The transposition from one to the other is accomplished by turning the pages of a huge story book. Drawings on the pages come to life and perform real laugh-making antics. Gags are new and plentiful. This one will make audiences laugh plenty.

"The Freshman's Finish"
Educational

Time, 21 mins.

Classy

A Vanity Comedy, with Carlyle Moore and Helen Mann, the latter a newcomer, and a swell booker. This is a classy and snappy college comedy, with the Freshmen and the Sophomores in a hot struggle. The professor decrees that the class which wins the speed boat race shall go to the prom with the girls. A good gag is used in the race, with a mechanical trick employing a bathtub for the hero's speed boat. It creates a fine series of clever stunts, ingeniously contrived, and furnished plenty of laughs. It is fast and exciting also.

"The World Flies"

Educational

Time, 9 mins.

Laugh Number

Done in Sennett color, this is a classy little comedy, with the fun centering around a world flier who travels in high hat and cutaway. He is Charles Judels, an ace com medalist, and the gist of his act is a slick characterization of a foreigner getting his English all balled up. They promote him into a speed boat race, and he can't manage the boat, resulting in a series of very funny situations. This fast Mack Sennett offering will score easily on class and laugh angles.

"Poker Widows"

Educational

Time, 20 mins.

Real Comedy

A Mack Sennett comedy, with Arthur Stone and Patsy O'Leary. Stone gets over a good line as a dancing instructor who calls on a young poker widow to give her a dance lesson. Her hubby is a jealous fire-eater, and it happens that after the dance lesson Stone joins the poker game with hubby. Then developments come thick and fast, with Stone's wife, the wife of the jealous and hubby himself all in a clever series of funny situations. They put a lot of original gags in this one, that lifts it away above the ordinary poker situation comedy shorts. It will score easily on real entertainment and natural laughs.

Sixteen Million to One... Motion picture projection today demands a source of light sixteen million times as brilliant as the screen.

Due to losses through aperture, shutter, film, optical system and screen absorption, only a small percentage of the light from the source is reflected from the screen. This is spread over a picture a half million times the area of the arc crater from which it comes. That is why the crater brilliancy must be sixteen million times the brilliancy of the screen.

National Projector Carbons hold their leadership in the motion picture theatre because they provide a source of steady, white light surpassing the sun in intrinsic brilliancy.

Over fifty years of experience, constant research and the most modern manufacturing facilities assure their uniformity. Yet they are paid for, at each performance, by two satisfied patrons.

NATIONAL PROJECTOR CARBONS

... Sold exclusively through distributors and dealers. National Carbon Company will gladly cooperate with the producer, exhibitor, machine manufacturer or projectionist on any problem involving light.
